House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m.
The Chaplain, Rev. James David Ford, D.D., offered the following prayer:

We accept Your good graces, O God, though we know we miss the mark; we appreciate the wonders of Your world, though we are busy with what is immediate and necessary; we yearn for the blessings of faith, though we don't always understand. Above the demands of the day and more important than all we do, we offer our thanks and praise for the gifts of this day and the hopes and dreams of tomorrow. Amen.

SWEARING IN OF THE HONORABLE
ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS OF MARY-LAND AS A MEMBER OF THE HOUSE

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the gentleman from Maryland, Mr. ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS, be permitted to take the oath of office today. His certificate of election has not arrived, but there is no contest, and no objection has been raised with regard to his election.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Maryland?

There was no objection.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I would ask, if I might, for the distinguished gentlewoman from California, NANCY PELOSI, to join us, with the gentleman from Maryland, Mr. CUMMINGS. She is a sister of the former mayor of Baltimore, and a distinguished daughter of the city which Mr. CUMMINGS will represent.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER. The distinguished gentlewoman from California [Mr. PELOSI] will be welcome in the well, along with the Maryland delegation.

If the delegation will join the Member-elect.

Mr. ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS appeared at the bar of the House and took the oath of office, as follows:

Do you solemnly swear that you will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that you will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that you take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion, and that you will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which you are about to enter. So help you God.

The SPEAKER. Congratulations. You are now a Member of the U.S. House of Representatives.

WELCOMING THE HONORABLE ELI-JAH E. CUMMINGS TO THE

(Mr. HOYER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, it is my great honor and privilege, on behalf of all of my colleagues in the Maryland delegation, to first welcome two of America's most outstanding leaders who have represented the Seventh Congressional District which the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. CUMMINGS] now represents.

They are our friends, they were our colleagues, they are great Americans: The Honorable Parren Mitchell, our former colleague; and another example of the extraordinary quality that the constituents of the Seventh District sends to the Congress of the United States, the president and chief operating officer of the NAACP, our former colleague and great American, Kweisi Mfume.

Mr. Speaker, I have the opportunity to introduce to the House their newest colleague. He is the son of Rev. Ruth Cummings and Rev. Robert Cummings. Mr. Speaker, before I make my brief remarks and yield to the minority leader, I would like to acknowledge Senators SARBANES and MIKULSKI, who have joined us from the other body.

Mr. Speaker, although under the rules I cannot recognize them as being in the gallery, and I shall not do so, it has been brought to my attention that the distinguished Speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, Casper Taylor, will be able to hear my words. Mr. Speaker; with all due apologies to our distinguished friend, Mr. JOHNSON.

Come walk with me. Come walk with me. I say these words with reverence to our newest Member of the House. These are his words, his words which have been spoken often in the chambers of Annapolis, and which I know will be spoken often here to us. Words like these are not heard often enough these days. It is more often "Come fight with me."

But these words represent the heart of what ELIJAH CUMMINGS is all about: A consummate legislator, a dedicated public servant, a consensus builder, a fighter for what is right; a man, as you will all find, of drive and determination, a man who has ascended to leadership through integrity, hard work, and a belief in the good in mankind.

Born in Baltimore City, a graduate of City College in Baltimore, a graduate of Howard University, where he was president of the sophomore class, junior class, and student government. He graduated, as Members will not be surprised upon knowing him, Phi Beta Kappa. He graduated from the University of Maryland Law School.

ELIJAH CUMMINGS comes to the House with a vast background in working closely in his community, particularly as a mentor and Big Brother to the young people of his city and his community. He is a father figure to many, and always has hoped in time to find the one golden glimmer which will help turn a youth's life around. As an advocate for youth, he is unshaken.

I recall over a year ago when then-Delegate CUMMINGS was accosted outside his Baltimore home and ordered to lie face down on the street while being robbed. Even through this terrorizing experience, he was and remains undeterred, and has never given up his faith in youth.

His service the past 14 years with the Maryland General Assembly, where he was the first African-American in the history of our State to be elected Speaker pro tempore, the No. 2 position in the House of Delegates, has brought him recognition by his colleagues, as well as being one of its most effective members.

ELIJAH CUMMINGS brings the same talent, drive, and personal conviction as his predecessors who I have previously introduced. I encourage you, ELIJAH, to use your spirit of good will in reaching out to all of us to come walk with you.

Join me in welcoming our newest colleague, an extraordinary human being, the gentleman from Maryland, ELIJAH E. CUMMINGS.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. GEPHARDT], the distinguished minority leader.

Mr. GEPHARDT. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague. On behalf of all of our colleagues, Democrat and Republican as well, I rise to recognize and welcome our new colleague, the gentleman from Maryland, ELIJAH CUMMINGS. As the gentleman from Maryland, STENY HOYER, has said, this new Member has very big shoes to fill, and those shoes are represented by the two former Representatives in this district who are here today, and we are honored by their presence.

As STENY has said, this young man was born and raised in the same city he now serves, the city of Baltimore. He knows the neighborhoods, the schools, the stores and the churches, because he lived among them all of his life. He has never lost his passion for building a better Baltimore, for giving something back to the city and community that has given so much to him.

As STENY said, he took his Phi Beta Kappa degree from Howard University and his law degree from the University of Maryland, and went right back to Baltimore, building a highly distinguished career as a lawyer, and then serving four terms in the Maryland General Assembly.

In the Maryland House he was a leader on criminal justice issues, on constitutional law, and on economic issues. After one term he was elected chairman of the Maryland Legislative Black Caucus, the youngest person ever to hold that post. Last year he was elected Speaker Pro Tem to the House of Delegates, the second ranking position in the House. His colleagues thought he did such an outstanding job they voted him one of Maryland's most effective legislators in a poll.

Beyond all these titles and accomplishments, Mr. Speaker, I believe ELIJAH will make a difference in this Congress for less tangible reasons than STENY cited: His abiding sense of decency and humanity, his ability to see the subtleties in our public problems, and his determination to pass on to the next generation the opportunities that he earned in his own life.

On behalf of all of us, Republican and Democrat alike, I am delighted to welcome the gentleman from Maryland to the 104th Congress. I think he is going to be a powerful force for progress in his State and in our country, and I know that we will count on his leadership, as Maryland has counted on his leadership, for many years to come. Welcome to the House of Representatives.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I yield to our colleague, the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. CARDIN], the former Speaker of the House of Delegates.

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, let me thank my friend, the gentleman from Maryland, for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, in 1982 I had an experience similar to the gentleman from Maryland's of presiding over the session when ELIJAH CUMMINGS became a member of the legislature, of the Maryland House of Delegates. I had the opportunity to serve with our new colleague in the House of Delegates, and I can tell each one of the Members that they are in for a treat: a person who is dedicated to public service and dedicated to helping people.

Mr. Speaker, as we have already heard, the torch of leadership in the Seventh Congressional District has not passed very often in the last quarter of a century. ELIJAH is now the fourth person to hold that seat, with Parren Mitchell, who became a leader of this Nation on urban issues, on banking issues, and particularly small business.

Kweisi Mfume was elected a decade ago to this body, the same time I was. We became and are very close friends. Kweisi became a national leader, chairman of the Black Caucus, and has spoken out so well on so many issues. I was very proud when Kweisi was selected as the head of the NAACP. It was a great decision for that organization and for this Nation, but I lost a colleague and a friend in this legislative body.

Today I am very excited that ELIJAH CUMMINGS is taking that position. He will follow in that tradition.

He was an outstanding member of the House of Delegates, holding the vice chairmanships of two of our standing committees. Mr. Speaker, we only have six standing committees in the Maryland House of Delegates and ELIJAH has shown expertise in two of those. He went on to become the Speaker Pro Tem, very actively involved in the leadership of our General Assembly.

So, Mr. Speaker, it is particularly a pleasure for me to say hello and welcome my colleague for so many years in the House of Delegates, now in the Congress of the United States. I know ELIJAH CUMMINGS will add to the great tradition of the Seventh Congressional District.

Over the past quarter century, the torch of leadership has not been passed often in Maryland's Seventh Congressional District. When it has passed, the Nation has come to know that it should take notice, because Maryland's Seventh District has sent leaders of stature and vision.

In 1970, the voters of Baltimore sent Parren Mitchell to the Congress. Over 16 years in the House, Congressman Mitchell became an acknowledged expert and leader on issues finance, banking, and especially small business.

A decade ago, Congressman Mitchell announced his decision to step down. Rising up to take his seat was a young, articulate, but little known city council member named Kweisi Mfume; 1986 marked my own election to the House. Over the past decade, Congressman Mfume and I forged a strong working relationship and close friendship.

In his years in the House, Congressman Mfume rose to become a national spokesman on behalf of African-Americans and all Americans concerned about justice, fairness, and the realization of the American dream.

Congressman Mfume rose, as Congressman Mitchell had before him, to chair the Congressional Black Caucus. From that post, he used his exceptional skills as a tactician, an orator, and as a strategist to fight effectively for the people of his district and the Nation.

Nobody was prouder than I when, this winter, the NAACP announced that Congressman Mfume would become its new CEO and President.

While I miss my good friend in this body, I am excited over the prospect of serving with the newly elected Congressman from the Seventh.

ELIJAH CUMMINGS is an honorable and able successor as the representative of the Seventh District. He brings all the dedication, intelligence, and vision that distinguished his two predecessors, and I have no doubt he will follow in their footsteps as a national leader.

Elijah and I have served together before, in Maryland's House of Delegates. I was delighted to welcome him to Annapolis in 1982 when he arrived as a new member.

In his 14 years in the State legislature, he has demonstrated a talent for legislative craftsmanship and responsiveness to the concerns of the people he represents that will serve him—and the Nation—well here in Congress. He also has a gift for building consensus and bringing people together that this body desperately needs.

His colleagues in Annapolis have recognized his leadership, as he has risen to be chairman of Maryland's Legislative Black Caucus, the youngest person ever to attain that position.

As vice chairman of the House Constitutional and Administrative Law Committee and as vice chairman of the Economic Matters Committee, he has acquired a wealth of expertise and experience that he will now bring to bear on the considerable problems facing this Nation. Most recently, he became Speaker Pro Tem of the House of Delegates, the second highest position of leadership in that body.

I am delighted to join my other colleagues in welcoming my neighbor to the House of Representatives. I am sure he will follow in the proud tradition of his district and enjoy a long and distinguished career here in the people's House.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I would now like to yield to a gentleman who served with ELIJAH in the House of Delegates and then was his colleague as a member of the Maryland State senate, will now be again his colleague here in the House of the people, the distinguished Representative from the Fourth Congressional District of Maryland, Mr. ALBERT WYNN.

Mr. WYNN. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend and colleague for yielding.

In 1983 I was elected to the Maryland House of Delegates. As I looked around the orientation, I noticed another young man who really impressed me. That man stands before you today.

So I can tell you from personal experience, having stood shoulder-to-shoulder with ELIJAH CUMMINGS, that he is a true worker for people. I do not have to tell you a lot. Let me simply say that I have watched this man and worked with this man. He has worked for economic development, but he has never forgotten the needs of the downtrodden or the less fortunate. He brings to this House tremendous compassion.

All Members need to know about ELIJAH CUMMINGS is that he is a man of tremendous sincerity, commitment, compassion, and faith in God. He will do a wonderful job for the people of the Seventh Congressional District. He will do a wonderful job for the people of this country. I am looking forward to working with him. Congratulations and welcome, ELIJAH.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, the last person before I introduce Mr. CUMMINGS or yield to Mr. CUMMINGS is the dean of the Republican delegation. We are one delegation, but the dean of our Republicans, the distinguished gentlewoman from Montgomery County who herself served with Mr. CUMMINGS, CONNIE MORELLA.

Mrs. MORELLA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished gentleman for giving me the opportunity to congratulate not only Congressman CUMMINGS but all of us in the 104th Congress for having him added to our numbers. He will speak in a very strong voice, with compassion, with justice, with knowledge.

Indeed, it has been mentioned that he has been handed quite a legacy. Our very good friends who have represented that district so well who are here today: Kweisi Mfume, whom I consider one of my dearest friends, who was elected with me and BEN CARDIN to the historic 100th Congress; BARBARA MIKULSKI, our Senator who also represented that district. Senator SARBANES, did you represent that district? You did in your heart, that is for sure.

But we all reflect the kind of fine work that has been done there, and I did have the grand opportunity to serve for 4 years with Congressman CUMMINGS in the House of Delegates. Very proud of your background, the temperament, the compassion, and I particularly like the fact that here is a man who is going to work for the American people, both sides of the aisle. He is not predisposed to any one specific myopic kind of philosophy. He wants to work for the American people, for the people of Maryland. I salute him and I congratulate him.

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentlewoman. I might observe that our senior Senator has always served every district in our State.

Ladies and gentlemen, I am deeply honored to introduce to you a very fine human being who we will be privileged to serve with and walk with, ELIJAH CUMMINGS.

Mr. CUMMINGS. Thank you very much, Mr. Speaker and Members, to the Maryland congressional delegation, to two of my mentors, both of whom I love. Their spirit is a part of my spirit. Their hopes and dreams are part of my hopes and dreams.

To Kweisi Mfume and Parren J. Mitchell, I just want you to know that I love you, and I thank you for all that you have done for the city of Baltimore, the State of Maryland, the Nation, and the world. I appreciate you.

To my family and friends and to the members of the Maryland Legislature who are up there, only God could create this path, only God. Only God could create a path where the son of two sharecroppers from Manning, SC could rise to represent the people of the Seventh Congressional District in the Congress of the United States of America. Only God, and so I must first thank God for this opportunity.

I also thank Him for giving me the strength, the humility, and the courage to walk the path that He has given me. So often we in public life forget that we are very fortunate to come upon this Earth and have an opportunity to serve. So often we forget, because we get so caught up in our battles and our struggles, that so many people wish they could have the problems we have.

So I am just a happy, happy man. I am also very happy, they tell me it is unusual for Members of the other body—I have got to get this language right—to come over, but my two Senators, I want to thank you for being here and for all that you have done. It is not just that they are here today, but they have been walking with me for a long time, and I appreciate you.

Mr. Speaker, I represent a diverse district, a very diverse district. We have people who have a lot of problems. We have people who have very nice homes. We have people who are struggling just trying to make it. It honors me tremendously to know that they would send me here to represent them.

I have often said on the floor of the Maryland House of Delegates that our world would be a much better world and a much better place if we would only concentrate on the things we have in common instead of concentrating on our differences. It is easy to find differences, very easy. We need to take more time to find common ground.

So my mission is one that comes out of a vision that was created long, long ago. It is a mission and a vision to empower people, to make people realize that the power is within them, that they, too, can do the things that they want to do. So I am about that mission. I am looking forward to joining with all of you as we travel this road I often call journey, which I define as life.

There is a poem that Parren Mitchell said many, many years ago, that I say sometimes 20 times a day, and it is a very simple poem but it is one that I live by. It says: "I only have a minute, 60 seconds in it, forced upon me, I did not choose it, but I know that I must use it, give account if I abuse it, suffer if I lose it, only a tiny little minute, but eternity is in it."

So I join you as we move forward to uplift not only the Nation but the world. May God bless you all and may God bless America.

RESIGNATION AS MEMBER OF COMMITTEE ON VETERANS' AFFAIRS

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD) laid before the House the following resignation as a Member of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs:

CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,
Washington, DC, April 22, 1996.

Hon. NEWT GINGRICH,
Speaker of the House,
Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: I hereby resign my position on the Committee on Veterans' Affairs.

Sincerely,

MAXINE WATERS,
Member of Congress.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection, the resignation is accepted. There was no objection.

ELECTION OF MEMBERS TO CERTAIN STANDING COMMITTEES OF THE HOUSE

Mr. FAZIO of California. Mr. Speaker, I offer a privileged resolution (H. Res. 414) and ask for its immediate consideration.

HOUSE RESOLUTION 414

Resolved, That the following named Members be, and that they are hereby, elected to the following standing committees of the House of Representatives:

To the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight, ELIJAH CUMMINGS of Maryland; to the Committee on the Judiciary, MAXINE WATERS of California; and to the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, ELIJAH CUMMINGS of Maryland.

The resolution was agreed to.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair announces that he will take ten 1-minutes on each side.

DELAY TRUMPETS SPENDING BILL

(Mr. DELAY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, last night the Appropriations Committee did a great job in working with the President and forcing him to be fiscally responsible. By getting an agreement to curtail spending in the 1996 omnibus appropriations bill, Republicans were finally able to cut back on Washington spending, and I am very proud of that.

Today we will save the taxpayers $43 billion from last year's spending levels. We zero out 200 programs. We will keep on track to a balanced budget. And, most important, we will take a giant leap toward fiscal sanity.

Mr. Speaker, the American people put the Republicans in the majority because they wanted more responsible Government from their Congress, and we have delivered on our promises. My friends, this is the biggest taxpayer savings since the end of the Second World War, and we did not raise one dime of taxes.

By passing this spending bill, we take a giant step forward for the American family, and I just want to commend Chairman LIVINGSTON and his committee for his patience and great work on this legislation.

LET US PASS A MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE

(Mr. VOLKMER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. VOLKMER. Mr. Speaker, the radical right of the Republicans is at it again. Although the vast majority of the American citizens, the majority of the Members of this House, the majority of the Members of the other body, and the President of the United States all say we should have an increase in the minimum wage. Well, imperial Speaker GINGRICH and the Presidential nominee of the Republican Party, BOB DOLE, say, "No, we are not even going to let you vote on it." The minimum wage is presently at a 40-year low as far as buying power. They will not even let us have a vote on it. That is the radical right of the Republican Party.

I say let the House vote on a minimum wage. Let us vote on it now. Let the other body vote on a minimum wage. Let us vote on it now. What are you afraid of? You are afraid of giving the working poor a little more money for their work. That is what you are afraid of. You do not want to do that. You want to give the wealthy a big tax cut. You say that is who needs the money. I say let us pass a minimum wage.

THE MINIMUM WAGE

(Mr. LINDER asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LINDER. Mr. Speaker, it is fascinating, the gentleman from Missouri was not here 2 years ago asking to help the working poor with an increase in the minimum wage, because he had the House controlled by Democrats, the Senate controlled by Democrats, and the White House. They were not concerned about them then.

Let me tell you what the Wall Street Journal Review and Outlook call them in 1996. Remember when Bill Clinton claimed he was a new Democrat precisely because he did not favor a higher minimum wage? Time Magazine, by Michael Kramer, from an earlier speech by Bill Clinton: "It"—raising the minimum wage—"is the wrong way to raise incomes of low-wage earners." I think the President was right then. I think he is right now.

The increase in the minimum wage by the President's own chief economist will cost low-income earners 100,000 jobs. That is not the way to raise the income of workers. Cutting taxes is.

AMERICA SUPPORTS RAISING THE MINIMUM WAGE

(Mr. PALLONE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, again I do not understand what the argument is about which Congress tried or did not try to raise the minimum wage. The bottom line is we know now we have a majority in both Houses, mostly Democrats, but also enough Republicans, so that we could pass the minimum wage if it was only brought up for a vote on the floor right now.

The problem is that the Republican leadership, Speaker GINGRICH and the others, do not want to bring it up for a vote. They had a meeting yesterday and all the newspapers today say they refuse to bring it up for a simple up or down vote. The reason they will not bring it up is because they know it will pass.

The American people favor this, four out of five in all the recent polls, and the majority in the House of Representatives and the Senate and the President of the United States. So why not bring it up?

Very simple: They do not want to do it. Instead, they have come up with some bureaucratic cockamamie proposal to essentially use a government subsidy to help certain families, but not everyone.

Why in the world are we talking about a government subsidy to employers so that they do not have to pay a higher wage, a living wage? It makes no sense.

CHANGING THE WAY GOVERNMENT IS DONE IN WASHINGTON

(Mrs. CUBIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. CUBIN. Mr. Speaker, today we will end months of intense negotiation with the administration on the omnibus appropriations bill, which provides funding for the Departments of Commerce, Interior, State, Labor, Justice, Housing and Urban Development, Veterans, and Health and Human Services.

Mr. Speaker, this Congress has achieved historic savings in the Federal budget. We have saved taxpayers $43 billion, resulting in the lowest projected deficit in 14 years and the single largest cut in government since World War II.

Please remember, the President does not spend one penny; the Congress spends the money, and this Republican Congress is responsible for cutting the deficit $43 billion, keeping our word, and changing the way government is done in Washington.

BACKWARD ECONOMICS

(Mr. TRAFICANT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. TRAFICANT. Mr. Speaker, see if this makes any sense: Uncle Sam gives billions of dollars to Russia in foreign aid; Russia then uses American money to build weapons. Uncle Sam then gives billions of dollars to China through the most-favored-nation trade program; China then buys weapons from Russia with money made in America.

Now, China makes money, Russia makes money, and, meanwhile, to stay afloat, America borrows money from Japan. America then uses that borrowed money from Japan to protect Japan and to protect Japanese oil in the Persian Gulf. That is right, Japan gets 95 percent of their oil from the Persian Gulf. Meanwhile, back in America, Americans are not only paying higher fuel taxes, they are now paying $2 for a gallon of gasoline.

Beam me up here. Somebody in Washington, DC, does not need to see any more economists, they need to visit a proctologist. Folks, this thing is all screwed up.

I yield back the balance of all these Btu's.

BIG SAVINGS FOR AMERICAN TAXPAYERS

(Ms. DUNN of Washington asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. DUNN of Washington. Mr. Speaker, today the 104th Congress will vote to end big government. By the end of the day today, we will have saved taxpayers $43 billion over the length of the 104th Congress, the largest single cut in government spending since World War II. Translation: $688 for a family of four.

With passage of today's legislation, this Congress will end over 200 programs, more than 100 in Labor, Health and Human Services alone, $12 million on a tick eradication program for cattle in Puerto Rico, and $14 million for the U.S. Travel and Tourism Association.

The bill strengthens priority programs that our constituents said are important to them: An additional $400 million for veterans medical benefits, support for our troops in Bosnia, and antiterrorism programs in Israel.

This bill does not just put the brakes on runaway Federal spending, it reverses it. Finally America's values have triumphed over Washington, DC, values. This truly is a historic day.

GIVE AMERICA A RAISE

(Mr. MARKEY asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MARKEY. Mr. Speaker, Harry Truman used to say that the Republican Party supports the minimum wage: The lower the minimum, the better. Now that we are at a historic minimum, the Republicans will not even give the American people a vote on the floor of the Congress so we can give America a raise, and that is wrong.

Mr. Speaker, I remember when I was a boy, and minimum wage jobs, when the minimum wage went up 20 cents, it was a raise. It gave you something to be proud of. It gave you a little extra money.

For Americans to get an extra one buck an hour is $1,800 a year. That is the average 40-hour workweek. That is a lot of money for families. You can buy a lot of food and health care with $1,800. That is $1 an hour.

Give America a raise. Give people who make the minimum wage the decency of allowing them to fulfill Harry Truman's promise for this country.

PRESIDENTIAL PROMISES NOT FULFILLED

(Mr. FRANKS of Connecticut asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FRANKS of Connecticut. Mr. Speaker, today is Take Your Daughter to Work Day. Being a position role model and raising a child's self-esteem are noble objectives. However, for too many of those who represent our weakest links in our society, there is no father in the house to bring a child to work, and the mother, she gets a quasi-minimum wage increase by simply having another baby.

Once upon a time there was a candidate for President who said he would end welfare as we know it. Since that slogan apparently helped Mr. Clinton get elected in 1992, I guess the 1996 slogan will be "Really, folks, some day I want to end welfare as we know it." The record would show that Mr. Clinton took 2 years to even introduce an outline of a bill, and he has vetoed welfare reform twice.

Truly the only missing ingredient between taking the first step toward welfare reform and the continuation of this vicious cycle of government dependency is President Bill Clinton.

RAISE THE MINIMUM WAGE

(Mr. WYNN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WYNN. Mr. Speaker, once again I rise to support the minimum wage. People will tell you that while this is just an issue about young teenagers, that is absolutely untrue. Seventy-five percent of the people who make the minimum wage are adults. Fifty-eight percent of them are women, and they head households.

Do you know how much you make a year off the minimum wage? $8,400 a year, doing some of the dirtiest, most unpleasant, hardest work we have in this country.

Now, I cannot understand why we cannot increase the minimum wage. There are bipartisan majorities in both Houses willing to support a $1 increase in the minimum wage. So why will the Republican leadership not bring it up?

The fact is that the Republican leadership makes over $100,000 a year. People on minimum wage make $8,400 a year. Is it too much to ask to give these people, these women, these hard-working Americans, a raise of $1? I do not think so.

Again, I reiterate, we ought to raise the minimum wage.

A GOOD DAY FOR THE AMERICAN TAXPAYERS

(Mr. LEWIS of Kentucky asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEWIS of Kentucky. Mr. Speaker, today is a good day for American taxpayers. It is a day they have waited for for many, many years. Today the House and the Senate will consider and pass the omnibus appropriations bill.

This bill represents the values of ordinary American taxpayers. It represents the values of people who work hard and play by the rules. It represents the values of people who are tired of seeing one-quarter of their income going to a Federal Government that has racked up a $5 trillion national debt.

This bill rejects the values of Washington. It is a departure from the tax, tax, spend, spend philosophy of the true extremists, the status quo Clinton liberals. This bill rejects the values of all the liberal special interests who have dominated this House for 40 years.

Mr. Speaker, this Congress can be proud that we are making the changes demanded by the American people. This new Congress is saying no to Washington's values and yes to American values.

RAISE MINIMUM WAGE NOW

(Ms. DELAURO asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, yesterday NEWT GINGRICH and his leadership team stiffed America's hardworking families once again. These are the families who work hard; they play by the rules. They are working longer and harder to pay the bills to save for education and for retirement.

These families support an increase in the minimum wage. Eighty-four percent of the American people favor raising the minimum wage, everyone, that is, except for the House Republican leadership.

Yesterday the Republican majority leader said he will not schedule a vote on the minimum wage. Why do House Republicans continue to give working families the back of their hand rather than extending a hand? Because, as a top business lobbyist said yesterday, we made them, and this is a quote, "We made them the majority." Republicans continue to pay off their special interest pals rather than helping America's hardworking families.

Mr. Speaker, this is the people's House, not the House of special interests. Stop hurting working families in this country. Raise the minimum wage now.

MEDICARE'S PENDING BANKRUPTCY

(Mr. FUNDERBURK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FUNDERBURK. Mr. Speaker, how long are the Clinton Democrats going to ignore reports that Medicare is going broke? How long are they going to jeopardize the future of our parents' and grandparents' health?

Mr. Speaker, new Government reports show a $4.2 billion shortfall in Medicare for the first half of this fiscal year, $4.2 billion.

Just last year the Clinton administration predicted Medicare would take in $45 billion more. It seems the Clinton administration was wrong. When President Clinton had the chance to reform Medicare, he chose his veto pen and MediScare, scaring seniors over our seniors' health care security. The President is ignoring Medicare's impending bankruptcy, something our seniors cannot afford.

RAISING MINIMUM WAGE A MORAL ISSUE

(Mr. LEWIS of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEWIS of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, the Republicans in this House just do not get it. The American people want an increase in the minimum wage. They know, Mr. Speaker, even if you do not, that raising the minimum wage is the right thing to do.

This is not just an economic issue, this is a moral issue. Mr. Speaker, you have the capacity, you have the ability, to bring a clean minimum wage bill to this floor. Do not fight, Mr. Speaker, what is right; do not fight what is right.

On this issue there is a national bipartisan consensus. Let us do what the American people want us to do. Let us do what is right. Let us raise the minimum wage. Struggling, hardworking people deserve the right to earn a livable income. Raise the minimum wage. Raise it now.

MISAPPLICATION OF THE INDIAN CHILD WELFARE ACT

(Ms. PRYCE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. PRYCE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today with just one illustration of the absolute tragedy and heartbreak being experienced right now by countless children and their families due to the misapplication of the Indian Child Welfare Act, or ICWA.

A couple from my district in Columbus, OH, adopted twin girls. Both biological parents consented and even chose this family that they wanted the girls to be placed with. After 6 months, as they went on to finalize the adoption, they found out that it was being contested under ICWA, which gives the tribe the final say in custody proceedings involving Indian children.

Although only one of the twins great-great-grandparents was native American, a judge in California ruled that that was enough to trigger ICWA.

These stories are commonplace and have to end. As a result of this misapplication of the law, two little girls almost 3 years old now still await the permanence and stability of the only family they have ever known, and they fear what fate might await them at the hands of the court.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support the Adoption Stability Act of 1996.

TIME TO VOTE ON A CLEAN MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE

(Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, we have heard this morning, and I am glad, that after a year of threatening cuts in education funding, I am glad that the Congress and the President yesterday and today will consummate it and restore the drastic and extreme education cuts that they have been fighting a year over, and I am glad the Republican majority saw the light.

But, really, what I want to talk about today is the minimum wage. Americans strongly support an increase in the minimum wage. In fact, the latest national poll shows at least 80 percent of Americans support an increase in the minimum wage, and yet the majority of the Republicans oppose an increase, and some even oppose the minimum wage.

In fact, yesterday the House Republican leaders decided not to even bring up a minimum wage increase for a vote. The only thing we have heard of is a measure to provide another Government subsidy for people who work at $4.25 an hour. More welfare instead of someone being able to work their way off of welfare. That is not what the American people want.

Republicans talk a lot about moving people off of welfare and into work, but people need a livable wage to do this. Members can talk the talk, but they need to walk the walk. American families are working harder than ever, but it is tough to get ahead when working full time does not put enough money in your opinion pocket to put food on the table.

HONORING ROSHA BOOKER OF ROME, GA

(Mr. BARR of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. BARR of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor one of my constituents from Rome, GA, Ms. Rosha Booker, as an example to this Congress and to the country that one person can make a difference. Rosha's commitment to her community, and especially to its children, has established her as a leader and a doer.

Rosha had few of the benefits many of us enjoy, such as a fine education. But she did not let personal adversity hold her back. She got her GED and she got involved.

As president of her residents association, she has taken the lead in attacking drug abuse; and initiated countless activities for young people, from constructive and motivational programs, to workshops designed to give children alternatives to drugs and violence.

Last year Rosha came up with Make a Difference Day. She organized a community yard sale and a fall fair, bringing together residents of her community, tenants association, and local police to stress public safety and the importance of respect for law enforcement.

USA Weekend Magazine has just recognized Rosha in its Sunday magazine as one of the Nation's leading volunteers working for a better America. USA weekend chose wisely.

REMOVAL OF NAME OF MEMBER AS COSPONSOR OF H.R. 3024 AND H.R. 1972

Mr. TOWNS. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that my name be removed as a cosponsor of H.R. 3024 and H.R. 1972.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from New York?

There was no objection.

WOMEN MAKE UP 59 PERCENT OF MINIMUM WAGE EARNERS

(Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks and include extraneous material.)

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, to make it perfectly clear, I am very glad we finally won the victory, with the help of the President, and the Democratic caucus, to restore cuts in education, to restore the 100,000 police. Today we will vote on a good appropriations bill. We are working for America.

But what we really need to talk about is not the blame game regarding the minimum wage, we really need to talk about the pain in America. A few things we should consider in the argument to raise the minimum wage are that women are the ones that make up 59 percent of the minimum wage earners and nearly three-quarters of them are adults. Further, on average, women are still paid only 72 cents for every $1 men earn, and after inflation the value of the minimum wage is now 29 percent lower than it was in 1979.

If we do the right thing and the fair thing and raise the minimum wage, just by 90 cents, from $4.25 to $5.15 an hour, that alone would lift an estimated 300,000 people out of poverty, including 100,000 children.

Let us not play jokes on the American people. Raise the minimum wage for America and for its working people.

LET TAXPAYERS SEE WHAT GOVERNMENT REALLY COSTS

(Mr. STEARNS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STEARNS. Mr. Speaker, in 1943 Congress passed the withholding tax law. This painless collection method was described by one Senator as the best way to "get the greatest amount of money with the least amount of squawks."

Unfortunately for us all, he was right.

In fact, a recent poll showed that 54 percent of America's taxpayers have no idea how much of their income is withheld. It is the ultimate hidden tax, the best way to obscure the truth about taxes and the best way to obscure the cost of governing.

I want Americans to see what their Government costs. So I've introduced legislation that would allow workers to pay their taxes monthly, writing a check to the IRS just like they pay their mortgages, their car payments, and their rents.

In this way, taxpayers could see how much the Government is taking from their paychecks and how expensive their Government is. They would be able to determine for themselves whether or not they are getting their money's worth.

I urge my colleagues to cosponsor this legislation, which simply lets the taxpayers see how much their Government really costs.

AMERICANS HAVE WON A VICTORY WITH REGARD TO BUDGET NEGOTIATIONS

(Mr. DOGGETT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, the American people have won a victory with reference to these budget negotiations. We are reversing the deficit spiral under Republican administrations in the 1980's. We are making continued progress toward balancing the budget. It is, as my Republican colleagues have said this morning, a historic moment. It is just that they miss what the historic moment is all about. For, as my colleagues can see, all of this could have been accomplished last year without the Gingrich goofs, without the Government shutdowns that cost the American people $1.5 billion, without the pain that that caused people all over this country.

Today we have achieved this negotiation without taking cops off the street, as they wanted to, without savaging the School Lunch Program, without wrecking the environment. We have accomplished this because the American people have spoken out and said they have had enough of extremism. We Democrats did not have a majority of votes to accomplish this, but we had a majority of right on our side, and thanks to the involvement of the American people we have said no to the Gingrich extremists and achieved a victory.

VIETNAM VETERANS AND MEN OF CONSCIENCE CANNOT VOTE FOR THE APPROPRIATIONS BILL

(Mr. DORNAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DORNAN. Mr. Speaker, item in this week's April 29 U.S. News & World Report. "Clinton Won't Dodge Vietnam." That is their word, "dodge," not mine.

Although Bill Clinton went to great lengths to avoid going to Vietnam during his draft age years, try three times, the President, who made a round-the-world swing last week, has put the southeast Asian nation, that is Communist Vietnam, at the top of his must see list next year if he gets reelected.

Then the paragraph closes, like every other recent President, Clinton, they say, wants to be remembered mainly as a peacemaker. Well, at Oxford, ditching classes and flunking out and not getting his degree, he made sure that the killing fields would prevail in Cambodia and Laos and 68,000 of our friends would be executed in Vietnam.

I cannot vote, Mr. Speaker, for the appropriations bill today, not because my HIV language was taken out. I would have traded that off for the two great pro-life provisions, but Clinton thinks with his infanticide vote he has locked up all the abortion industry. He wanted to get back the homosexual industry. It is this POW bracelet. Any veteran or man of conscience cannot vote for the appropriations bill today.

WAIVING REQUIREMENT OF CLAUSE 4(b) OF RULE XI WITH RESPECT TO CONSIDERATION OF CERTAIN RESOLUTIONS

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 412 and ask for its immediate consideration.

H. RES. 412

Resolved, That the requirement of clause 4(b) of rule XI for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House is waived with respect to any resolution reported from that committee before April 27, 1996, and providing for consideration or disposition of any of the following measures:

(1) A bill making general appropriations for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1996, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

(2) A bill or joint resolution that includes provisions making further continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1996, any amendment thereto, any conference report thereon, or any amendment reported in disagreement from a conference thereon.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Colorado [Mr. MCINNIS] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield the customary 30 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

(Mr. MCINNIS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous material.)

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 412 is a simple resolution. The proposed rule merely waives the requirement of clause 4(b) of rule XI for a two-thirds vote to consider a report from the Committee on Rules on the same day it is presented to the House for resolutions reported from the committee before April 27, 1996, under certain conditions.

This narrow, short-term, waiver will only apply to special rules providing for the consideration or disposition of measures, amendments, conference reports, or items in disagreement from a conference that: make general appropriations for fiscal year 1996, or provisions making continuing appropriations for fiscal year 1996.

Mr. Speaker, House Resolution 412 is straightforward, and it was reported by the Committee on Rules with unanimous voice vote. The distinguished Member, Mr. MOAKLEY, stated in the Committee on Rules that he had no objections to this rule. The committee recognized the need for expedited procedures to bring these legislative measures forward as soon as possible. Simply put, we must move quickly before temporary spending authority expires at midnight tonight. Mr. Speaker, we have reached an agreement with the White House and it is time to move forward.

The agreement we reached last night will result in 1996 discretionary spending being $23 billion less than last year's level, and the additional funding for the administration's programs is offset by reductions and saving in other areas. I urge my colleagues to support House Resolution 412.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from Colorado, Mr. MCINNIS, for yielding me the customary one-half hour and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this rule waiving the two-thirds requirement for same day consideration of a bill will finally enable the House to bring up the omnibus appropriations bill.

After 6 months of waiting for my Republican colleagues to pass the 13 appropriations bills, we are finally going to be able to bypass their Appropriations Committees and get our Government back on its feet.

Federal workers won't have to worry about being furloughed; military retirees won't have to worry about their benefits; and students headed for college won't have to wait any longer than they already have for their student loans to be processed.

I support this two-thirds rule, Mr. Speaker, because I wouldn't do anything to slow the appropriations process any more than it already has been but I believe my Republican colleagues have behaved very irresponsibly on this budget and I hope next fiscal year will be different. The American people have suffered from their political games and it is no way to run a government.

But this rule doesn't go far enough. So, I will oppose the previous question in order to offer an amendment to the rule which would make in order a new section in the rule. This provision would direct the Committee on Rules immediately to report a resolution that would provide for consideration of a bill to incrementally increase the minimum wage from its current $4.25 an hour to $5.15 an hour beginning on July 4, 1997.

This will not slow down the continuing resolution, Mr. Speaker, it will allow the House to vote on a separation measure to increase the minimum wage.

Mr. Speaker, my Democratic colleagues and I believe very strongly that American workers deserve a raise and we will continue to fight until they get one.

With CEO's of major corporations getting raises of millions and millions of dollars a year, I certainly hope my Republican colleagues will agree with us that average working people deserve a $1,800 raise—enough for 7 months of groceries.

We are not talking about a lot of money, Mr. Speaker. But we are talking about a lot of people, 12 million people who work very long hours and still live below the poverty line.

It has been 5 years since the last increase in the minimum wage, 5 years, Mr. Speaker. Its value has plummeted to a 40-year low. People on minimum wage only earn $8,400 a year.

That means that someone who works just as long—and I would argue just as hard—as those CEO's does not make enough money to feed and house their family.

Any Member who disagrees with me, any Member who does not think we should raise the minimum wage to $5.15 an hour should vote for the previous question.

I urge everyone else who believes hard-working Americans should be able to support their families on their income to defeat the previous question.

Let's give hard-working Americans a raise.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I have a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MCINNIS. I think it is in order, Mr. Speaker, to request a copy of the proposed amendment to the rule from the minority in order to determine whether a discussion of it is germane to the debate on this particular rule. Otherwise, I will be forced to raise a point of order against any further debate on a nongermane amendment to the rule.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MCINNIS. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, the amendment is being worked on. It will be in the gentleman's hands very shortly.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I am thrilled. I cannot believe what I have just heard. My good friend from Massachusetts, is the gentleman in fact suggesting that we bypass the committee process and bring directly to the floor his particular amendment? I think this is the very side that I get hammered time after time after time again with these rules, what about the committee process?

Mr. Speaker, I am certain that the gentleman and my friend from Massachusetts overlooked this, and I am certain that in order to stay consistent with what their side on a continuing basis continually talks about, that he will rescind his amendment and proposal to offer an amendment and take it back to the committee process.

I think it is also important for us to realize it is an election year. How can we tell it is an election year? Where has this group, where has the minority been? They held the majority in the House. They held the majority in the Senate. They held the Presidency for the first 2 years I was here. Not once, not once in committee, not once on the House floor did we hear any discussion about minimum wage. In fact, I found it kind of interesting. Time, February 6, 1995, now the President wants to make work pay by raising the minimum wage. Yet, more than 2 years ago he said that raising the minimum wage is, and I quote from Time magazine "the wrong way to raise incomes of low wage earners."

If we want to help the low wage earners in this country, get Government off their back. Do something about the taxes on these people. Do something about the child tax credit. That is how we are going to help the working poor in this country.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman, my colleague, my friend, is right. Maybe we should have addressed minimum wage. But as he knows, we had other things on our pallet. We had the health care bill that took a lot of time. We had the budget bill. We had the appropriation bills that the Republicans did not let come out through the proper process. So we really were distracted doing other things. But now we are looking clear eyed at the minimum wage, and maybe we should have done it before.

Having said that, we have just received notice from Speaker GINGRICH that he does not want to allow the minimum wage to go forward, so we cannot rely upon the ordinary committee process. This is the process we have to take.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentlewoman from Connecticut [Ms. DELAURO].

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, today I call upon my colleagues to defeat the previous question so that we can go back to the Committee on Rules and have a vote on raising the minimum wage. My colleagues and I have been trying for weeks to convince NEWT GINGRICH and the rest of the Republican leadership to allow a vote on raising the minimum wage, a mere 90-cent increase for the hard-working men and women of this country at a time in our Nation's history when we are looking at corporate CEO's who are making on average $2 to $3 million a year, and working Americans have not seen a raise in their income in the last several years. They scramble every week to try to pay their bills.

Mr. Speaker, last month I went to the Committee on Rules, and I testified in favor of allowing a vote on raising the minimum wage. My request was denied. On this floor the next day my Democratic colleagues offered a motion to allow a vote on raising the minimum wage. Again, our effort to give working families a raise was denied. As a matter of fact, the House Parliamentarian ruled that the Republican leadership was using an invalid procedure to kill that vote. After denying us the right in this body, the people's House, to raise the people's interests, we were not allowed to have this come up for a vote.

Yesterday the Speaker of the House said that it is not his intention to schedule a vote on the minimum wage. He refuses to do it. Yesterday or the day before yesterday, the third ranking member of the Republican leadership in this body said that the minimum wage families do not exist. There is a movement here and a pattern to not allow us to be able to vote in this Nation on the minimum wage. Eighty-four percent of the people in this country want us to increase the minimum wage.

Stop playing parliamentary games with America's working families. Please, give them a simple yes or no vote on raising the minimum wage in this country. Stop denying hard-working families, people that we ought to honor for taking on the personal responsibility of working hard every single day. All they want to do is to get their kids to school. They want a decent retirement for themselves. That is all they are asking for. And they make $8,500 a year.

Mr. Speaker, let me tell my colleagues in this body, during the shut-down in the Christmas holidays, Members of this body made more than minimum wage workers made in 1 year. It is unfair. Let us vote now, let us vote right away, an up or down vote on raising the minimum wage in this country.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I would be interested later in the debate perhaps to hear from the gentlewoman from Connecticut about the President's comments that this is the wrong way to raise the incomes of the low-wage earners. Perhaps the gentlewoman from Connecticut before she leaves the floor today on the debate would like to come down and talk about the President's own chief economic expert, economist, who says that the higher minimum wage does not seem a particularly useful way to help the poor.

Why all of a sudden the change? Why all of a sudden the reverse? I will tell my colleagues why; it is show and tell for election year.

Mr. Speaker, this debate is about a rule. That is what we are talking about. We have come to a resolution on this budget. We have cut the rate of growth by $23 billion over last year. Let us get on with the business. Do not let them divert by talking about something that they have plenty of opportunities to do something about but all of a sudden, lo and behold, and I am sure by coincidence right before an election shows up, they come to the floor and they pound the podium and they talk about the minimum wage. They cannot explain the President's comments who says it is the wrong way to help these, the low-wage earner. They cannot explain the chief economist over at the White House when he says it does not work.

Where were these people? Where was the gentlewoman from Connecticut? Where was the gentlewoman from Connecticut when we had, for example, just a couple of weeks ago a limitation on the taxes in this country?

My bet is that the gentlewoman probably voted against it. I think it is important, if we want to help the working poor of this country, let us talk about taxes. Let us do something to control the taxes.

Nothing helps them more than taking a look at the heavy, heavy burden of taxes. Do you know that the average working person in this country has to go in and spend 2 hours and 45 minutes of their working day, the first 2 hours and 45 minutes of their working day just to pay the taxes? If we want to do something to help these people, cut that 2 hours and 45 minutes and let some of that time go right into their pocketbook. The average person in this country works from January 1 to May 6 every year, every hour during that period of time just to pay their taxes.

Mr. Speaker, the point here is very important. That is that today we are engaged in a debate on the rule, a rule which would allow us to get this compromise put into law, which will allow this budget to go forward. This is a good budget. We have come up with. This is a budget that will allow the Federal Government in Washington, DC, to reduce its spending by $23 billion. That is a very, very significant step forward. Let us do divert. Let us not dilute it by bringing in what I consider, frankly, frivolous timing on this debate.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. BONIOR], the minority whip.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, who are these people that work on the minimum wage or for the minimum wage? Three of them are testifying out in the swamp triangle in front of the press right now about earning the minimum wage and trying to raise a family. So they indeed do exist.

Mr. Speaker, they are the people who take care of our mothers and our fathers and our grandparents in nursing homes. They are the people who clean the offices. They are people to clean the airports. They are the people who are breaking their backs to raise their kids every single day in America.

Do we know what happens when we pay them $4.25 an hour? They cannot raise a family on that. They end up sometimes working two jobs, three jobs, overtime. What does that mean? That means they are not there for their kids in the evenings. A mother is not there to teach her kids right from wrong. She is not there to read them bedtime stories. A father is not there for a PTA. He is not there for Little League games. He is not there for church. He is not there for dinner conversations. And the whole fabric of civil society starts to breakdown. That is what we are talking about here, paying somebody a decent livable wage so they can live a decent livable life.

Mr. Speaker, that is what we are talking about, basic economic justice for people. Let me put the Republican position on the minimum wage in perspective. A person making the minimum wage, as I said $8,500 a year, the average CEO in America today makes about $12,000 a day. I wanted to repeat that, $12,000 a day.

My friend from Colorado talked about taxes. Let me tell my colleagues about taxes. Under their tax plan, if you do the math right, every CEO in America would get a tax break of about $8,500 a year. In other words, the Republicans spent the last 16 months trying to give CEO's a tax break equal to the amount a minimum wage family earns in an entire year. Where is the economic justice in all of that?

This is an issue which is supported by over 100 economists. It is an issue that is supported by three Nobel Laureates, by 80 percent of the American people. We ought to move on this and move on it today. We have an opportunity on this previous question to vote it down so we can bring up the opportunity to have a real debate and a real vote on a critical issue for this country.

Mr. Speaker, the Republicans on this side of the aisle and in the other body have embarked upon a strategy of ducking this issue as the Speaker indicated the other day in a press conference, blocking it, as the gentleman from Texas [Mr. ARMEY] indicated, said he would fight it with every fiber of his being; burying, as Senator DOLE intends, to do by attaching it to extraneous matters in the other body. This strategy of duck, block it, delay it, bury it, is not what the American people want. They want us to move on this issue because they know it is a matter of economic justice.

Mr. Speaker, let me just say in conclusion that we have got 12 million people in this country who are doing tough work, tough work. They have made a choice to do work over welfare. If we want to solve this welfare issue, we have got to make work pay. That is all we are asking. The minimum wage is at an almost 40-year low, 40-year low. People made more on the minimum wage in the 1970's and in the 1980's and in the 1960's than they would even if we raised it 90 cents an hour.

Let us do something for these folks. Let us raise the minimum wage. Let us give them the respect and the dignity that they deserve, and let us send a message to America that work pays.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I am interested by the gentleman from Michigan's comments. I wonder where the gentleman's vote was on the largest tax increase in the history of this country about 2 years ago, and I do not want the gentleman to come back and say, well, as my colleagues know, we just increased taxes on the wealthy people in this country.

Our colleagues increased taxes, as the Democrats, on this House floor on everybody in this country that buys a gallon of gasoline, 4 cents a gallon. Our colleagues have continually thought the response to aid Washington, DC, is to tax, tax, tax.

If our colleagues want to help the working poor in this country, if our colleagues are really sincere about it and not playing election-year tactics, if our colleagues really want to help them, do something about the burden of taxes in this country.

I have said repeatedly from this microphone every person out there trying to work, trying to stay off welfare, still has to spend their first 2 hours and 45 minutes of every working day just to pay their taxes.

Now, how interesting, and I will not yield, now, how interesting it is that the gentleman from Michigan and the gentlewoman from Connecticut talk about how their party wants to help the working person. Well, maybe one of them, and they have not done it yet, maybe one of them would be kind enough to explain the President's comments, and I will quote it again from Time magazine. When the President directly addresses and states his position on minimum wage, and that is, "Minimum wage," and I quote, "is the wrong way to raise the incomes of low-wage earners."

Our colleagues are hurting these people. That is what we are trying to say to them, they are hurting the very people that everybody wants to help. If our colleagues were serious about it, they should have supported, and some of you actually did, but we should have had more support from our colleagues' side of the aisle to put a tax limitation on the bureaucracies in Washington DC. But they did not support that.

And, by the way, they did not hesitate to support the largest tax increase in the history of this country. That is what is key here. If they really want to help the working people, let us shift this debate.

By the way, the debate should not even be on this. The debate should be on the rule. But our colleagues continue to try to divert it over to this.

So let us shift the debate where it ought to be, and that is the tax burden that their party primarily in the last 40 years has been responsible for placing on the working people of this country. Not just the working poor, but every working man, woman, and child in this country, lives under their tax burden.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DOGGETT].

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, in a few minutes all of America will be able to see a vote on whether or not the people of America, the working families of this country, will get the increase in their wages that they deserve, get a raise.

I believe American working families deserve a raise, and finally this morning we are going to have a vote on that subject. And if my colleagues believe that way, all of America will be able to see that they voted against this call for the previous question and we have finally an up-and-down vote on the minimum wage.

But, as my colleagues can see, what we have been hearing this morning is the same old Republican story: Promises made, promises broken. That is what this Republican majority is all about. It was only last week that the Republican leadership of this House and of the Senate were telling us: We would have a vote on the minimum-wage increase. But they forgot to ask the lobby.

As we can see, this would be like the Republicans writing environmental legislation without getting a bill from the polluters. They just do not do that. They made their announcement, and they had a traffic jam out here.

As we can see, they forgot to ask the special-interest lobbyists, and the limousines starting converging on the Capitol, almost a traffic jam out here on the avenue, because these lobbyists expect this Republican majority to do exactly what they tell them to do, and they made the mistake of not asking. They listened to the American people, for once, who demand that they get the kind of raise that they deserve because they are out there struggling with their families.

We are not talking about people that have got limousines that benefit from this minimum-wage increase. We are talking about the people that mop the floors, we are talking about the people that take out the trash, that wash the dishes, the hard-working people of this country who can barely make ends meet on the little bit of minimum wage they have got. And this morning we are going to decide are we going to stand by those people who are working so hard to build a future for their families, or are we going to fold and join the limousine crowd who did not get asked but made their voice heard and caused the Republicans once again to break their promise to the American people?

Let us stand up for the little folks of this country.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

How interesting to hear the gentleman from Texas talking about the little people. I wonder if the gentleman from Texas has any small business in his district.

As my colleagues may know, my district is a rural district out in Colorado. It is not a wealthy district; most of the district is rural. We are ranchers and farmers, and we own small hardware stores. In fact, my father owned a little candle store for 40 years, and it was tough. Maybe the gentleman from Texas and I would like to have them come to my district.

By the way, we do not have any limousines out there; that may be something that perhaps my colleagues are not accustomed to. But we will take them out in a pickup truck and have them explain to the small business people in my district how it is going to help them and how it is going to help their employees, and we will bring the employees in, by increasing the minimum wage and keeping the tax burden exactly the same.

Do my colleagues know what we are debating today? We are debating the rule. This debate has been totally diverted, totally swung over to a non-germane subject on this rule. What is this rule all about? Do my colleagues know what it is about? It is about reducing spending in this year's budget over last year's budget by $23 billion. That is right: billion dollars. Finally we have made positive progress.

As my colleagues know, a lot of people, when the Republicans planted our garden, we said to the Democratic leadership, "Look, you got too many weeds in your garden. It's gotten too fat. It's not being taken care of, and the people, the taxpayers, that have to pay for the seeds and water and fertilizer for this garden are being abused." Let us plant the garden; we planted the garden.

Then all of a sudden nothing came up, it was not growing, and some of these people just sat back and said, "We told you. So by gosh, your way doesn't work."

But guess what happened today? We wake up, and we have got plants popping out everywhere. Do my colleagues know why? Because last night we reached an agreement, and this rule will help us move that agreement to the President's desk within 24 hours. We reach an agreement that allows us to reduce the size of Government in Washington, DC, to reduce the size of growth in this budget, to finally realize that the taxpayers of this country have a right to demand from their Government in Washington, DC, efficiency and accountability.

Now what is happening? Finally of course they are not going to concede. A little plant is now coming out of the ground, and this garden in fact is going to be a very healthy garden. Now they try to pull in something that their own President did not agree with, and that is this diversionary argument of minimum wage.

Let us go back to the rule. Last night in the Committee on Rules, I was there. I voted on it. Every Democrat in the Committee on Rules voted for it. I voted for it. We did not have this kind of sneak attack last night in the Committee on Rules, and in fact my good friend from Massachusetts, of whom I have a great deal of respect for, and frankly the more I work with him, the more I respect him, has stood on this floor before and said, "What about the committee process?"

Do my colleagues know what is happening? This is a sneak attack. They jump up here with minimum wage.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MCINNIS. I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I agree. I will vote for the rule. I am just trying to make the rule just a little bit better.

So I am with the gentleman from Colorado on the rule, but I just want to get a shot at the previous question. So the gentleman and I will vote arm in arm when it comes to voting for the rule.

Mr. MCINNIS. But the gentleman from Massachusetts would agree by doing this we avoid the committee process on the minimum wage issue; is that not correct?

Mr. MOAKLEY. But the gentleman from Colorado will agree that the Speaker said he is not going to allow the minimum wage to come to the floor, so will the gentleman tell me how else we can get it to the floor?

Mr. MCINNIS. Reclaiming my time, I thank the gentleman from Massachusetts for his courtesy and kindness. The fact is he knows and I know this is a sneak attack. That is all right, we can take it, we can absorb it. But if our colleagues want to talk about minimum wage, if the gentlewoman from Connecticut wants to talk about minimum wage, why does she not talk about the tax vote she took? Why do our colleagues not talk about the tax vote we took just 2 weeks ago where we said to the country and to the bureaucracy in Washington, DC: Before you raise taxes on the American people, you ought to get a two-thirds vote.

Now a lot of States do that. There are a lot of States that require a balanced budget. I would be interested to see what the gentleman from Texas or the gentlewoman from Connecticut voted on the balance budget amendment.

Do my colleagues really want to help the working people of this country? Then put this argument aside, let us debate the rules and the germaneness, and I mean argue what is germane to this rule, and let us get this budget, this agreement which cuts spending by $23 billion; we can have that to the President's desk within 24 hours.

And do my colleagues know something? I think both parties can stand up and say, by gosh, we are making progress in moving this country forward in a fiscally sound manner. But short of doing that, if some of the people who stand up here, and again just a coincidence in an election year, and talk about how much they have helped the working poor, I think it is legitimate, very legitimate, for everyone of us in this room to ask them, How did you vote on the balanced budget amendment? How are you rated by the Taxpayers Association? How did you vote on the tax limitation amendment? Where have you been on some of these spending issues that are here?

Do my colleagues want to help the working people of this country? One, get this budget to the President within the next 24 hours because he said he would sign it; two, follow your own President's advice where in Time magazine he said the minimum wage is the wrong way to raise the incomes of the low wage earners; and, three, get back to the germaneness of this rule, let us get this debate out of the way, and let us get to the budget debate because that is the most important time of the day. That is what is going to make this budget. And what we are doing right now is spending very valuable time debating kind of a sneak attack, certainly did not come up in the committee last night, certainly will not go through the committee process, but they think is fun and games to play down here and discuss it.

Let us get back to the budget. Let us pass this rule.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Texas, Mr. GENE GREEN.

(Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, what we are talking about is asking for a vote on minimum wage. Why will not the House allow us to vote on the minimum wage? By opposing the previous question, that is the only way we can do that. This martial law resolution gives special status to a lot of categories of bills. A minimum wage increase deserves that special status. We should be willing to give special treatment to the American families who are having to work for $4.25 an hour.

In fact my colleague from Colorado talked about this should go through the committee process. My committee has tried to have a hearing on this bill, and we have not. Seventy percent of the bills in 1996, and I will yield if I have time, 70 percent of the bills on this floor this year did not go through the committee process, and yet today they are not willing to use that special exception for the working folks. He knows also the reason that we tried to have health care reform in 1993 and 1994 and not a minimum wage increase, but it has gotten so far out of whack because of inflation we need to do it.

A great Senator from Texas said what we need to do is put the jam on the bottom shelf for the little people. Senator Ralph Yarborough, the late Senator, said that minimum wage increase will do that, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MCINNIS. I yield myself such time as I may consume.

First of all for the gentleman from Texas, I think it is incumbent upon him to use the words that he used in description, that he use them at least somewhat close to their definition. Continually he attempts to use the words martial law as if we are attempting martial law on this House floor, and let me just read for his assistance the definition of martial law. It is a temporary rule by military authorities over the civilian population.

This is getting a little out of hand when we start using those kinds of terms. Let us bring it back to the issue that we are talking about today. The issue is we have got a rule here that agreed to by all of the Democrats on the committee, that was voted by a voice vote, which means there is agreement amongst the committee, to bring this rule down to the floor so that we could clear the path for our budget package to come down here, to be heard, to be voted on, to be sent to the President within the next 24 hours.

My goodness, we have spent the last 6 months in tough negotiations and good faith negotiations from both sides to come to some kind of budget which will help reverse the spending in Washington, DC, which will help the taxpayers of this country; which, by the way, will help every working man, woman, and child in this country. We have it in our hands. We have the budget. We can send it to the President within the next 24 hours.

So why are we stalling? Let us stay germane to the subject. Let us pass this rule. Let us send this budget to the President. It is $23 billion in reductions in spending in Washington, DC. Do we want to make a working poor person's day or any working poor person's day? Tell them that finally the Government in Washington, DC, is about to reduce the rate of their growth, that the bureaucracy that is out of control in Washington, DC, is about to come back down to the size that it ought to be. That is a government that serves the people, not a government that rules the people.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE].

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I must say that the gentleman from Colorado has made a very valiant effort to try to justify why this should not be brought to the floor, but the bottom line is we have no choice. We know that the Republican leadership in this Congress will not schedule the minimum wage for a vote. "It is not my intention to schedule a vote on the minimum wage," said the House Republican leader, the gentleman from Texas, DICK ARMEY. This is the only way we can bring this up to the floor for a vote.

We are talking about real people and real lives here. Minimum wage workers have a very difficult time paying for groceries, paying for housing, paying for the utility bills. I think that the budget we are going to pass today is a great thing, and I will commend every one involved in it. But the bottom line is when we are talking about a minimum wage worker, that budget may be something that helps them in the long run, but they need help right now to raise their living, the amount of money they take in so they can buy food, housing, and the basic necessities of life.

Let me just say, very briefly, in my home State of New Jersey we have raised the minimum wage. It is now $5.05 an hour. This increase has been a complete success. We have increased the purchasing power of minimum wage workers and we have improved our economy with it.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would hope that the gentleman from Texas does not quite leave the floor. Why does the gentleman not put on the other side of this very nice poster, which by the way was paid for by the taxpayers, probably a couple of hundred bucks, put on the opposite side the President's statement about the minimum wage? And I am quoting Time Magazine from February 6: "It is the wrong way to raise the income of the low-wage earners."

Now let us talk. I will be very interested to see if the gentleman from Texas votes against this rule. In fact, I think there is pretty wide agreement on that side of the aisle to support this rule, because I think that side of the aisle does not want to shut down the Government. We need to get a budget to the President.

All this kind of thing is, in my personal opinion, is show and tell. It is election year. We have to expect some of that. But the fact is we have one of the most important issues of this Congress, one of the most important issues of this Congress sitting in front of us, and that is a budget bill. In order to clear the way for this budget bill we need to pass this rule, and we are going to pass this rule.

Last night this rule passed out of committee on a unanimous vote. Not one Democrat voted against it. Why? Because they understand the importance of it. They were not going to be obstructionist. We had a very good Committee on Rules last night. There was no harsh debate. There was no sneak attack, trying to bring in this minimum wage issue. There were no discussions on the tax bill that they passed 3 years ago. No. The debate up there, and it was not really a debate, the discussion in that committee was, "Hey, we have got an agreement. We are going to get an agreement on this budget. Let us move it up to the President. Let us keep the Government open. We can do it."

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Colorado talks about sneak attacks. Everybody knows that the way to get an amendment in this type of process is to defeat the previous question. This is operating according to the rules of the House. Nobody in that committee last night said they would not make a motion to defeat the previous question. We said we would vote for the rule, and that agreement still holds.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. FAZIO].

Mr. FAZIO of California. Mr. Speaker, sometimes Congress works at a glacial pace, but other times Congress can move like lightning when we choose to do it. Yesterday we passed a 1-day CR with lightning speed. It did not take any preliminary hearings.

A few weeks ago, the Republican leadership decided to schedule a vote to lift the ban on assault weapons, passed just last year. They made that decision, announced it, and voted on it within 1 week. Lightning speed. Last week, we voted on a constitutional amendment to require a supermajority vote to make changes in the Tax Code. We did not even need a committee hearing on a constitutional amendment. Lightning speed. But when it comes to providing a working wage for Americans by raising the minimum wage, it gets glacially cold around here. Paralysis sets in. Our leadership says it is not their intention to schedule a vote on the minimum wage. We cannot move. The lightning speed tends to slow down to the point where we have a glacial pace.

The Republicans have used parliamentary tactics, and now they are simply blocking a vote. Let us have one, up-or-down, on the minimum wage increase that the American people overwhelmingly support.

Mr. Speaker, what is the Republican response to our request for a simple up-or-down vote on an increase in the minimum wage: They call it—incorrectly—an unfunded mandate and invoke parliamentary procedure to prevent a vote.

They counter it with elaborate proposals for tax credits, tax incentives for businesses, assaults on labor unions, and labor law. Now they want hearings—for legislative packages—all of which are designed to put off debate and voting on an increase in the minimum wage for months—or forever.

Twelve million Americans earn $4.25 or less—73 percent of them are adults, and most of them are women. The purchasing power of the minimum wage has plummeted to a 40-year low.

A 90-cent increase proposed by the President and Democrats in the House and the Senate would provide $1,800 a year for a full-time worker. Raising the minimum wage would provide an immediate raise to more than 10 million hourly workers—and the ripple effect would assist another 3 million low-wage workers.

Some have argued that a raise in the minimum wage would have an adverse effect on business—especially small business.

But this is not just a war between working people and the business community.

Increasing the minimum wage has received wide, bipartisan support in the past—including the support of Senator DOLE and Speaker GINGRICH.

And if our local governments think this is such bad policy, why do nine States and the District of Columbia have minimum wages that exceed the Federal standard?

The fact is: Historical evidence shows us there is little or no job loss from increasing the minimum wage. We all know intuitively that business and the economy grow and flourish when people are making a living wage.

Living wages increase productivity—the unemployed are attracted off welfare, families receive health care, some of the strain of providing for their families is taken away. Democrats understand how important it is for small business to flourish.

That's where the new opportunities are being created—small business is the fuel that's driving the economic engine of recovery. That's why Democrats have supported policies such as raising the deduction for health care costs for the self-employed.

We want to keep that economic engine firing away—and we know that small business will continue to pull the major load of our economic recovery.

When Franklin D. Roosevelt first proposed a national minimum wage, he described it as a "fair day's pay for a fair day's work." Let's make the minimum wage a fair day's pay once more.

I urge defeat of the previous question.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would say to the gentleman, before he walks off the floor, I am a little mystified, I guess. He talks about how Congress works with lightning speed. The gentleman from California [Mr. FAZIO] was in the majority 2 years ago and he was in the majority for 40 years. But my first 2 years of Congress, you certainly ruled this place with an iron hand. When you wanted to, you would get something with lightning speed. Where was the minimum wage?

The second thing I would like to ask the gentleman, nobody else has done it yet, for perhaps a little explanation. The President's position was in 1995, just a year ago, as he says: "The wrong way to raise the incomes of low-wage earners is the minimum wage."

Mr. FAZIO of California. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. MCINNIS. I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. FAZIO of California. Mr. Speaker, in the last Congress we did, without one Republican vote, more to help working families through the increase in the working families' tax credit, sometimes known as the EITC. We did not have one vote from that side of the aisle to help people with families working, earning less than $27,000 a year. That used to be a bipartisan issue.

Where the Republicans decided not only to oppose the minimum wage but an increase in the earned income tax credit comes from surprises me. But perhaps at the moment we have simply to look at their proposal in lieu of a minimum wage increase, which does nothing but redistribute poverty among working families. It does not help anyone's income to go up.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I thought I would get a germane answer to my question, but I did not. Let me make the point very clearly. The gentleman's side did take a vote very clearly that did affect the working poor in this country. They raised taxes by the largest amount in the history of this country.

Mr. FAZIO of California. On the top 1 percent of all taxpayers.

Mr. MCINNIS. No; you did not. You raised the gasoline tax by 4 cents. You raised taxes on every working person in this country.

Mr. FAZIO of California. For the last 2 years, gasoline taxes were below what they were at the time we voted the tax.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Colorado controls the time.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, the fact is, the only thing they did to the working people of this country is raise taxes. But that is not the issue.

Mr. Speaker, let me go back to the gentleman from Massachusetts. The gentleman from Massachusetts has written the chairman of the Committee on Rules on a number of occasions asking the committee to comply with the rules, and he has specifically pointed out the germaneness part of it. Now, clearly, this is not germane to the issue. The issue we have today is can we pass a rule which will clear the path for a budget to get to the President so he can sign it by midnight. I think we can. I think we are going to get this rule. I think most of the Members over there are going to vote for this.

I think all of this is a diversion from the fact that finally, finally under the leadership of the Republican Party we have gotten a $23 billion reduction in spending over last year, and through the cooperation of the President in the last few days, we now have a package which will reverse spending in Washington, DC, which will demand that Government now begin to become accountable to the people which it serves. The people do not serve the Government, we serve the people, the working people out there.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. CLAY].

Mr. CLAY. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote "no" on the previous question and to support the amendment offered by my colleague, the distinguished ranking member of the Rules Committee, Mr. MOAKLEY, directing the Republicans to stop blocking the loud and clear demand of working men and women for a straightforward increase in the minimum wage.

Mr. Speaker, the House Republicans obviously have lost any sense of compassion. They have turned the minimum wage into a three-ring circus. In one ring we have 20 House Republicans proposing a $1 increase in the minimum wage; in another ring we have the Speaker stomping his feet and roaring that he will not allow a vote on the minimum wage. And, in the center ring we have Majority Leader DICK ARMEY promoting a proposal to increase the deficit by giving taxpayer subsidies to low-wage employers.

My colleagues, we don't need these legislative gimmicks. We just need fair wages. The time for a vote on a clean minimum wage increase is now. To Speaker GINGRICH, I say stop playing games and schedule a vote. Stop posturing for special interest business and schedule a vote. Thirteen million Americans who work 40 hours a week, 52 weeks a year, deserve a raise, and this Congress ought to give it to them.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I would be interested in the gentleman from Missouri, who speaks so boldly and speaks eloquently about the need for this minimum wage, I would ask: Did he sponsor a bill? At least I do not remember a bill during my first 2 years in the U.S. Congress where the gentleman sponsored it to help the working poor, and I do not remember the gentleman standing up and talking about the working poor and so on when he passed the largest tax increase in the history of this country, which included a tax on every working person or every person, certainly, that purchases fuel in this country.

The key here, Mr. Speaker, is that we need to go back to germaneness. The key issue we have here is the germaneness of the rule in front of us.

What should we be talking about? We all ought to be talking in very positive terms about this budget that we want to send to the President by midnight tonight. If we do not send it to the President, the spending authority expires. We are going to have a real problem.

You do not want to shut the Government down, or maybe some of you do want to shut the Government down, but if you do not want to shut the Government down, you need to cooperate with us on this rule. The members of the Committee on Rules, did. We had a great conversation, a great discussion last night. It was a voice vote. Not one disagreement in the committee.

Then today we come down here, and clearly we have a nongermane issue, meaning an issue that has nothing to do with the rule in front of us. I guess, Mr. Speaker, I could ask for a point of order, but then they would call it a gag order, so I guess in an election year we can expect this kind of frivolous discussion. But let us not ignore the fact we need to pass this rule. We have a great budget. It is a success. We have reduced spending in Washington. Let us get this budget to the President and let us get it signed. We can do it by midnight.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Missouri [Mr. VOLKMER].

(Mr. VOLKMER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. VOLKMER. Mr. Speaker, it is very apparent to me, listening to the debate, that the gentleman from Colorado is trying to obfuscate the real issue. We all agree that we will take up the appropriation bill that will finally fund the Government for the rest of this year. That should have been done 7 months ago, but the Republicans did not do it.

The real issue is whether we will have two things to do. One is a minimum wage, and the other is the appropriation bill. We can do both. All we have to do is defeat the previous question. We could tell Speaker GINGRICH and the gentleman from Texas, DICK ARMEY, "Sorry, boys, we are going to vote on a minimum wage in the House of Representatives. We are going to defeat the previous question." If Members are not for the minimum wage, they will vote for the previous question. If they are for the minimum wage, they will vote against the previous question. It is a very easy vote. And, by defeating the previous question, we amend the rule. The rule then passes. We have passed the appropriation bill. We send it to the President. The Government keeps on running. And soon thereafter, because of this amendment, we will be voting on a minimum wage. That is what we should be doing. What is wrong with the Speaker?

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. LEVIN].

(Mr. LEVIN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. LEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I say to the gentleman from Colorado, we are going to pass the rule, we are going to pass the bill. It reduces spending, but in a way that does not hurt children and their education, does not hurt the environment, does not hurt citizens who want security in their neighborhoods, because it does not adopt the cuts that you voted for.

We want to expand this and have a vote on the minimum wage. We will make an agreement. If the Speaker says we will have a vote, we will not oppose the previous question. But if he says we will not have one, do not say go through committee.

I want to read something from November 8, 1989. This is a statement by Mr. DOLE on the floor: "We had a White House meeting this morning, and the President asked about minimum wage and the progress it was making. I said we hoped to have it passed as early as noon or 1:00." That was Mr. DOLE in 1989. In 1996, Mr. DOLE has an option: either continue to cater to the radical right of the Republican Party or do what was done in 1989.

The minimum wage today is back where it was in 1989. We need to move ahead. You are standing there trying to divert attention. We are going to vote for the rule and the bill, but we should also bring up the minimum wage. It is of importance to the working families of this country.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1½ minutes to the gentlewoman from California [Ms. WATERS].

Ms. WATERS. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong opposition to this rule. Once again, this rule gives a clear demonstration of the priorities of NEWT GINGRICH and the Republican leadership. NEWT GINGRICH and the Republican leadership are stopping the minimum wage legislation from coming to the floor of this House.

Mr. Speaker and Members, the gentleman from Colorado keeps asking why did the Democrats not do this in the past, why did the President not say he supported it in the past. It does not matter. It should be done now. Then is then and now is now. It is time for us to step up to the plate for the workers of this country.

Besides, I think the gentleman from Colorado is off the point. Why will NEWT GINGRICH not come to this floor and tell the American people why he is standing in the way of a debate that would give a simple 90 cents per hour increase to those who make the least amount of money in this country? It is important for the American people to understand.

This is simply about whether or not we recognize that American workers are hurting, whether or not we recognize that CEO's and others are getting richer and richer while the least of these is getting worse and worse in this country. It is not about what was not done yesterday. It was not about the fact that people were afraid of the business community months ago. It is about whether or not, given he has the power, NEWT GINGRICH has the power to bring it to the floor, whether or not he is going to do it on behalf of the workers.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

First of all, I would be interested if the gentlewoman from California is out there telling the working poor that it does not matter, "It does not matter that we did not try and raise your minimum wage while we were in office. It does not matter that when we were in the majority we did not try and raise the minimum wage."

The fact is it does matter. The fact is, if you want to help the working poor of this country, do something about the taxes.

The other issue that is very important here, as the gentlewoman from California—and I will yield to the gentleman in just a minute—as the gentlewoman from California comes down here and just blasts the rule, where were you at the Rules Committee meeting last night? Not one Democrat voted against it. We had a very healthy discussion about the importance of this rule so that we can get a budget to the President by midnight tonight. I think we can do it.

One of the former speakers up here talked about how much this budget bill that we are ready to send to the President has some positive things from his point of view. I agree with him, it does have some positive things, but the positive thing to me is it cuts spending by $23 billion.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 15 seconds to the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. SANDERS].

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me the time.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is right. The minimum wage should have been raised 2 years ago, and I had a bill in to raise it to $5.50 an hour. But the fact that it was not raised then makes it more imperative that we raise it now because the purchasing power of low-wage workers has declined even more. So let us move forward today and pass a minimum wage.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. LINDER], my fellow colleague on the Committee on Rules.

Mr. LINDER. Mr. Speaker, I have been watching this debate on my television and it has degenerated for high comedy to farce.

The gentleman from Texas has decided that Americans deserve a raise and, by golly, we are going to give it to them, and that is precisely the difference between the two sides. Democrats think that politicians can determine what a person's work is worth and they will give them the raises, and we believe the marketplace works.

The gentleman from Michigan says that the minimum wage today is right where it was in 1989. Is that not interesting, when the other gentleman from Michigan, the minority whip, said that it is a 40-year low? One of them is not telling us the truth.

The fact of the matter is that this is not policy, this is politics, and it is crass politics. It is mean politics. It is using people who are right now about 3 percent of 117 million workers as pawns in a political battle to make political points.

Two years ago they could have raised the minimum wage. They did not even mention it. Robert Samuelson, in an article, points out the fact that the minimum wage is less about social policy than politics.

If you doubt that, ponder some facts gathered by New York Times reporter David Rosenbaum. With computers and other documents, he searched references made by President Clinton. In the 2 years when he controlled the House and the Senate and the White House in 1993 and 1994, guess how many times President Clinton talked about the minimum wage? You got it, zero. Zero.

This year, with Republicans in control, between the first of the year and March 11 he talked about it 47 times. The Time article by Michael Kramer—I said this earlier this morning—President Clinton said, "It is the wrong way to raise incomes of low-wage earners."

In a Wall Street Journal article, April 12, 1996: "Remember when Bill Clinton claimed he was a new Democrat precisely because he did not favor a higher minimum wage? That was 1992, the last time he was trying to give moderates a reason to entrust their vote with him."

The fact of the matter is, most of America has gotten used to this President having both sides of the issue and not knowing where he stands. They will see through this, too.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Montana [Mr. WILLIAMS].

Mr. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, during the years I have been in Congress, in fact for 50 years, without exception the majority of Republicans in the House of Representatives have been opposed to the minimum wage. Even back when economists said it did work, Republicans were opposed to it for half a century.

Now they have ridden themselves into a box canyon. Because the great majority of the American people want to raise the minimum wage in order to help the working poor, Republicans can no longer be caught being against the working poor, so they have to make a choice.

They have chosen. They have chosen to come down on the side of their friends in business and against the taxpayers. How? By freezing the minimum wage for their pals in corporations and then turning to the taxpayers and saying, "Give the working poor more money for every kid they have." So here is the working poor out of a Dickens novel coming annually to the Congress saying, "Please, may I have more? Please, Mr. Speaker, I have had another child, may I have more?"

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York [Mr. OWENS].

Mr. OWENS. Mr. Speaker, the Republicans are attacking the lowest wage earners in America, the people at the very bottom, on two fronts. First, they deny them an opportunity for an increase in the minimum wage; an in this legislation, which this rule concerns, they are attacking people and preventing them from getting an education by stealth assassination of a concept called Opportunity to Learn. They have usurped the role of the authorizing committee and they have ruled out Opportunity to Learn standards in this legislation.

Opportunity to Learn means that the Federal Government will collect information, it is all voluntary, collect information about what our school systems are doing to guarantee that children have an opportunity to learn. How are they providing decent books, decent buildings, decent science labs, qualified teachers who can teach science? How are they doing this? This is strictly voluntary.

Nevertheless, after 6 months of debate, the authorizing committee decided to do this, and now in a few meetings the conference report tells us that Opportunity to Learn standards are stricken. That is against the rules, it is illegal, but it will prevail because they have the votes.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. CLAYTON].

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, the Republicans make us talk about an issue that they say is irrelevant because they refuse to allow a full discussion about the minimum wage. Therefore, we must take this opportunity to talk about the minimum wage.

It is relevant. It is relevant to millions of Americans, their families, their mothers, who depend on the lowest of wages, and it should be relevant to you if you care about the American taxpayer.

Why should it be irrelevant? Why should we be put in such a position to beg for those who need to be concerned? You have refused to understand what it means to not have food, what it means to not have shelter, what it means not to have the basic resources to take care of your family, and yet on the other side you talk about family values. You talk about expediency. How can you not reconcile the indifference that you are showing toward the very people you say you care about?

It is relevant. It is relevant, I would say, Mr. Speaker, contrary to what the majority leader has said before.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Vermont [Mr. SANDERS].

Mr. SANDERS. Mr. Speaker, the major crisis facing our country is that more and more we are becoming a low-wage society. During the last 20 years, the real wages of American workers have declined by 16 percent, and more tragically for our young workers, the new jobs that they are getting are paying even lower wages than was the case 15 years ago.

Mr. Speaker, what is also grossly unfair is that while the vast majority of the working people become poorer, the people on top become richer, and we now have by far the most unequal distribution of wealth and income in the industrialized world. If people work 40 hours a week, they should not live in poverty. A $4.25 minimum wage is a disgrace.

Let us have the courage to do the decent thing, the right thing. Let us raise the minimum wage now. Bring that legislation to the floor.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I think it is very important. It amazes me how boldly some of the speakers we hear on that side of the aisle are talking about the working poor. Where were those kind of comments when they raised the taxes on all of the working people, not just the poor working people but the middle class and the upper, all of them?

Folks are going to be out there and are going to be paying. I do not know if any of you have been to the gas station lately, but the gas prices have really gone up. You can lay the credit of the additional taxes of 4 cents right at your feet. Most of the people that have spoken in opposition to me today voted to raise those taxes.

If you want to help the working poor of this country, if you want to help the working people of this country, quit raising taxes. Taxes are not the answer. Help us pass this rule so that we can reduce spending.

The President is ready to sign it. He is ready to reduce the spending by $23 billion. It has taken a lot of effort on our side to get that kind of compromise put together from the President. Join us. You want to help the working people, help us cut spending in Washington.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New York [Mr. ENGEL].

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, the last time I argued to raise the minimum wage on the House floor I was accused by the majority whip as being hypocritical. I would say that the only people being hypocritical here are the Republican leadership. They talk about family values, they claim to support America's workers, yet their policies are just the opposite.

The bottom line, my colleagues, is that we want a vote. Let us say it again. We want a vote, up or down, on the minimum wage. The Republican leadership is afraid to give us a vote because they know if there was a vote on the House Floor, the minimum wage would go up. It would pass. They do not want to do it. That is Republican democracy for you. Seventy-one percent of Republicans support increasing the minimum wage, and 84 percent of all Americans support increasing the minimum wage.

But yet the tyranny here of leadership will not even allow us a vote on the floor. Today's Congress Daily says House Speaker GINGRICH, who last week conceded he would allow for a vote on the minimum wage in some form, was pressured by other members of the leadership to rule out a vote. Who does the Speaker represent, the American people or the leaders?

All we are saying is that we want a vote. Again, Speaker GINGRICH conceded last week he would allow a vote. This week, he was pressured "by other members of the Republican leadership to rule out a vote, at least for the foreseeable future."

What are you afraid of, my colleagues on the other side of the aisle? Let the American people have their way. Let the Congress have their way. All we are saying is give us a vote up or down. You are blocking a vote. You cannot claim to want to help America's workers by not allowing an increase in the minimum wage. You cannot claim family values by not allowing an increase in the minimum wage. Why should someone get off welfare, as you say you want people to do, when they do get off welfare and make a minimum wage they are getting paid less than if they were on welfare?

All we are saying is people want to work, and they are at the very bottom of the economic spectrum, these are people that want to work. They do not want to collect a check. They want to work.

Pay them a decent wage. That is the American way. Wages are at a 40-year low. It is a disgrace. We demand a vote.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, it is interesting to hear kind of a show-and-tell going on here. Obviously it is an election year. The issue that is continually I think a diversionary issue, has been once again brought up by the gentleman from New York.

I think it would be interesting to see where the gentleman from New York ranks on the taxpayer ratings. I think it would be interesting to see if the gentleman from New York had a bill he sponsored to raise the minimum wage when he was in the majority. I would conclude he probably did not.

I think the important issue here, the key issue here, Mr. Speaker, is we can finally help the working poor and every working person in this country by passing this rule and passing a budget that reduces spending by $23 billion.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to my friend, the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. KINGSTON].

Mr. KINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Colorado for yielding me the time.

On the subject of the minimum wage, which of course we are talking about here, cutting spending, so the Democrats will do anything to get off a spending cut and start talking about something else. Let us talk about the minimum wage.

I know the folks over there are simply economically ignorant. I do not believe they are malicious, but you know, who do you think is going to get jobs when you eliminate the minimum wage? Or when you increase it? It is going to be good-bye teenage employment for the summer. Nobody is going to be able to get jobs. I would challenge the comrades over on the other side of the aisle, go talk to Burger King, go talk to McDonald's, go talk to any small business, go talk to a pet shop or go talk to a construction company. Ask them how many jobs they will have to eliminate when you increase the minimum wage?

If you want to show compassion, do not show compassion with 90 cents more an hour. Show compassion with a $500 per child tax credit which you fought. Show compassion to repeal the 4 cents per gallon gas tax which the President increased.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] is recognized for 1 minute.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I urge a "no" vote on the previous question. If the previous question is defeated I shall offer an amendment to the rule which would make in order a new section in the rule. This provision would direct the Committee on Rules to report a resolution immediately that would provide for consideration of a bill to incrementally increase the minimum wage from its current $4.25 an hour to $5.15 an hour beginning on July 4, 1997. This provides for a separate vote on minimum wage. It in no way slows down the continuing resolution. The Speaker and the majority leader yesterday announced that there would be no vote on the minimum wage before the election. Let me make it clear to my colleagues, both Democrats and Republicans, defeating the previous question will allow the House to vote on the minimum wage increase. This is what 80 percent of Americans want us to do. So let's do it.

I include the text of this amendment for the RECORD at this point in the debate.

Vote "no" on the previous question.

At the end of the resolution add the following new section:

"Sec. . The House of Representatives directs the Committee on Rules to report immediately a resolution providing for the consideration of a measure to increase the minimum wage to not less than $4.70 an hour during the year beginning July 4, 1996, and not less than $5.15 an hour after July 3, 1997."

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Colorado is recognized for 1¾ minutes.

Mr. MCINNIS. Mr. Speaker, I would hope that the gentleman from Massachusetts, since he will have time to prepare this amendment that he wants to put on, he would also include within that amendment, since the amendment you will be preparing is nongermane, we might as well hit the whole topic, put in a clause that reduces the gas tax by 4 cents a gallon. You did put that on every working person in America. Put in the child tax credit so we can reduce the taxes, so people do not have to work 2 hours and 45 minutes to pay their taxes every day.

The important issue here is Democrats have attempted, some, not all, have attempted to divert from the issue at hand. The issue at hand is we have a budget that is going to work, that will cut spending by the Federal Government by $23 billion. That is the largest and most significant reduction since the end of World War II.

We ought to all be happy today. We ought to be celebrating. We are going to make progress. So I would urge you support the rule.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and I move the previous question on the resolution.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on ordering the previous question.

The question was taken; and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I object to the vote on the ground that a quorum is not present and make the point of order that a quorum is not present.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Evidently a quorum is not present.

The Sergeant at Arms will notify absent Members.

The vote was taken by electronic device, and there were—yeas 220, nays 200, not voting 13, as follows:

HONORING CINDY JENSEN OF ROCKFORD, IL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. MANZULLO] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MANZULLO. Mr. Speaker, so much has been written, and so many discussions have taken place about how quickly life seems to pass us by in these modern times. We are always trying to make time for the parts of our lives we hold most precious: our families, our children, our spouses.

It is never until we are faced with our own mortality that we stop to realize the sweetest parts of our lives, a nectar that sustains us and refreshes our thirst to be connected to the human race. Life has meaning. All of our lives have meaning. We are all born and nurtured and educated for a purpose. We tend to forget that. We tend to forget that one so important lesson.

I have been reminded of this lesson by witnessing the journey of a constituent from Rockford in the 16th District of Illinois, Cindy Jensen, who for years has battled a liver disease and is now recovering from her third liver transplant in the last 4 months. She has not surrendered life during this difficult time. She has remained positive and has taken each day at a time.

Cindy has demonstrated the type of courage and faith that few of us ever experience. She and her family have allowed the people of the city of Rockford to share in her journey, not out of self-interest but to engage us in discussion of a much greater human cause—the importance of organ donation. There is no greater demonstration of the importance of life than when someone is faced with a life-threatening illness and still maintains the courage of her conviction that there is a greater good.

Cindy Jensen's purpose in life has become a mission of education. She has reminded us that we all share life.

In yesterday's Rockford Register Star, Judy Emerson distilled the soul of Cindy Jensen. I would like to share some of that essence with you. Keep in mind that these quotes came from Cindy just a week after her third liver transplant.

"There's been a good reason for all of this," Jensen said Monday.

I know that when I hear people say they never considered being a donor and now they will be. I hear people say they stopped praying and now, they pray all the time. Other people have said, "You've given me my faith back."

In spite of everything—or, maybe, because of it—her own faith remains intact.

"This liver is going to work beautifully," she said firmly on Monday. "God has brought me too far for it to be any other way."

Mr. Speaker, I include at this point in the RECORD the complete column by Judy Emerson from the April 24, 1996, Rockford Register Star:

JENSEN STAYING FOCUSED ON HER MISSION

Even if Cindy Jensen weren't a friend, I'd admire her courage. Jensen, who had a third liver transplant last week at University Hospital and Clinics in Madison, Wis., granted a television interview a few days later.

Anyone who knows Jensen knows it's not like her to go on TV without makeup. Yet there she was, lying in her hospital bed, so weak her voice was barely a whisper. Cindy will forgive me for saying it, but I've seen her looking better.

Seriously, though, it's all a part of the mission, Jensen says. Her intention in granting media access every step of the way during her ordeal was to encourage organ donation. She invited cameras into the operating room as her diseased liver was removed and replaced. When she was unable to do interviews, her daughter, Andrea, and son, David, did them. By letting the public get to know her family during Jensen's life-or-death crisis, she personalized organ donation and showed why it is so important.

How like Jensen to turn something so difficult into something positive. Her campaign to educate the public about organ donation began several years ago, when she learned she suffered from primary biliary cirrhosis, a disease that causes the liver to deteriorate and, eventually, stop functioning.

She organized an annual organ fair at CherryVale Mall, and even as her own health deteriorated, she knocked herself out to ensure the event's success. Her positive attitude and smile make it easy for her friends to forget she was sick.

Finally, her condition became critical and a transplant was absolutely necessary. She went to University Hospital Jan. 2 for the first transplant. A blocked duct kept that liver from functioning properly, and she had a second transplant in early February. That liver never worked well for some unexplained reason, and Jensen's condition was deteriorating. She needed a third transplant to live. "I was dying," Jensen said Monday from University Hospital. "I knew I was running out of time."

A week after the procedure, Jensen is convinced she got her miracle. All indications are that this liver is functioning well, said Bob Hoffmann, the hospital's procurement and preservation director.

Jensen, meanwhile, is concentrating on getting strong enough to attend her own fundraiser Sunday at the Clock Tower Resort. The event is to help cover medical expenses, which haven't been totaled yet, but are expected to be hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The $25 tickets are on sale through 5 p.m. Friday at the Clock Tower box office. The event, which begins at 4:30, features a silent auction, pasta dinner and dancing to the music of Wayward Wind.

People who can't attend the event but who want to make a contribution may send it to: Cindy Jensen Trust Fund, 5601 Knollwood Drive, Rockford, IL 61107.

"There's been a good reason for all of this," Jensen said Monday. "I know that when I hear people say they never considered being a donor and now they will be. I hear people say they stopped praying and now, they pray all the time. Other people have said, 'You've given me my faith back.'"

In spite of everything—or, maybe, because of it—her own faith remains intact.

"This liver is going to work beautifully," she said firmly on Monday. "God has brought me too far for it to be any other way."

Mr. Speaker, we come to the floor of this ennobled Chamber often more full of vitriol for our own political advantage. We seem to forget that we are not here at cross purposes, rather that we are here for a common cause. We are here because we want to create jobs. We are here because we want to lessen the tax burden on the American people. We are here because we want to balance the budget. We are here because we all want our children to grow up well educated in a safe, clean, healthy environment. There is not one of us that comes to this well or enters the doors of this House Chamber who wants anything less. We simply have differences on how to reach those common goals.

We demean ourselves with the ugliness of partisanship. We are all guilty of that from time to time. In doing so, we, too, forget what is most important about our mission here.

I have taken this time today because I think that it is imperative that we remind ourselves of what is important—selflessness, courage, and the greater good.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the House, I would like to wish a speedy recovery for Cindy Jensen.

MINIMUM WAGE NOW AT 40-YEAR LOW; AMERICA NEEDS A RAISE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas [Mr. DOGGETT] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DOGGETT. Mr. Speaker, America needs a raise. With the purchasing power of the minimum wage now approaching a 40-year low, America needs a raise. And just a few minutes ago we had an opportunity to vote on whether America should get a raise. Unfortunately, at the last minute the Gingrich leadership was able to twist enough arms, apply enough pressure, cajole enough Members, to succeed on a very narrow vote, and I think that one thing we can see from this vote, as disappointing as it is, the setback that it is to America, is that all Americans can now see that all that stands between them and this House of Representatives and a raise, all that stands between them and that raise, are 10 Republican Members and their votes, 10 Republican Members and their votes who were not willing to come forward this morning and cast a critical vote in favor of giving America a raise.

Now, what is particularly ironic about this development is the fact that there were some 15 Republican Members of this body who have already signed their name onto an increase in the minimum wage of even greater than that proposed by President Clinton, and yet those 15 Members, when they had an opportunity to come to the well of this House and cast a vote in favor of a raise for the American people, a vote that they have stood in front of the cameras and said they think the American people deserve, well, this morning they choose to vote against that raise.

It is a setback, and it is a disappointment to the people that are out there this morning working in the nursing homes, washing dishes in the back of the restaurants, cleaning our buildings, and doing the other kinds of tasks that make life possible to go forward in America, and yet receiving the lowest wage that anyone in our country receives.

But, you know, despite this temporary setback, I remain hopeful about where we are headed in this country, hopeful because of what is happening in the budget process today. You see, it was only a year ago that Republicans came to the well of this House and demanded that we terminate the COPS Program. That is the program that is designed to get 100,000 law enforcement officers into our neighborhoods, and our streets to assure the security of our families and our businesses, and they said they did not want that program anymore.

It was only 1 year ago that the Republicans came to the well of this House, and they were saying, "You know, we have got to raise the cost of going to college for those middle-class families that are working and struggling with their young people to get them through college. What we have in mind is $5,000 more for a Stafford loan for 4 years, the standard cost of a Federal loan to go to college." And the Republicans said, "We will place another obstacle in the way of those who are trying to educate their young people."

It was only 1 year ago that they were working to jeopardize the health care security of our seniors with their pay more, get less that they called a reform in the Medicare system, but to those seniors whose pocket was going to be invaded, to pay more, to get less, in their way of health care, who were going to face increases in premiums, increases in copayments, increases in deductible, it was a pretty heavy hit.

It was only 1 year ago that our Republican colleagues were here, indeed it was less than 1 year ago, demanding that we do further damage to the air and the water of this country with a series of very restrictive riders that they were placing on the Republican appropriations bill with reference to the environment. Indeed, they were working on that only within the last few weeks, and it was only 1 year ago, indeed only a few weeks ago, that Republicans were pursuing cuts in public education that in my hometown of Austin, TX, stood the costs about 2,300 of our youngest Texans, our pre-kindergarten children, to lose half of their pre-kindergarten program. It was the same kind of cutback that would have affected public education in a most detrimental way in our part of the country and really across this country.

What has happened in the course of that year? All of those mean-spirited, extremist initiatives, whether it was to permit more pollution of our air and water, to erect more obstacles to our young people with reference to their ability to get public education, to get a college education, whether it was the threat to the security of health with reference to our oldest citizens, all of those initiatives, including the one concerning putting more law enforcement officers in our neighborhoods, all of those initiatives that the Gingrich leadership declared they had to have in order to have a revolution, they have now yielded on in this new budget bill.

REPORT FROM INDIANA: MURRAY WILSON

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. MCINTOSH] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MCINTOSH. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to give my report from Indiana.

In the Second Congressional District of Indiana there are so many good people. Good people doing good things. In my book, these special individuals are Hoosier heros. Hoosier heros because they have dedicated their lives to helping others.

Mr. Speaker, Murray Wilson of Winchester, IN, is a Hoosier hero. He provides hope that one person can make a difference.

Murray Wilson has dedicated his life to raising support for local charities in his hometown. He knows in his heart that the greatest gift in life is to help others. During the day you'll find Murray washing dishes at D&J's Family Restaurant to provide for his wife, Debbie, and their 18-month-old daughter, Brittany. But his evenings are spent writing letters, rounding up pledges and championing his support drives.

Murray's efforts are sort of a legend. Ask anyone in Randolph County and they'll tell you: "Murray spends endless hours raising support for the March of Dimes, the American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society, the American Diabetes Association and the list goes on * * *."

But if you ask Murray Wilson why he has made his life-mission to raise support for charitable organizations, he'll humbly tell you, "I just like to help people." To me, Mr. Speaker, that is the true American spirit.

Reach out. Lend a helping hand. Try to make a difference.

Murray Wilson may never meet the individuals who benefit from his effort. But he knows in his heart, that he's making his community a better place by lending a helping hand for those less fortunate.

Murray Wilson continues to make a difference. And for that reason, Murray Wilson of Winchester, IN, is a Hoosier hero.

Mr. Speaker, that is my report from Indiana.

INTRODUCTION OF LEGISLATION TO REPEAL LOGGING SALVAGE RIDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from Oregon [Ms. FURSE] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. FURSE. Mr. Speaker, last July it was about 10:30 at night, and this House passed the notorious timber salvage rider. That rider was slipped onto a bill that actually gave funding to the Oklahoma bombing victims. We knew at the time, some of us, that it was a bad idea, this bill. We knew this rider was a bad idea.

Yesterday, it just got worse, much worse. Yesterday, the Ninth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the logging rider, which is called by the people of this country the lawless logging rider, that this logging rider, requires the Forest Service to immediately release for logging every timber sale ever offered in every national forest in Washington and Oregon since 1990, even though those sales were stopped because they are old growth sales in environmentally sensitive areas. Not only are they old growth sales, Mr. Speaker, but they are critical for endangered fish and wildlife.

Mr. Speaker, I want to tell people that this bill has been called the salvage rider, but let me tell the Members about some of the trees that are being cut. Some of those trees are nearly 1,000 years old. They are not salvage, they are the heritage of the people of this country. Those are trees on public land, land set aside for the people, and yet, under this lawless logging rider, under this rider, the people have been shut out. Under this rider, all laws that protect that public heritage have been suspended.

Mr. Speaker, although the Forest Service is talking about salvage, we find that in fact they are reclassifying some healthy forests as salvage. So not only is this lifting the laws, not only is this shutting out the American people, but it is also a lie, because these trees are not salvage, they are healthy.

I introduced on December 7 a repeal of the lawless logging rider, and I have been joined on a bipartisan basis by 139 cosponsors. Why did I introduce this repeal? First of all, I knew it was wrong, this bill, in the first place. But then the trees began to come down in my district. Then the letters began to pour in. I would like to mention, Mr. Speaker, some of those letters.

Here is one from a small woodland owner. He said: "I speak for a large, unheard constituency in this debate. We manage our property in a sound manner, economically and environmentally, and we object to the Government doing otherwise." He opposes the salvage rider.

Here is someone from Asheville, NC, who wrote to me and said:

Thank you for introducing the repeal of the rider. I have worked all my career as a forest entomologist. I can assure you that this bill is a Trojan horse intended to get at good timber. It has been a practice for 9 years that to get a timber operator to remove infested pine, it was tacitly agreed that he would get plenty of good timber as an incentive.

I have heard from someone who says that he is a business person: "If anyone tries to tell you that business interests oppose environmental interests, I will tell you that is old-fashioned bunk. I am a small business person and I object to the rider."

Then I got a letter from John Jonathan Alward. He said: "Please continue to fight the salvage logging law. I am a Boy Scout. I believe the law is bad because it allows logging companies to strip away the natural beauty of the Northwest."

Here is one from a grandfather, who says he is outraged, outraged that it passed last summer.

Then I have one from a 67-year-old grandmother, 40 years an Oregon resident. She says: "I love this State, and I am sickened by what Congress is allowing to happen to its natural beauty and its environment."

A biologist. This is not a special interest group, Mr. Speaker. This is the people of the United States who own this land, who own this timber. He says: "As a biologist, I am greatly concerned with the deleterious effect of the salvage rider."

So I introduced the repeal of the salvage rider. What does that mean? What does it mean to repeal the salvage rider? It means we just go back to the way it used to be with the laws that had been passed by the Congress protecting the public interest. What it means when we repeal the rider is that once again we put the law in the forest, and once again we put the public interest over the special interest. We need to protect public land. It is the American heritage. I urge my colleagues to join me in repealing the so-called salvage rider. Please support 2745. Repeal the lawless logging.

AMERICANS ARE PAYING MORE AND GETTING LESS FOR EDUCATION, ENVIRONMENTAL, AND JOB TRAINING PROGRAMS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Florida [Mr. MICA] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. MICA. Mr. Speaker, in just a few hours the House of Representatives will probably decide one of the most important questions that has faced the Nation and this Congress. I have only been here for a little over 36 months, and there are some wonderful people in the House of Representatives that I have had the opportunity to serve with. I just wanted to give my observations of where we are at this moment as we decide on a budget, which is long overdue.

Congress, in fact, has been bankrupting our Nation with good intentions from some very well-meaning and well-intended people. The debate over the past 4 months has really been the most important debate in, I think, the last 40 years.

But we have found that in this debate, if we look at what has happened, over those 40 years we have created scores and scores of programs, programs in education, programs in job training, programs in environment and so on. But this is what the debate has evolved down to.

However, the fundamental question being asked today is how effective are those programs. That is what this new majority continues to ask and has pressured to find the questions and the answers to. Mr. Speaker, for a moment Congress and the American people must really ask today are we paying more and getting less. That really is what the budget debate has been about. Let me, if I can, Mr. Speaker, just give a few examples of what the debate is about and how the American taxpayer is paying more and getting less. I have talked on the floor about these items.

First of all, Mr. Speaker, in education. The education battle is down to not just how much money we throw at education, but what the results are. Part of the debate is these 3,322 bureaucrats out of 4,876 in a Federal Department of Education, over 3,300 right down the street in Washington, earning more than most of our teachers, and most of them have never been in a classroom. This is what the debate is about, how big that bureaucracy is going to be.

The debate is about why our children cannot read, why our scores are lower, the dumbing down of the standards in this country, which are on the front page of even our periodicals.

There are Head Start Programs like in my community, where I have 25 administrators and 25 uncertified teachers, and the administrators are making double what the teachers or the aides are making in our Head Start Program; about an AmeriCorps Program the President has proposed that is a volunteer program that pays more and better benefits than we are giving our veterans, and the GAO says their finances in a year for this $1 billion project, they are already in a shambles.

Then we turn to job training, another question. Here is an article, a report from the State: $1 billion in job training in my State, and this evaluation in the last month says that we are spending $1 billion, and less than 20 percent of the students who enter these job training programs ever complete them and 19 percent ever get a job afterward. Then they get a low-paying minimal job; a total failure in job training programs. That is what this debate is about is changing these programs, improving them, so young people have an opportunity and a job.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, about the environment: Paying more and getting less. We have heard about Superfund. We have heard the President talk about this. Superfund is a great example of a good program gone bad and that we are trying to change. It was a good idea to clean up hazardous wastesites, but it is not a good idea to spend 80 percent of the money on attorneys' fees and studies. It is not a good idea to let polluters off the hook and not have them pay. It is not a good idea to have very few sites cleaned up. Only a handful of the hundreds and hundreds of sites have been cleaned up.

So these programs are failures. That is what this debate is about. It is a fundamental debate in this House, Mr. Speaker, that we clean up the act of government. We may not get another chance. Mr. Speaker, this is about paying more and getting less, whether it is in education, whether it is in the environment, or whether it is in job training. We should not pay more and get less.

THE PALESTINIAN PEOPLE SHOULD HEAR THEIR LEADERS SAY THERE IS NO ALTERNATIVE TO PEACE WITH ISRAEL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New York [Mr. ENGEL] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. ENGEL. Mr. Speaker, just yesterday the Palestinian Assembly finally took steps to amend their charter, which calls for Israel's destruction. I have been speaking about that for a number of years here on the House floor. The United States aid to the Palestinian entity, which is about a half a billion dollars, is predicated on the removal of those covenants. Just last week I took that to the House floor and said that the date, May 7, is the date by which the covenants must be amended. According to United States law that date is 2 months after the Palestinian elections.

Yesterday the Palestinian Assembly did take steps to remove the covenants. The council amends the Palestinian national covenant by canceling clauses which contradict the letters exchanged between the PLO and the Israel Government. So, in essence, the clauses which contradict the letters exchanged by the PLO and the Israeli Government are those clauses which call for the destruction of Israel.

That is a positive step, although I must say, Mr. Speaker, it would have been far better if they would have been much more explicit and explicitly mentioned the covenants which are revoked. That would have been a lot better. Still, I want to give credit where credit is due.

The second thing to which they agreed was that the Palestinian Assembly would draft a new charter within a few short months. We are going to be looking and we are going to be seeing what is the language in that charter. We want to make sure that the new charter that is drafted has language which is compatible with pursuing peace. I think that is very, very important.

Again, while I commend the Palestinian authority and commend Yasser Arafat for taking steps finally to remove the covenants which call for Israel's destruction, I want them to know that we in the United States Congress will continue to monitor the situation very closely and continue to watch the new charter which is going to be drafted by the Palestinian assembly.

We do not want double talk. The problem on the Palestinian side for too long has been doublespeak, talking out of 10 or 15 sides of their mouth. If you want peace you need to be unequivocal, you need to state that you want peace, and you need to say it both in English and in Arabic, so it is not only for American public opinion consumption but it is for the home crowd, so to speak. The Palestinian people should hear their leaders say that there is no alternative to peace with Israel. I wanted to say that.

I wanted to also comment on some of the other events in the Middle East. I found it a bit hypocritical that the U.N. Human Rights Commission in Geneva condemned Israel for the bombings in Lebanon, in a totally one-sided and ridiculous resolution, which said nothing about the Hezbollah guerillas which started this whole thing. The United States, to our credit, voted against it. There were only a handful of countries voting against it.

I thought it was especially hypocritical for the U.N. Human Rights Commission to do that, at the same time when the U.N. Human Rights Commission recommendations against the human rights abuse in China were not supported by the majority of countries voting, so it is hypocrisy, again. I think that is a bit ridiculous.

In Lebanon, Mr. Speaker, we ought to call it the way it is. That is, clearly, that the disruption and the hardship on both the Israeli population and the Lebanese population near the border rests solely with Syria, and with Hafiz al-Asad.

Syria, in essence, controls Lebanon. Lebanon has really ceased to exist as a free and independent state. There are 40,000 Syrian troops in Lebanon, and if the Syrian troops wanted to, they could control Hezbollah. They could prevent Hezbollah from wreaking havoc on Israeli civilians just south of the border.

That is what happened again and again and again during the past few weeks. No government at all can tolerate the wanton shelling of its citizens without some kind of response, and that is exactly what the Israeli Government has done. They have responded to the Hezbollah attacks.

Now, the Israeli attacks have hurt and killed civilians, and it is very, very unfortunate that civilians are maimed or killed. But it should be remembered that the Israeli troops, the Israeli attacks are going after the Hezbollah terrorists, whereas Hezbollah is specifically going after Israeli civilians.

So I say to the Syrian Government and to Mr. Assad, who talks a good game of peace but has shown absolutely zero, the nerve of him to keep our Secretary of State waiting and not to meet with Secretary Christopher. I think we will watch the events in the Middle East very, very closely, and I am glad that peace seems to be moving forward.

SUCCESSFUL END TO 1996 FISCAL YEAR

The Speaker pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I simply want to stand before the House and point out that we are on the verge of a truly historic vote here over the next couple of hours. I believe that this body, in a bipartisan manner, will vote later this afternoon to approve House Resolution 3019, which is the omnibus appropriations spending bill, and that that legislation will mark the end, the successful end to the 1996 Federal fiscal year.

What makes this such a signal event and such a historic occasion is the fact that this bill, coupled with the spending cuts that were made last year in fiscal year 1995 combined, will equal savings to the taxpayer of $32 billion, resulting in the lowest projected deficit in 14 years and the single largest cut in Government spending since World War II. So I think it is safe to say that this legislation reverses decades before of runaway Federal Government spending.

I want to point out that this legislation follows what we could have considered to be setbacks last year, the defeat in the other body, the U.S. Senate, by one vote of the constitutional balanced budget amendment; the President's veto last year of the House-Senate passed 7-year balanced budget plan. But we did not let those temporary setbacks deter from us our primary goal, which was to put the country on the path to a balanced budget in 7 years or less.

As I look down at my fellow appropriator, the gentleman from New York [Mr. FORBES], I recall that going into these budget negotiations last year we really said a couple things. One, we said the Social Security trust fund would be off-budget, now and forever. No more borrowing from the Social Security trust fund to pay for other Federal spending or to mask the true size of the Federal budget deficit.

Secondly, we said in the negotiations themselves, between the principles, we would have two conditions and two conditions only: first, the budget would have to be balanced in 7 years; and, second, we would have to balance the budget using honest numbers provided by the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office. No more budget gimmicks or smoke and mirrors.

So we have done that. In this legislation that we will be taking up within a matter of minutes now, we will have achieved and then some the first-year spending reduction targets, the first-year deficit reduction targets to put the country on a path to a balanced budget in 7 years.

But remember, colleagues, that that only deals with the one-third side of the Federal budget which is discretionary spending. We have this other two-thirds over here which is called mandatory spending, and it is the entitlement programs which have been on automatic pilot for years and growing as a result at an unsustainable rate.

Mr. Speaker, I simply want to conclude my remarks by saying that the problem with the Medicare trust funds is not going to go away. I introduce for the RECORD today two editorials that have appeared in northern California newspapers, one appearing in The New York Times' own Santa Rosa Press Democrat saying, "Politics As Usual Won't Save Medicare," and the second appearing on the more liberal editorial page of the San Francisco Chronicle, "Medicare Trust Fund Needs Swift Attention," with the excerpt, "Medicare's Hospital Trust Fund is in even worse shape than officials projected last year."

It is very clear from these editorials, from The New York Times article on February 5 of this year and then just earlier this week, April 23, that the Medicare trust fund is losing money at an alarming rate. There is clearly a trend developing here. We know from the media really, not from the Clinton administration but the media, that the Medicare trust fund lost $35.7 million last year and so far this year, in fiscal year 1996, has lost $4.2 billion.

So the point and the message here to my colleagues and to the American people is that Medicare is going broke faster than expected. The President did the wrong thing when he vetoed last year the only serious plan to reform Medicare. That is the plan that we put forward in this body and in the Senate which would have increased Medicare spending per Medicare recipient from $4,800 today to $7,300 7 years from now, increased Medicare spending, increased Medicare health care choices for Medicare recipients, and save the program from bankruptcy.

So this is a problem that is not going to go away. The program is continuing to head towards bankruptcy because the congressional Democrats and the President himself are choosing politics or playing politics instead of joining with us in a bipartisan fashion to address this very real problem.

The President should not have vetoed the Medicare Preservation Act. He should have in fact signed it. I dare say that if BOB DOLE was President, he would sign this very important legislation.

SEC. 801. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Prison Litigation Reform Act of 1995".

SEC. 802. APPROPRIATE REMEDIES FOR PRISON CONDITIONS.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Section 3626 of title 18, United States Code, is amended to read as follows:

"§3626. Appropriate remedies with respect to prison conditions

"(a) REQUIREMENTS FOR RELIEF.—

"(1) PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—(A) Prospective relief in any civil action with respect to prison conditions shall extend no further than necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right of a particular plaintiff or plaintiffs. The court shall not grant or approve any prospective relief unless the court finds that such relief is narrowly drawn, extends no further than necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right, and is the least intrusive means necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right. The court shall give substantial weight to any adverse impact on public safety or the operation of a criminal justice system caused by the relief.

“(B) The court shall not order any prospective relief that requires or permits a government official to exceed his or her authority under State or local law or otherwise violates State or local law, unless—

“(i) Federal law permits such relief to be ordered in violation of State or local law;

“(ii) the relief is necessary to correct the violation of a Federal right; and “(iii) no other relief will correct the violation of the Federal right.

“(C) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the courts, in exercising their remedial powers, to order the construction of prisons or the raising of taxes, or to repeal or detract from otherwise applicable limitations on the remedial powers of the courts.

“(2) PRELIMINARY INJUNCTIVE RELIEF.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, to the extent otherwise authorized by law, the court may enter a temporary restraining order or an order for preliminary injunctive relief. Preliminary injunctive relief must be narrowly drawn, extend no further than necessary to correct the harm the court finds requires preliminary relief, and be the least intrusive means necessary to correct that harm. The court shall give substantial weight to any adverse impact on public safety or the operation of a criminal justice system caused by the preliminary relief and shall respect the principles of comity set out in paragraph (1)(B) in tailoring any preliminary relief. Preliminary injunctive relief shall automatically expire on the date that is 90 days after its entry, unless the court makes the findings required under subsection (a)(1) for the entry of prospective relief and makes the order final before the expiration of the 90-day period.

“(3) PRISONER RELEASE ORDER.—(A) In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, no prisoner release order shall be entered unless—

“(i) a court has previously entered an order for less intrusive relief that has failed to remedy the deprivation of the Federal right sought to be remedied through the prisoner release order; and

“(ii) the defendant has had a reasonable amount of time to comply with the previous court orders.

“(B) In any civil action in Federal court with respect to prison conditions, a prisoner release order shall be entered only by a three-judge court in accordance with section 2284 of title 28, if the requirements of subparagraph (E) have been met.

“(C) A party seeking a prisoner release order in Federal court shall file with any request for such relief, a request for a three-judge court and materials sufficient to demonstrate that the requirements of subparagraph (A) have been met.

“(D) If the requirements under subparagraph (A) have been met, a Federal judge before whom a civil action with respect to prison conditions is pending who believes that a prisoner release order should be considered may sua sponte request the convening of a three-judge court to determine whether a prisoner release order should be entered.

“(E) The three-judge court shall enter a prisoner release order only if the court finds by clear and convincing evidence that—

“(i) crowding is the primary cause of the violation of a Federal right; and “(ii) no other relief will remedy the violation of the Federal right.

“(F) Any State or local official or unit of government whose jurisdiction or function includes the appropriation of funds for the construction, operation, or maintenance of program facilities, or the prosecution or custody of persons who may be released from, or not admitted to, a prison as a result of a prisoner release order shall have standing to oppose the imposition or continuation in effect of such relief and to seek termination of such relief, and shall have the right to intervene in any proceeding relating to such relief.

“(b) TERMINATION OF RELIEF.—

“(1) TERMINATION OF PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—

(A) In any civil action with respect to prison conditions in which prospective relief is ordered, such relief shall be terminable upon the motion of any party or intervenor—

“(i) 2 years after the date the court granted or approved the prospective relief;

“(ii) 1 year after the date the court has entered an order denying termination of prospective relief under this paragraph; or

“(iii) in the case of an order issued on or before the date of enactment of the Prison Litigation Reform Act, 2 years after such date of enactment.

“(B) Nothing in this section shall prevent the parties from agreeing to terminate or modify relief before the relief is terminated under subparagraph (A).

“(2) IMMEDIATE TERMINATION OF PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—

In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, a defendant or intervenor shall be entitled to the immediate termination of any prospective relief if the relief was approved or granted in the absence of a finding by the court that the relief is narrowly drawn, extends no further than necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right, and is the least intrusive means necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right.

“(3) LIMITATION.—Prospective relief shall not terminate if the court makes written findings based on the record that prospective relief remains necessary to correct a current or ongoing violation of the Federal right, extends no further than necessary to correct the violation of the Federal right, and that the prospective relief is narrowly drawn and the least intrusive means to correct the violation.

“(4) TERMINATION OR MODIFICATION OF RELIEF.—Nothing in this section shall prevent any party or intervenor from seeking modification or termination before the relief is terminable under paragraph (1) or (2), to the extent that modification or termination would otherwise be legally permissible.

“(c) SETTLEMENTS.—

“(1) CONSENT DECREES.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions, the court shall not enter or approve a consent decree unless it complies with the limitations on relief set forth in subsection (a).

“(2) PRIVATE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENTS.—(A) Nothing in this section shall preclude parties from entering into a private settlement agreement that does not comply with the limitations on relief set forth in subsection (a), if the terms of that agreement are not subject to court enforcement other than the reinstatement of the civil proceeding that the agreement settled.

“(B) Nothing in this section shall preclude any party claiming that a private settlement agreement has been breached from seeking in State court any remedy available under State law.

“(d) STATE LAW REMEDIES.—The limitations on remedies in this section shall not apply to relief entered by a State court based solely upon claims arising under State law.

“(e) PROCEDURE FOR MOTIONS AFFECTING PROSPECTIVE RELIEF.—

“(1) GENERALLY.—The court shall promptly rule on any motion to modify or terminate prospective relief in a civil action with respect to prison conditions.

“(2) AUTOMATIC STAY.—Any prospective relief subject to a pending motion shall be automatically stayed during the period—

“(A)(i) beginning on the 30th day after such motion is filed, in the case of a motion made under paragraph (1) or (2) of subsection (b); or

“(ii) beginning on the 180th day after such motion is filed, in the case of a motion made under any other law; and

“(B) ending on the date the court enters a final order ruling on the motion.

“(f) SPECIAL MASTERS.—

“(1) IN GENERAL.—(A) In any civil action in a Federal court with respect to prison conditions, the court may appoint a special master who shall be disinterested and objective and who will give due regard to the public safety, to conduct hearings on the record and prepare proposed findings of fact.

“(B) The court shall appoint a special master under this subsection during the remedial phase of the action only upon a finding that the remedial phase will be sufficiently complex to warrant the appointment.

“(2) APPOINTMENT.—(A) If the court determines that the appointment of a special master is necessary, the court shall request that the defendant institution and the plaintiff each submit a list of not more than 5 persons to serve as a special master.

“(B) Each party shall have the opportunity to remove up to 3 persons from the opposing party's list.

“(C) The court shall select the master from the persons remaining on the list after the operation of subparagraph (B).

“(3) INTERLOCUTORY APPEAL.—Any party shall have the right to an interlocutory appeal of the judge's selection of the special master under this subsection, on the ground of partiality.

“(4) COMPENSATION.—The compensation to be allowed to a special master under this section shall be based on an hourly rate not greater than the hourly rate established under section 3006A for payment of court-appointed counsel, plus costs reasonably incurred by the special master. Such compensation and costs shall be paid with funds appropriated to the Judiciary.

“(5) REGULAR REVIEW OF APPOINTMENT.—In any civil action with respect to prison conditions in which a special master is appointed under this subsection, the court shall review the appointment of the special master every 6 months to determine whether the services of the special master continue to be required under paragraph (1). In no event shall the appointment of a special master extend beyond the termination of the relief.

“(6) LIMITATIONS ON POWERS AND DUTIES.—A special master appointed under this subsection—

“(A) may be authorized by a court to conduct hearings and prepare proposed findings of fact, which shall be made on the record;

“(B) shall not make any findings or communications ex parte;

“(C) may be authorized by a court to assist in the development of remedial plans; and “(D) may be removed at any time, but shall be relieved of the appointment upon the termination of relief.

"(b) FAILURE OF STATE TO ADOPT OR ADHERE TO ADMINISTRATIVE GRIEVANCE PROCEDURE.—The failure of a State to adopt or adhere to an administrative grievance procedure shall not constitute the basis for an action under section 3 or 5 of this Act.

"(c) DISMISSAL.—(1) The court shall on its own motion or on the motion of a party dismiss any action brought with respect to prison conditions under section 1979 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (42 U.S.C. 1983), or any other Federal law, by a prisoner confined in any jail, prison, or other correctional facility if the court is satisfied that the action is frivolous, malicious, fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief.

"(2) In the event that a claim is, on its face, frivolous, malicious, fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief, the court may dismiss the underlying claim without first requiring the exhaustion of administrative remedies.

If the award of attorney's fees is not greater than 150 percent of the judgment, the excess shall be paid by the defendant.

"(3) No award of attorney's fees in an action described in paragraph (1) shall be based on an hourly rate greater than 150 percent of the hourly rate established under section 3006A of title 18, United States Code, for payment of court-appointed counsel.

Notwithstanding any other law or rule of procedure, such waiver shall not constitute an admission of the allegations contained in the complaint. (D) The President of the District of Columbia Congress of Parents and Teachers.

(E) The President of the Board of Education.

(F) The Superintendent.

(G) The Mayor and District of Columbia Council Chairman shall each name 1 nonvoting ex officio member.

(H) The Chief of the National Guard Bureau who shall be an ex officio member.

(3) TERMS OF SERVICE.—The members of the Consensus Commission shall serve for a term of 3 years.

(b) EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR.—The Consensus Commission shall have an Executive Director who shall be appointed by the Chair with the consent of the Consensus Commission. (a) PURPOSE.—The primary purpose of the Consensus Commission is to assist in developing a long-term reform plan that has the support of the District of Columbia community through the participation of representatives of various critical segments of such community in helping to develop and approve the plan.

(b) FINDINGS.—The Congress finds that—

(1) experience has shown that the failure of the District of Columbia educational system has been due more to the failure to implement a plan than the failure to develop a plan;

(2) national studies indicate that 50 percent of secondary school graduates lack basic literacy skills, and over 30 percent of the 7th grade students in the District of Columbia public schools drop out of school before graduating;

(3) standard student assessments indicate only average performance for grade level and fail to identify individual students who lack basic skills, allowing too many students to graduate lacking these basic skills and diminishing the worth of a diploma;

(4) experience has shown that successful schools have good community, parent, and business involvement;

(5) experience has shown that reducing dropout rates in the critical middle and secondary school years requires individual student involvement and attention through such activities as arts or athletics; and

(6) experience has shown that close coordination between educators and business persons is required to provide noncollege-bound students the skills necessary for employment, and that personal attention is vitally important to assist each student in developing an appropriate career path.

(2) Expenditures under this subsection for preparation of timber sales may include expenditures for Forest Service activities within the forest land management budget line item and associated timber roads, and Bureau of Land Management activities within the Oregon and California grant lands account and the forestry management area account, as determined by the Secretary concerned.

(c) Revenues received from any timber sale prepared under subsection (b) or under this subsection, minus the amounts necessary for State and local government payments and other necessary deposits, shall be deposited into the Fund from which funds were expended on such sale. Such deposited revenues shall be available for preparation of additional timber sales and completion of additional recreation projects in accordance with the requirements set forth in subsection (b).

(d) The Secretary concerned shall terminate all payments into the Agriculture Fund or the Interior Fund, and pay any unobligated funds in the affected Fund into the United States Treasury as miscellaneous receipts, whenever the Secretary concerned makes a finding, published in the Federal Register, that sales sufficient to achieve the total allowable sales quantity of the National Forest System for the Forest Service or the allowable sales level for the Oregon and California grant lands for the Bureau of Land Management, respectively, have been prepared.

(e) Any timber sales prepared and recreation projects completed under this section shall comply with all applicable environmental and natural resource laws and regulations.

(f) The Secretary concerned shall report annually to the Committees on Appropriations of the United States Senate and the House of Representatives on expenditures made from the Fund for timber sales and recreation projects, revenues received into the Fund from timber sales, and timber sale preparation and recreation project work undertaken during the previous year and projected for the next year under the Fund. Such information shall be provided for each Forest Service region and Bureau of Land Management State office.

EXTEND ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS FROM THE RESCISSION ACT

SEC. 201. (a) PUBLIC AND INDIAN HOUSING
MODERNIZATION.—

(1) EXPANSION OF USE OF MODERNIZATION FUNDING.—Subsection 14(q) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended to read as follows:

“(q)(1) In addition to the purposes enumerated in subsections (a) and (b), a public housing agency may use modernization assistance provided under section 14, and development assistance provided under section 5(a) that was not allocated, as determined by the Secretary, for priority replacement housing, for any eligible activity authorized by this section, by section 5, or by applicable Appropriations Acts for a public housing agency, including the demolition, rehabilitation, revitalization, and replacement of existing units and projects and, for up to 10 percent of its allocation of such funds in any fiscal year, for any operating subsidy purpose authorized in section 9. Except for assistance used for operating subsidy purposes under the preceding sentence, assistance provided to a public housing agency under this section shall principally be used for the physical improvement, replacement of public housing, other capital purposes, and for associated management improvements, and such other extraordinary purposes as may be approved by the Secretary. Low-income and very low-income units assisted under this paragraph shall be eligible for operating subsidies, unless the Secretary determines that such units or projects do not meet other requirements of this Act.

“(2) A public housing agency may provide assistance to developments that include units other than units assisted under this Act (except for units assisted under section 8 hereof) (‘mixed income developments’), in the form of a grant, loan, operating assistance, or other form of investment which may be made to—

“(A) a partnership, a limited liability company, or other legal entity in which the public housing agency or its affiliate is a general partner, managing member, or otherwise participates in the activities of such entity; or

“(B) any entity which grants to the public housing agency the option to purchase the development within 20 years after initial occupancy in accordance with section 42(i)(7) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

“Units shall be made available in such developments for periods of not less than 20 years, by master contract or by individual lease, for occupancy by low-income and very low-income families referred from time to time by the public housing agency. The number of such units shall be:

“(i) in the same proportion to the total number of units in such development that the total financial commitment provided by the public housing agency bears to the value of the total financial commitment in the development, or

“(ii) not be less than the number of units that could have been developed under the conventional public housing program with the assistance involved, or

“(iii) as may otherwise be approved by the Secretary.

“(3) A mixed income development may elect to have all units subject only to the applicable local real estate taxes, notwithstanding that the low-income units assisted by public housing funds would otherwise be subject to section 6(d) of the Housing Act of 1937.

“(4) If an entity that owns or operates a mixed-income project under this subsection enters into a contract with a public housing agency, the terms of which obligate the entity to operate and maintain a specified number of units in the project as public housing units in accordance with the requirements of this Act for the period required by law, such contractual terms may provide that, if, as a result of a reduction in appropriations under section 9, or any other change in applicable law, the public housing agency is unable to fulfill its contractual obligations with respect to those public housing units, that entity may deviate, under procedures and requirements developed through regulations by the Secretary, from otherwise applicable restrictions under this Act regarding rents, income eligibility, and other areas of public housing management with respect to a portion or all of those public housing units, to the extent necessary to preserve the viability of those units while maintaining the low-income character of the units, to the maximum extent practicable.”

(2) APPLICABILITY.—Section 14(q) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended by subsection (a) of this section, shall be effective only with respect to assistance provided from funds made available for fiscal year 1996 or any preceding fiscal year.

(3) APPLICABILITY TO IHAS.—In accordance with section 201(b)(2) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, the amendment made by this subsection shall apply to public housing developed or operated pursuant to a contract between the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and an Indian housing authority.

(b) ONE-FOR-ONE REPLACEMENT OF PUBLIC AND INDIAN HOUSING.—

(1) EXTENDED AUTHORITY.—Section 1002(d) of Public Law 104-19 is amended to read as follows:

“(d) Subsections (a), (b), and (c) shall be effective for applications for the demolition, disposition, or conversion to homeownership of public housing approved by the Secretary, and other consolidation and relocation activities of public housing agencies undertaken, on, before, or after September 30, 1995 and before September 30, 1996.”

(2) Section 18(f) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by adding at the end the following new sentence:

“No one may rely on the preceding sentence as the basis for reconsidering a final order of a court issued, or a settlement approved, by a court.”

(3) APPLICABILITY.—In accordance with section 201(b)(2) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, the amendments made by this subsection and by sections 1002 (a), (b), and (c) of Public Law 104-19 shall apply to public housing developed or operated pursuant to a contract between the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development and an Indian housing authority.

(4) identified as distressed housing that the public housing agency cannot assure the long-term viability as public housing through reasonable revitalization, density reduction, or achievement of a broader range of household income; and

(5) for which the estimated cost of continued operation and modernization of the developments as public housing exceeds the cost of providing tenant-based assistance under section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 for all families in occupancy, based on appropriate indicators of cost (such as the percentage of total development cost required for modernization).

(b) IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT.—

(1) STANDARDS FOR IMPLEMENTATION.—The Secretary shall establish standards to permit implementation of this section in fiscal year 1996.

(2) CONSULTATION.—Each public housing agency shall consult with the applicable public housing tenants and the unit of general local

(6) CESSATION OF UNNECESSARY SPENDING.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if, in the determination of the Secretary, a development meets or is likely to meet the criteria set forth in subsection (a), the Secretary may direct the public housing agency to cease additional spending in connection with the development, except to the extent that additional spending is necessary to ensure decent, safe, and sanitary housing until the Secretary determines or approves an appropriate course of action with respect to such development under this section.

(d) CONVERSION TO TENANT-BASED ASSISTANCE.—

(1) The Secretary shall make authority available to a public housing agency to provide tenant-based assistance pursuant to section 8 to families residing in any development that is removed from the inventory of the public housing agency and the annual contributions contract pursuant to subsection (b).

(2) Each conversion plan under subsection (c) shall—

(A) require the agency to notify families residing in the development, consistent with any guidelines issued by the Secretary governing such notifications, that the development shall be removed from the inventory of the public housing agency and the families shall receive tenant-based or project-based assistance, and to provide any necessary counseling for families; and

(B) ensure that all tenants affected by a determination under this section that a development shall be removed from the inventory of a public housing agency shall be offered tenant-based or project-based assistance and shall be relocated, as necessary, to other decent, safe, sanitary, and affordable housing which is, to the maximum extent practicable, housing of their choice.

(e) IN GENERAL.—

(1) The Secretary may require a public housing agency to provide such information as the Secretary considers necessary for the administration of this section.

(2) As used in this section, the term "development" shall refer to a project or projects, or to portions of a project or projects, as appropriate.

(3) Section 18 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 shall not apply to the demolition of developments removed from the inventory of the public housing agency under this section.

SEC. 210. (a) On and after October 1, 1995, and before October 1, 1997, the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall initiate a demonstration program with respect to multifamily projects whose owners agree to participate and whose mortgages are insured under the National Housing Act and that are assisted under section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 and whose present section 8 rents are, in the aggregate, in excess of the fair market rent of the locality in which the project is located. These programs shall be designed to test the feasibility and desirability of the goal of ensuring, to the maximum extent practicable, that the debt service and operating expenses, including adequate reserves, attributable to such multifamily projects can be supported with or without mortgage insurance under the National Housing Act and with or without above-market rents and utilizing project-based assistance or, with the consent of the property owner, tenant-based assistance, while taking into account the need for assistance of low- and very low-income families in such projects. In carrying out this demonstration, the Secretary may use arrangements with third parties, under which the Secretary may provide for the assumption by the third parties (by delegation, contract, or otherwise) of some or all of the functions, obligations, and benefits of the Secretary.

In determining the manner in which a mortgage is to be restructured or the subsidy reduced, the Secretary may balance competing goals relating to individual projects in a manner that will further the purposes of this section.

(2) DEMONSTRATION APPROACHES.—In carrying out the demonstration programs, subject to the appropriation in subsection (f), the Secretary may use one or more of the following approaches:

(B) Subsidization of the debt service of the project to a level that can be paid by an owner receiving an unsubsidized market rent.

(C) Renewal of existing project-based assistance contracts where the Secretary shall approve proposed initial rent levels that do not exceed the greater of 120 percent of fair market rents or comparable market rents for the relevant metropolitan market area or at rent levels under a budget-based approach.

(D) Nonrenewal of expiring existing project-based assistance contracts and providing tenant-based assistance to previously assisted households.

(b) For purposes of carrying out demonstration programs under subsection (a)—

(1) the Secretary may manage and dispose of multifamily properties owned by the Secretary as of October 1, 1995 and multifamily mortgages held by the Secretary as of October 1, 1995 for properties assisted under section 8 with rents above 110 percent of fair market rents without regard to any other provision of law; and

(2) the Secretary may delegate to one or more entities the authority to carry out some or all of the functions and responsibilities of the Secretary in connection with the foreclosure of mortgages held by the Secretary under the National Housing Act.

(c) For purposes of carrying out demonstration programs under subsection (a), subject to such third party consents (if any) as are necessary including but not limited to (i) consent by the Government National Mortgage Association where it owns a mortgage insured by the Secretary; (ii) consent by an issuer under the mortgage-backed securities program of the Association, subject to the responsibilities of the issuer to its security holders and the Association under such program; and (iii) parties to any contractual agreement which the Secretary proposes to modify or discontinue, and subject to the appropriation in subsection (c), the Secretary or one or more third parties designated by the Secretary may take the following actions:

SEC. 21103. Notwithstanding section 106 of Public Law 104-99, sections 118, 121, and 129 of Public Law 104-99 shall remain in effect as if enacted as part of this Act.

SEC. 21104. The quantity of such uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Secretary shall be based on a tails assay of 0.30 U<sup>235</sup>. Uranium hexafluoride transferred to the Secretary pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed under United States law for all purposes to be of Russian origin.

(2) Within 7 years of the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary shall sell, and receive payment for, the uranium hexafluoride transferred to the Secretary pursuant to paragraph (1). Such uranium hexafluoride shall be sold—

(A) at any time for use in the United States for the purpose of overfeeding;

(B) at any time for end use outside the United States;

(C) in 1995 and 1996 to the Russian Executive Agent at the purchase price for use in matched sales pursuant to the Suspension Agreement; or,

(D) in calendar year 2001 for consumption by end users in the United States not prior to January 1, 2002, in volumes not to exceed 3,000,000 pounds  $U_3O_8$  equivalent per year.

(3) With respect to all enriched uranium delivered to the United States Executive Agent under the Russian HEU Agreement on or after January 1, 1997, the United States Executive Agent shall, upon request of the Russian Executive Agent, enter into an agreement to deliver concurrently to the Russian Executive Agent an amount of uranium hexafluoride equivalent to the natural uranium component of such uranium. An agreement executed pursuant to a request of the Russian Executive Agent, as contemplated in this paragraph, may pertain to any deliveries due during any period remaining under the Russian HEU Agreement. The quantity of such uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Russian Executive Agent shall be based on a tails assay of 0.30  $U^{235}$ . Title to uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Russian Executive Agent pursuant to this paragraph shall transfer to the Russian Executive Agent upon delivery of such material to the Russian Executive Agent, with such delivery to take place at a North American facility designated by the Russian Executive Agent. Uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Russian Executive Agent pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed under U.S. law for all purposes to be of Russian origin. Such uranium hexafluoride may be sold to any person or entity for delivery and use in the United States only as permitted in subsections (b)(5), (b)(6) and (b)(7) of this section.

(4) In the event that the Russian Executive Agent does not exercise its right to enter into an agreement to take delivery of the natural uranium component of any low-enriched uranium, as contemplated in paragraph (3), within 90 days of the date such low-enriched uranium is delivered to the United States Executive Agent, or upon request of the Russian Executive Agent, then the United States Executive Agent shall engage an independent entity through a competitive selection process to auction an amount of uranium hexafluoride or  $U_3O_8$  (in the event that the conversion component of such hexafluoride has previously been sold) equivalent to the natural uranium component of such low-enriched uranium. An agreement executed pursuant to a request of the Russian Executive Agent, as contemplated in this paragraph, may pertain to any deliveries due during any period remaining under the Russian HEU Agreement. Such independent entity shall sell such uranium hexafluoride in one or more lots to any person or entity to maximize the proceeds from such sales, for disposition consistent with the limitations set forth in this subsection. The independent entity shall pay to the Russian Executive Agent the proceeds of any such auction less all reasonable transaction and other administrative costs. The quantity of such uranium hexafluoride auctioned shall be based on a tails assay of 0.30  $U^{235}$ . Title to uranium hexafluoride auctioned pursuant to this paragraph shall transfer to the buyer of such material upon delivery of such material to the buyer. Uranium hexafluoride auctioned pursuant to this paragraph shall be deemed under United States law for all purposes to be of Russian origin.

(5) Except as provided in paragraphs (6) and (7), uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Russian Executive Agent under paragraph (3) or auctioned pursuant to paragraph (4), may not be delivered for consumption by end users in the United States either directly or indirectly prior to January 1, 1998, and thereafter only in accordance with the following schedule:

(7) Uranium hexafluoride delivered to the Russian Executive Agent under paragraph (3) or auctioned pursuant to paragraph (4) may be sold at any time for use in the United States for the purpose of overfeeding in the operations of enrichment facilities.

(B) for a new capital investment, a rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration prevailing market yields, during the month preceding the beginning of the fiscal year in which the related project, facility, or separable unit or feature is placed in service, on outstanding interest-bearing obligations of the United States with periods to maturity comparable to the period between the beginning of the fiscal year and the repayment date for the new capital investment.

(b) NEW PRINCIPAL AMOUNTS.—

(1) PRINCIPAL AMOUNT.—Effective October 1, 1996, an old capital investment has a new principal amount that is the sum of—

(A) the present value of the old payment amounts for the old capital investment, calculated using a discount rate equal to the Treasury rate for the old capital investment; and

(B) an amount equal to $100,000,000 multiplied by a fraction whose numerator is the principal amount of the old payment amounts for the old capital investment and whose denominator is the sum of the principal amounts of the old payment amounts for all old capital investments.

(2) DETERMINATION.—With the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury based solely on consistency with this section, the Administrator shall determine the new principal amounts under subsection (b) and the assignment of interest rates to the new principal amounts under subsection (c).

(3) OLD PAYMENT AMOUNTS.—For the purposes of this subsection, "old payment amounts" means, for an old capital investment, the annual interest and principal that the Administrator would have paid to the United States Treasury from October 1, 1996, if this section had not been enacted, assuming that—

(c) INTEREST RATE FOR NEW PRINCIPAL AMOUNTS.—

As of October 1, 1996, the unpaid balance on the new principal amount established for an old capital investment under subsection (b) bears interest annually at the Treasury rate for the old capital investment until the earlier of the date that the new principal amount is repaid or the repayment date for the new principal amount.

(d) REPAYMENT DATES.—

As of October 1, 1996, the repayment date for the new principal amount established for an old capital investment under subsection (b) is no earlier than the repayment date for the old capital investment assumed in subsection (b)(3)(A).

(A) construction expenditures that were made from the date construction commenced through the end of the fiscal year, and

(B) accrued interest during construction.

(2) PAYMENT.—The Administrator is not required to pay, during construction of the project, facility, or separable unit or feature, the interest calculated, accrued, and capitalized under subsection (f)(1).

(3) ONE-YEAR RATE.—For the purposes of this section, "one-year rate" for a fiscal year means a rate determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration prevailing market yields, during the month preceding the beginning of the fiscal year, on outstanding interest-bearing obligations of the United States with periods to maturity of approximately one year.

(2) apart from charges necessary to repay the new principal amount of an old capital investment as established under subsection (b) and to pay the interest on the principal amount under subsection (c), no amount may be charged for return to the United States Treasury as repayment for or return on an old capital investment, whether by way of rate, rent, lease payment, assessment, user charge, or any other fee;

(3) amounts provided under section 1304 of title 31, United States Code, shall be available to pay, and shall be the sole source for payment of, a judgment against or settlement by the Administrator or the United States on a claim for a breach of the contract provisions required by this Part; and

(A) preclude the Administrator from recovering, through rates or other means, any tax that is generally imposed on electric utilities in the United States, or

(B) affect the Administrator's authority under applicable law, including section 7(g) of the Pacific Northwest Electric Power Planning and Conservation Act (16 U.S.C. 839e(g)), to—

(i) allocate costs and benefits, including but not limited to fish and wildlife costs, to rates or resources, or

(5) To ensure that debtors have all appropriate due process rights, including the ability to verify, challenge, and compromise claims, and access to administrative appeals procedures which are both reasonable and protect the interests of the United States.

(6) To encourage agencies, when appropriate, to sell delinquent debt, particularly debts with underlying collateral.

(7) To rely on the experience and expertise of private sector professionals to provide debt collection services to Federal agencies.

"(B) An agency that designates disbursing officials pursuant to section 3321(c) of this title is not required to certify claims arising out of its operations to the Secretary of the Treasury before such agency's disbursing officials offset such claims.

"(C) Payments certified by the Department of Education under a program administered by the Secretary of Education under title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 shall not be subject to administrative offset under this subsection.

"(2) Neither the disbursing official nor the payment certifying agency shall be liable—

"(A) for the amount of the administrative offset on the basis that the underlying obligation, represented by the payment before the administrative offset was taken, was not satisfied; or “(B) The Secretary of the Treasury shall exempt from administrative offset under this subsection payments under means-tested programs when requested by the head of the respective agency. The Secretary may exempt other payments from administrative offset under this subsection upon the written request of the head of a payment certifying agency. A written request for exemption of other payments must provide justification for the exemption under standards prescribed by the Secretary. Such standards shall give due consideration to whether administrative offset would tend to interfere substantially with or defeat the purposes of the payment certifying agency's program. The Secretary shall report to the Congress annually on exemptions granted under this section.

“(C) The provisions of sections 205(b)(1) and 1631(c)(1) of the Social Security Act shall not apply to any administrative offset executed pursuant to this section against benefits authorized by either title II or title XVI of the Social Security Act, respectively.

“(4) The Secretary of the Treasury may charge a fee sufficient to cover the full cost of implementing this subsection. The fee may be collected either by the retention of a portion of amounts collected pursuant to this subsection, or by billing the agency referring or transferring a claim for those amounts. “(ii) the identity of the creditor agency requesting the offset; and “(iii) a contact point within the creditor agency that will handle concerns regarding the offset.

“(B) If the payment to be offset is a periodic benefit payment, the disbursing official shall take reasonable steps, as determined by the Secretary of the Treasury, to provide the notice to the payee not later than the date on which the payee is otherwise scheduled to receive the payment, or as soon as practical thereafter, but no later than the date of the administrative offset. Notwithstanding the preceding sentence, the failure of the debtor to receive such notice shall not impair the legality of such administrative offset.

“(8) A levy pursuant to the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 shall take precedence over requests for administrative offset pursuant to other laws.

“(d) Nothing in this section is intended to prohibit the use of any other administrative offset authority existing under statute or common law.”

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing vote of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3019) making appropriations for fiscal year 1996 to make a further downpayment toward a balanced budget, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effects of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying report.

Report language included by the Senate in the report accompanying S. 1594 (S. Rept. 104–236) which is not changed by the conference are approved by the committee of conference. The statement of the managers while repeating some report language for emphasis, is not intended to negate the language referred to above unless expressly provided herein.

TITLE I—OMNIBUS APPROPRIATIONS DEPARTMENTS OF COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES

Sec. 101.(a).—The text of the language included under section 101(a) of this conference agreement represents the final agreement on appropriations for the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies for fiscal year 1996, with the exception of those Department of Justice General Provisions that were enacted into law in Public Law 104–99. It marks the end of the process that began with H.R. 2076, reported by the House Committee on Appropriations (H. Rep. 104–196) on July 19, 1995, and passed by the House on July 26, 1995. The bill was then reported by the Senate Committee on Appropriations (S. Rep. 104–139) on September 12, 1995, and passed by the Senate on September 29, 1995. The conference report (H. Rep. 104–378, * print) was filed on December 1, 1995, and adopted in the House on December 6, 1995, and in the Senate on December 7, 1995. The President vetoed the bill on December 19, 1995, and on January 3, 1996, although a majority of the House voted for the conference report, the House did not override the veto by the required two-thirds vote. Since that time, funding for many of the programs in this bill has been provided on a temporary basis, although a number of critical law enforcement, judicial, consular, diplomatic security, and small business programs were provided full-year spending authority. While this conference agreement includes the full text of the fiscal year 1996 Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies appropriations bill, with the exception noted above, much of the language is identical to the language included in the conference report on H.R. 2076. As a result, only the changes from the conference report on H.R. 2076 are addressed in the statement of managers that follows. With the exceptions that follow, the statement of managers in the conference report on H.R. 2076 (H. Rep. 104-378, * print) and the applicable portions of the House and Senate reports on H.R. 2076, remain controlling and are incorporated by reference.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

GENERAL ADMINISTRATION SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $74,282,000 for General Administration, as provided in both the House and Senate bills. The conference agreement also includes a provision that modifies the language, proposed in the House bill and not included in the Senate bill, that limits the number of positions and amounts for the Department Leadership program. The conference agreement does not limit funding under the Department Leadership program to the Offices of the Attorney General and the Deputy Attorney General, as proposed in the House bill. The Senate bill did not include this provision.

COUNTERTERRORISM FUND

The conference agreement includes $16,898,000 for the Counterterrorism Fund, as provided in both the House and Senate bills. The conferees understand that balances of $24,445,000 remain available from the 1995 Supplemental Appropriation, Public Law 104-19, for authorized purposes of this Fund. The Senate bill included a provision in Title III which designated $7,000,000 for emergency expenses to enhance Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) efforts in the United States to combat Middle Eastern terrorism, including efforts to prevent fundraising in the United States on the behalf of organizations that support terrorism to undermine the peace process. These funds would have been available only pursuant to an official budget request that declares the funds to be an emergency.

The conferees support the purposes set forth in the Senate amendment. However, the conferees have not included the emergency appropriation for the FBI proposed by the Senate because the conferees were informed that the Department of Justice did not plan to submit an emergency request for funding as required by the Senate bill and the Department of Justice currently has sufficient funding available to enhance the FBI's efforts to combat the flow of dollars to support Middle Eastern terrorism. The conferees note that there are funding balances available in the Department of Justice Counterterrorism Fund which can be applied to this effort. Accordingly, the Attorney General is directed to submit a proposal by May 15, 1996 to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations to reprogram no less than $4,000,000 in funds from the Counterterrorism Fund to enable the FBI to carry out enhanced efforts in the United States to combat Middle Eastern terrorism, and specifically to enhance FBI efforts to prevent fundraising on behalf of organizations that promote terrorism.

LEGAL ACTIVITIES

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, UNITED STATES MARSHALS SERVICE

The conferees are concerned about growing detention needs identified by the Marshals Service in many areas of the country. The conferees understand that the General Services Administration is planning a shared-use detention facility adjacent to the new courthouse in Portland, Oregon, and expect the Department of Justice to fully cooperate in this planning effort.

SALARIES AND EXPENSES, COMMUNITY RELATIONS SERVICE

The conference agreement provides $5,319,000 for the Community Relations Service (CRS) as proposed by both the House and Senate. The conferees have also agreed to include a provision added by the Senate, which allows the transfer of additional amounts, pursuant to reprogramming requirements under section 605, if the Attorney General determines that emergent circumstances require additional funding for conflict prevention and resolution activities. The language included in the Senate bill has been modified to assure that the transfer will not be subject to limitations that apply to other Department of Justice transfers.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION SALARIES AND EXPENSES (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes $2,407,483,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate. Of the amount in the House and Senate bills, $9,500,000 was provided for the FBI to purchase DNA equipment for State and local forensic laboratories. The conferees have agreed to expand the allowed use of these funds, and make up to the full $9,500,000 available for a new State Identification Grants project which would allow States to purchase computerized identification systems that are compatible and integrated with the National Crime Information Center and the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification Systems of the FBI. Funds would only be available for this new purpose upon enactment of an authorization. The Senate bill, in section 118, included the authorization and funding for this program. The House bill did not contain a provision on this matter.

The conferees have also included a technical change to clarify that funds provided for the Department of Justice Working Capital Fund to support the NCIC 2000 project are in addition to funds provided under this heading.

DRUG ENFORCEMENT ADMINISTRATION SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $810,168,000 for the salaries and expenses of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) as proposed by the Senate, instead of $805,688,000 as proposed by the House. The additional funds are to support DEA's enforcement activities on the Southwest border and in rural communities.

IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION SERVICE SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes a technical change to amounts made available through fiscal year 1997, to reflect a bipartisan, bicameral agreement with the Administration on INS training and hiring priorities for fiscal year 1996, as proposed by both the House and Senate bills. The conference agreement also corrects a technical error in the amounts allocated under the Violent Crime Reduction Trust Fund, as proposed by both the House and Senate bills.

Realignment of Border Patrol positions from interior stations.—The conferees are concerned with the manner in which INS is developing its plan to realign Border Patrol positions from the interior to the front lines of the border. In an effort to balance the goal of the Congress to add 1,000 Border Patrol agents to the front lines of the border and the concerns of the Department of Justice and INS over the ability to hire and train a growing workforce of inexperienced agents, the Committees provided resources for 800 new Border Patrol agents and the realignment of 200 Border Patrol agent positions from interior locations to the front lines of the border. On February 1, 1996, the Committees provided guidance to the Department of Justice on how INS should implement this realignment. Specifically, the Committee directed that any agent redeployment to the border should not create a void in the INS enforcement presence in interior locations and that the backfill plan for affected interior posts should include the following considerations: (1) personnel/relocation issues of agents currently occupying interior positions; (2) the appropriate mix of personnel required to maintain the current functions and activities in interior locations; and (3) the number of INS personnel in interior locations should be maintained unless local law enforcement and other elected officials have had an opportunity to review and comment on any proposed reduction in personnel at any of these posts. The conferees are aware that there is concern in some communities about the potential effect of removing a uniformed presence of immigration officers from these locations. The conferees recognize that in some interior stations, particularly those located in Southwest border States, the "mix" of personnel should not be limited to INS officers, but should be comprised of a balanced mix of both Border Patrol agents and INS officers, with each carrying out the functions for which they are trained. The conferees therefore direct INS to adjust any preliminary plans to realign all Border Patrol agent positions from any one interior location to address the need to continue the functions and activities at current levels that require uniformed Border Patrol agents. Furthermore, the conferees expect INS to submit a redeployment plan that addresses these concerns for approval by the Committees on Appropriations of both the House and Senate by May 15, 1996.

FEDERAL PRISON SYSTEM SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conferees are aware of a recent report issued by the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) which identifies serious problems with regard to the District of Columbia Department of Corrections operation of and facilities located at the Lorton Correctional Complex. Pursuant to the relevant section of the District of Columbia Appropriations Chapter, the conferees direct that the Bureau of Prisons spend $200,000 of the amount provided for the NIC to do a study, on behalf of the District of Columbia, for alternatives to correct the problems identified in the recent NIC report. The conferees direct that this plan be completed by December 31, 1996 and forwarded to the President, Congress, and the District of Columbia Financial Responsibility and Management Assistance Authority.

OFFICE OF JUSTICE PROGRAMS STATE AND LOCAL LAW ENFORCEMENT ASSISTANCE VIOLENT CRIME REDUCTION TRUST FUND PROGRAMS

Local Law Enforcement Block Grant.—The conference agreement includes $503,000,000 for the Local Law Enforcement Block Grant program, instead of $1,903,000,000 as proposed by the House and $783,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of this amount, the conference agreement provides $11,000,000 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of America, $15,000,000 for the Metropolitan Police Department in Washington, D.C. and up to $18,000,000 for drug courts subject to the reprogramming requirement in section 605. The Senate bill included $20,000,000 for the Boys and Girls Clubs of America, $20,000,000 for the Metropolitan Police Department in Washington, D.C. and $25,000,000 for drug courts. The House bill did not include separate earmarks for these programs.

As proposed in both bills, the conference agreement provides that the funding will be distributed to local governments under the allocation and purposes set forth in H.R. 728, as passed by the House of Representatives on February 14, 1995, with some modifications included in the conference report on H.R. 2076. The conferees have added language to recognize Puerto Rico as a unit of local government for the purpose of allocation of these funds and have added language prohibiting the use of grants awarded under the block grant as matching funds for any other Federal grant program.

The conferees have also agreed that the funding provided under the block grant for Boys and Girls Clubs of America is made available for the same purposes and in the same manner as funds appropriated under previous appropriations acts for the Department of Justice and will continue to be matched at no less than the same ratio to private sector funds for the establishment of new Boys and Girls Clubs. The conferees expect that this funding will provide at least 100 new Boys and Girls Clubs to serve up to 100,000 children throughout the United States.

In addition, the conferees are aware of the negative impact that the financial crisis in the Nation's Capital has had on the Metropolitan Police Department's ability to effectively fight crime and have provided $15,000,000 specifically for this purpose, in lieu of any funds that would have been available under the formula allocation of the block grant. This is of great concern to the citizens of the city, the Mayor, the District Council, the D.C. Financial Responsibility Authority and the Congress. The amounts provided are intended to support the priorities identified by the Chief of Police to supplement budgeted amounts for the MPD as part of a long-range strategy. The conferees agree that the allocation of these funds is to be made by the Chief of Police, after appropriate consultation with the Committees on Appropriations and the Committees on Judiciary of both the House and Senate. The conferees have included language requiring that these funds, as other Federal funds appropriated to the District, are to be held by the Control Authority and allocated to the MPD by the Authority, based on compliance with the Chief of Police's plan.

The conference agreement does not include $80,000,000 for the Crime Prevention Block Grant program authorized in Subtitle B of title III of the 1994 Crime Bill, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill did not include funding for this program.

COMMUNITY ORIENTED POLICING SERVICES DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Section 101(b) of H.R. 3019 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities provided for in the conference report (House Report 104-455 filed January 31, 1996) that accompanied the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1996 (H.R. 2546). The conference report was adopted in the House of Representatives on January 31, 1996, but was not voted on by the Senate because of a filibuster. The Senate voted on a motion to invoke cloture and close further debate on four separate occasions. The required 60 votes were not attained on any of those votes which occurred on February 27, 1996 (54-44); February 29, 1996 (52-42); March 5, 1996 (53-43); and March 12, 1996 (56-44). H.R. 3019 as passed the House on March 7, 1996, did not include funding for the District of Columbia government; however, the bill as passed the Senate on March 19, 1996, included the conference report (House Report 104-455) that accompanied H.R. 2546 with certain modifications that are explained later in this statement. The language and allocations set forth in House Report 104-294, Senate Report 104-144, and House Report 104-455 are to be complied with unless specifically addressed to the contrary in the accompanying bill and statement of the managers. The conference agreement also includes various technical changes to headings and section references.

D.C. CHARTERED HEALTH PLAN, INC.

The conferees note that language in section 3008 of H.R. 3019, the Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996, under the jurisdiction of the Subcommittee on the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, provides a waiver to the D.C. Chartered Health Plan, Inc., a private provider of managed health care in the District that was established in 1988 and provides health care to 40 percent of the Medicaid AFDC beneficiaries in the District.

INFANT MORTALITY

The conferees are deeply concerned that the status of infant mortality and morbidity in the Nation's Capital continues to be the poorest in the United States. The Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education and Related Agencies Appropriations Act for fiscal year 1991 (H.R. 5257) included funds in the budget for the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development (NICHD) "to conduct research on pregnancy and perinatology with special emphasis on the determinants and consequences of environmental contributions, including crack cocaine abuse, to the low birth weight and infant mortality problems in the District." (Senate Report 101-516, page 118). The report further states that "The plan should include research projects * * * and the means to contract with a local host institution to provide the clinical facilities associated infrastructure to operate them".

The conferees request that the NICHD continue its research on pregnancy and perinatology as directed in Senate Report 101-516 and conduct its study within the jurisdictional bounds of the Nation's Capital as spelled out in that report. Further, the conferees urge NICHD to solicit bids only within the District of Columbia, consistent with the intent of Congress as originally reflected in Senate Report 101-516.

D.C. CANINE FACILITY

As noted on page 120 of the conference report (House Report 104-455) that accompanied the District of Columbia Appropriations Act, 1996 (H.R. 2546), the Metropolitan Police Department has had a long-standing need to construct a modernized canine training facility at a location near D.C. Village. The funding for this project has been available for some time; however, for various reasons construction of the facility has been delayed and contract bids have been allowed to expire. The conferees have been informed that the District government has identified approximately $750,000 for construction of the facility and again is proceeding with the required contracting procedures. The schedule provided by District officials calls for the contract to be awarded in July with construction to begin immediately thereafter so that the facility can be occupied by February 1997. The conferees direct District officials to expedite this long overdue project and to immediately advise the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations of any delays. District officials are requested to provide monthly progress reports with detailed explanations for deviations from the schedule. The reports are to be provided to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the first day of each month following the enactment of this Act.

The present canine facility being used by the Metropolitan Police Department is located on property that is being transferred to the Architect of the Capitol as required by Public Law 98-340 and referenced in section 1565 of this Act. For several years the plan has been to use the existing facility, when it becomes available, for the U.S. Capitol Police who have been occupying temporary structures while waiting for the Metropolitan Police to move to their new quarters. During the transition period while the new D.C. canine facility is being constructed, the conferees believe that co-location of the Metropolitan Police and the U.S. Capitol Police canine forces is more economical than providing two separate facilities. The conferees therefore direct the Metropolitan Police Department to share the existing canine facility at D.C. Village with the U.S. Capitol Police and its canine training program. The conferees request monthly reports from both police forces on the status of this sharing arrangement. The first report is due April 30, 1996, with subsequent reports due on the last day of each month until the Metropolitan Police move into the new D.C. canine facility.

TITLE I—FISCAL YEAR 1996 APPROPRIATIONS FEDERAL CONTRIBUTION FOR EDUCATION REFORM

The conference action deletes this paragraph and the Federal appropriation of $14,930,000 instead of reallocating the low-income scholarship funding of $5,250,000 to repair, modernization, maintenance and planning consistent with subtitles A and F of title II of the bill, the August 14, 1995, recommendations of the "Superintendent's Task Force on Education Infrastructure for the 21st Century", and the June 13, 1995, "Accelerating Education Reform in the District of Columbia: Building on BESST" (which is the acronym for the Superintendent's educational reform agenda "Bringing Education Services to Students") as proposed by the Senate.

GOVERNMENTAL DIRECTION AND SUPPORT

The conference action includes a proviso transferred from the deleted paragraph "Education Reform" that directs the District government to enter into negotiations with Gallaudet University for the purpose of transferring the Hamilton Junior High School building from the District's public school system to Gallaudet. The conferees expect that such a transaction, which would require the agreement of both Gallaudet and the District government, would result in substantial proceeds being made available for improving the District's public school facilities in the same ward. The Hamilton School, which is in the midst of the Gallaudet campus, was appraised at approximately $4,000,000 in 1990, though it may be worth somewhat less at present. There is some evidence that the title to the land on which Hamilton is located is vested in the Federal government. The conferees are hopeful that a mutually satisfactory arrangement can be worked out voluntarily between the two parties, with area students the beneficiaries.

EDUCATION REFORM

The conference action deletes this paragraph which appropriated $14,930,000 from the District's general fund for Education Reform initiatives. The proviso in this paragraph relating to Gallaudet University has been transferred to the heading "Governmental Direction and Support".

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Lorton Correctional Complex.—The conference action amends section 151 of H.R. 2546 (House Report 104-455) concerning the Lorton Correctional Complex to reflect the findings of a report dated January 30, 1996, issued recently by the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) which identifies very serious problems with the operation, management, and physical plant. The amendment agreed to by the conferees addresses many of the concerns raised by the NIC report and conforms the initial language to changed timetables. Subsection (a) added by the conferees directs the NIC acting for and on behalf of the District of Columbia to hire a consultant to develop a plan for short-term improvements on a limited number of administrative and physical plant reforms that can be completed within a three to five month time-frame. The language also requires the NIC to submit their report to the President, the Congress, the Mayor, and the District of Columbia Financial Responsibility and Management Assistance Authority no later than September 30, 1996. Subsection (b) directs the NIC acting for and on behalf of the District of Columbia to hire a consultant to develop at least four optional long-term plans for the Lorton Correctional Complex, including: (1) a plan under which the Lorton Correctional Complex will be closed and inmates transferred to new facilities constructed and operated by private entities; (2) a plan under which the Lorton Correctional Complex will remain in operation under the management of the District of Columbia subject to such modification as the District considers appropriate; (3) a plan under which the Federal government will operate the Lorton Correctional Complex and the inmates will be sentenced and treated in accordance with guidelines applicable to Federal prisoners; and (4) a plan under which the Lorton Correctional Complex will be operated under private management. The language also requires the NIC to submit their report to the President, the Congress, the Mayor, and the District of Columbia Financial Responsibility and Management Assistance Authority no later than December 31, 1996.

Adoptions by unmarried couples.—The conference action deletes section 152 of H.R. 2546 (House Report 104-455) that would have prohibited adoptions by unmarried couples except in those cases where one of the individuals was the natural parent.

Chief Financial Officer powers.—The conference action inserts a new section 152 effective during fiscal years 1996 and 1997 which clarifies certain duties and responsibilities of the Chief Financial Officer to enable the CFO to exercise his authority with the independence called for under Public Law 104-8, approved April 17, 1995, which created the District of Columbia Financial Responsibility and Management Assistance Authority and established the Chief Financial Officer position. The Treasurer of the District, the Controller of the District and the head of the Office of Financial Information Services were placed under the CFO's authority by Public Law 104-8. The clarifying language places the directors of the Office of the Budget and the Department of Finance and Revenue as well as all other District of Columbia executive branch accounting, budget, and financial management personnel under the CFO's authority thereby providing the CFO with control over all financial activities of the District government as envisioned by Public Law 104-8. All of these individuals will be appointed by, serve at the pleasure of, and act under the direction and control of the CFO.

Property conveyance.—The conference action inserts a new section 156 requiring the transfer of certain property to the Architect of the Capitol. Public Law 98-340, approved July 3, 1984, provided for a multi-jurisdictional land exchange to allow the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority to complete construction of the Green Line, which was the last segment of the region's rapid rail system. This land exchange resulted from a decision to place a Metro station and parking facility across the Anacostia River near the juncture of the South Capitol Street Bridge and I-295, and involved the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, the District of Columbia, the National Park Service, and the Architect of the Capitol. The Agreement, which was entered into 12 years ago, included a commitment by the District of Columbia to transfer a portion of D.C. Village to the Architect of the Capitol in exchange for land under the Architect of the Capitol's jurisdiction that was transferred for the Metro facility. All work called for under the Agreement has been completed, including the relocation of Shepherd Parkway. The conferees have included language in section 156 of this Act which requires the District government to provide the Architect of the Capitol with a deed for the property in accordance with the Agreement not later than 30 days after the enactment of H.R. 3019.

TITLE II—DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA SCHOOL REFORM

The conference action amends the District of Columbia school reforms reflected in the conference report (House Report 104-455) on H.R. 2546, the District of Columbia Appropriations Act for fiscal year 1996, the conference agreement deletes "Subtitle C—Even Start"; "Subtitle G—Residential School"; and "Subtitle N—Low-Income Scholarships" that were included in House Report 104-455. The conference agreement incorporates the provisions of "Subtitle H—Progress Reports and Accountability" that was included in House Report 104-455 as the last two sections of subtitle A. The conference agreement also incorporates many of the provisions of "Subtitle J—Management and Fiscal Accountability" and "Subtitle K—Personal Accountability and Preservation of School-Based Resources" into various general provisions under title I. The remaining sections of subtitles J and K have been consolidated into a new "Subtitle G—Management and Fiscal Accountability; Preservation of School-Based Resources".

Recently, the Council of the District of Columbia passed D.C. Bill 11-318, the Public Charter Schools Act of 1996. On March 26, 1996, the Mayor returned the bill to the Council without his signature. In his letter the Mayor states that "The legislation creates extensive regulations for proposed charter schools without providing significant independent authority." His letter further states "In addition, proposed charter schools might not have available to them certain regional and central system support provided to other schools within the system." The conferees are committed to ensuring that charter schools become a reality in the District and have therefore included Subtitle B—Public Charter Schools, in title II of the conference agreement. This subtitle addresses the concerns expressed by the Mayor.

The conference agreement includes residential education as a program that can be provided in a public charter school and requires the District to provide the $130,000 prorata share of Public Charter School Board operating expenses for the remainder of fiscal year 1996. In addition, the conferees note that other portions of this conference agreement provide the U.S. Department of Education with additional funds to support charter school activities in the various states. The conferees intend that the Department provide the District of Columbia with appropriate financial and technical assistance to support the start-up of the Charter School Board.

The conference agreement amends "Subtitle D—World Class Schools Task Force" by changing the letter designation from "D" to "C" and including language to provide funding authorizations in fiscal year 1997. The conference agreement also makes other technical changes in dates as appropriate.

The conferees are deeply concerned about the state of the facilities in the District of Columbia public school system. Subtitle E—School Facilities Repair and Improvement, calls for the U.S. General Services Administration to provide technical assistance to the District of Columbia public schools in the development of a facilities revitalization plan. It also provides waivers to allow private companies to donate materials and services to rehabilitate school facilities. The conference agreement includes narrowly drawn waivers to ensure that private employees may donate their services. The language also ensures that employees of the District of Columbia government will not be called upon to "volunteer" to provide services for which they would be paid as a part of their employment.

The conferees encourage the District of Columbia Public Schools in their efforts to establish a residential school to serve the residents of the District of Columbia. The conferees look forward to having the thoughts and plans of the Superintendent and other school officials during consideration of the District's fiscal year 1997 budget and financial plan. Without the availability of Federal funds, the authorizing language included in the conference report (House Report 104-455) on H.R. 2546 as "Subtitle G—Residential School" has been deleted.

The conferees believe that leveraging private sector funds to provide the public schools with access to state-of-the-art technology and implementing a regional workforce training initiative are essential to creating a model public education system in the Nation's Capital. In the absence of Federal funds for fiscal year 1996, the conferees have amended the authorizations included in the conference report (House Report 104-455) on H.R. 2546 for these programs to begin in fiscal year 1997. The conference agreement deletes section 2704(e) "Professional Development Program for Teachers and Administrators" that had been included in the conference report (House Report 104-455) on H.R. 2546.

VIOLENT CRIME REDUCTION TRUST FUND PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $1,400,000,000 for Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS), instead of $975,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and no funding for this program as proposed by the House. Of the amount provided, $10,000,000 is included for the Police Corps program. The conferees have also included a technical change referencing the authorizations for the Police Corps program under the 1994 Crime Bill, as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees agree that the funding provided should be used for the purpose of providing grants which will yield at least 19,000 additional police officers on the street in order to reach the goal of 100,000 additional police officers by the year 2000 which will require similar funding levels in fiscal years 1997 through 1999 with the balance to be funded in the year 2000. The conferees note that with this funding, two years into the six-year Community Policing program, at least 45,000 police will have been hired. A clear path to achieving the mutual objective of putting more police on the street has been established. In addition, the conferees have provided $503,000,000 for the Local Law Enforcement block Grant that should provide for even more police being hired at an even faster pace.

The conferees agree that the primary objective of COPS funding is to hire new police officers in the most cost-effective manner possible. The conferees direct that, from this point forward, the COPS office use grant funds to the maximum extent possible to hire more police, and should not use these funds for non-hiring projects. Funding for these purposes, such as equipment, training and overtime, is available to localities through the Local Law Enforcement Block Grant and need not be duplicated under this program. The conferees have also included language that limits the amount spent on program management and administration to 130 positions and $14,602,000.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

The conference agreement includes the following General Provisions for the Department of Justice that were not enacted into law under Public Law 104-99. The conferees have also included language under section 616 to reinforce that the General Provisions for the Department of Justice enacted under section 211 of Public Law 104-99 shall continue to remain in effect. A Department of Justice legal opinion dated February 27, 1996, states that all the General Provisions for the Department of Justice included in the conference report on H.R. 2076, with the exception of section 114, were enacted into law under Public Law 104-99 on January 26, 1996. The Senate bill repeated all general provisions, except for sections 116 through 119 which were permanent changes to law, and the House bill did not include any of the general provisions with the exception of section 114.

The conferees note that under section 106, which is currently enacted in law, the Department of Justice was provided the authority to spend up to $10,000,000 for rewards for information regarding acts of terrorism against the United States. The conferees agree that the Attorney General, before making any international reward, should continue to consult and coordinate with the Secretary of State.

Sec. 114. The conferees have agreed to include section 114 and have revised the language proposed in the House and Senate bills which authorizes a new Violent Offender Incarceration and Truth-in-Sentencing Incentive Grants program to replace the program currently authorized in Title II of the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994. The House bill included the revised Violent Offender Incarceration and Truth-in-Sentencing Incentive Grants program as passed in the conference report on H.R. 2076. The Senate bill included a revision to the language included in the conference report on H.R. 2076.

As provided in both the House and Senate bills, the conference agreement includes $617,500,000 under the Violent Crime Reduction Programs for State and Local Law Enforcement Assistance for this provision. Of the funds provided, and after amounts allocated for incarceration for criminal aliens, the Cooperative Agreement Program and incarceration of Indians on Tribal lands, $403,875,000 is available for State Prison Grants and the administration of this program.

The conferees agree that the Violent Offender Incarceration and Truth-in-Sentencing Incentive Grants program should reward and provide an incentive to States that are taking the necessary steps to keep violent criminals off the streets. The conferees further agree that the program currently authorized in the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 fails to provide an adequate incentive for States to adopt tougher sentencing policies. The conferees are also concerned that sufficient seed money to States is needed to encourage States to adopt truth-in-sentencing. Thus, of the amount available, the conferees have agreed that 50 percent would be set aside for Truth-in-Sentencing Grants and the remaining 50 percent would be distributed as General Grants to all states that qualify. Under the revised language, States would no longer be forced to choose between mutually exclusive grant programs. States qualifying for Truth-in-Sentencing Grants would receive those funds in addition to any General Grant funds they are eligible to receive. The conferees further intend that in the future the percentage of prison grant funds dedicated to General Grants should decline in order to provide a greater incentive for States to adopt truth-in-sentencing policies.

The conferees have therefore adopted language that provides that all States that provide assurances to the Attorney General that the State has implemented, or will implement, correctional policies and programs that (a) ensure that violent offenders serve a substantial portion of the sentences imposed; (b) are designed to provide sufficiently severe punishment for violent offenders, including violent juvenile offenders; and (c) ensure that the prison time served is appropriately related to the determination that the inmate is a violent offender and for a period of time deemed necessary to protect the public, will receive "seed" funding to increase their capacity of prison space. A State will receive additional funding from General Grants if the State can demonstrate that, in addition to the above assurances, the State has (a) increased the number of persons sentenced to prison who have been arrested for violent crimes; or (b) increased the sentences of persons convicted of violent crimes or the average prison time actually served; or (c) increased by over 10 percent over the last three years the number of persons sent to prison for committing violent crime.

A State will be eligible to receive a Truth-in-Sentencing Grant in addition to General Grant funding if it is eligible for, if the State has adopted truth-in-sentencing laws which require persons sentenced to prisons for violent crimes to serve at least 85 percent of their sentence. In addition, if a State practices indeterminate sentencing, that is, a State in which the sentence imposed by the court may involve a range of imprisonment, it may be eligible to receive a Truth-in-Sentencing Grant if (1) the State has "sentencing and release guidelines" (which refers to guidelines that by law are utilized both by courts for guidance in imposing a sentence and by parole release authorities in establishing a presumptive release date when the offender has entered prison) and violent offenders serve on average not less than 85 percent of the period to the presumptive release date prescribed by these guidelines, or (2) the State demonstrates that violent offenders serve on average not less than 85 percent of the maximum prison term allowed under the sentence imposed by the court.

The revised language included in this section authorizes $10,267,600,000 for fiscal years 1996 through 2000 for States to build or expand correctional facilities for the purpose of incapacitating criminals convicted of part I violent crimes, or persons adjudicated delinquent for an act which if committed by an adult, would be a part I violent crime. It does not allow funds to be used to operate prisons as provided in the current program and it requires a ten percent match by the State instead of a 25 percent match as included in the current program. The conferees agree that in developing criteria for determining the eligibility for funding to build or expand bedspace, the Department of Justice should include a requirement that States demonstrate the ability to fully support, operate and maintain the prison for which the State is seeking construction funds.

Other provisions of the new authorization require that States share up to 15 percent of the funds received with counties and other units of local government for the construction and expansion of correctional facilities, including jails, to the extent that such units of local government house state prisoners due to States carrying out the policies of the Act. In addition, under exigent circumstances, States may also use funds to expand juvenile correctional facilities, including pretrial detention facilities and juvenile boot camps. In order to be eligible for grants, States are also required to implement policies that provide for the recognition of the rights and needs of crime victims.

In addition, of the total amount provided, $200,000,000 is available for payments to States for the incarceration of criminal aliens. The conferees intend that this funding should be merged with and administered under the State Criminal Alien Assistance Program (SCAAP), including the normal authority to utilize up to one percent of the funds for administrative purposes. The conferees expect the Department of Justice to provide these funds to eligible States in a timely manner.

Sec. 120.—The conference agreement includes a new general provision, as proposed by the Senate as section 116, which extends the Department of Justice's pilot debt collection project through September 30, 1997. The House bill did not include this provision.

Sec. 121.—The conference agreement includes a new general provision, proposed by the Senate as section 117, which amends the 1994 Crime Bill to define "educational expenses" to be funded under the Police Corps program. The conference agreement modifies the language proposed by the Senate to assure that the course of education being pursued under this program is related to law enforcement purposes. The House bill did not include this provision.

Sec. 122.—The conference agreement includes a technical correction, similar to section 109 as proposed by the Senate, to the U.S. Code citation regarding the Assets Forfeiture Fund to conform to changes enacted into law under Public Law 104-66 and Public Law 104-99 and to ensure the intended effect of these changes. The House bill did not include this technical correction.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE AND RELATED AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

TRADE AND INFRASTRUCTURE DEVELOPMENT U.S. TRAVEL AND TOURISM ADMINISTRATION

The conference agreement, like the House and Senate bills, does not include funding for the U.S. Travel and Tourism Administration. Its functions are in the process of being transferred to the International Trade Administration, and no further funding is required.

ECONOMIC AND INFORMATION INFRASTRUCTURE NATIONAL TELECOMMUNICATIONS AND INFORMATION ADMINISTRATION SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate clarifying the authority of the Secretary of Commerce to charge federal agencies for spectrum management, analysis, operations and related services, which was not addressed in the House bill, and making technical changes to language included in the House bill regarding the retention and use of all funds so collected.

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF STANDARDS AND TECHNOLOGY INDUSTRIAL TECHNOLOGY SERVICES

The conference agreement includes $301,000,000 for Industrial Technology Services, of which $80,000,000 is for the Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP) program, and of which $221,000,000 is for the Advanced Technology Program (ATP). The House bill included $80,000,000 for the MEP, and $100,000,000 in contingent appropriations for ATP. The Senate bill included $80,000,000 for MEP, and $235,000,000 in contingent appropriations for ATP.

The amount provided for ATP in this agreement represents the Commerce Department's most recent estimate of the amount required to pay for continuation grants required in fiscal year 1996 for ATP awards made in fiscal year 1995 and prior years. The conferees are agreed that the Commerce Department and NIST should accord highest priority to honoring these prior year commitments. The Department shall submit a plan indicating how it intends to spend the funds available for ATP this year within 30 days of the enactment of this Act.

The conferees remain supportive of biotechnology research and innovation centers which provide technical and financial assistance, education and training to help create and promote promising new companies. The conferees note that the Department has previously provided support for these centers in several States, including Massachusetts, and believe that such support is in keeping with the Department's mission of promoting both economic and trade opportunities. Therefore, the conferees believe that the Department should make available sufficient funds for continuing operations of these centers at levels consistent with previous years.

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC
ADMINISTRATION
(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes a direct appropriation of $1,792,677,000 for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's Operations, Research, and Facilities account, as proposed by the House, instead of $1,799,677,000 as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement does not include $7,000,000 proposed in the Senate bill for the Global Learning and Observations to Benefit the Environment program. The House bill and the conference agreement do not include funding for this program.

In addition, the following clarifications of issues in the statement of managers accompanying the conference report on H.R. 2076 are provided:

The conferees do not expect NOAA to undertake a deep ocean isolation study during fiscal year 1996.

Funds for mapping, charting, and geodesy services are to be used to acquire such services through contracts entered into with qualified private sector contractors when such contracts are the most cost-effective method of obtaining those services.

Because of the reduced funding level for the fleet and the emphasis on contracting for services, the conferees would like NOAA to submit a plan for purchases of fleet vessel equipment prior to expending funds for this purpose.

The conferees agree with language included in the Senate report on H.R. 2076 regarding NOAA utilization of the UNOLS (university) fleet for its research needs.

The conferees strongly concur with the House, Senate, and joint House/Senate conference reports to H.R. 2076 regarding NMFS and NOAA actions on sea turtle conservation and shrimp fishery issues except that the conferees direct that any revisions, if necessary, that are based on the NMFS November 14, 1994 or subsequent Biological Opinions shall include the results of the independent scientific peer review and alternatives for lessening the economic impact on the shrimp fishing industry as directed in both the House and Senate reports to H.R. 2076. Additionally, the conferees direct NMFS and the Department of Commerce to provide within 30 days of enactment of this Act a detailed written report to the Committees on Appropriations that includes: (1) the results of the independent peer review of the NMFS November 14, 1994 Biological Opinion on sea turtle conservation as directed in the conference report to H.R. 2076; (2) the findings and recommendations of the scientific expert working group directed to be established in the House and Senate reports to H.R. 2076; (3) the results of the meetings with the shrimp fishing industry and the conservation community as directed by the House and Senate reports to H.R. 2076; and (4) conclusions of the economic impact analysis directed to be completed in the House and Senate reports to H.R. 2076. The conferees are concerned that NOAA and the Department of Commerce are proceeding with additional restrictions on the shrimp fishery before the results of these analyses and reviews are completed and despite NMFS and Coast Guard data confirming that shrimp fishermen are complying with existing fishing restrictions at a 97 to 99 percent rate.

TECHNOLOGY ADMINISTRATION
OFFICE OF THE UNDER SECRETARY/OFFICE OF TECHNOLOGY POLICY
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $7,000,000 for the Office of Technology Policy, instead of $5,000,000 as proposed by the House, and $5,000,000 and an additional $2,000,000 in contingent appropriations as proposed by the Senate.

The $2,000,000 provided over the House amount, which is also $2,000,000 over the amount provided in the conference report on H.R. 2076, is to be used to support the civilian technology initiatives with which the Technology Administration is involved, including international science and technology policy assessment, industrial competitiveness studies, support for the U.S./Israel Secretariat and the National Medal of Technology. The funds are not intended to be used to supplant the need for the downsizing of employment that is nearing completion in the Technology Administration.

The Senate bill provided an additional $2,000,000 in contingent appropriations for the U.S.-Israel Science and Technology Commission, which is not included in the conference agreement. As provided in both the House and Senate reports on H.R. 2076, the Committees continue to support the U.S.-Israel Science and Technology Commission. The conferees expect the Commerce Department to provide its commitment of $2,500,000 for this program in fiscal year 1996 from within available resources, subject to the standard transfer and reprogramming procedures set forth under sections 205 and 605 of this section of the bill.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Sec. 206. The conference agreement does not include language proposed by the Senate to prohibit the use of funds by the Secretary of Commerce to issue final determinations under the Endangered Species Act. The House bill contained no provision on this matter under this Chapter. Language on this issue is not necessary under this Chapter because the issue is being addressed on a government-wide basis under the Department of Interior and Related Agencies Chapter.

Sec. 210. The conference agreement includes a modified general provision proposed by the House, but not in the Senate bill, to prohibit the use of funds to develop or implement new individual fishing quota, individual transferable quota, or individual transferable effort allocation programs until offsetting fees to pay for the cost of administering such programs are authorized. The House provision applied only to individual transferable quota programs. In addition, the conference agreement adds language not in the House bill to clarify that the restriction does not apply to any program approved prior to January 4, 1995.

Sec. 211. The conference agreement includes a general provision, similar to language proposed under title III of the Senate bill, to amend Section 308(d) of the Interjurisdictional Fisheries Act of 1986 to increase flexibility in providing grants to commercial fishermen for uninsured losses resulting from a fishery resource disaster arising from a natural disaster. The changes from the language proposed by the Senate are designed to provide further assurances that any fishing boat bought back under this program must be scrapped or otherwise disposed of in a way that prevents the boat from reentering any fishery. The House bill contained no similar provision.

Sec. 212. The conference report includes a general provision, not in either bill, giving the Secretary of Commerce authority to award contracts for mapping and charting activities in accordance with the Brooks Act, Title IX of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 541 et seq.). The statement of managers accompanying the conference report on H.R. 2076 indicated that the conferees expected NOAA to award contracts in accordance with this Act, but the Department has indicated that statutory language is required to carry out the conferees' intent.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND RELATED

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR PROGRAMS

The conference agreement, like the House and Senate versions of H.R. 3019, strikes language included in the conference report on H.R. 2076 which prohibited the extension of machine readable visa fees after April 1, 1996. In section 112 of Public Law 104-92, a full year extension of the authority to collect the fee was enacted into law.

The statement of managers in the conference agreement on H.R. 2076 (H. Rep. 104-378) contained an incorrect description of the contents of the agreement relating to funding for the Diplomatic Telecommunications Service (DTS). That conference report included language that provided $24,856,000 for DTS operation of existing base services, and not to exceed $17,144,000 for enhancements to remain available until expended, of which $9,600,000 was not to be made available until expiration of 15 days after submission of the pilot project report. The conferees have agreed to reduce the amount withheld from $9,600,000 to $2,500,000.

SECURITY AND MAINTENANCE OF UNITED STATES
MISSIONS

The conference report includes $385,760,000 for Security and Maintenance of United States Missions, as proposed in both the House and Senate bills, but does not include an additional contingent appropriation of $8,500,000 as proposed in title IV of the Senate bill.

The additional rescission in this account proposed by the Senate is addressed separately under the Rescissions section.

CONFERENCES

ORGANIZATIONS

The conference agreement includes $892,000,000 for Contributions to International Organizations, to pay the costs assessed to the United States for membership in international organizations, compared to $700,000,000 and an additional $158,000,000 in contingent appropriations in the House bill, and $700,000,000 and an additional $223,000,000 in contingent appropriations in the Senate bill.

In addition, the conference agreement includes language withholding $80,000,000 of the total provided, to be made available on a quarterly basis upon certification by the Secretary of State that the United Nations has taken no action to increase funding for any United Nations program without identifying an offsetting decrease elsewhere in the United Nations budget and cause the United Nations to exceed its no growth budget for the biennium 1996-1997 adopted in December, 1995. The House bill contained a proviso withholding one-half of the proposed contingent funding for this account until the Secretary of State certified that the United Nations had taken no action to cause it to exceed its no growth budget for the biennium 1996-1997 adopted in December, 1995. The Senate bill contained no provision on this matter.

From within the funds provided under this heading, funding is to be provided at the full fiscal year 1996 request level to the International Atomic Energy Agency, the World Trade Organization, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and the related North Atlantic Assembly. Funding is also provided at the full fiscal year 1996 request level to the United Nations to fully fund the United States commitment at the 25 percent assessment rate provided that the certifications that it is not overspending its no-growth budget are made. No funds are to be provided to the United Nations Industrial Development Organization, the Inter-American Indian Institute, the Pan American Railway Congress Association, the Permanent International Association of Road Congresses, and the World Tourism Organization. Should the requested funding level, which is provided in this conference agreement, fall short of actual assessments, the shortfall should be allocated among the remaining organizations and be prioritized according to the importance of each international organization to the national interest of the United States.

CONTRIBUTIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL PEACEKEEPING ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement includes $359,000,000 for Contributions for International Organizations, compared with $225,000,000 and an additional $2,000,000 in contingent appropriations in the House bill, and $225,000,000 and an additional $215,000,000 in contingent appropriations in the Senate bill.

In addition, the conference agreement includes a technical correction in language included in the conference report on H.R. 2076, as proposed in both the House and Senate versions of H.R. 3019.

The conference agreement retains the limitations on expenditure of these funds, as contained in both the House and Senate bills and the conference report on H.R. 2076.

RELATED AGENCIES

ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT AGENCY ARMS CONTROL AND DISARMAMENT ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement includes $38,700,000, instead of $35,700,000, as proposed by the Senate, and $32,700,000, as proposed by the House.

UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL EXCHANGE PROGRAMS

The conference agreement does not include bill language proposed by the Senate to provide $1,800,000 to the Mike Mansfield Fellowship Program. The House bill contained no provision on this matter.

While the conferees have not included the language proposed by the Senate, they have agreed that the USIA shall disburse funds in the amount of $1,800,000 to the Mansfield Center for Pacific Affairs to cover the Center's costs in fully implementing the Mike Mansfield Fellowships including the posting of seven 1995 fellows and their immediate families in Japan in order that the fellows may work in a Japanese government agency for one year, preparation and training for ten 1996 fellows, the recruitment and selection of the ten 1997 fellows, and attendant administrative costs.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND RELATED AGENCIES

Sec. 405. The conference agreement provides a full-year waiver of the limitation on operations of the Department of State, the U.S. Information Agency, and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency in the absence of an authorization, as proposed in the Senate bill. The House bill included a waiver until April 1, 1996.

The conference agreement does not include a provision, included in the Senate bill as section 407, to extend the authorization for the Au Pair program through the year 1999. The House bill contained no similar provision. This provision is not required, because a free-standing two-year authorization for the program has been enacted into law (P.L. 104-72).

Sec. 407.—The conference agreement includes language, as provided in both the House and Senate bills, to allow the Eisenhower Exchange Fellowship Program to use one-third of earned but unused trust income each year for three years beginning in fiscal year 1996.

Sec. 410.—The conference agreement includes a provision authorizing continuing contract authority for the construction of a USIA international broadcasting facility on Tinian, Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, as proposed by the Senate bill. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conferees agree that prior to the award of a contract for this facility, USIA is required to submit a final plan for this facility, including expected cost, construction time, funding requirements, and expected utilization of the facility, according to the standard reprogramming requirements of the Committees on Appropriations of the House and the Senate, the House International Relations Committee, and the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Sec. 411.—The conference agreement includes language proposed in section 3010 of the Senate bill relating to the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency that makes unexpended carryover appropriated in fiscal year 1995 for activities related to the implementation of the Chemical Weapons Convention available for ACDA operations. The House bill contained no provision on this issue.

RELATED AGENCIES

COMPETITIVENESS POLICY COUNCIL SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $50,000 for the Competitiveness Policy Council instead of $100,000 as proposed by the Senate and no funding as proposed by the House. The conference agreement also includes language stating that this is the final Federal payment to the Council. As a result, the conferees expect the Council to use the remaining funds to proceed with the orderly termination of the Council.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement provides $185,709,000 in total resources for the Federal Communications Commission, $10,000,000 more than provided in the conference report on H.R. 2076 and in the House bill, and $10,000,000 less than provided in the Senate bill. The additional $10,000,000 over the House bill is to be derived from increased fees and is being provided to the Commission to cover costs associated with implementation of the Telecommunications Act of 1996.

The conference agreement also includes bill language revisions to the FCC fee schedule relating to ten specific television broadcasting fee categories, as proposed in the Senate bill. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language, not in either the House or Senate bill, to allow the Federal Communications Commission to address an issue that appears to present unique circumstances that require immediate attention. WQED, which operates two non-commercial stations in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, has indicated it is in financial difficulty, and is seeking the opportunity to obtain a determination on an expedited basis as to whether it could convert one of its stations to a commercial station and then assign the license for the station, using the proceeds to relieve its financial difficulties. The language included in the conference report addresses this situation by assuring speedy consideration of the issue by the FCC. The language requires the FCC to make a determination on a petition submitted by WQED within 30 days, and gives the FCC the authority to provide WQED the relief it is seeking as one of the options that the FCC can consider in making its determination.

The Conference agreement does not include language proposed in the Senate bill requiring the FCC to pay the travel-related expenses of the Federal-State Joint Board on Universal Service, but the conferees expect that these expenses will be covered within the additional resources provided by the agreement. The House bill contained no similar provision.

LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION PAYMENT TO THE LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

The conference agreement provides $278,000,000 for the Legal Services Corporation, as proposed by the House, instead of $300,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. In addition, the conference agreement does not include $9,000,000 in additional contingent appropriations, as proposed by the Senate under title IV of the Senate bill.

Within the total amounts provided, the conferees agree that the funds should be distributed as follows: (1) $269,400,000 for basic field programs and required independent audits carried out in accordance with section 509; (2) $1,500,000 for the Office of Inspector General; and (3) $7,100,000 for management and administration. The conferees are aware that the Legal Services Corporation has recently identified $400,000 in prior year carry-over funds. The conferees expect the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate to be notified prior to any further expenditure of these funds in accordance with section 605 of this Act. The conference agreement does not include language, proposed by the Senate, for payment of attorneys fees for a specific civil action.

The Legal Services Corporation historically has distributed funding for basic field programs (for all eligible clients) on an equal figure per poor person based on the 1990 census, with an exception that adjusts the formula for certain isolated states and territories. The conferees are encouraged that the Corporation has worked expeditiously to distribute funding on a competitive award basis, and urge the Corporation to continue implementation of the system that has been developed to continue providing grants to all eligible populations.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS—LEGAL SERVICES CORPORATION

The conference agreement includes language proposed by the Senate under section 504 to provide an exception to the prohibition contained therein that would permit recipients of LSC grants to use funds derived from non-Federal sources to comment on public rulemakings or to respond to a written request for information or testimony from a governmental body, so long as the response is made only to the parties that make the request and the recipient does not arrange for the request to be made. The House bill contained no similar exception to the prohibition contained in the bill.

The conference agreement corrects a code citation in section 504(a)(10)(c), as proposed in the Senate bill. The House bill contained the code citation provided in the conference report on H.R. 2076.

The conference agreement includes language under section 508 to allow for the collection of attorneys fees for cases or matters pending prior to enactment of this Act. This provision does not allow the collection of attorneys fees for any new or additional claim or matter not initiated prior to enactment of this Act. Neither the House nor Senate bill contained a provision on this matter.

The conference agreement makes a modification to language included in section 508 in both the House and Senate bills to provide for a limited transition time for LSC grantees to dispose of pending cases and matters initiated prior to enactment of this Act, which would now be prohibited under this Act. The agreement provides LSC grantees until August 1, 1996 to dispose of all such cases.

The conference agreement contains modifications to language in section 509 proposed by the Senate related to the procedures by which LSC grantees are audited and the manner in which recipients contract with licensed independent certified public accountants for financial and compliance audits. Also included are modifications to language proposed by the Senate to clarify that only the Office of the Inspector General shall have oversight responsibility to ensure the quality and integrity of the financial and compliance audit process. Language is also included, as proposed by the Senate, to clarify the Corporation management's duties and responsibilities to resolve deficiencies and non-compliance reported by the Office of the Inspector General. Further, language is included, as proposed by the Senate, authorizing the Office of the Inspector General to conduct additional on-site monitoring, audits, and inspections necessary for programmatic, financial and compliance oversight. The House bill contained the provisions included in the conference report on H.R. 2076.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION COUNCIL

The conference agreement includes $1,500,000 for the Ounce of Prevention Council as proposed by the Senate. The House bill did not include funding for this organization.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 609. The conference agreement includes a general provision prohibiting use of funds to pay for expansion of diplomatic or consular operations in Vietnam unless the President certifies within 60 days that Vietnam is cooperating in full faith with the U.S. on POW/MIA issues. The conference report on H.R. 2076 and the House bill contained a provision prohibiting use of funds unless the President certifies that Vietnam is fully cooperating with the U.S. on these issues. The Senate bill did not include a provision on this matter.

Sec. 616-617. The conference agreement includes two provisions clarifying the relationship of provisions in the Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies appropriations bill to several full-year provisions provided in previous continuing resolutions and the Balanced Budget Downpayment Act, I.

The Senate bill included a provision repealing the section of the Balanced Budget Downpayment Act, I that set out the operating rates for programs funded under the Commerce, Justice, and State the Judiciary, and Related Agencies appropriations bill.

The House bill included a provision, section 105, that addressed the relationship of the provisions of this bill to previous year 1996 appropriations measures for all the appropriations bills included in H.R. 3019.

RESCISSIONS

ACQUISITION AND MAINTENANCE OF BUILDINGS ABROAD (RESCISSION)

The conference agreement includes a rescission of $64,500,000 from balances in the Acquisition and Maintenance of Buildings Abroad account, compared with a rescission of $60,000,000 included in the conference report on H.R. 2076 and proposed in the House bill and a rescission of $95,500,000 proposed in the Senate bill.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR AND RELATED AGENCIES

Section 101(c) provides fiscal year 1996 appropriations for the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies which are effective upon enactment of this Act as if it had been enacted into law as the regular appropriations Act.

The conference agreement on section 101(c) incorporates many of the provisions of the conference agreement on H.R. 1977, House Report 104-402. Report language and allocations set forth in the conference agreement on H.R. 1977 that are not changed by the conference agreement on section 101(c) of H.R. 3019 are approved by the committee of conference. The report language and allocations adopted by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977 are unchanged unless expressly provided herein.

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES

$567,453,000 is appropriated for Management of Lands and Resources instead of $568,062,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $609,000 for headquarters administration.

Bill Language. Language restricting the use of funds for the Mojave National Preserve in California has been deleted. This issue is dealt with in more detail in section 119 of this Act under the heading General Provisions, Department of the Interior.

PAYMENTS IN LIEU OF TAXES

$113,500,000 is appropriated for Payments in Lieu of Taxes instead of $101,500,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA GRANT LANDS

$97,452,000 is appropriated for Oregon and California Grant Lands instead of $93,379,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is an increase of $4,073,000 for collocation of the Oregon State office of the Bureau of Land Management with the Pacific northwest regional office of the Forest Service.

UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

$501,010,000 is appropriated for Resource Management instead of $497,943,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. Changes from the earlier agreement include a decrease of $183,000 for headquarters administration and an increase of $3,250,000 for the endangered species program.

The managers understand that the Service has been directed by the U.S. district court for the western district of Washington to finalize critical habitat designation for the marbled murrelet by May 15, 1996 and that the Department of Justice has filed a motion to stay enforcement of the order. The managers expect the Service, to the extent it proceeds with the critical habitat designation process for the marbled murrelet, to consider carefully the concerns of all interested parties including the States and private landowners. Potential economic impacts on private landowners should be fully evaluated and, to the extent practicable, every attempt should be made to ameliorate adverse impacts and use Federal lands in establishing critical habitat. If the May 15 deadline remains in effect and proves to be unrealistic, the Service should so notify the court and petition for an extension.

Bill Language. Language has been included placing a moratorium on the use of funds by the Secretaries of the Interior and Commerce for endangered species listing activities, except for delisting, reclassification and emergency listings. An earmark of $4 million is included for those activities not subject to the moratorium. The managers have also provided authority to the President to suspend the moratorium if he determines that such a suspension is appropriate based on public interest in sound environmental management, sustainable resource use, protection of national or local interests or protection of cultural, biological or historic resources. Any such suspension must be reported to the Congress.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

OPERATION OF THE NATIONAL PARK SYSTEM

$1,082,481,000 is appropriated for Operation of the National Park System instead of $1,083,151,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change to the previous agreement is a decrease of $670,000 for headquarters administration.

The managers understand that the Service and the Federal Highway Administration are in the process of realigning and widening the 15th Street corridor at Raoul Wallenberg Place in Washington, DC. The managers are aware of concerns that this effort will have a negative impact on the size and quality of the sports field located across the street from the Holocaust Memorial Museum. The managers expect the Service to provide an assessment to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations on the impact the construction of this corridor will have on said field including any alterations to the current size and quality of the playing area and an estimate of the length of time the field will remain unusable for sporting events. This assessment should also include a cost estimate for (1) preservation or realignment of the field needed to allow sports activities to continue; (2) leveling of the field and repair of the field's surface with new grass; and (3) annual maintenance of the field. This assessment should be completed as expeditiously as possible.

Bill Language. Language restricting the use of funds for the Mojave National Preserve in California has been deleted. This issue is dealt with in more detail in section 119 of this Act under the heading General Provisions, Department of the Interior.

CONSTRUCTION

The managers on the part of the House do not agree with the Senate position, expressed in a colloquy during Senate debate on H.R. 3019, with respect to the Natchez Trace Parkway.

UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY
SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

$730,163,000 is appropriated for Surveys, Investigations, and Research instead of $730,503,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $340,000 for headquarters administration.

The managers agree that, within the funds provided for natural resources research in the State of Florida, the Survey should maintain the same level of funding as was provided in fiscal year 1995 by the National Biological Service for manatee research as part of the Sirenia Project.

MINERALS MANAGEMENT SERVICE
ROYALTY AND OFFSHORE MINERALS MANAGEMENT

$182,555,000 is appropriated for Royalty and Offshore Minerals Management instead of $182,994,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $439,000 for headquarters administration.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS
OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

Bill Language. Language is included to permit the use of prior year unobligated balances for employee severance, relocation, and related expenses until September 30, 1996 instead of March 30, 1996 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977.

DEPARTMENTAL OFFICES
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

$56,912,000 is appropriated for Salaries and Expenses instead of $57,796,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $884,000 for headquarters administration in the departmental direction account. Because it is halfway through the fiscal year, the managers agree that maximum flexibility is permitted in allocating this reduction within that account.

OFFICE OF THE SOLICITOR
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

$34,427,000 is appropriated for Salaries and Expenses instead of $34,608,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $181,000 for headquarters administration.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Language is included in section 119 on the management of the Mojave National Preserve. The managers have agreed to remove the statutory restrictions on the National Park Service and the Bureau of Land Management which were included in the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The Park Service, under this provision, is permitted to manage the Preserve but limited in its management practices to those "historical management practices" of the Bureau of Land Management until the Service has completed a conceptual management plan and received approval of that plan from the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations. The provision also limits operating funds to $1,100,000 unless approval for an additional amount is obtained from the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations. The managers agree that this provision will expire on September 30, 1996. The managers have also provided authority to the President to suspend the restrictions in section 119 if he determines that such a suspension is appropriate based on public interest in sound environmental management, sustainable resource use, protection of national or local interests or protection of cultural, biological or historic resources. Any such suspension must be reported to the Congress.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

FOREST SERVICE

STATE AND PRIVATE FORESTRY

$136,884,000 is appropriated for State and Private Forestry instead of $136,794,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is an increase of $90,000 for collocation of the Oregon State office of the Bureau of Land Management with the Pacific northwest regional office of the Forest Service.

Bill Language. Earmarks $200,000 as proposed by the Senate, for a grant to the World Forestry Center for research on land exchange efforts in the Umpqua River Basin Region in Oregon.

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

$1,257,057,000 is appropriated for the National Forest System instead of $1,256,253,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is an increase of $804,000 for collocation of the Oregon State office of the Bureau of Land Management with the Pacific northwest regional office of the Forest Service.

Bill Language. The managers have not agreed to a specific dollar limitation on travel expenses within the National Forest System as proposed by the Senate.

CONSTRUCTION

$163,600,000 is appropriated for Construction instead of $163,500,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is an increase of $100,000 for collocation of the Oregon State office of the Bureau of Land Management with the Pacific northwest regional office of the Forest Service.

Bill Language. Language has been included to permit the transfer of trail construction funds, appropriated in fiscal year 1995 for the construction of the Columbia Gorge Discovery Center, to the group titled the "Non-Profit Citizens for the Columbia Gorge Discovery Center", as proposed by the Senate.

LAND ACQUISITION

$39,400,000 is appropriated for Land Acquisition instead of $41,200,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977, a reduction of $1,800,000 below the earlier agreement, including decreases of $1,700,000 for Federal land acquisition and $100,000 for acquisition management. The managers are very concerned that the Service has proceeded with specific land acquisitions this year without the approval of the House and Senate appropriations committees, and bill language has been included requiring the Service to obtain the approval of the committees before proceeding with any further land acquisitions in fiscal year 1996.

SOUTHEAST ALASKA ECONOMIC DISASTER FUND

$110,000,000 is appropriated for the Southeast Alaska Economic Disaster Fund. No funds were provided for this new account in the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. These funds are provided for grants to communities affected by the declining timber program on the Tongass National Forest. This issue is discussed in more detail in section 325 of Title III—General Provisions.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS, FOREST SERVICE

The Tongass National Forest provisions addressed under this heading in the conference agreement on H.R. 1977 have been moved to section 325 under Title III—General Provisions.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

FOSSIL ENERGY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

$417,018,000 is appropriated for Fossil Energy Research and Development instead of $417,169,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $151,000 for headquarters administration.

The managers understand that the fiscal year 1997 budget will reflect the transfer of the health and safety research programs of the Bureau of Mines to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) in the Department of Health and Human Services. The managers encouraged such a transfer in the fiscal year 1996 conference agreement on H.R. 1977 and see no reason to delay the transfer. The managers strongly encourage the Department of Energy to enter into an interagency agreement with NIOSH for the fiscal year 1996 funding. In determining the allocation of funds for the transferred functions, the managers expect the DOE and NIOSH to consider the concerns of all interested parties, including industry and labor. The managers also expect the agencies to recognize the importance of maintaining a health and safety research presence in the East and in the West.

ENERGY CONSERVATION

$553,189,000 is appropriated for Energy Conservation instead of $553,293,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is a decrease of $104,000 for headquarters administration.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICE

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICES

Bill Language. The managers have not agreed to earmark funds for inhalant abuse treatment programs as proposed by the Senate. The managers understand that the Indian Health Service provides for both direct care and referrals for adolescents afflicted with inhalant abuse problems and encourage IHS to continue to refer patients, as appropriate, for treatment of such abuse. The managers are aware of the particular expertise of the Our Home Inhalant Abuse Center, and encourage IHS to continue to refer patients to this facility, as appropriate.

OTHER RELATED AGENCIES

SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

$311,188,000 is appropriated for Salaries and Expenses instead of $308,188,000 as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. The change from the earlier agreement is an increase of $3,000,000 for voluntary separation incentive payments and other costs associated with employee separations pursuant to the authority provided for employee "buy-outs" in section 339 of this Act.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 314. Deletes the language dealing with the Interior Columbia Basin Ecosystem Management Project proposed in the conference agreement on H.R. 1977 and replaces it with a limitation on the use of funds for implementing regulations or requirements to regulate non-Federal lands with respect to this project.

Section 325. Bill language is included providing for a one-year moratorium on establishment of a new Tongass Land Management Plan for the Tongass National Forest in southeast Alaska. The moratorium would be in effect for one year after the date of enactment of this Act rather than for two fiscal years as proposed by the conference agreement on H.R. 1977. In amending or revising the current plan, the Secretary may establish habitat conservation areas, and impose any restriction or land use designations deemed appropriate, so long as the number of acres in the timber base and resulting allowable sale quantity is not less than the amounts identified in the preferred alternative (alternative P) in the October 1992 Tongass land and resource management plan. The Secretary may implement compatible standards and guidelines, as necessary, to protect habitat and preserve multiple uses of the Tongass National Forest.

The language has been augmented from the version included in H.R. 1977 to address the Administration's concerns about clearcutting. The provision makes it clear that nothing in this section shall be interpreted as mandating clearcutting or unsustainable timber harvesting. The language also makes it clear that any revision, amendment, or modification shall be based on research results obtained through the application of the scientific method and sound, verifiable scientific data. Data are sound, verifiable, and scientific only when they are collected and analyzed using the scientific method. The scientific method requires the statement of an hypothesis capable of proof or disproof; preparation of a study plan designed to collect accurate data to test the hypothesis; collection and analysis of the data in conformance with the study plan; and confirmation, modification, or denial of the hypothesis based upon peer-reviewed analysis of the collected data. The data used shall include information collected in the southeast Alaska ecosystem.

The section also includes language to allow certain timber sales, that have cleared the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and the Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act (ANILCA) review processes, to be awarded if the Forest Service determines that additional analysis under NEPA and ANILCA is not necessary.

The managers have also provided authority to the President to suspend the provisions mentioned above with respect to the Tongass National Forest in Alaska if he determines that such a suspension is appropriate based on public interest in sound environmental management or protection of cultural, biological or historic resources. Any such suspension must be reported to the Congress. Language is included to clarify that if the suspension is exercised, the duration of the suspension would not exceed the period in which the provisions of the section would otherwise be in effect.

The managers are very concerned about the negative impacts on the southeastern Alaska economy of a declining Federal timber program on the Tongass National Forest. The managers are aware of concerns that proposed modifications to the Tongass Land Management Plan give insufficient attention to the economic ramifications of a reduced timber sales program, and urge the Administration to consider strongly the socioeconomic impacts of its proposed alternatives. In implementing this section, the Forest Service shall prepare a city-by-city socioeconomic analysis of the effect of reducing the suitable timber land base or timber sales levels on the communities of southeast Alaska and on the potential of restoring a timber economy in Wrangell and Sitka.

To address these job losses and economic impacts, a new southeast Alaska disaster assistance fund totaling $110 million has been established under the Forest Service. The funds are provided as direct grants to the affected communities to employ former timber workers and for community development projects, and as direct payments in proportion to the percentage of Tongass timber receipts realized by these communities in fiscal year 1995.

The grants are provided with broad authority for the community to pursue economic and infrastructure development projects that employ displaced timber workers. This fund is intended to be an interim measure until while uncertainties with the available timber supply are resolved and a timber economy revitalized. The managers encourage the affected communities to develop comprehensive plans for how they intend to spend these funds.

The managers strongly urge the Administration to comply with the requirement of the Tongass Timber Reform Act to meet "market demand" for timber sales on the Tongass. The President may nevertheless choose to suspend this section.

The managers agree that the availability of funds from this new disaster assistance fund is contingent upon the President executing the waiver authority. In the event legislation is enacted in the future that increases the timber sales program to meet market demand on the Tongass National Forest, it would be the expectation of the managers that these funds would be no longer available.

Travel. The managers have not agreed to place a statutory limit on the use of travel funds as proposed by the House. The managers expect each agency under the jurisdiction of the Interior and Related Agencies bill to monitor carefully travel expenses and to avoid non-essential travel.

Section 336. Inserts new language placing a moratorium on the issuance of a final rule-making on jurisdiction, management and control over navigable waters in the State of Alaska with respect to subsistence fishing. The moratorium is for fiscal year 1996 rather than through May 15, 1997, as proposed by the Senate. The managers are concerned that recent court decisions place requirements on the Departments of the Interior and Agriculture to assume management authority in navigable waters and that such management could cost each agency several millions of dollars annually. In an era of declining budgets, this added burden would have an adverse impact on other important programs. The managers urge the State of Alaska and all parties involved to work toward developing a viable, long term solution to the subsistence problem. The solution should provide for State management of fish and wildlife in Alaska while protecting those who depend on subsistence resources.

Employee Details. The managers have not agreed to place a statutory limitation on the temporary detail of employees within the Department of the Interior as proposed by the House. The Department should continue to report quarterly on the use of employee details and should not use such personnel details to offset programmatic or administrative reductions.

Section 337. Directs the Department of the Interior to transfer to the Daughters of the American Colonists a plaque in the possession of the National Park Service. The Park Service currently has this plaque in storage and this provision provides for its return to the organization that originally placed the plaque on the Great Southern Hotel in Saint Louis, Missouri in 1933 to mark the site of Fort San Carlos.

Section 338. Inserts new language requiring that funds obligated for salaries and expenses of the Pennsylvania Avenue Development Corporation and for international forestry activities of the Forest Service be offset from other specified sources upon enactment of this Act.

Section 339. Provides one-time authority for the Smithsonian Institution to offer early retirement opportunities and retirement bonuses to employees through October 1, 1996.

Greens Creek Land Exchange. The managers have not agreed to bill language, proposed by the Senate in Title III, section 3015 of the Senate passed version of H.R. 3019, which would have incorporated the Greens Creek Land Exchange Act of 1996 into this Act. This legislation was signed into law (Public Law 104-123) on April 1, 1996.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR AND RELATED AGENCIES

Agency Priorities. The managers have not agreed to statutory language, proposed by the Senate in section 1203 of Title II, chapter 12, which would have mandated the allocation of emergency supplemental funds based on agency prioritization processes. The managers understand that the initial estimates of emergency requirements that have been provided are based on very preliminary information and that those initial estimates, because of time constraints, may not have included every project which needs to be addressed. The managers expect each agency to develop on-the-ground estimates of all its natural disaster related needs and to address these needs consistent with agency priorities.

Contingent Appropriations. The availability of those portions of the appropriations detailed in this chapter that are in excess of the Administration's budget request for emergency supplemental appropriations are contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as emergency requirements as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT CONSTRUCTION AND ACCESS

An additional $5,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction and Access is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,242,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $758,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA GRANT LANDS

An additional $35,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Oregon and California Grant Lands is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $19,548,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $15,452,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

An additional $1,600,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Resource Management is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of no funding as proposed by the House. The entire amount is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

CONSTRUCTION

An additional $37,300,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $20,505,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $16,795,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The managers have neither agreed to bill language, proposed by the Senate, earmarking specific funds for Devils Lake, ND nor to report language earmarking funds for other locations. The Service should carefully consider the needs at Devils Lake, ND and at Kenai, AK as it allocates funds.

NATIONAL PARK SERVICE
CONSTRUCTION

An additional $47,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $33,601,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $13,399,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY
SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

An additional $2,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Surveys, Investigations, and Research is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,176,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $824,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

BUREAU OF INDIAN AFFAIRS
OPERATION OF INDIAN PROGRAMS

An additional $500,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for the Operation of Indian Programs is made available as proposed by the House and by the Senate.

CONSTRUCTION

An additional $16,500,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $9,428,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $7,072,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

TERRITORIAL AND INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS
ASSISTANCE TO TERRITORIES

An additional $13,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Assistance to Territories is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $2,000,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $11,000,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

NATIONAL FOREST SYSTEM

An additional $26,600,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for the National Forest System is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $20,000,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount $6,600,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The managers have not agreed to bill language, proposed by the Senate, earmarking specific funds for the Amalgamated Mill site in the Willamette National Forest, OR. The Service should carefully consider the needs at this site as it allocates funds.

CONSTRUCTION

An additional $60,800,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $60,000,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $20,800,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

APPROPRIATIONS FOR THE DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES AND EDUCATION AND RELATED AGENCIES

Section 101(d) of H.R. 3019 provides appropriations for programs, projects and activities in the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1996. In implementing this agreement, the departments and agencies should comply with the language and instructions set forth in House report 104-209 and Senate reports 104-145 and 104-236. In those cases where this language and instruction specifically addresses the allocation of funds which parallels the funding levels specified in the Congressional budget justifications accompanying the fiscal year 1996 budget or the underlying authorizing statute, the conferees concur with those recommendations. With respect to the provisions in the above House and Senate reports that specifically allocate funds that are not allocated by formula in the underlying statute or identified in the budget justifications, the conferees have reviewed each and have included those in which they concur in this joint statement.

None of the appropriations provided herein are contingent upon any subsequent actions by the Congress or the President.

The Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services and Education and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, Fiscal Year 1996, put in place by this bill, incorporates the following agreements of the managers:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF LABOR
EMPLOYMENT AND TRAINING ADMINISTRATION
TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICES

The conference agreement includes $4,146,278,000, instead of $3,108,978,000 as proposed by the House and $4,322,278,000 as proposed by the Senate. The agreement includes $625,000,000 for the summer youth employment program, instead of $635,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and no funding as proposed by the House.

The conference recognizes that in many high unemployment and high poverty areas, the number of low-income youth seeking summer employment far exceeds the number of job opportunities. The conference also recognizes, however, that the current federally-funded summer jobs program has not lived up to its potential for providing meaningful work experience and teaching solid job skills to such youth. The conference is also aware that the relevant authorizing committees are developing job training reform legislation to consolidate over 90 separate programs and to block grant funds and authority to States and localities. The conference, therefore, considers funds for the fiscal year 1996 summer jobs program to be transition funding—in future years to be folded into the new consolidated block grants for at-risk youth. Governors and localities will have considerable flexibility to use these funds in subsequent years to develop meaningful programs for at-risk youth that teach youngsters job skills in demand and sound work habits; that are closely linked to the needs of employers; and that offer integrated work and academic learning opportunities to youth who demonstrate a willingness to learn and responsible behavior.

The agreement includes an amount of $2,500,000 for the fiscal year 1996 Paralympic Games, instead of $5,000,000 as proposed in the House and Senate bills. These funds will be used by the organizer of the games for the following activities prior to, during, and immediately following the games: (1) training and employment costs of volunteers working in the games; (2) training and staff costs for the days of the games; (3) training and travel for officials of the games. The grantee shall provide such information as shall be required by the Department of Labor, including a detailed statement of work and budget, and financial reports providing a breakout of the costs of the activities performed under the grant. The conferees have also provided funding for the Paralympic Games in the Department of Education and in the Social Security Administration.

The agreement includes language to permit service delivery areas to transfer funds between titles II-B and II-C of the Job Training Partnership Act, with the approval of the Governor of the State. The House and Senate bills only permitted the transfer to take place from title II-C to title II-B. In addition, the agreement permits the transfer of funds between title II-A and title III of the Act as proposed by the Senate, instead of permitting the transfer of funds between all title II programs and title III as proposed by the House.

It is the intent of the conferees that in committing National Reserve account funds appropriated under title III of the Job Training Partnership Act, the Secretary of Labor encourage Governors to contract, where possible, with the private sector for the provision of outplacement services to Federal employees seeking employment in the private sector.

The conferees have included funds to continue the National Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (NOICC) and its affiliated State committees during the anticipated transition to a new administrative structure proposed in pending authorizing legislation and urge that the Departments of Labor and Education rely on NOICC advice and personnel during this transition.

The conference agreement for the Job Training Partnership Act pilots and demonstrations maintains the current level for the Microenterprise Grants program and the American Samoan employment and training program, and includes the level recommended in the Senate report accompanying H.R. 2127 for an industrial employment program for the disabled.

COMMUNITY SERVICE EMPLOYMENT FOR OLDER AMERICANS

The conference agreement includes $373,000,000, instead of $350,000,000 as proposed by both the House and the Senate. The agreement earmarks 22 percent of the funds for the States and 78 percent for national contractors as proposed by the Senate, instead of 35 percent for the States and 65 percent for the contractors as proposed by the House.

STATE UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE AND EMPLOYMENT SERVICE OPERATIONS

The conference agreement includes $110,000,000 for the one-stop career centers program as proposed by the Senate, instead of $92,000,000 as proposed by the House.

PAYMENTS TO THE UNEMPLOYMENT TRUST FUND

(RESCISSION)

The conference agreement rescinds $266,000,000 from this account as proposed by the Senate, instead of $250,000,000 as proposed by the House.

EMPLOYMENT STANDARDS ADMINISTRATION
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $266,644,000, instead of $255,734,000 as proposed by the House and the Senate.

OCCUPATIONAL SAFETY AND HEALTH
ADMINISTRATION
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $304,984,000, instead of $280,000,000 as proposed by the House and $288,985,000 as proposed by the Senate.

It is the intent of the conferees that the Occupational Safety and Health Administration give high priority to effective voluntary cooperative efforts such as the Voluntary Protection Program.

DEPARTMENTAL MANAGEMENT
SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes $141,350,000, instead of $136,300,000 as proposed by the House and $140,380,000 as proposed by the Senate. Additional funding is provided to avoid lengthy staff furloughs in the Benefits Review Board.

The conferees have provided $8,900,000 for the Bureau of International Labor Affairs. This amount includes full funding for activities to combat international child labor problems as outlined in the Senate report on H.R. 2127.

The conferees understand that there is some question concerning the funding level for ILAB needed to avoid personnel furloughs. The conferees reiterate that they have provided transfer authority to the Secretary to deal with such exigencies and encourage him to propose reprogramming of funds if necessary to avoid furloughs.

In addition, the agreement includes language proposed by the Senate to restrict certain activities of the Office of the Solicitor and the Benefits Review Board with respect to cases under the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act. The language provides that if the Board, prior to September 12, 1996, fails to act on any Longshore decision that has been appealed to it and has been pending before it for more than 12 months, the decision shall be considered affirmed by the Board on that date and shall be considered the final order of the Board for purposes of obtaining a review in the U.S. Courts of Appeal. Further, beginning on September 13, 1996, the Board shall decide all appeals under the Longshore Act not later than one year after the appeal was filed; if the Board fails to do so, then the decision shall be considered the final order of the Board for purposes of obtaining a review in the U.S. Courts of Appeal. The petitioner has the option to continue the proceeding before the Board for a period of 60 days; if no decision is made during that time, the decision shall be considered the final order of the Board for purposes of obtaining a review in the U.S. Courts of Appeals. The House bill had no similar provision. The language is not applicable to the review of any decisions under the Black Lung Benefits Act.

The conferees intend that, to the extent possible, funding for technical assistance and training for local displaced homemaker programs should not be reduced by more than the overall percentage reduction for the Women's Bureau.

The conferees support the ongoing efforts to rid the International Brotherhood of Teamsters of organized crime influence pursuant to the consent decree. Consistent with direction provided in both the House and Senate committee reports on the fiscal year 1996 appropriations bill, the conferees provide that up to $5,600,000 of the amounts available for obligation to the Department of Labor during fiscal year 1996 may be allocated for this purpose, subject to normal reprogramming requirements of the committees.

The conferees have agreed to include a fund transfer provision (section 103) to give the Department more flexibility in managing its appropriations. However, the continuation of this provision in the future will depend on the Department's achieving and maintaining audited financial statements in accordance with the Chief Financial Officers Act of 1990 and Office of Management and Budget Bulletin No. 93-06.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement includes a general provision proposed by the House modified to set aside section 427(c) of the Job Training Partnership Act in cases where a Job Corps center does not meet national performance standards established by the Secretary. The Senate bill had no similar provision. Section 427(c) prohibits the Department of Labor from contracting with a private contractor to operate a Job Corps civilian conservation center.

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the Senate modified to prohibit the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the State programs that operate with Federal funds from promulgating or issuing any proposed or final standard or guideline with respect to ergonomic protection but permits the agency to conduct any peer-reviewed risk assessment activity regarding ergonomics. The House bill would have also prohibited the development of any standard or guideline and the recording and reporting of any occupational injuries and illnesses related to ergonomic protection.

TITLE II—DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES
ADMINISTRATION

HEALTH RESOURCES AND SERVICES

The conference agreement appropriates $3,077,857,000 instead of $3,052,752,000 as proposed by the House and $2,954,864,000 in regular funding and $55,256,000 in contingency funding as proposed by the Senate.

The conference agreement includes the legal citation for the Native Hawaiian Health Care program as proposed by the Senate. The House bill did not include the citation. The conferees have increased funding for the consolidated health centers line so that health care activities funded under the Native Hawaiian Health Care program can be supported under the broader health centers line if the agency feels it is appropriate.

The conference agreement includes an additional $62,700,000 over fiscal year 1995 for title II of the Ryan White AIDS CARE Act for a total funding level of $260,847,000. The House bill included an increase of $52,000,000 over the fiscal year 1995 level. The Senate amendment provided the additional $52,000,000 but as part of its contingent funding section. The conference agreement incorporates bill language in the Senate amendment that would make clear that the $52,000,000 is to be used for the AIDS drug assistance portion of title II and distributed according to the current formula. The conference agreement also identifies in bill language the amounts appropriated for titles I and II of the Ryan White AIDS CARE Act as provided in the House bill.

The conference agreement does not include $3,256,000 in contingency funding for the National Health Service Corps (NHSC) as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement provides $115,745,000 in non-contingent funding. The House bill did not include contingent funding for NHSC.

The conference agreement includes language as proposed by the House limiting new cities entering the title I Ryan White program to those permitted in the pending reauthorization bill. The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language holding the formula grant funding for current title I grantees under the Ryan White AIDS CARE Act to no less than 99 percent of their fiscal year 1995 funding level by reallocating supplemental grant funds. The Senate amendment included a hold harmless provision assuring 100 percent of the fiscal year 1995 funding level in fiscal year 1996 for current title I grantees. The House bill had no comparable provision.

The conference agreement deletes language proposed in the Senate amendment and last year's bill identifying funding for Area Health Education Centers and overriding set-asides in the authorizing statute pertaining to the types of centers that may be funded. The House bill had no comparable provision. The conferees understand that this language is no longer necessary.

The conference agreement modifies a technical legal citation contained in both the House bill and Senate amendment pertaining to the Federal Tort Claims Act.

The conferees intend that the agency may use up to $3,000,000 of the funding provided for the National Health Service Corps for State offices of rural health.

The conferees strongly believe that the family planning program should be formally administered, as well as funded, in the Health Resources and Services Administration as a separate program within the Office of the Administrator, but have chosen to leave the decision regarding administration to the Secretary and have not mandated the transfer.

The conferees include $20,000,000 for health care facilities grants, of which $10,000,000 is designated for the facility requested in the President's fiscal year 1996 budget, and $10,000,000 is designated for items identified in the Senate report accompanying the amendment to H.R. 3019 pertaining to oral health care and health care for disadvantaged women. Also included as part of this second $10,000,000 is funding to improve rural health care access.

CENTERS FOR DISEASE CONTROL AND PREVENTION

(RESCISSION)

Full year funding for the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) was provided in P.L. 104-91, the continuing resolution enacted January 6, 1996.

The conference agreement includes language as proposed by the House rescinding obligated, but unexpended, balances from grants to States in fiscal years 1993, 1994, and 1995 for immunization activities. The agreement includes language as proposed by the House providing authority to transfer funds available from the sale of surplus vaccine from the vaccine stockpile to other activities within the jurisdiction of the agency, with prompt notification of Congress of any transfer. These two provisions were included in nearly identical form in sections 209 and 211 of the Senate amendment. The conference agreement incorporates one technical citation change on the second provision contained in the Senate amendment.

The conferees are agreed that funding for the research and training activities of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health has been provided on a consolidated basis as proposed by the Senate. The table printed in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD accompanying H.R. 3019 as passed by the House had allocated funds separately for research and training activities.

The conferees are supportive of CDC proceeding with a school-based immunization demonstration program to carry forward the recommendations of the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices for early adolescents, to the extent this is possible using available funds, including section 317 carry-over funds.

The conferees are aware of the benefits of community health promotion programs that control the spread of infectious diseases, reduce chronic disease, and lower risk factors and encourage the Director to support activities to evaluate innovative health information dissemination programs for the development of models for public outreach and professional development.

The conferees intend that as CDC applies the $31,000,000 administrative reduction that was included in P.L. 104-91 providing full year funding for the agency that equipment expenditures be included in the definition of administrative expenses.

The conferees confirm their understanding that the National Immunization Survey will be continued in fiscal year 1996.

NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The National Institutes of Health (NIH) were funded for the full year in P.L. 104-91, the continuing resolution enacted January 6, 1996.

The conferees have specifically endorsed the following initiatives mentioned in the Senate report:

- (a) The neurodegenerative disorders initiative within the Office of the Director;
- (b) The Office of Rare Disease Research program;
- (c) The Institutional Development Award Program (IDeA) grant program; and
- (d) The Office of Dietary Supplements program.

Of the $20,000,000 provided within the National Center for Research Resources for extramural facility construction, the conferees intend that $2,500,000 be reserved for construction and renovation projects at qualified regional primate centers.

The conferees are very supportive of the efforts of the National Institute on Aging to enhance research on Alzheimer's disease and urge the Institute to consider it a top priority. The conferees understand that promising research opportunities in the neuroscience of Alzheimer's disease exist, including research on the formation and maintenance of synapses, the mechanisms of beta-amyloid formation, and the biochemical action mechanisms of drugs used in the treatment of Alzheimer's disease. The Institute is strongly encouraged to focus additional attention on these promising areas, including consideration of expanding the number of Alzheimer's Disease research centers.

The conferees are supportive of expanding alternative resources to the use of animals, particularly through ensuring regular access to human tissues and organs. The conferees recommend that the Director of NIH give consideration to establishing a multi-Institute initiative to support an expanded human tissue resource and ensure that the needs of the scientific community can be served.

The conferees are agreed that sufficient funds have been provided within the Office of the Director to provide core support for the National Bioethics Advisory Commission.

The conferees intend NIH to hold administrative costs within the research management and support category to 7.5 percent below fiscal year 1995 levels (with an additional 2.5 percent reduction to congressional and public affairs functions) as indicated in the House report on H.R. 2127. However, the conferees do not intend that public education programs that are placed within the research management and support budget of some Institutes be considered part of the cost pool to be reduced.

The conferees request NIH to expeditiously complete review of its intramural primate facilities and promptly begin the surplus of those facilities NIH deems to be excess property.

Public Law 104-91, which provided full year funding for the National Institutes of Health, includes $26,598,000 for the Office of AIDS Research (OAR), including $10,000,000 for the Director's emergency discretionary fund authorized by section 2356 of the Public Health Service Act. Funding for AIDS research for fiscal year 1996 was provided in the manner set forth in H.R. 2127 as passed by the House, which provided appropriations to each Institute including funding for AIDS. The bill as reported in the Senate had appropriated funds for AIDS research to the Office of AIDS Research, as had been done in fiscal year 1995. The conferees are agreed that the fiscal year 1996 funding structure for AIDS research activities of the NIH is not a precedent for the allocation of AIDS research funding for fiscal year 1997. The conferees continue to strongly support the critical work of the Director of the OAR to coordinate the scientific, budgetary, legislative, and policy elements of the NIH AIDS research program and agree that the funding structure for AIDS research in fiscal year 1996 should not diminish this important responsibility. The conferees note that section 212, providing 3 percent transfer authority within the total identified by the NIH for AIDS research, enhances the Director's authority to ensure that AIDS research supported by the NIH is carried out in accordance with the AIDS research plan.

SUBSTANCE ABUSE AND MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

The conference report provides $1,883,715,000 for the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration, of which $275,420,000 is provided for the mental health block grant, and $1,234,107,000 is provided for the substance abuse block grant. The agreement also funds consolidated substance abuse treatment and substance abuse prevention demonstration programs at $90,000,000 each. The House bill included $1,883,715,000 and the Senate bill included $1,800,469,000.

The conferees understand that SAMHSA has undertaken an agency reorganization to streamline administrative functions. In addition, the agency will begin implementation of new knowledge development and application (KDA) grants in fiscal year 1996. The conferees continue to encourage SAMHSA to focus on evaluation and reporting of outcomes for activities funded under the block grants, demonstrations and KDAs. The conferees understand that KDA grants will generally fund applied research and evaluation, not services. The agreement specifically directs that any KDA grant include a plan to measure and publicly report outcomes relating to the grantee's stated goals and, where relevant, the incidence of substance abuse among individuals studied. The conferees strongly encourage SAMHSA to aggressively and effectively disseminate the results of KDA grants and to integrate these results into services funded in whole or in part by the Federal block grants as well as non-federally funded substance abuse and mental health services. In determining the allocation of funding to existing substance abuse demonstration projects, the conferees encourage the agency to give full consideration to those projects which impact pregnant women and children.

The conferees recommend that in awarding KDA grants to eligible grantees the Secretary give priority to the development of knowledge and specific interventions that improve the quality and access to services in areas where there is a high incidence of substance abuse and mental illness coupled with other contributing conditions such as high rates of co-morbidities, particularly HIV infection, long waiting lists for treatment, or homelessness.

AGENCY FOR HEALTH CARE POLICY AND RESEARCH

HEALTH CARE POLICY AND RESEARCH

The conference agreement provides a total funding level of $125,310,000 as proposed by the House instead of $128,470,000 as proposed by the Senate. Of this amount, $65,186,000 is provided in Federal funds and $60,124,000 is provided through one percent evaluation funding. The House bill provided $94,186,000 in Federal funds and $31,124,000 in one percent funding, while the Senate amendment provided $65,390,000 in Federal funds and $63,080,000 in one percent evaluation funding.

HEALTH CARE FINANCING ADMINISTRATION

PROGRAM MANAGEMENT

The conference agreement makes available $1,734,810,000 as proposed by the House instead of $2,111,406,000 as proposed by the Senate and provides an additional $396,000,000 within title VI of the bill for payment safeguard activities, providing total program management funding of $2,130,810,000. The Senate amendment had no comparable title VI provision. The funding in title VI would be canceled if there is a subsequent appropriation enacted for Medicare contractors in an authorizing bill.

The conferees strongly encourage Medicare contractors to promptly purchase and utilize commercially available automated data processing systems designed to detect abusive Medicare billings.

The conferees encourage the Health Care Financing Administration to conduct a demonstration program to evaluate whether cardiac case management of patients suffering from congestive heart failure would increase the quality of care delivered and patient satisfaction, as well as deliver such care in a more cost effective manner than current practice.

The conferees specifically endorse the following:

(a) No funds may be used for implementation of the Medicare/Medicaid data bank as mentioned in the House report;

(b) HCFA is encouraged to give full and fair consideration to a proposal to develop a comprehensive health care information management system that would link patient care data across the full range of health care as mentioned in the Senate report.

ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

LOW INCOME HOME ENERGY ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

The conference agreement provides a rescission of $100,000,000 in previously appropriated 1996 funding as recommended in the House and Senate bills. Total fiscal year 1996 funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) is $900,000,000. The conferees intend that up to $22,500,000 of the amounts provided for LIHEAP for fiscal year 1996 be used for the leveraging incentive fund. The conference agreement provides $300,000,000 for the contingency fund for fiscal year 1997, instead of providing that amount for fiscal year 1996 as proposed by the Senate. The agreement also extends the availability for another year of any funds remaining unobligated in the contingency fund at the end of fiscal year 1996. Finally, the agreement does not provide advance fiscal year 1997 funding for the LIHEAP program, the same as the House bill and $1,000,000,000 less than the Senate bill. Funding for FY 1997 will be considered as part of the regular fiscal year 1997 appropriations bill.

REFUGEE AND ENTRANT ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement provides $402,172,000 for Refugee and Entrant Assistance programs, instead of $397,872,000 as proposed in both the House and Senate bills. The agreement includes $55,397,000 for the Targeted Assistance program, an increase of $4,300,000 above the amount provided in the House and Senate bills and the same amount provided in fiscal year 1995. The conferees expect that domestic health assessment activities within the preventive health program will be administered in accordance with the decisions of the Secretary of Health & Human Services and direct the Department to notify the Appropriations Committee of such decisions in a timely manner. The conferees agree to the allocation of targeted assistance contained in the House Report 104-209.

SOCIAL SERVICES BLOCK GRANT

The conference agreement provides a mandatory appropriation for the Social Services Block Grant of $2,381,000,000. The House bill provided $2,520,000,000, and the Senate bill provided $2,310,000,000.

CHILDREN AND FAMILIES SERVICES PROGRAM

The conference agreement includes $4,788,364,000, instead of $4,715,580,000 as proposed by the House and $4,743,604,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees agree with language in Senate report 104-145 which would allocate $1,500,000 under the developmental disabilities program for the fifth year of a 5-year demonstration project known as transition and natural supports in the workplace.

It has come to the attention of the conferees that eligible Community Development Corporations serving remote rural areas have encountered difficulty in meeting some of the criteria for competing for Community Economic Development (CED) grants. The conferees strongly urge the Office of Community Services to adjust the criteria used in evaluating applications to take into account the unique aspects of job creation in remote rural areas, particularly as they relate to cost per job requirements.

With respect to Head Start, the conference agreement does not include $250,000 proposed in Senate report 104-145 to continue a demonstration program to train head start teachers in scientific principles. No funds were included for the program in the House bill.

With respect to the transitional living program for runaway and homeless youth, the conferees are agreed that the increase provided over the fiscal year 1995 amount shall be for nine grantees whose grants expired in September, 1995 and who were unable to compete for fiscal year 1996 grants because of a departmental administrative oversight.

The conference agreement includes an earmark of $435,463,000 for the Community Services Block Grant Act as proposed by the Senate. The House had earmarked the same amount in a different manner.

ADMINISTRATION ON AGING

AGING SERVICES PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $829,393,000, instead of $801,232,000 as proposed by the House and $831,027,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The agreement eliminates as separate line items the ombudsman program and the prevention of elder abuse program. Funds for these programs are earmarked in the bill within the supportive services and centers line time and the fiscal year 1995 level.

The agreement includes a legislative provision as proposed by the Senate that would prevent any State from having its administrative costs under title III of the Older Americans Act reduced by more than five percent below the fiscal year 1995 level. The House had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes three specific funding levels identified in Senate report 104-145 with respect to the aging research program.

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

GENERAL DEPARTMENTAL MANAGEMENT

The conference agreement includes $146,127,000, instead of $143,127,000 as proposed by the House and $137,127,000 as proposed by the Senate.

The conferees have included an additional $2,000,000 for the Office of the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services. The conferees intend that none of these additional funds shall be available to the Office of Intergovernmental Affairs, the immediate office of the Assistant Secretary for Health, the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Legislation or the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Public Affairs. The Secretary is requested to notify the Appropriations Committees of any employees detailed into these offices. The conferees commend the Secretary for the recent reorganization of her office and her decision to replace the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health with a smaller office which would serve as the senior advisor for health policy. The conferees direct that the Secretary provide the Appropriations Committees with the estimated funding levels and FTE levels for each of the individual offices for fiscal year 1996 funded from this account as soon as possible after enactment of this bill.

The conferees are agreed that funds are to be made available to the Office of Women's Health from funds available to the Department to carry out development and implementation of the national women's health clearinghouse.

Sufficient funds have been included by the conferees for the continuation of the existing human services transportation technical assistance program at the fiscal year 1995 funding level.

The agreement does not include a legal citation for the National Vaccine program as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included no citation. No funding is provided within this account for this program.

The agreement includes a House provision identifying $7,500,000 for extramural construction within the Office of Minority Health. The Senate bill did not include this provision.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

The conference agreement includes total funding for the Office of Inspector General of $79,162,000 as proposed by the Senate instead of $73,956,000 as proposed by the House. Of the total amount, $43,000,000 is provided in title VI of the Labor-HHS-Education Appropriations Act as proposed by the House, and the balance of the funds are provided in this account.

The agreement includes language proposed by the Senate, not included by the House, which would allow the Inspector General to expend funds transferred to it by the Departments of Justice or Treasury or the Postal Service as a result of asset forfeitures. The forfeitures would be from investigations in which the IG participated.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES
EMERGENCY FUND

The conference agreement includes $9,000,000 for the Emergency Fund as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included no provision for this.

With respect to the $2,000,000 identified for the implementation of clinical trials related to the early detection of breast cancer, the conferees are agreed that those departmental agencies and institutes with substantial experience and expertise in these matters must be directly involved in the administration of this effort.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement includes a limitation in the House bill which prohibits the use of funds for a statutory set-aside earmarking the first $5,000,000 of any funds appropriated for NIH extramural facility construction for primate centers. Instead, the conferees have reserved $2,500,000 of the NIH funds provided for extramural construction for primate centers. The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision limiting the amount of one percent evaluation set-aside funding that can be tapped from the Public Health Service agencies to amounts identified in the conference report prior to a report to Congress. The agreement also includes language prohibiting other taps and assessments unless reported to Congress. The House bill and the Senate amendment had similar language for the first provision; the House bill included languages similar to the second provision.

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the House that prohibits the funding of the Federal Council on Aging and the Advisory Board on Child Abuse and Neglect. The Senate had no similar provision.

The conference agreement deletes language included in the Senate amendment pertaining to a rescission of Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) funding and a reallocation of funds in the agency's vaccine stockpile surplus. These provisions were included under a CDC heading in the House bill, which is reflected in the conference agreement.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the House that would authorize the Department of Health and Human Services to transfer up to one percent of funds in any appropriation account to any other account in the Department, provided that the receiving account is not increased by more than three percent thereby and that the Appropriations Committees are notified at least 15 days in advance of any transfer. The Senate had no similar provision.

The conferees have agreed to include this transfer provision to give the Department more flexibility in managing its appropriations. However, the continuation of this provision in the future will depend on the Department's achieving and maintaining audited financial statements in accordance with the Chief Financial Officers Act of 1990 and Office of Management and Budget Bulletin No. 93-06.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes language permitting the Director of the National Institutes of Health jointly with the Director of the Office of AIDS Research to transfer up to 3 percent among the Institutes, Centers, and the National Library of Medicine from the total identified in their apportionment for AIDS research. The transfer must take place within 30 days of enactment of the Act and Congress is to be promptly notified. The House bill and the Senate amendment had similar provisions.

The conference agreement includes a provision in the House bill permitting the National Library of Medicine at the National Institutes of Health to enter into personal services contracts. The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The conference agreement deletes without prejudice a general provision proposed by the Senate that would deem an AFDC waiver submitted by the State of Texas under section 1115 of the Social Security Act approved upon the date of enactment of this Act, notwithstanding the Secretary's authority to approve the application. The House had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision in the Senate amendment requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to reimburse Medicaid claims for State-operated psychiatric hospitals between December 31, 1993 and December 31, 1995 that the Secretary would otherwise intend to defer for reimbursement. The provision caps the total amount of claims that could be reimbursed at $54,000,000. The conferees added a provision establishing a new Medicaid matching formula for a State highly affected by disproportionate share hospital payments, effective for State fiscal years 1996-97 and 1997-1997. The house bill had no similar provisions.

The conferees are aware of a number of outstanding Medicaid issues which could not be addressed in this bill. Of particular concern is the 100 percent cap on funding for public hospitals as well as the dilemma faced by several States that have included a modified Federal matching payment in their fiscal year 1997 budgets, reflecting the effort made by the Congress in Medicaid Reform to address the current inequity faced by States with rates between 40 and 50 percent. The conferees understand the difficulties that may State Medicaid programs are experiencing, and urge that these important matters be addressed expeditiously by the authorizing committees.

TITLE III—DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION EDUCATION REFORM

The conference agreement includes $530,000,000 for Education Reform programs. Included in this amount is $350,000,000 for the Goals 2000: Educate America Act and language, proposed by the House, which prohibits the use of funds for Goals 2000 national programs. Also included is $180,000,000 for school-to-work programs. The House bill provided $484,500,000 for Education Reform activities, including a contingent appropriation of $389,500,000. The Senate amendment provided $536,000,000 and included $151,000,000 in fiscal year 1997 funding.

The conference agreement amends the Goals 2000: Educate America Act. Specifically, the agreement includes language in title VII of the bill which:

Permits school districts, in States that elect not to participate in the Goals 2000 program, to apply directly to the Secretary of Education for Goals 2000 funding, if the State education agency approves;

Eliminates the requirement that States submit their improvement plans to the Secretary of Education for approval;

Deletes the requirement for the composition of State and local panels that develop State and local improvement plans;

Eliminates the National Education Standards and Improvement Council;

Removes the requirement for States to develop opportunity-to-learn standards;

Clarifies that no State, local education agency, or school shall be required, as a condition of receiving assistance under this title to provide outcomes-based education, or school-based health clinics; and Clarifies that nothing in the Goals 2000 legislation will require or permit any State or Federal official to inspect a home, judge how parents raise their children, or remove children from their parents.

The conferees agree that a State education agency must give approval in order for a local educational agency to apply to the Secretary of Education for funding. A State educational agency is permitted to make a blanket approval or disapproval regarding the participation of local education agencies.

Regarding the provision on alternatives to secretarial approval of State plans, the conferees agree that submission of such report and notification of amendments to previous State plans meets the requirements of section 306.

The conferees agree that local education agencies, as part of their school improvement plan, can use their Goals 2000 funds for the acquisition of computer technology and the use of technology-enhanced curricula and instruction. The Department of Education is encouraged to advise States that their Goals 2000 funds may be used for this purpose.

The conference agreement includes a provision, proposed by the Senate, which authorizes the Secretary of Education to grant up to six additional State education agencies authority to waive Federal statutory or regulatory requirements for fiscal year 1996 and succeeding fiscal years. The House bill contained no similar provision.

EDUCATION FOR THE DISADVANTAGED

The conference agreement includes $7,228,116,000 for Education for the Disadvantaged of which $1,298,386,000 becomes available on October 1, 1996 for academic year 1996-97. The House provided an appropriation of $6,049,113,000 for this activity and a contingent appropriation of $961,000,000 for a total funding level of $7,010,113,000. The Senate amendment provided a fiscal year 1996 appropriation of $6,513,511,000 and a fiscal year 1997 appropriation of $814,489,000 for a total funding level of $7,328,000,000. With respect to the fiscal year 1997 funding, it is the intent of the conferees to provide all funding for title I for the 1997-98 school year through the appropriation of fiscal year 1997 funds in the fiscal year 1997 Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education and Related Agencies bill. The conferees intend that the committee work to adjust the fiscal year 1997 602(b) allocations such that title I can be returned to a normal appropriations and obligation pattern.

The conference agreement provides that up to $3,500,000 of title I funds be made available to the Secretary to obtain local-education-agency level census poverty data from the Bureau of the Census.

The agreement does not include provisions, included in the House bill, which would have overridden the provisions of title I regarding minimum State grants and language which would have eliminated a State option to reserve a portion of their title I funds for school improvement activities.

IMPACT AID

The conference agreement provides $693,000,000 for the Impact Aid program, the same as the House bill and an increase of $1,841,000 over the Senate amount of $691,159,000. In combination with the $35,000,000 provided for Impact Aid in P.L. 104-61, this appropriation provides a total of $728,000,000 for Impact Aid in fiscal year 1996, the same amount provided by Congress in fiscal year 1995.

Within the total provided, the conference agreement includes $581,707,000 for Basic Support Payments, $1,304,000 less than the House bill amount of $583,011,000 and $537,000 above the Senate bill level of $581,170,000. The agreement also includes $16,293,000 for Payments for Federal Property, an increase of $1,304,000 over both the House and Senate bill amounts of $14,989,000.

The conference agreement modifies a provision proposed by the Senate (Section 306) regarding unobligated Impact Aid construction funds. The agreement provides that one-half of such unobligated funds shall be awarded for the construction of public elementary or secondary schools on Indian reservations, and that one-half of such funds shall be made available to school districts with military impact according to section 8007 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act as amended.

SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $1,223,708,000 for School Improvement programs. The House bill provided $946,227,000 for programs in this account. The Senate provided $1,156,987,000 including $208,000,000 in fiscal year 1997 appropriations.

The conferees specifically provide for the following activity included in the Senate report:

The funds provided for the Education of Native Hawaiians are allocated as follows:

Curricula Development, Teacher Training and Recruitment .....	$1,500,000
Community-Based Education Learning Centers .....	800,000
Hawaiian Higher Education Programs .....	1,400,000
Gifted and Talented Program .....	1,200,000
Special Education Programs .....	1,200,000
Native Hawaiian Education Council and Island Councils .....	300,000
Family-Based Education Centers .....	5,600,000

The agreement provides $465,981,000 for Safe and Drug Free Schools and Communities instead of the $400,000,000 provided by both the House and Senate bills. This funding level, the same as in fiscal year 1995, provides for $440,981,000 for State Grants and $25,000,000 for National Programs.

BILINGUAL AND IMMIGRANT EDUCATION

The conference agreement provides $178,000,000 for Bilingual and Immigrant Education instead of the $150,000,000 provided in the House and Senate bills.

The conferees provided no funding for support services or professional development activities given their belief that funds should be focused on the education of students and the other funding sources available to the Secretary to fund these activities. However, if the Secretary feels that funding these activities within this account is justified, the two Committees will consider a reprogramming request for the Department.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

The conference agreement includes $3,245,447,000 for special education programs, the same amount recommended by both the House and Senate bills.

The conferees have also modified a provision proposed by the Senate to enable the Republic of the Marshall Islands, the Federated States of Micronesia, and the Republic of Palau to be eligible to receive both formula and discretionary grants. The agreement also includes language proposed by the Senate that permits the Department of Education to distribute funding to the federal center and regional centers in proportion to the funding levels made available in the previous fiscal year.

The conferees agree that Centers for the Deaf under Post Secondary Education programs should be awarded on a competitive basis instead of continuing the four existing centers as proposed in the Senate report.

REHABILITATION SERVICES AND DISABILITY RESEARCH

The conference agreement includes $2,456,120,000 for Rehabilitation Services and Disability Research instead of the $2,452,620,000 proposed in both the House and Senate bills.

The conference agreement includes $7,000,000 to support the Department of Education's portion of the fiscal year 1996 Paralympic Games through funding the Atlanta Paralympic Organizing Committee. The house bill included $4,500,000 while the Senate bill contained no similar provision. The grantee shall provide such information as shall be required by the Department of Education, including a detailed statement of work and budget, and financial reports providing a breakout of the costs of the activities performed under the grant. The conferees have also provided funding for the Paralympic Games in the Department of Labor and in the Social Security Administration.

The conferees increased funding for this account by $1,000,000 and direct the Department to use these funds to enable the two active regional head injury centers first funded in 1992 to continue serving as national resources to assist the States in improving the quality and cost effectiveness of services for victims of traumatic brain injury. The conferees direct the Rehabilitation Services Administration to work with the staffs of these regional centers to further develop plans of operation, including appropriate methods of organizing and coordinating State, private provider and victim support resources to improve the quality of traumatic brain injury services and for disseminating this information on a national basis. The centers are to work with the Department to present to the committees, by September 30, 1996, an evaluation plan of the present and planned services of the Centers and, upon approval, to implement the plan. In addition, the Department is instructed to work with the centers to develop a funding strategy that will eliminate the need for further federal funding for this national demonstration activity and to report to the Committees with such a plan by September 30, 1996.

VOCATIONAL AND ADULT EDUCATION

The conference agreement provides $1,340,261,000 for Vocational and Adult Education. The House bill provided $1,257,134,000 while the Senate bill included $1,340,638,000. The conference agreement eliminates the requirement for the establishment of State vocational education councils as a condition of receiving funding under the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technology Education Act.

While the conferees have eliminated funding for State councils, the conferees have no objection to States using a portion of their Vocational Education funds for State councils or human resource investment councils.

The conference agreement includes $4,723,000 for prisoner literacy programs, instead of $5,100,000 as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision.

STUDENT FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement specifies appropriations for Student Financial Assistance in Titles I and III of the Act. In the aggregate, the agreement appropriates $6,258,587,000, instead of $6,643,246,000 as proposed by the House and $6,165,290,000 together with $90,000,000 in contingent funding as proposed by the Senate. The conference agreement sets the maximum Pell Grant at $2,470, an increase of $30 over the House passed maximum grant of $2,440 and $30 below the $2,500 maximum grant in the Senate bill. The maximum grant of $2,470 is the highest maximum grant ever provided.

In the aggregate, the agreement provides $4,914,000,000 in new budget authority for the Pell Grant program. This amount combined with $1,304,000,000 in funding which carries forward from previous years, makes available $6,218,000,000 in budget authority for Pell Grants in fiscal year 1996. The Senate bill included $4,814,000,000 and the House bill included $5,423,331,000.

The conference agreement places a cap of 3,650,000 on Pell Grant participants in the 1995-1996 school year, as proposed by the House instead of 3,634,000 as proposed by the Senate. This cap will not deny awards to any eligible students and has been imposed to reflect the actual number of students receiving grants and actual program costs.

The conference agreement provides $93,297,000 for new contributions to institutional revolving loan funds, an increase of $93,297,000 over the House bill which did not provide new capital contributions and a decrease of $64,703,000 below the Senate bill level of $158,000,000.

The conference agreement provides $31,375,000 for State Student Incentive Grants, a decrease of $32,000,000 below the Senate bill level of $63,375,000. The House bill did not provide funding for this program. The conferees have provided this funding with the understanding that no new funding will be provided for the program in fiscal year 1997. The conferees reiterate that all States have participated in this program since 1978, a sufficient period of time to develop independent and self-sufficient State grant Programs. According to the Department of Education, the federal appropriation for State Student Incentive Grants represent less than 2.5% of total State student assistance. The conferees believe that States have operated this program with a combination of State and federal funds for several years, and the termination of federal support for this program should not result in the termination of substantial downsizing of continuing State grant programs.

HIGHER EDUCATION

The conference agreement provides $836,964,000 for Higher Education programs, the same amount included in the House and Senate bills. The agreement includes a provision proposed by the Senate requiring the Department to award the same number of new Byrd Scholarships in fiscal year 1996 as were awarded in fiscal year 1995 and to prorate downward the amounts for new and continuing Byrd Scholarships to accommodate the awarding of new scholarships. The House bill did not include a similar provision.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

The conference agreement provides $182,348,000 for Howard University, an increase of $7,677,000 over the amount provided in both the House and Senate bills. The agreement includes $152,859,000 for the Academic program, $7,677,000 more than the amount in the House and Senate bills, and $29,489,000 for the University Hospital, the same amount provided in the House and Senate bills. The agreement also allows the University to use a part of its Academic program appropriation for the endowment at its discretion. The conferees direct that Howard notify the Congress of any transfer from the Academic program to the Endowment fund at least 15 days prior to execution of the transfer. The agreement does not provide funding for the research or construction programs.

EDUCATION RESEARCH, STATISTICS AND IMPROVEMENT

The conference agreement includes $351,268,000 for Education Research, Statistics and Improvement. The House bill included an fiscal year 1996 appropriation of $328,268,000 for this activity and a contingency appropriation of $23,000,000 for a total funding level of $338,268,000 through an fiscal year 1996 appropriation of $328,268,000 and an fiscal year 1997 appropriation of $10,000,000.

The agreement includes a provision proposed by the House that prohibits the use of federal funds to fund the Goals 2000 Community Partnership program.

The Conference agreement earmarks $3,000,000 within the Fund for the Improvement of Education as proposed by the Senate for programs such as those authorized by Part E of title III of the ESEA for equipment and materials necessary for hands-on instruction through assistance to State and local agencies.

With respect to the Regional Educational Laboratories the agreement includes $51,000,000. The conferees note that the current laboratories' contracts have removed substantial funds from the programmatic control of the individual laboratories' governing boards and pulled the laboratories programs of work away from the needs of educators and policymakers in the ten individual laboratory regions. It is the intent of the conferees that no funds provided be used for any purpose other than work that is determined by the priorities of the regional governing board of each individual laboratory. All funds provided to the Regional Educational Laboratories shall be allocated according to each laboratory's percentage of the total amount that was provided to the ten regional educational laboratories by the Department of Education on December 11, 1995. Any special services requested by the Department of Education, other than the OERI National Educational Research Policy and Priorities Board for the purpose of aiding their oversight of federal education research and development program, shall be provided only if each Regional Educational Laboratory agrees that the priorities are consistent with its mission and the costs of such special services are reimbursed to each laboratory from the discretionary funds available to the Department. Further, the Conferees direct the Secretary to survey each regional educational laboratory to establish that all funds provided serve the priority R & D needs identified by the regional education board of each laboratory, document any resource allocation or work priority concerns reported by the laboratories and provide a report of all concerns to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees not later than January 31, 1997.

The agreement also includes a provision proposed by the Senate that extends star school partnership projects that received continuation grants in fiscal year 1996.

Due to the lateness in the fiscal year, conferees have provided that the funds provided for the International Education Exchange program should be used to continue current grantees.

The conferees have not provided funding for the extended time and learning program. The Senate bill had included $2,000,000 for this purpose. The House bill contained no similar provision.

LIBRARIES

The conference agreement includes $132,505,000 for library programs instead of $131,505,000 as proposed by both the House and Senate bills.

Within the funds appropriated for library research and demonstration, the conferees have provided $1,000,000 for the Survivors of the Shoah Visual History Foundation for a multi-media project to document Holocaust survivor testimony. The conferees acknowledge and support the mission of the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council and the role the council plays in developing and coordinating programs relating to the Holocaust. The $1,000,000 contained in this bill are to supplement the work of the council. These funds have been included for the Survivors of the Shoah Visual History Foundation project because of the extraordinary nature of the work and contribution of Mr. Steven Spielberg. The conferees concur with the view that this direct grant will put the imprimatur of the U.S. government in a unique manner to repudiate any future claims that the Holocaust never occurred. Because of the special nature of this grant, the conferees do not view this as a precedent for future requests.

The conferees also have provided $1,000,000 for the final phase of the portals demonstration project and, finally the conferees have provided $1,000,000 for the National Museum of Women in the Arts for activities associated with the archiving of works by women artists.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the House that would prohibit the use of funds appropriated in the bill for opportunity to learn standards or strategies. The Senate had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language which reduces the fund available to the Secretary for the administration of the student loan programs, as provided under section 458 of the Higher Education Act. Section 458 provides mandatory spending for student loan administration in amounts which exceed what the Secretary needs for fiscal year 1996. By limiting the amount available to $436,000,000, compared to the $550,000,000 allowed by the Higher Education Act, the agreement achieves savings of $114,000,000. To ensure appropriate scoring of this action by the Congressional Budget Office, the agreement also limits the authority in section 458 which would otherwise permit the Secretary to draw funds from fiscal year 1997 amounts into fiscal year 1996.

The agreement further provides that the Secretary will pay to guaranty agencies the administrative cost allowances owned such agencies for fiscal year 1995 in the amount currently estimated, $95,000,000. The agreement also provides that the Secretary will calculate and pay administrative cost allowances for fiscal year 1996 at the rate of 0.85 percent of the total principal amount of loans upon which insurance was issued on or after October 1, 1995. The estimated amount of such payments is $81,000,000.

The agreement prohibits the Secretary from requiring the return of reserve amounts held by guaranty agencies in fiscal year 1996 except after consultation with the House and Senate authorizing committees. Any such amounts returned must be deposited in the Treasury to help reduce the deficit.

No funds available to the Secretary may be used by the Secretary to pay administrative fees to institutions participating in the Federal Direct Student Loan Program.

The conference agreement restricts the authority of the Secretary to hire advertising agencies or other third parties to provide advertising services to the Department for any student loan program. The Committee does not intend this language to limit the ability of the Secretary to obtain outside assistance to develop and issue informational brochures or similar material for the programs that help students, guidance counselors, student aid administrators, or others, learn such things as how the programs work or their terms and conditions.

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the House modified to prohibit the use of funds appropriated in the bill for four specific boards and commissions currently funded by the Department of Education. The Senate had no similar provision.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes a general provision as proposed by the House that would authorize the Department of Education to transfer up to one percent of funds in any appropriation account to any other account in the Department, provided that the receiving account is not increased by more than three percent thereby and that the Appropriations Committees are notified at least 15 days in advance of any transfer. The Senate had no similar provision.

The conferees have agreed to include this transfer provision to give the Department more flexibility in managing its appropriations. However, the continuation of this provision in the future will depend on the Department's achieving and maintaining audited financial statements in accordance with the Chief Financial Officers Act of 1990 and Office of Management and Budget Bulletin No. 93-06.

TITLE IV—RELATED AGENCIES

CORPORATION FOR NATIONAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICE

DOMESTIC VOLUNTEER SERVICE PROGRAMS OPERATING EXPENSES

The conference agreement appropriates $198,393,000 for the Domestic Volunteer Service programs, an increase of $2,123,000 over the House appropriation of $196,270,000 and a decrease of $2,901,000 below the Senate appropriation of $201,294,000. The agreement provides $41,385,000 for regular VISTA Operations. No funding is specifically provided for the VISTA Literacy program, however, the conferees agree that funds may be used to conduct literacy activities previously funded by the VISTA Literacy program.

FEDERAL MEDIATION AND CONCILIATION SERVICE

The agreement provides $32,896,000 for the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, the same as the House bill and an increase of $500,000 over the Senate bill.

NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS BOARD

The agreement provides $170,743,000 for the National Labor Relations Board, instead of $167,245,000 provided in both the House and Senate bills. The agreement also deletes language proposed by the House concerning the issuance of section 10(j) injunctions. The agreement includes language to prohibit the agency from promulgating a final rule on the appropriateness of requested single location bargaining units in representation cases.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

SUPPLEMENTAL SECURITY INCOME PROGRAM

The agreement provides $18,545,512,000 for the Supplemental Security Income program, a decrease of $49,500,000 below the Senate bill and $208,322,000 below the House bill. Of this amount, the managers have provided $1,500,000 to support a demonstration project relating to the Paralympic Games. The grantee shall provide such information as shall be required by the Social Security Administration, including a detailed statement of the activities to be supported under the grant and the budget for each activity, and financial reports documenting how the funds were actually expended.

The agreement makes available an additional amount of $15,000,000 for the processing of Continuing Disability Reviews (CDRs), which was not included in the House or Senate bills, subject to concomitant adjustment of the Subcommittee's 602(b) allocation as permitted by P.L. 104-121.

LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

The agreement limits administrative expenditures to $5,821,768,000 for the Social Security Administration, a decrease of $23,415,000 below the Senate bill and $88,500,000 below the House bill. The agreement includes bill language proposed by the Senate permitting the agency to retain any unobligated funds at the end of the fiscal year for its automation initiative.

The agreement also includes an additional limitation of $60,000,000 for the processing of Continuing Disability Reviews (CDRs), which was not included in the House or Senate bills, subject to concomitant adjustment of the Subcommittee's 602(b) allocation as permitted by P.L. 104-121.

The conferees strongly urge that SSA work with an industry-based consortium dedicated to improving software productivity, and with experience institutionalizing software processes and methods; sufficient funds have been included in the conference agreement for this purpose.

RAILROAD RETIREMENT BOARD LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATION

The agreement provides a limitation for administrative expenses of $73,169,000 which may be derived from railroad retirement accounts. In combination with a limitation of $16,786,000 from the railroad unemployment insurance administration fund, the agreement provides a total of $89,955,000 for the administrative expenses of the Railroad Retirement Board, an increase of $861,000 above the Senate bill and a decrease of $861,000 below the House bill.

LIMITATION ON RAILROAD UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE ADMINISTRATION FUND

The agreement provides a limitation on administrative expenses of $16,786,000 from moneys credited to the railroad unemployment insurance administration fund. Combined with a limitation of $73,169,000 on administrative expenses derived from the railroad retirement accounts, the agreement provides $89,955,000 for the administrative expenses of the Railroad Retirement Board, an increase of $861,000 over the Senate bill and a decrease of $861,000 below the House bill.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement deletes language contained in the House bill stating that States remain free not to fund abortions with Federal funds provided in the bill to the extent that the State deems appropriate, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision. The conference agreement includes, as did both the House bill and the Senate amendment, the language from previous years prohibiting Federal funding of abortion except in the cases of rape, incest and endangerment of the life of the mother.

The conference agreement modifies a provision proposed by the House and Senate bills to exclude from participation in the Pell Grant program institutions which are ruled to be ineligible to participate in a federal student loan program as a result of default rate determinations issued by the Secretary subsequent to February 14, 1996.

The conference agreement includes a general provision proposed by the Senate to limit expenditures on cash performance awards to no more than one percent of amounts appropriated for salaries for each agency funded in the bill. In addition, the provision reduces the amounts otherwise appropriated for salaries and expenses in the bill by $30,500,000, to be allocated by the Office of Management and Budget, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language contained in the Senate amendment which amends the Public Health Service Act to prohibit the Federal government and State and local entities who receive Federal financial assistance from discriminating against entities which refuse to provide or refer for provision of abortions or training to perform abortions. The provision requires the Federal government and State and local entities to deem an entity accredited that would be accredited except for accreditation requirements pertaining to the provision of abortions and abortion training. The House bill contained a similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language contained in the House bill which modifies the Medicare certification survey schedule for home health agencies to permit States greater flexibility to target resources on problem agencies in order to free up funds for certification of new facilities. The agreement also contains language not contained in the House bill that would permit expanded use by Medicare providers of private accreditation by national bodies for initial certifications and recertifications for those national bodies that can demonstrate that their accreditation assures compliance with all Medicare requirements. This "deeming" provision would not apply to renal dialysis facilities and durable medical equipment suppliers. There is no intent to change current law or current policy with respect to the deeming of skilled nursing facilities. The agreement also includes language not included in the House bill requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to conduct a study of and to report on the effectiveness and appropriateness of the current mechanisms for surveying and certifying skilled nursing facilities and renal dialysis facilities. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The conferees are concerned that quality of care not decline for the large and growing number of Medicare beneficiaries receiving home health services. All agencies should be surveyed at reasonable intervals with no more than a 15 month schedule for those agencies with poor prior performance. If there is a change in ownership, surveys shall occur no less frequently than on a 15 month schedule. Within one year of enactment of this legislation the conferees direct HCFA to report to Congress on the status of implementation of this policy and the impact on quality of care for beneficiaries. In particular, the report shall contain data supporting HCFA's contention that quality of care will improve if resources are targeted on problem agencies.

The conferees expect that the study and report required in this provision will include careful analysis of the adequacy of current nursing facility accreditation standards. Attention should be given to the cost effectiveness of expanding the use of voluntary private accreditation, and whether it is a tool for quality enhancement and as a mean to enable government agencies to focus federal attention more directly on those nursing facilities which need increased oversight. The study should also review the information of accrediting bodies to determine whether it might assist HCFA to access data needed to monitor the performance of nursing facilities. The study should evaluate State-level changes in standards for accreditation of nursing facilities to determine the extent to which they have strengthened the safety net that is vital to assure a baseline of quality and consumer protection. Finally, the conferees are interested in innovative regulatory and nonregulatory incentives for all nursing facilities to continually improve the quality of services provided to Medicare and Medicaid patients. Therefore, the Secretary should include in the report whether such incentives would encourage and reward optimal performance with particular emphasis on improved patient outcomes.

The conference agreement includes language in the Senate amendment requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to grant a waiver under the Medicaid program to Charter Health Plan, Inc. of the District of Columbia of the requirement that no more than 75 percent of a managed care provider's enrollment may be Medicaid patients. The House bill had no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language requiring the Secretary of Health and Human Services to compile data on the number of females in the U.S. who have been subjected to female genital mutilation, to conduct outreach to communities that practice female genital mutilation, and to develop curriculum recommendations for medical schools regarding the practice. The Senate amendment contained a similar provision, but also established criminal penalties for those who performed the procedure on minors. The House bill had no similar provisions.

TITLE VI—ADDITIONAL APPROPRIATIONS

The conference agreement includes title VI of the bill proposed by the House modified to exclude Social Security Administration funding for continuing disability reviews. The House bill established a separate title VI which provided partial appropriations for three different appropriation accounts. It included $396,000,000 for HCFA Program Management for payment safeguard activities, $43,000,000 for the HHS IG for Medicare-related activities and $111,000,000 for the Social Security Administration administrative account for continuing disability reviews. These amounts, when combined with the amounts appropriated for these activities in the regular titles of the bill, provided full-year appropriations. Under the language in title VI, if a subsequent appropriation is enacted in another bill for FY 1996 for these activities, then the amount appropriated in title VI would be canceled. The Senate had no similar provision.

The following table displays the amounts agreed to for each program, project or activity with appropriate comparisons:

DEPARTMENTS OF VETERANS AFFAIRS AND HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOP-

The conferees agree that House report 104-384 is to be used as the guiding document for the departments, agencies, commissions, corporations, and offices under the jurisdiction of the House and Senate subcommittees on the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development and Independent Agencies, along with House report 104-201 and Senate report 104-140. The following explanations are to be taken as clarifications or supplements to the directions contained in House report 104-384, dated December 6, 1995 and Senate report 104-236 dated March 6, 1996:

TITLE I—DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS
GENERAL OPERATING EXPENSES

Limits the amount of funds available for payroll costs of the Office of the Secretary to not exceed $3,206,000, instead of $2,766,000 as proposed by the House and deleting such limitation as proposed by the Senate. Deletes the salary limitations proposed by the House and stricken by the Senate for the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Policy and Planning, the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Congressional Affairs, and the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Public and Intergovernmental Affairs. The limitation of salary funds for the Office of the Secretary is the amount requested in the 1996 Budget and will support the current employment level.

CONSTRUCTION, MAJOR PROJECTS

Deletes language proposing contingent appropriations of an additional $70,100,000 for construction, major projects as proposed by the House and $16,000,000 as proposed by the Senate. The approved major construction projects are as specified in House Report 104-384, the Conference Report and Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference on H.R. 2099.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Inserts section 108 authorizing the construction of outpatient clinics in Brevard County, FL, Travis Air Force Base, CA, and Boston, MA; leases at Ft. Myers, FL and New York, NY; and a research facility at Portland, OR. The conferees urge the VA to review its options to acquire additional land for the expansion of the Camp Butler National Cemetery.

Inserts, as section 109, language designating the Walla Walla VA Medical Center as the Jonathan M. Wainwright Memorial VA Medical Center. The Senate proposed this language as a miscellaneous provision.

Deletes a miscellaneous provision as proposed by the Senate that would require the VA to develop a plan for the allocation of health care resources. This matter was addressed in amendment numbered 14 of House Report 104-384, the Joint Explanatory Statement of the Committee of Conference on H.R. 2099. The conferees note that the VA is currently developing the allocation plan.

TITLE II—DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING
HOUSING

The conferees recommend decreasing the amount appropriated for annual contributions for assisted housing in H.R. 2099, from $10,155,795,000 to $9,818,795,000. The decrease of $337,000,000 is comprised of three components. First, $69,000,000 is taken from amounts available for property disposition activities associated with selling mortgages and properties acquired or held by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA). Despite the decrease, the conferees understand the reduction will not materially impact the Department's ability to meet its statutory and policy responsibilities in disposing of these properties on a timely basis.

Second, the conferees agree to add $25,000,000 to the $233,168,000 provided for the section 811 housing program for the disabled, and to add $50,000,000 to the $780,190,000 provided for the section 202 housing program for the elderly. However, rather than spending the additional funding on new construction or acquisition of buildings, the funds must be applied to extending the contract terms of the rental assistance program.

Finally, funding for renewing expiring or terminating section 8 subsidy contracts has been reduced from $4,350,862,000 to $4,007,862,000. Though the decrease will not reduce the number of households assisted under this program from the level specified in H.R. 2099, it will reduce the term of the rental assistance contracts from two years.

H.R. 2099, the 1996 VA/HUD and Independent Agencies appropriations measure, included a provision designed to replace the Low Income Housing Preservation.

H.R. 2099, the 1996 VA/HUD and Independent Agencies appropriations measure, included a provision designed to replace the Low Income Housing Preservation and Resident Homeownership Act (LIHPRA) with a less expensive program that avoids dependence on continuing section 8 rental subsidies while, at the same time, preserves affordable housing opportunities for low-income families.

The recently enacted Housing Opportunity Program Extension Act of 1996 incorporated the provisions of the revised preservation program contained in H.R. 2099. Due to delays, however, the calendar deadlines utilized in this legislation for filing and for funding eligibility determinations are no longer valid and must be adjusted. Therefore, the conferees have adjusted dates to conform the provisions in the Extension Act.

As a further refinement of the revised preservation program, the conferees have added a third criteria for the Department to utilize in setting appropriate rents for properties. This change will enable properties which utilize the capital loan/capital grant program to retain working families in affordable housing developments and to achieve an appropriate mix of income levels.

PUBLIC HOUSING DEMOLITION, SITE REVITAL-
GRANTS

The conferees are aware of the urgent need to accelerate the demolition of distressed public housing developments and have agreed to provide $200,000,000 above the amount recommended in H.R. 2099 for the severely distressed public housing program. This addition increases funding for the program from $280,000,000 to $480,000,000.

The HOPE VI program was created in 1992 as a means to replace obsolete public housing developments aggressively with homes that are architecturally appealing, have lower densities, and are better suited to the needs of low-income families and their surrounding neighborhoods. In the last four years, the Department has found it necessary to refine PHA plans after awarding the grants, usually because of complicated financing associated with the construction of these developments. The formal competition process required by the Act, however, constrains HUD from being able to make changes on a timely basis. Therefore, to facilitate actual site demolition and rehabilitation, the conferees have deleted a requirement for a formal competition regarding how these funds are awarded. In place of a formal competition, HUD plans to utilize a comprehensive, merit-based selection process.

HOUSING

The conference agreement permits the Secretary to waive the requirement to set-aside a portion of these funds for the youth sport program, though the activity remains an eligible activity of the program. This requirement has been burdensome for both the Department and public housing authorities to administer.

Noting the importance and need to fight crime in public housing and to create safe environments for low-income families, the conferees have decided to fully fund the Drug Elimination Grant program despite dwindling discretionary resources. There is, however, a significant crime problem that plagues the assisted housing portfolio. Unfortunately, the owners of these properties do not have access to funding from the drug elimination program. It is the opinion of the conferees that the authorizing committee should consider this problem and rectify it with appropriate legislation.

COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT
COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

At the request of the Secretary, the conferees agree to set-aside $50,000,000 from the community development block grant account for economic development initiatives to be made available pursuant to a competitive selection process.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

EXTEND ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS FROM THE RESCISSION ACT

It is critical to deregulate the public and assisted housing portfolios by providing them with the greatest degree of flexibility possible, and therefore agree to expand the eligible uses of modernization funds to capital purposes.

The conferees believe that mixed-income developments, where the portion of apartments dedicated to low-income families are indistinguishable from the remaining market-rate apartments, will foster safe neighborhoods and will provide for fiscally viable developments. Therefore, the conferees recommend inclusion of several provisions designed to facilitate their creation and financing.

EMPLOYMENT LIMITATIONS

The conferees agree to increase the number of assistant secretaries to eight from the seven provided in H.R. 2099, but have retained the provisions regarding the levels of Schedule C and noncareer SES employees. HUD is directed to present a plan to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations by September 30, 1996, that describes its reorganization strategy, including:

(1) the organizational structure, including the number of field offices, regional offices, and FHA offices;

(2) the programmatic staffing levels required to meet the needs and services identified in HUD's mission statement;

(3) the responsibilities and duties of headquarters, the field offices, regional offices and FHA offices, the services they will provide, and the level of programmatic staff necessary to carry out these functions;

(4) the relationship between Headquarters and the field offices, regional offices, and FHA offices; and

(5) the annual schedule by which the Secretary intends to reduce staff to 7,500 by the year 2002.

If the level of FTEs required to administer the programs effectively is greater than 7,500, the Secretary must justify the increase.

REPEAL OF FROST-LELAND

Although the conferees agree to repeal the Frost-Leland amendment, it was not agreed that the City of Dallas be reimbursed for expenses it incurred demolishing a public housing project in West Dallas pursuant to a court order.

FHA ASSIGNMENT PROGRAM

The conferees have amended provisions of the Balanced Budget Downpayment Act, I, which reformed the FHA Assignment Program. The first change corrects terminology included in that Act. Additionally, because of delays in enacting this appropriations measure, several dates used in the original legislation are no longer valid and have been changed. First, the effective date of the reform has been changed to the date of enactment of this legislation to prevent a circumstance where people who applied for assignment after March 15, 1996, would find the program retroactively terminated. Thirty days after enactment, HUD is required to issue regulations. The second date change allows the reforms to be utilized for all mortgages executed during fiscal year 1996 and in prior years.

CHANGES TO STATE OF NEW YORK'S COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT AND HOME PROGRAMS

To ensure that the CDBG Small Cities program in the State of New York is operated as efficiently as possible, the conferees agree to limit the amount of funds made available for multi-year commitments to 35 percent. Additionally, the conferees agree to provide the State of New York's HOME funds directly to the Chief Executive Officer of the State, to be used in accordance with provisions of law.

MINIMUM RENT TENANT PROTECTIONS

The conferees agree that every public housing and section 8 housing resident who receives the benefit of housing assistance should contribute at least $25 towards their rent. There may be occasions, however, where families are experiencing serious financial hardship and cannot afford even the most minimal contribution. Therefore, a provision has been added to allow the Secretary or a public housing agency to waive the minimum rent requirement to provide a transition period for affected families not to exceed three months.

The conferees have agreed to delete a provision proposed in H.R. 2099 which would have directed the transfer of fair housing enforcement responsibilities to the Department of Justice.

TITLE III—INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS FUND PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conferees agree to provide $45,000,000, instead of $50,000,000 as proposed by the Senate and $25,000,000 as proposed by the House. The conferees also agree to remove legislative provisions restricting the size of the staff for this effort.

CORPORATION FOR NATIONAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICE

NATIONAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICE PROGRAMS OPERATING EXPENSES

Appropriates $400,500,000 for National and Community Service Programs Operating Expenses as proposed by the Senate, instead of termination, or $383,500,000 if offsetting savings were found, as proposed by the House. The recommended amount is $69,500,000 below the 1995 level and $416,976,000 below the budget request.

The bill includes language eliminating grants to Federal agencies. This will permit all money to be directed outside of the Federal bureaucracy and should help reduce the cost per participant.

The conferees are aware of recent commitments by the Corporation to improve the management of the AmeriCorps program and reduce costs. In addition to eliminating grants to federal agencies, such actions include decreasing the reliance on federal funds by increasing the matching requirement for private funds, reminding sponsors of all prohibited activities, including lobbying and partisan political activities, improving grant reviews, and expanding efforts in program evaluation. It is the conferees' intent that the appropriating and authorizing committees will carefully monitor the Corporation's activities to ensure that the agreed to reforms are carried out and to prevent any abuses in the future.

The conferees agree to include the Sense of the Congress language proposed by the Senate. This language urges the President to nominate expeditiously a Chief Financial Officer and to implement as quickly as possible the recommendations of the independent auditors to improve the financial management of the Corporation's funds. The language also urges the Corporation to submit a reprogramming proposal for up to $3,000,000 to carry out financial management system reforms if the Chief Financial Officer determines such additional resources are needed.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR GENERAL

Appropriates $2,000,000 for the Office of Inspector General. The conferees expect that the Inspector General will periodically report to the Congress on progress in improving the Corporation's financial management systems and in developing auditable financial statements.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY

SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY

The conferees agree to a technical change to House Report 104-384 related to the Mine Waste Technology program. The science and technology account includes $3,000,000 for this program, in lieu of funding in the hazardous substance superfund account.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROGRAMS AND MANAGEMENT

The conferees agree to provide $127,000,000 in addition to the amount proposed for environmental programs and management in H.R. 2099. Of this amount, the conferees agree that up to $40,000,000 is available for enforcement activities.

In 1994, under the U.S. Global Climate Change Action Plan, the Administration approached developing countries about undertaking joint activities to reduce global emissions. The joint implementation project thus established encourages partnerships between businesses and non-governmental organizations in the United States and developing countries, offering the potential to achieve greater emission reductions worldwide than would be possible with each country acting alone. Recognizing that meaningful near-term reductions in greenhouse gas emissions can only be realized through voluntary, public-private relationships such as the joint implementation program, the conferees urge that from the funds provided for the climate change action plan, the Agency provide $3,000,000 for completion of climate change country studies and development of developing country national action plans and $7,000,000 for joint implementation plan activities.

BUILDINGS AND FACILITIES

The conferees agree to provide $50,000,000 in addition to the amount proposed for buildings and facilities in H.R. 2099. This additional funding is for the first phase of construction of a new consolidated research facility at Research Triangle Park, North Carolina. The conferees agree that the total construction cost for this new research facility shall not exceed $232,000,000.

HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCE SUPERFUND

The conferees agree to provide $150,000,000 in addition to the amount proposed for hazardous substance superfund in H.R. 2099. The conferees agree that such additional funds, $100,000,000 of which become available on September 1, 1996, are for clean-up response and enforcement activities, subject to normal reprogramming guidelines. The conferees agree that $2,000,000 of this additional amount is for worker training grants under NIEHS, bringing this program to $18,500,000 for fiscal year 1996.

STATE AND TRIBAL ASSISTANCE GRANTS

The conferees agree to provide $490,000,000 in addition to the amount proposed for environmental programs and infrastructure assistance under state and tribal assistance grants in H.R. 2099. Of this additional amount, $448,500,000 is for capitalization grants, $3,500,000 is for a water distribution system grant in the South Buffalo/Kittanning area, Pennsylvania, $25,000,000 is for a special projects grant for Boston Harbor for a total of $50,000,000 in fiscal year 1996, and $13,000,000 is for a construction grant for wastewater treatment facilities in Watertown, South Dakota. Of the $448,500,000, $225,000,000 is for Safe Drinking Water State Revolving Fund capitalization grants which, added to the $275,000,000 proposed in H.R. 2099 and the $225,000,000 provided in previous appropriations acts, brings the total available for the Safe Drinking Water SRF to $725,000,000. All of these funds shall be available if authorization for such SRF is enacted prior to August 1, 1996, however, if no such authorization is enacted prior to August 1, 1996, these funds will become available for wastewater capitalization grants.

The conferees understand the Agency has convened a federal advisory committee to address water pollution issues related to wet weather. The conferees believe that EPA should take advantage of the many stakeholders concerned about stormwater at the table and use this opportunity to see if these participants can reach consensus on a simplified, environmentally protective, workable, cost-effective stormwater program for municipalities regardless of population and all entities whether or not they are already covered under the Phase I NPDES program.

Finally, the conferees note that $700,000 of funds proposed in H.R. 2099 for Manns Choice and $100,000 of funds proposed in H.R. 2099 for Taylor Township, Pennsylvania, be used for wastewater treatment facility improvements in Juniata Terrace Borough, Mifflin County, Pennsylvania ($250,000) and Curwensville Borough-Pike Township, Clearfield County, Pennsylvania ($150,000) and for combined sewer overflow improvements for Logan Township, Blair County, Pennsylvania ($400,000).

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

The conferees have included bill language in section 304 which transfers real property located in Bay City, Michigan to the City of Bay City or another municipal entity. In addition, up to $3,000,000 of previously appropriated funds shall be provided to the recipient of such real property for necessary environmental remediation and rehabilitation costs of the property. It is the intent of the Conferees that the recipient of the property shall accept full responsibility for compliance with any applicable environmental conditions and that the Agency's liability shall terminate upon transfer.

The conferees have agreed to delete a provision proposed in H.R. 2099 which prohibited the use of funds to implement section 404(c) of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act, as amended.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT COUNCIL ON ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY AND OFFICE OF ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY

The conferees agree to provide $1,150,000 in addition to the amount proposed in H.R. 2099, for a fiscal year 1996 total of $2,150,000 for CEQ. The conferees agree that CEQ and OEQ should not augment their workforce by utilizing personnel paid for by appropriations provided to any other Federal agency or department.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

OFFICE OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS

The conferees have agreed to provide $1,800,000 for the Office of Consumer Affairs. Neither the House or the Senate had included this funding in the bill.

NATIONAL AERONAUTICS AND SPACE
ADMINISTRATION

The conferees agree to provide $83,000,000 for Science, Aeronautics and Technology in addition to the amounts proposed H.R. 2099. Distribution of the additional funding is to be addressed in the NASA operating plan for fiscal year 1996 and is subject to final approval by the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate.

The conferees do not agree that all NASA aircraft consolidation should be held in abeyance pending the final reports of the NASA Inspector General and the General Accounting Office as proposed by the Senate. The conferees note that in a letter dated March 8, 1996, the Inspector General endorsed an alternative aircraft consolidation plan which would leave in place five aircraft currently based at Lewis Research Center, Langley Research Center, and Wallops Island. Therefore, the conferees agree that the consolidation of these aircraft should await final resolution of the issues addressed in the initial report by the NASA Inspector General with regard to consolidation savings.

The conferees are concerned with NASA's unexpected recent announcement regarding additional and accelerated personnel reductions at NASA headquarters. This announcement was made without prior consultation with the Congress. The proposed reduction is disproportionately excessive relative to the aggregate funding profile for this agency. Such substantial staffing reduction may jeopardize NASA's ability to manage adequately programs of continuing priority to the Congress and the Nation. Therefore, the conferees direct NASA to suspend immediate implementation of the administrative steps to execute this proposed reduction-in-force, pending full consideration by the Congress of the agency's budget for fiscal year 1997.

The conference agreement also includes two new administrative provisions. The first provision ensures that section 212 of Public Law 104-99 remains in effect as if enacted as part of this Act. The second new provision urges NASA to fund Phase A studies for a radar satellite initiative.

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION

The conferees agree to provide an additional $40,000,000 for Research and Related Activities for the National Science Foundation. The effect of this adjustment is a net reduction of $140,000,000 from the budget request as compared to a reduction of $180,000,000 proposed in H.R. 2099.

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement includes a general provision which supersedes section 201(b) of Public Law 104-99.

CHAPTER 1

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, RURAL DEVELOPMENT, FOOD AND DRUG AD-MINISTRATION, AND RELATED AGEN-CIES

FOOD SAFETY AND INSPECTION SERVICE

The conferees retain bill language included by the Senate to earmark funds appropriated to the Food Safety and Inspection Service for in-plant inspection personnel. The House-passed bill contained no similar provision. Providing sufficient funds to fully cover the salaries and expenses of in-plant inspections mandated by current law was the priority of Congress in the fiscal year 1996 appropriations Act. The conferees regret that it has become necessary to earmark funds for in-plant inspector salaries and expenses, but because the agency could not provide assurances that it would fulfill the intent of Congress, the conferees found this as the only alternative available.

NATURAL RESOURCES CONSERVATION SERVICE
WATERSHED AND FLOOD PREVENTION

The conference agreement provides a supplemental appropriation of $80,514,000 for Watershed and Flood Prevention Operations to repair damages to waterways and watersheds resulting from flooding in the Pacific Northwest, the Northeast blizzards, floods, and other natural disasters instead of $73,200,000 as proposed by the House and $107,514,00 as proposed by the Senate. The conferees encourage the Department, when repairing projects with funds appropriated for Emergency Watershed and Flood Prevention Operations, to do so with the intent of minimizing future costs and flooding.

The conference agreement provides that the entire amount shall be available only to the extent that an official budget request for $80,514,000 is submitted that includes designation of the entire amount as an emergency requirement.

The conference agreement also provides that if the Secretary of Agriculture determines that the cost of land and restoration of farm structures exceeds the fair market value of affected cropland, the Secretary may use sufficient amounts "not to exceed $7,288,000" from funds provided under this heading to accept bids from willing sellers to provide conservation easements for cropland inundated by floods, as provided for by the Wetlands Reserve Program.

CONSOLIDATED FARM SERVICE AGENCY
EMERGENCY CONSERVATION PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides a supplemental appropriation of $30,000,000 for the Emergency Conservation Program for expenses resulting from floods in the Pacific Northwest and other natural disasters as proposed by the Senate instead of $24,800,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement does not include a provision proposed by the Senate that the entire amount be available subject to an official budget request from the Administration.

RURAL HOUSING AND COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT SERVICE
ACCOUNT

The conference agreement provides a supplemental appropriation of $5,000,000 for section 502 direct loans and $1,500,000 for section 504 housing repair loans for emergency expenses resulting from flooding in the Pacific Northwest, the Northeast blizzards and floods, Hurricane Marilyn, and other natural disasters as proposed by the Senate. The House bill proposed a total of $6,500,000 for both section 502 direct loans and section 504 housing repair loans.

The conference agreement provides that funds be used for the cost of modifying loans as defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement does not include a provision proposed by the Senate that the entire amount be available subject to an official budget request from the Administration.

VERY LOW-INCOME HOUSING REPAIR GRANTS

The conference agreement provides a supplemental appropriation of $1,100,000 for emergency expenses resulting from flooding in the Pacific Northwest, the Northeast blizzards and floods, Hurricane Marilyn, and other natural disasters as proposed by both the House and Senate. The conference agreement does not include a provision proposed by the Senate that the entire amount be available subject to an official budget request from the Administration.

RURAL UTILITIES SERVICE

RURAL UTILITIES ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides a supplemental appropriation of $11,000,000 for direct loans and grants of the Rural Utilities Assistance Program and the Emergency Community Water Assistance Program to assist in the recovery from flooding in the Pacific Northwest and other natural disasters as proposed by the Senate. The House bill proposed separate appropriations of $5,000,000 for the Emergency Community Water Assistance Program and $6,000,000 for the Rural Utilities Assistance Program. The conference agreement also provides that funds be used for the cost of modifying loans as defined in section 502 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement does not include a provision proposed by the Senate that the entire amount be available subject to an official budget request from the Administration.

COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

EMERGENCY LIVESTOCK FEED ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The conference agreement does not provide $10,000,000 of Commodity Credit Corporation funds for cost-sharing assistance under provisions consistent with the Emergency Livestock Feed Assistance Program as proposed by the House. The Senate bill contained no similar provision. The Department has indicated that livestock producers who are eligible for cost-sharing assistance under the Emergency Livestock Feed Assistance Program will continue to be eligible for this assistance provided a valid contract for this program has been signed prior to enactment of new legislation.

SUPPLEMENTAL AND RESCISSION REQUESTS

As part of its fiscal year 1996 supplemental and rescission requests, the Administration proposed a rescission of $12,000,000 from Cooperative State Research, Education, and Extension Service, Buildings and Facilities, and supplemental requests of $2,500,000 for the U.S.-Israel Binational Agricultural Research and Development Fund program and $9,500,000 for the Food Safety and Inspection Service. The conference agreement does not include these proposals.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement deletes the administrative provision proposed by the Senate that would have allowed the Secretary to transfer funds provided in this Chapter between accounts included in this Chapter. The House bill contained no similar provision.

SEAFOOD SAFETY

The conference agreement provides that any domestic fish or fish product produced in compliance with food safety standards or procedures accepted by the Food and Drug Administration shall be deemed to have met any inspection requirements of the Department of Agriculture or other Federal agency for any Federal commodity purchase program, and that the Department or other Federal agency may utilize lot inspection to establish a reasonable degree of certainty that such fish or fish product meets Federal product specifications as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision.

FARM LOANS

The conference agreement includes language that allows the Department of Agriculture to make or guarantee an operating or an emergency loan to a loan applicant who was less than 90 days delinquent on April 4, 1996, if the loan applicant had submitted an application for the loan prior to April 5, 1996. The recently enacted Federal Agriculture Improvement and Reform Act altered conditions under which loans could be made at the time of enactment. This provision allows those borrowers, whose application had been submitted, to complete the process. The provision also provides that no applicant may be more than 90 days delinquent.

CHAPTER 1A

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION FOOD AND DRUG EXPORT REFORM

The conference agreement includes a modification of language included in both the House and Senate versions of the bill allowing the export of certain unapproved drugs, biologicals, animal drugs, and medical devices. The provision allows pharmaceuticals and medical devices not approved in the United States to be exported to any country in the world if the product complies with the laws of that country and has valid marketing authorization in one of the following countries: Australia; Canada; Israel; Japan; New Zealand; Switzerland; South Africa; or the European Union or a country in the European Economic Area. The Secretary is given authority to add countries to the list based on criteria set forth in the conference agreement.

The conference agreement also sets forth criteria upon which the Secretary may allow direct export of a drug not first approved in one of the listed countries. However, devices were not included because under current law devices may be exported to any country after the Secretary determines that the export of the device is not contrary to public health and the import is permitted into the importing country. In addition, the conference agreement sets forth conditions under which the Secretary may approve the export of a drug or device which is used for tropical diseases or other diseases not of significant prevalence in the United States. To approve an application under this section, the Secretary must find that the medical product will not expose patients to an unreasonable risk of illness or injury and that the probable health benefits outweigh the risk of injury or illness, taking into account currently available treatments and their economic accessibility.

In general, a medical product may not be exported under this provision unless it is unadulterated, accords to the specifications of the foreign manufacturer, complies with the laws of the importing country, is labeled for export, and is not sold in the U.S. The drug or device must be manufactured in substantial conformity with good manufacturing practices applicable to that specific product or else be in compliance with recognized international standards. The Secretary may prohibit exports of products which are found to pose an imminent hazard.

Any person who exports a drug or device may request the Secretary of Health and Human Services to certify in writing that the exportation is legal. A fee of up to $175 is authorized for issuance of each written export certification. The conferees intend that fees be established on a sliding scale to minimize the impact on small business.

IMPORT COMPONENTS USED FOR EXPORT

The conference agreement also allows import of certain articles, which cannot now be lawfully imported, used in the manufacture of drugs, biological products, devices, foods (including dietary supplements), food additives, and color additives if the finished products are then exported. Under this provision, importers must provide the Secretary of Health and Human Services with notification of the initial importation, maintain records of such imports, and destroy any component not used in an exported product. The agreement also allows import of certain blood and tissue products provided they comply with the Public Health Service Act requirements, or the Secretary allows such imports. The Secretary could make such a determination, for example, where a blood component is imported from a country which has laws and regulations relating to the collection and processing of blood; the products are in compliance with such requirements; the importer assures that such products are segregated from U.S. products, that contamination of equipment is prevented, and that records are maintained and made available to the Secretary to verify such assurances; and that the importer performs such tests as the Secretary may require.

PATENT EXTENSION

The conference agreement includes a provision that would extend a patent on a non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug. Congressional hearings held on this issue support the claims that the Food and Drug Administration took an unreasonable length of time in the approval process for this drug. The provision provides a two year extension.

CHAPTER 2

DEPARTMENTS OF COMMERCE, JUSTICE, AND STATE, THE JUDICIARY, AND RELATED AGENCIES

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ADMINISTRATION ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT ASSISTANCE PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes $18,000,000 for emergency expenses related to recovery and mitigation efforts associated with flooding in the Pacific Northwest and other disasters, to remain available until expended and to be available only pursuant to an official budget request that declares the funds to be emergency. The Senate bill proposed $25,000,000 for emergency expenses resulting from flooding, and $2,500,000 to be transferred to Salaries and Expenses. The House bill contained no similar provision.

NATIONAL OCEANIC AND ATMOSPHERIC ADMINISTRATION CONSTRUCTION

The conference agreement includes $7,500,000 in emergency funds for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's (NOAA) "Construction" account. The House bill provided no funds for this purpose; the Administration request was $10,000,000. These funds are to support the immediate repair of fish hatcheries along the Columbia River which experienced severe damage from the recent flooding in the Northwest.

The conferees note that the National Marine Fisheries Service funds the Mitchell Act

Hatcheries. If additional funds are needed for repairs in this instance, the conferees understand that funds are available within existing amounts at the Federal Emergency Management Administration (FEMA) and would encourage FEMA to give every consideration to applications received in relation to this flood damage.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE AND RELATED AGENCIES

DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR PROGRAMS

The conference agreement includes no emergency funding for State Department operations to offset operating costs being incurred in Bosnia as a result of the Dayton Accords, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included $2,000,000.

RELATED AGENCIES

UNITED STATES INFORMATION AGENCY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

The conference agreement includes no emergency funding for United States Information Agency operations to offset operating costs being incurred in Bosnia as a result of the Dayton Accords, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill included $1,000,000.

RELATED AGENCY

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

DISASTER LOANS PROGRAM ACCOUNT

The conference agreement provides $71,000,000 for subsidy costs associated with the SBA Disaster Loans Program, instead of $72,300,000 as proposed by the House and $69,700,000 as proposed by the Senate, as an emergency appropriation to remain available until expended, to allow for additional loan volume in response to declared disasters.

In addition, the conferees have included $29,000,000, for administrative expenses under this account, instead of $27,700,000 as proposed by the House and $30,300,000 as proposed by the Senate, as an emergency appropriation to remain available until expended, to support SBA's disaster activities in response to declared disasters.

The conferees are concerned about the manner in which SBA budgets for, and administers, disaster assistance funds. The conferees are disturbed that during development of the supplemental funding requirements, SBA identified $79,000,000 in unspent prior year funding not previously known to SBA. In addition, SBA indicated a shortfall in disaster administrative expenses, even though the conferees had already fully funded SBA's request for these expenses. The conferees expect disaster funding to be used only for the purpose for which it was provided, and to accurately budget for and administer these funds.

Therefore, the conferees direct the SBA to provide, not later than May 30, 1996, a report to the House and Senate Appropriations Committees on the obligation of administrative expenses funding to date in fiscal year 1996, and to provide an updated report on August 15, 1996. These reports should identify the following: (1) each headquarters' office receiving administrative funding, the total funding provided, and the number of FTE supported; (2) the total funding and FTE (permanent and temporary) provided to each field location, the date the field location was established, the expected duration of employment for temporary employees for each location, and the expected termination date for each location; and (3) the total loan volume by location.

CHAPTER 3

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—CIVIL

GENERAL INVESTIGATIONS

The conference agreement includes language contained in section 3007 of the Senate bill to permit the Secretary of the Army to utilize funds previously appropriated for the St. Louis Harbor, Missouri, project for the Upper Mississippi River and Illinois Waterway navigation study. The conferees agree that they will work to restore funds to the St. Louis Harbor project in the future as needed.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, GENERAL

The conference agreement includes $30,000,000, the same as the budget request, for the repair of damages to Corps of Engineers projects caused by severe flooding in the Northeast and Northwest as proposed by the House and the Senate. The conferees have also agreed to adopt the language contained in the House bill.

FLOOD CONTROL AND COASTAL EMERGENCIES

The conference agreement includes $135,000,000, the same as the budget request and the amount proposed by the House and the Senate, for the Corps of Engineers to repair damage to non-Federal levees and other flood control works located in states affected by the Northeast and Northwest floods of 1996 and other natural disasters, and to replenish funds transferred from other accounts for emergency work pursuant to the authority of the Secretary of the Army contained in Public Law 84-99. The conferees have also agreed to adopt the language contained in the House bill.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

CONSTRUCTION PROGRAM

The conference agreement includes $9,000,000, the same as the budget request and the amount proposed by the House and the Senate, for the Bureau of Reclamation to continue emergency repairs at Folsom Dam in California. The conferees have also agreed to delete funding requested by the President and proposed by the Senate for the payment of claims associated with flooding in March of 1995 in California's San Joaquin Valley.

DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

OTHER DEFENSE ACTIVITIES

The conference agreement includes an additional $15,000,000 to accelerate activities in the Materials Protection, Control and Accounting program to improve facilities and institute national standards to secure stockpiles of weapons usable fissile materials in Russia and the Newly Independent States. No similar provision was included in the House bill, the Senate bill, or the budget request.

POWER MARKETING ADMINISTRATIONS

CONSTRUCTION, REHABILITATION, OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, WESTERN AREA POWER ADMINISTRATION

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement provides for the transfer of $5,500,000 from this account to the account "Operation and Maintenance, Alaska Power Administration", as proposed by the House bill and budget request, only for necessary termination expenses of the Alaska Power Administration. The Senate bill did not contain this provision.

FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION

The conference agreement deletes language contained in section 3017 of the Senate bill providing for a limited waiver of annual charges for the Flint Creek Project in Montana.

CHAPTER 4

FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS

FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

UNANTICIPATED NEEDS

UNANTICIPATED NEEDS FOR DEFENSE OF ISRAEL AGAINST TERRORISM

The conference agreement provides $50,000,000 for emergency expenses necessary to meet unanticipated needs for the acquisition and provision of goods, services, and/or grants for Israel necessary to support the eradication of terrorism in and around Israel as proposed by the Senate. The conferees further agree that none of the funds appropriated in this paragraph shall be made available except through the regular notification procedures of the Committee on Appropriations. The conferees expect the aid to be provided consistent with information transmitted to the Committees on Appropriations in a classified document on March 25, 1996. The House bill contained no similar provision.

MILITARY ASSISTANCE

FOREIGN MILITARY FINANCING PROGRAM

The conference agreement provides $70,000,000 for grant Foreign Military Financing for Jordan as proposed by both the House and Senate. The conference agreement also provides that such funds may be used for Jordan to finance transfers by lease of defense articles under chapter 6 of the Arms Export Control Act. These funds will be used to support the transfer of 16 F-16 fighter aircraft to the Government of Jordan. The conferees also note that the overall downsizing of the U.S. defense industry is costing thousands of American defense-related jobs. The conferees therefore direct the Department of Defense to give priority consideration to American defense firms in awarding contracts for upgrades and other major improvements to these aircraft prior to their delivery to the Government of Jordan.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR AND RELATED AGENCIES

Agency Priorities. The managers have not agreed to statutory language, proposed by the Senate in section 1203 of Title II, chapter 12, which would have mandated the allocation of emergency supplemental funds based on agency prioritization processes. The managers understand that the initial estimates of emergency requirements that have been provided are based on very preliminary information and that those initial estimates, because of time constraints, may not have included every project which needs to be addressed. The managers expect each agency to develop on-the-ground estimates of all its natural disaster related needs and to address these needs consistent with agency priorities.

Contingent Appropriations. The availability of those portions of the appropriations detailed in this chapter that are in excess of the Administration's budget request for emergency supplemental appropriations are contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amounts as emergency requirements as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

An additional $5,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction and Access is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $4,242,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $758,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

OREGON AND CALIFORNIA GRANT LANDS

An additional $35,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Oregon and California Grant Lands is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $19,548,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $15,452,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

UNITED STATES FISH AND WILDLIFE SERVICE

RESOURCE MANAGEMENT

An additional $1,600,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Resource Management is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of no funding as proposed by the House. The entire amount is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

CONSTRUCTION

An additional $37,300,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $20,505,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $16,795,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

The managers have neither agreed to bill language, proposed by the Senate, earmarking specific funds for Devils Lake, ND nor to report language earmarking funds for other locations. The Service should carefully consider the needs at Devils Lake, ND and at Kenai, AK as it allocates funds.

CONSTRUCTION

An additional $47,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Construction is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $33,601,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $13,399,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

UNITED STATES GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

An additional $2,000,000 in emergency supplemental appropriations for Surveys, Investigations, and Research is made available as proposed by the Senate instead of $1,176,000 as proposed by the House. Of this amount, $824,000 is contingent upon receipt of a budget request that includes a Presidential designation of such amount as an emergency requirement as defined in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended.

CHAPTER 6

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION

NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION SECURITY INVESTMENT PROGRAM

The conference agreement includes an additional $37,500,000 for the NATO Security Investment Program, as provided in both the House and Senate bills. In addition, the conference agreement includes rescissions totaling $37,500,000 to offset this additional appropriation, as explained in Title III of this report.

GENERAL PROVISION

The conferees agree to language proposed by the Senate which gives the Secretary of the Army discretionary authority to convey approximately five acres of land in Hale County, Alabama. The House bill contained no similar provision.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—MILITARY SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS

The House recommended a total of $782,500,000, designated as emergency appropriations pursuant to the Budget Act, for additional incremental U.S. military costs associated with the Bosnia operation, including the NATO-led Peace Implementation Force (IFOR) and Operation Deny Flight. The Senate recommended $777,700,000 in new appropriations, none of which were designated emergency. The House and Senate each fully offset their respective supplemental funding through rescissions of funds previously provided in Department of Defense Appropriations Acts.

The conference agreement provides a total of $820,000,000, all designated as emergency appropriations. This amount is fully offset by rescissions contained in Title III, Chapter 6 of the conference agreement. A summary of the conference agreement by appropriations account is as follows:

(Dollars in thousands)

MILITARY PERSONNEL

The conference agreement recommends a total of $298,800,000 for costs of active and reserve military personnel pay and allowances. The conferees believe they have met the most urgent military personnel requirements for the Bosnia operation, and expect the Department to keep the Committees on Appropriations advised of any revisions to these estimates.

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

The Department of Defense requested a total of $270,500,000 for operation and maintenance to fund the incremental costs of U.S. participation in the NATO-led Bosnia Peace Implementation Force (IFOR). The conferees recommend $495,200,000, an increase of $224,700,000 above the supplemental request, to provide for additional requirements of the Army and the Air Force.

PROCUREMENT

COMPOSITE SHAFT FAIRWATERS

The Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 1996 contained $3,000,000 in "Other Procurement, Navy" for procurement of composite shaft fairwaters for CG-47 cruisers. The Navy recently conducted testing of composite shaft fairwaters and demonstrated extended life, reduced maintenance, and improved capability for removing fairwaters while a ship is waterborne. The Navy concluded, however, that the most-cost effective approach is to incorporate this new technology into Aegis destroyers while under construction rather than to retrofit Aegis cruisers. The conferees therefore direct the Under Secretary of Defense (Comptroller) to submit a fiscal year 1996 transfer of $3,000,000 from "Other Procurement, Navy" to Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy" using standard reprogramming procedures.

RESEARCH, DEVELOPMENT, TEST AND EVALUATION

BALLISTIC MISSILE DEFENSE MANAGEMENT AND SUPPORT

The conferees note that a total increase to the budget of $528,939,000 was provided for Ballistic Missile Defense programs in the Department of Defense Appropriations Act, 1996. This total included a recommendation contained in the National Defense Authorization Act, 1996, which cut $30,000,000 from the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization's (BMDO) Program Management and Support program element.

In executing the additional tasks and responsibilities required by the fiscal year 1996 program funding increases, it has become clear that the burden on the BMDO Program Management and Support program element has actually increased. To minimize this impact, Congressional action to date in proposed reprogrammings and rescissions has rejected the application of any inflation reductions to BMDO accounts. This bill includes a provision which further prohibits the application of any portion of the proposed inflation reductions against BMDO program elements.

However, these restorations still leave BMDO with the challenge of managing activities in the appropriate program elements. Therefore, the conferees hereby restore the $30,000,000 reduction made to the Program Management and Support program element. BMDO shall internally manage this restoration by reallocating funds previously identified as excess because of decreased inflation estimates. The inflation decreases shall be applied proportionally to each BMDO RDT&E program element and project. The Director, BMDO, shall provide the congressional defense committees a statement detailing the specific decreases as applied to all program elements.

DEFENSE ADVANCED RESEARCH PROJECTS AGENCY

The conferees direct that $500,000 of the funds provided for the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency may be available to purchase photographic technology to support research in detonation physics. The director of Defense Research and Engineering shall provide the congressional defense committees with a plan for the acquisition and use of this instrument no later than May 29, 1996.

JOINT DOD-DOE MUNITIONS TECHNOLOGY DEVELOPMENT

The conferees direct that $2,000,000 of the fiscal year 1996 funds allocated to the Joint DOD-DOE Munitions Technology Development program element shall be used to develop and test an open-architecture machine tool controller.

ELECTRONIC COMMERCE RESOURCE CENTERS

The FY 1996 Defense Appropriations conference agreement directed the transfer of the managerial responsibility for the Electronic Commerce Resource Centers program to the Defense Logistics Agency. Information from the Department has subsequently come to the conferees' attention indicating that the next implementation stage for this program can best be accomplished under the direction of Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Logistics. The conferees endorse such action and direct that a transfer of ECRC managerial responsibility to the Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Logistics be accomplished expeditiously under the overall program guidance expressed in the FY 1996 Defense Appropriations conference report.

GENERAL TRANSFER AUTHORITY

Section 2701 of the conference agreement amends both House and Senate provisions regarding the amount of additional transfer authority provided under Section 8005 of the Department of Defense Appropriations Act for Fiscal Year 1996, by providing $700,000,000 in additional transfer authority. The conferees direct that the additional transfer authority provided herein shall be available only to the extent funds are transferred, or have been transferred during the current fiscal year to cover costs associated with United States military operations in support of the NATO-led Peace Implementation Force (IFOR) in and around the former Yugoslavia.

F-15E AIRCRAFT

The conference agreement includes a technical amendment (Section 2702) requested by the Department of Defense and contained in the Senate bill, which is needed to permit the obligation of funding which was both authorized and appropriated in fiscal year 1996 for the procurement and advance procurement of F-15E aircraft.

C-17 MULTIYEAR PROCUREMENT

The conferees strongly support the multiyear procurement of eighty C-17 advanced transport aircraft and have agreed to bill language (Section 2703) authorizing the Air Force to begin a seven-year multiyear program.

However, the conferees also agree that additional savings potentially can be generated from an accelerated multiyear procurement of the C-17 over six program years. Therefore, Section 2703 also directs the Secretary of Defense to enter into negotiations with the C-17 aircraft and engine prime contractors for contract alternatives for multiyear procurement over a six-year period.

The conference agreement prevents the exercise of the multiyear authority until the Secretary of Defense certifies that the Air Force will save more than 5 percent in the price for eighty C-17 aircraft under a multiyear contract as compared to annual lot procurement. The savings must exceed the total amount of $895.3 million shown in the "Multiyear Procurement Criteria Program: C-17" document submitted to the Appropriations Committees on February 29, 1996.

In calculating the savings from the multiyear proposals, the conferees direct that the weapon system budget estimates submitted with the C-17 multiyear procurement exhibits be used as the baseline. The conferees also direct that in conjunction with the certification required by section 2703(c) of the C-17 multiyear bill language, the Secretary of Defense shall submit a new multiyear justification exhibit package which reflects the additional savings achieved over the original multiyear proposal submitted by the Administration.

The conferees believe that the seven-year authority should enable the Air Force to generate savings significantly in excess of the $895.3 million reflected in the original multiyear proposal. It is the conferees' intent that the additional savings should be realized from multiyear contracts currently being negotiated. In addition, the conferees believe that a six-year multiyear plan has the potential to generate even greater savings.

The conferees also agree to provisions delaying the exercise of the multiyear authority to the earlier of May 24, 1996, or the day after enactment of a subsequent Act authorizing entry into a C-17 multiyear contract. The Secretary of Defense also is required to provide a detailed program plan for a six-year multiyear procurement by May 24, 1996.

SEMATECH

Section 2704 of the conference agreement amends a Senate amendment and provides $50,000,000 for SEMATECH. This amount is fully offset by rescissions in Title III, Chapter 6 of the conference report.

OVERSEAS HUMANITARIAN, DISASTER, AND CIVIC AID

The conference agreement includes Section 2705, as proposed by the Senate, which provides authority to transfer up to $15,000,000 in support of specific activities associated with humanitarian assistance activities related to landmines.

ENVIRONMENTAL RESTORATION ACTIVITIES

Section 2706 of the conference agreement amends a Senate provision making $15,000,000 of "Operation and Maintenance, Army" funding available in order to complete the Army's remaining environmental remediation activities in recognition of its 1988 agreement with National Presto Industries, Inc.

DISCHARGE OF HIV-POSITIVE SERVICEMEMBERS

B-52 FORCE STRUCTURE

Section 2708 of the conference agreement amends a Senate provision and adds $44,900,000 to "Operation and Maintenance, Air Force" for the operation and maintenance of 94 B-52H bomber aircraft in active status or in attrition reserve. This amount is fully offset by rescissions in Title III, Chapter 6 of the conference report. The conferees express their intent to not recommend additional funding for B-52 aircraft in excess of the Air Force's stated requirements unless the Air Force revises its bomber force inventory estimates.

MINE COUNTERMEASURES

Section 2709 of the conference agreement includes an additional $10,000,000 for Shallow Mine Countermeasure Demonstrations. This restores a general reduction made to this account earlier in fiscal year 1996. These additional funds are fully offset by rescissions in Title III, Chapter 6 of the conference report. The conferees believe the navy has recently presented a more compelling strategy for developing countermine warfare technology centered around a joint exercise with Army, Navy, and Marine Corps forces of the U.S. Atlantic Command in 1998. The additional funds provided in the conference agreement will enable the Navy to test a number of promising technologies that would otherwise miss the 1998 exercise completely or else be demonstrated at less than full scale. The Navy has indicated that it plans to use $5,000,000 to allow the Advanced Lightweight Influence Sweep System to be tested in the 1998 exercise with a full scale magnet, and $5,000,000 would be used for the Explosive Neutralization Advanced Technology Demonstration and Advanced Degaussing.

ARMY MEDICAL RESEARCH

Section 2710 of the conference agreement transfers $8,000,000 of previously appropriated "Defense Health Program" funds to the "Research, Development, Test and Evaluation, Army" account in order to continue research of neurofibromatosis. The Army has an ongoing successful research program in this area. This makes a technical clarification to the designation for this activity in the Fiscal Year 1996 Defense Appropriations conference agreement and involves no additional funds.

COUNTER-DRUG SUPPORT

Section 2711 of the conference agreement authorizes the Department to make grants to local counternarcotic task forces in a high crime, low income area under its Counter Drug program to provide Kevlar vests for enhanced personal protection.

HAVE GAZE

In section 2712 the conferees have recommended language to clarify Section 8105 of Public Law 104-61 with respect to the use of fiscal year 1995 funds appropriated for this Air Force RDT&E program.

DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION

PAYMENTS TO AIR CARRIERS

(AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)

The conference agreement includes language that limits obligations from the airport and airway trust fund to $22,600,000 for payments to air carriers, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision.

This limitation permits the obligation of general fund carryover balances to pay outstanding commitments in fiscal year 1996.

(HIGHWAY TRUST FUND)

The conference agreement appropriates $300,000,000 for the emergency fund to cover expenses resulting from the flooding in the Mid-Atlantic, Northeast, and Northwest states, and other disasters, as proposed by the Senate instead of $267,000,000 as proposed by the House.

The conference agreement waives the provisions of 23 U.S.C. 125(b)(1), which limit obligations to a single state resulting from a single natural disaster to $100,000,000, as proposed by the Senate. The House bill contained no similar provision.

FEDERAL RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION

LOCAL RAIL FREIGHT ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement deletes the Senate appropriation of $10,000,000 to repair and rebuild rail lines of other than class I railroads damaged as a result of the floods of 1996. The House bill contained no similar appropriation.

FEDERAL TRANSIT ADMINISTRATION

(HIGHWAY TRUST FUND)

The conference agreement includes an appropriation of $375,000,000 to liquidate contract authority obligations for mass transit capital programs as proposed by both the House and Senate.

RELATED AGENCIES

PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION

PANAMA CANAL REVOLVING FUND

The conference agreement increases the limitation on administrative expenses of the Panama Canal Commission by $2,000,000, to be derived from the Panama Canal revolving fund, as proposed by the House. The Senate bill contained no similar provision.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The conference agreement deletes the Senate provision that allows $3,250,000 of the Federal Transit Administration's discretionary grants program for Kauai, Hawaii, to be used for operating expenses. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision that requires the Federal Highway Administration to make available up to $28,000,000 in federal-aid obligation limitations to the State of Missouri to make obligations for construction of a new bridge in Hannibal, Missouri, from limitation set asides for discretionary programs or limitation on general operating expenses for fiscal year 1996. The provision further requires restoration of that limitation before any funds made available for the August redistribution prescribed in section 310 of Public Law 104-50 may be distributed. This provision shall not affect the federal-aid bonus limitation provided by section 310. The Senate bill contained a provision that advances emergency relief funds to the State of Missouri for the replacement in kind of the Hannibal bridge on the Mississippi River. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision that permits the state of Vermont to use up to $3,500,000 of the discretionary grants identified in the conference agreement accompanying Public Law 104-50 provided to the state and the marble Valley Regional Transit District for improvements to support commuter rail operations on the Clarendon-Pittsford rail line between White Hall, New York, and Rutland, Vermont. The Senate bill allowed the State of Vermont to obligate funds apportioned to the state under the surface transportation and congestion mitigation and air quality improvement programs for railroad capital and/or operating expenses. The House bill contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes language that provides the administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration discretion to take into consideration unique circumstances in the State of Alaska when making certain changes to specified regulations, effective until June 1, 1997. The House and Senate bills contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision that specifies that the unobligated funds provided for the Chicago central area circulator project in Public Law 103-122 and Public Law 103-331 be available only for constructing a 5.2-mile light rail loop within the downtown Chicago business district as described in the full funding grant agreement signed on December 15, 1994, and shall not be available for any other purpose. The House and Senate bills contained no similar provision.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Deletes provision proposed by the Senate as part of the Administration's initiative to combat middle eastern terrorism, which included $3,000,000 for the Office of Foreign Assets Control.

UNITED STATES CUSTOMS SERVICE

CUSTOMS SERVICES AT SMALL AIRPORTS

Deletes provision in P.L. 104-52 capping collections for Customs services at small airports at $1,406,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate had no comparable provision.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS—INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

Amends P.L. 104-52 by adding a new provision which sets a floor on the level of service, staffing, and funding for IRS taxpayer service operations as proposed by the House. The Senate had no comparable provision.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT AND FUNDS APPROPRIATED TO THE PRESIDENT

OFFICE OF NATIONAL DRUG CONTROL POLICY

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

Provides that $1,000,000 of the amounts available to the Counter-Drug Technology

Assessment Center shall be used for conferences on model State drug laws as proposed by the House. The Senate had no comparable provision.

Appropriates an additional $3,400,000 for the salaries and expenses of the Office of National Drug Control Policy as requested by the Administration, instead of no additional funding as proposed by the House and $3,900,000 as proposed by the Senate. This will provide resources for an additional 80 full-time equivalent positions and overhead expenses for 30 military detailees, raising the complement of ONDCP to 154 positions by the end of the fiscal year.

ONDCP has a strategic mission: to aid and oversee operational agencies in coordinating the national drug control policy. The Congress never intended ONDCP to become an operational entity, but instead to formulate, direct, and oversee the implementation of the annual drug control strategy using the expertise of line agencies. The conferees are concerned that a rapid expansion in staffing that is not carefully thought out will result in ONDCP duplicating the functions of already existing programs and agencies.

To ensure that this does not occur, the conferees direct the Director of ONDCP to submit a detailed staffing plan to the House and Senate Committees on Appropriations within 30 days of enactment of this legislation. Such plan shall include an organizational chart, a detailed description of the function of each component of the office, and a detailed description of the duties associated with each position.

COMMISSION ON RESTRUCTURING THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

Includes a provision which increases, by four, the membership of the Commission on Restructuring the Internal Revenue Service as proposed by the Senate. The House had no comparable provision.

DEPARTMENTS OF VETERANS AFFAIRS AND HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT AND INDEPENDENT AGENCIES DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

COMMUNITY PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT GRANTS

The Conferees agree to provide $50,000,000 for the Department of Housing and Urban Development Community Development Block Grant Program for emergency activities related to recent Presidentially declared flood disasters.

FEDERAL EMERGENCY MANAGEMENT AGENCY DISASTER RELIEF (INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

The conference agreement includes language allowing up to $104,000,000 by transfer from the disaster relief account to the disaster assistance direct loan program account for the cost of direct loans as authorized by section 417 of the Stafford Act. Language is included which limits community disaster loan authority to $119,000,000, requires that the Director of FEMA certify that the provisions of section 417 of the Stafford Act will be complied with and requires that the entire amount of this transfer is available only to the extent that an official budget request for a specific dollar amount is forwarded to the Congress. The Conferees fully expect that these terms be complied with in an expeditious manner so as to release necessary loan funds to meet known emergency disaster needs of the Virgin Islands.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

WAIVER OF STATUTES OR REGULATIONS FOR ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement retains a provision proposed by the Senate allowing the Secretary of any department to waive any statute or regulation that the Secretary administers in connection with the obligation of funds for domestic assistance. The Secretary may also specify alternative requirements to the statutes or regulation being waived. Civil rights, fair housing and non-discrimination, the environment, and labor standards statutes and regulations could not be waived. The Secretary must find that the waiver is required to facilitate the obligation of the assistance and would not be inconsistent with the statute or regulation being waived. The House bill contained no similar provision.

This provision has been included in past disaster appropriations bills. The managers expect this provision to be implemented in a manner similar to past practices and only in those cases where not waiving the statutes or regulations would cause unnecessary and significant delays in assistance.

PRIORITIES OF ALLOCATION OF EMERGENCY FUNDS

The conference agreement deletes a provision proposed by the Senate that funds for emergency or disaster assistance programs for USDA, HUD, EDA, SBA, the National Park Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service could be allocated in accordance with the prioritization process of the respective department. The House bill contained no similar provision.

In developing this conference agreement, the managers have carefully developed the priority considerations for funding the various activities included in it. For the most part, there are no restricting allocations imposed in this conference agreement on the funding provided for disaster assistance. Priorities on allocations have only been imposed where specific concerns needed to be addressed. Because these matters were addressed on a case by case basis, the general provision has been deleted.

DISASTER ASSISTANCE OFFSETS

The conference agreement deletes a provision proposed by the Senate that the conference agreement should include sufficient reductions and savings to offset the funding provided for disaster assistance. The House bill, which did include offsets for disaster funding, contained no similar provision. Since this conference agreement does include the necessary offsets, this provision has been complied with and is no longer necessary.

BUDGET TREATMENT OF DISASTER ASSISTANCE

The conference agreement deletes a provision proposed by the Senate to have Congress address the manner in which disaster assistance is provided and develop a long-term funding plan for the budget treatment of disaster assistance funding. The House bill contained no similar provision.

This matter has been reviewed several times, and the managers agree that another review and analysis would only delay any decision on possible changes in how the budget treatment of these type appropriations is handled. The conferees agree that the results of previous analyses should be considered as future budget resolutions are developed to see if any changes might be warranted.

RESTRICTION ON EXPENDITURES

The conference agreement deletes a provision proposed by the Senate that would have restricted non-defense expenditures to certain fixed amounts if the funds in this conference agreement and other previous Acts would cause these amounts to be exceeded. The House bill contained no similar provision.

Because the funding included in this conference agreement is either within the spending limits or is offset herein, this provision is no longer necessary.

ADDITIONAL SUPPLEMENTAL APPROPRIATIONS

On April 12, 1996, the President forwarded to the Congress a supplemental appropriations request for various counter-drug programs. The conferees express their intent to fund these additional requirements in the fiscal year 1997 appropriations process.

TITLE III.—RESCISSIONS AND OFFSETS

CHAPTER 1

ENERGY AND WATER DEVELOPMENT

SUBCHAPTER A—UNITED STATES ENRICHMENT CORPORATION PRIVATIZATION

The conference agreement includes language contained in the Senate bill authorizing the Board of Directors of the United States Enrichment Corporation to transfer the interest of the United States in the United States Enrichment Corporation to the private sector.

SUBCHAPTER B—BONNEVILLE POWER ADMINISTRATION REFINANCING

The conference agreement includes language contained in section 3003 of the Senate bill regarding refinancing of Bonneville Power Administration debt.

CHAPTER 2

FOREIGN OPERATIONS, EXPORT FINANCING, AND RELATED PROGRAMS

EXPORT AND INVESTMENT ASSISTANCE

EXPORT-IMPORT BANK OF THE UNITED STATES

SUBSIDY APPROPRIATION (RESCISSION)

The conference agreement rescinds $42,000,000 of the unobligated balances available under this heading instead of $41,000,000 as proposed by the House. The Senate had proposed a rescission of $25,000,000 from funds made available under this heading in Public Law 104-107.

CHAPTER 3

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR AND RELATED AGENCIES

STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE

The managers have agreed to sell $227,000,000 worth of oil from the Weeks Island site of the Strategic Petroleum Reserve (SPR). The Weeks Island site in Louisiana is currently being decommissioned and the oil is being relocated to other SPR locations because of a water intrusion problem. This sale is proposed to offset partially additional funding provided for high priority education programs identified by the Administration. To pay for decommissioning of the site, 5.1 million barrels of the 70 million barrels of Weeks Island oil have already been sold in fiscal year 1996. An additional 12 million to 15 million barrels will need to be sold to realize $227 million in revenues.

CHAPTER 4

DEPARTMENTS OF LABOR, HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES, AND EDUCATION

DEPARTMENTS OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

The conference agreement includes a provision as proposed by the Senate rescinding funding available but unclaimed by States under the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills program.

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

The conference agreement includes a provision that was not included in either the House or Senate bill reducing the amount of new funding for the Pell Grant program by $53,446,000. Because of the substantial amount of funding carrying forward in FY 1996 from previous appropriations, this reduction will not reduce the amount of funding actually expended for Pell Grants in FY 1996.

The conference agreement does not include a general provision proposed by the Senate (section 3014) that expressed the sense of the Senate with respect to funding for the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

MILITARY CONSTRUCTION (RESCISSIONS)

The conference agreement rescinds a total of $37,500,000 from funds appropriated for fiscal year 1996 (Public Law 104-32), instead of no rescissions as proposed by both the House and the Senate. The conferees agree to rescind the following sums from the following accounts:

Military Construction, Army .....	$6,385,000
Military Construction, Navy .....	6,385,000
Military Construction, Air Force .....	6,385,000
Military Construction, De- fense-wide .....	18,345,000
Total .....	37,500,000

The conferees agree to rescissions in the Army, Navy, and Air Force accounts in order to bring the fiscal year 1996 appropriation amounts into conformance with authorization. The conferees emphasize that the construction programs funded by these accounts will not be changed by these rescissions, and that no project will be reduced in scope or canceled.

With regard to the "Military Construction, Defense-wide" account, the conferees agree to the following rescissions:

Energy Conservation In- vestment Program .....	$10,000,000
Planning and Design .....	8,345,000
Total .....	18,345,000

In the case of the Energy Conservation Investment Program, the conferees agree to the rescission of $10,000,000 in order to bring the program into conformance with authorization, and $40,000,000 remains available for this program in fiscal year 1996. In the case of Planning and Design funds, the conferees agree to the rescission of $8,345,000 which is not required at this time, and $60,492,000 remains available in fiscal year 1996.

DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE—MILITARY RESCISSIONS

The House and Senate bills contained rescissions proposed by the President or transfers of previously appropriated Department of Defense funding in order to fully offset the new defense appropriations in their respective bills. In this chapter, the conferees recommend total rescissions of $994,900,000, which totally offset the new appropriations contained in Title II, Chapter 7 of the conference report, as well as funds provided for the transfer of F-16 aircraft to Jordan in Title II, Chapter 4.

A summary of rescissions showing House, Senate, and conference recommendations by appropriation account is in the following table:

Appropriation	House	Senate	Con- ference

(RESCISSION)

The conferees have agreed to rescind $3,400,000 from funds made available to the General Services Administration (GSA) for installment acquisition payments instead of the $3,500,000 rescission as proposed by the Senate and no rescission as proposed by the House. This rescission offsets the $3,400,000 in new budget authority for the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP) as discussed in Chapter 9 of Title II of this Act.

The conferees have agreed to no rescission of funds made available to GSA for advance design ($200,000) and the U.S. Tax Court ($200,000) as proposed by the Senate. The House did not address this rescission.

DISASTER RELIEF

(RESCISSION)

The conferees have proposed a rescission of $1,000,000,000 of disaster relief funds to help off-set appropriations levels provided in H.R. 3019. Such disaster funds were provided in the disaster relief and disaster relief contingency fund accounts in Public Law 104-19.

The conferees expect that this rescission will leave the Federal Emergency Management Agency approximately $1,300,000,000 short of known or expected requirements by the end of fiscal year 1997. As such, it is expected that FEMA will request an appropriate supplemental budget request to meet necessary requirements at an early point during fiscal year 1997.

DEBT COLLECTION IMPROVEMENTS

The conferees have agreed to include and amend a provision proposed by the Senate which addresses debt collection improvements, instead of no provision as proposed by the House. The conferees have modified the provision so that it more closely resembles the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1995, as developed by the Government Reform and Oversight Committee of the House of Representatives. The conferees have not included language as proposed by the Senate which would have permitted non-judicial foreclosure of mortgages.

The conferees direct that the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) provide coordination and oversight for development and implementation of the debt collection program created by this section. Additionally, with regard to the Debt Collection Improvement Account, the conferees direct the OMB to determine the baseline from which the increased collections are measured over the prior fiscal year, taking into account the recommendations made by the Secretary of the Treasury in consultation with creditor agencies.

The conferees strongly support repayment of delinquent government debt by all those who can afford to do so. However, the conferees recognize that those who receive federal benefits, particularly Social Security benefits, may be dependent upon them for a substantial part of their income. In order to avoid unreasonable hardship, the conferees insist that any federal debt collection effort give full consideration to the financial situation of the individual who may repay the debt.

By definition, recipients of Social Security benefits are elderly or totally disabled workers and their dependents, or the surviving dependents of deceased workers. The conferees intend that in cases where such benefits are involved, it is particularly important for the Treasury Department as well as all other Executive Branch organizations involved in developing regulations to implement this provision, to create regulatory safeguards which separate those debtors who cannot repay from those who refuse to pay. In particular, those who have become delinquent because of personal hardship, such as debilitating disability, or death of the breadwinner, and who may therefore be unable, rather than unwilling, to repay, must be protected if administrative offset of those benefits would cause undue financial hardship. Such safeguards are critical when benefits such as Social Security are the sole or major source of income for the debtor.

The conferees want to ensure that the Department of the Treasury regulations governing new debt collection procedures will be cautiously and thoughtfully implemented, providing full safeguards for beneficiaries. Recognizing the dependence of those receiving federal benefits on those benefits, the conferees direct that the Treasury Department limit automatic withholding of benefits above the $9,000 annual exemption to a reasonable percentage of those benefits, not to exceed 15 percent. Of course, debtors wishing to repay more would be free to do so by remittance or other voluntary means.

The conferees agree that it is particularly important to recognize that individual circumstances change and even an individual with a good repayment record could face a personal or financial misfortune that makes further repayment difficult, if not impossible. For example, the death of the family breadwinner, despite the payment of survivor benefits, could indicate a substantial loss of income to a family. To suddenly or excessively reduce a surviving dependent's benefits could further threaten an already precarious economic situation for the affected dependent.

CONTINGENT APPROPRIATIONS

The conference agreement does not include any appropriations which would have been available only on the enactment of subsequent legislation that would have credited the Committees on Appropriations with sufficient savings to offset these appropriations. The House bill and the Senate amendment both contained this type of contingent appropriations but in different amounts. In lieu of providing any such contingent appropriations the conference agreement includes regular appropriations and offsetting savings above the regular appropriations or offset amounts in either the House or Senate passed versions of the bill. The additional amount of offsets result in this conference agreement being within the designated spending limits.

ENVIRONMENTAL INITIATIVES

The conference agreement does not include a separate title on environmental initiatives as proposed by the Senate. Instead these issues have been addressed in other parts of the conference agreement.

DISCLOSURE OF LOBBYING ACTIVITIES BY FEDERAL GRANTEES

The conference agreement deletes a provision requiring disclosure of lobbying activities by Federal grantees as proposed by the House. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

DEFICIT REDUCTION LOCK-BOX

The conference agreement deletes a provision proposed by the House that would have reduced the Committees on Appropriations spending allocations when spending reduction amendments are adopted during consideration of appropriations bills in either body. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

CONFERENCE TOTAL—WITH COMPARISONS

The total new budget (obligational) authority for the fiscal year 1996 recommended by the Committee of Conference, with comparisons to the fiscal year 1995 amount, the 1996 budget estimates, and the House and Senate bills for 1996 follow:

VOTE ON THE MINIMUM WAGE

The Speaker pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. CLAYTON] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, a vote on the minimum wage should no longer be blocked by the majority leadership. This last vote to prevent a vote on the minimum wage by this body is out of step with the American people. The American people want a vote—at least 8 out of 10 of them.

Democrats want a vote—some 119 are cosponsors of the minimum wage bill.

At least 23 Republican House members want a vote.

A vote on the minimum wage increase is unavoidable.

The majority leader continues to resist a vote, showing a lack a compassion and understanding for the plight of poor, working families.

Let's have a vote now.

Some 13 million American workers deserve an increase in the minimum wage because it is the fair thing to do—it is the right thing to do.

Minimum wage workers now earn about 50 cents less than they earned 40 years ago if the value of what they earned then is compared to the value of what they earn now.

It is discouraging, Mr. Speaker, for a citizen to work, full-time, and see their earnings go down, while corporate profits and executive salaries continue to go up.

It is even more disheartening when some in Congress are pushing for a tax break for these same wealthy executives, while pushing for a tax increase on America's workers.

Eliminating the earned income tax credit, which primarily benefits the working poor, while refusing to raise the minimum wage, is unfair and unjust.

The 117,000 minimum wage workers in North Carolina, and the millions of others throughout the United States, deserve better.

Middle- and moderate-income Americans now feel the squeeze between profits and wages as much as the low income and the unemployed.

Almost half of the money in America is in the hands of just 20 percent of the people. That top 20 percent is made up of families with the highest incomes. The bottom 20 percent has less than 5 percent of the money in their hands. A modest increase in the minimum wage could help the bottom 20 percent, and, it will not hurt the top 20 percent.

The President has proposed such a modest increase in the minimum wage—an increase of 90 cents, over 2 years. Such an increase would mean an additional $1,800 a year for the working poor.

That amount of money makes a big difference in the ability of families to buy food and shelter, to pay for energy to heat their homes, and to be able to clothe, care for, and educate their children.

That amount of money makes the difference between families with abundance and families in poverty. An increase in the minimum wage won't provide abundance, but it can raise working families out of poverty.

While the cost of bread, milk, eggs, a place to sleep, heat, clothing to wear, a bus ride, and a visit to the doctor has been going up, the income of low-, moderate-, and middle-income people has been going down.

Without an increase in the minimum wage, those with little money end up with less money. That is because the cost of living continues to rise.

Let's bring minimum wages into the modern age. Let's support H.R. 940, a bill that will help create a livable wage for millions of workers by permitting a modest increase in the minimum wage.

This Congress should pass the minimum wage increase.

It is the right thing to do. It is the fair thing to do.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentlewoman yield?

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to point out that I am one of those Republicans who strongly supports the increase in the minimum wage, believes that it ought to be coupled with welfare reform. I know the gentlewoman has been very outspoken in regards to her feelings regarding welfare reform, but I would certainly hope that we could pursue this issue on a bipartisan basis with the ultimate goal of making work more attractive than welfare.

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I agree with the gentleman.

Mr. RIGGS. The principal reason that I support the increase in the minimum wage is so an entry-level minimum-wage job will ultimately pay more than welfare benefits do currently in the aggregate for those folks who want to make that difficult transition, with proper support and assistance from the Government and from taxpayers, from welfare to work. I wanted to point that out to her.

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, I welcome the gentleman's comment. I think we should make work pay. When we do not make work pay, we make work a burden, so those who are on welfare will want to stay on welfare if they cannot find enough to provide for their basics. Raising the minimum wage will allow for people to be self-supporting and to provide for their families, without the Government having to do it.

So it is not inconsistent. I think it is consistent with a good welfare reform system, a good minimum wage, so increase the minimum wage as we move people to work. I appreciate the gentleman's remarks.

ARMS EMBARGO IN BOSNIA

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from California [Mr. COX] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. COX of California. Mr. Speaker, during his recent circumnavigation of the planet, President Clinton told the G-7 summit leaders that they should join with him in urging Russia to put the squeeze on Iranian mullahs who are shipping arms, in particular shipping arms to the Hezbollah guerrillas in Lebanon.

While the President was calling on our allies to pressure Iran, and while the President and the Clinton administration were calling the Iranian terrorists, quote, "the main source of international terrorism," and while publicly condemning Iran's shipment of arms to the Hezbollah guerrillas in Lebanon, Bill Clinton was secretly and simultaneously conniving at even bigger Iranian arms shipments to Bosnia.

Let us look at the history of this. On May 30, 1992, the United States imposed an arms embargo on the former Yugoslavia. The United States supported it, and when spy photographs showed Iranian 747's unloading illegal arms shipments in Zagreb, our State Department told us and told the world that we raised hell.

That was the United States' policy that candidate Bill Clinton opposed. Candidate Bill Clinton said he supported lifting the arms embargo in Bosnia, not so that Iran could sell weapons to the Bosnian Moslems, but rather so they could receive support from United States allies like Saudi Arabia and Turkey.

As President, he promised when he was a candidate, he would lift the unfair United Nations arms embargo against Bosnia. But once in office, Bill Clinton completely changed his mind. He broke that pledge, broke that promise, and opposed lifting the arms embargo.

He reversed his position because, he said, it would be wrong for any international arms shipments to go to Bosnia. It would "Convert a complex ethnic war into an American responsibility. The United States must, therefore, oppose any international arms shipments to Bosnia."

The Congress, however, voted to lift the arms embargo and sent the President a bill. It was not quite unanimous, but it was hugely bipartisan. Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate sent the President a bill so that we could, through our allies, help the Bosnian Moslems to defend themselves. The President vetoed that bill. He said nobody, not Turkey, not Saudi Arabia, none of our friends, least of all the United States of America, could help arm the Bosnian Moslems.

The President assured not only Congress, but the American people and allies, like Britain and France, that he was staunchly opposed to lifting the arms embargo. And without telling even our own Joint Chiefs of Staff, it now develops the President secretly let it be known in Iran that the United States would not oppose huge, illegal arms shipments to the Bosnian Moslems.

Huge quantities of weapons, accompanied by Iranian intelligence agents and mujahedin rebels, were thus shipped into Bosnia, by a regime that the Clinton administration publicly was branding as the financier, the armorer, the trainer, the safe haven, and inspiration for terrorists. These are the people that the secret Clinton policy, that Bill Clinton himself, secretly was introducing to Europe.

As the U.S. Assistant Secretary of Defense was using those exact words I just quoted, the financier, armorer, trainer, safe haven, and inspiration for terrorists, the description of Iran, he was using those exact same words in his testimony to Congress. His boss in the White House, Bill Clinton, knew that up to eight cargo jets each month were taking off with Iranian arms bound for Bosnia. There can be no question that this was duplicitous.

Right now congressional committees are preparing to investigate this sordid matter, to determine whether laws were broken governing illegal covert operations and governing failure to report truthfully to the Congress.

But while it remains to be seen whether and, if so, which laws were broken, there is no question that the President broke his word to this Congress and to the American people. There can be no question that the President broke his word to France and to England. In briefs prepared for John Major and Jacques Chirac at the G-7 Summit, unknown to the President, they had incontrovertible proof that the President had lied publicly to them.

It is incumbent upon this Congress to take this matter with the utmost gravity and to investigate it so that we can restore the good word of the American people around the world.

HELPING WORKING AMERICANS THROUGH AN INCREASE IN THE MINIMUM WAGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Connecticut [Ms. DELAURO] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, my Republican colleagues continue to refuse to allow a vote on the minimum wage. It was only minutes ago in this body that they once again rejected a democratic effort to bring the minimum wage increase to the floor for a vote. I might add that in that vote were 15 Republican colleagues who only days ago, along with a few others, who said that they were splitting with their leadership; they believed that we ought to pass a minimum wage, and that that vote ought to be brought up in this body. Fifteen of them, when they had the opportunity, they would have made the difference in the vote, so that the people's House, the House of Representatives, could have voted to raise the minimum wage a mere 90 cents.

As a matter of fact, because I was watching the clock, when there was about 220 votes, that is enough in order to defeat the opportunity to bring the vote up, several of them hung back, waited until it was lost, and then cast their vote against bringing it up. Talk about profiles in courage? Real courage. But it is nice to get the press accounts in the last few days of how you break with leadership and call for a minimum wage. And when you have the opportunity which this body afforded only a few minutes ago, they took a walk. I am sure that their constituents are going to take a hard look at this vote.

I have bad news for those who oppose a fair minimum wage. We are not done. We will be back, again and again and again, until we see the minimum wage increased in this country.

We will not give up, because there is a lot at stake in this minimum wage debate and in this vote. This debate is not about yet another way for my Republican colleagues to reward the rich and the powerful in this country. It is not another perk for those in power or a payoff to some special interest lobby. What is at stake here is whether or not this Congress will honor and reward hard work and tell the hard working men and women in this Nation that we care about what you do, we honor what you do, and we know what a difficult struggle it is every single week to scramble, to pay those bills, to make sure that your kids can go to college. And then, my God, after these years of work, that you can have a decent and dignified and secure retirement.

We will tell minimum wage workers that we respect that valiant struggle. The minimum wage is already at a 40-year low. It continues to plummet in value. And what we do is we discourage people from working. We say to people, go ahead, be on welfare.

That is crazy. We want to reward work in this country. That is what it is all about. That is what the people are about, that is what my folks are about. They worked hard. They worked hard to be able to send me to school. And people who are doing that ought to understand that those who they elect are going to reward that hard work.

Who are the typical minimum wage workers? The typical minimum worker is a woman. Almost two-thirds are adults, 20 years of age or older. Do not let them get away with saying the minimum wage workers are teenagers. They are not. That is not true.

The average minimum wage worker brings home half of his or her family's earnings, and about 40 percent of this Nation's minimum wage workers are the sole bread winner of their family. A full-time minimum wage worker makes $8,500 a year. It is less than what people on welfare do get today in this country.

Think about it. An increase in the minimum wage would help working men and women who are providing the only source of income for their families, and we could honor their hard work. These are the ordinary folks, average people, waiters, waitresses, people who wash the dishes. They are struggling everyday.

Do you know that when the Government shut down in December, the Members of this body, Members of Congress who make over $130,000 a year, they got more in that period of shutdown than a full-time minimum wage worker makes in an entire year?

It is wrong. Raise the minimum wage. Let us do it now. Let us bring this up for a vote.

TRIBUTE TO DORIS PIKE, VOLUNTEER AND LAWMAKER'S WIFE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from New York [Mr. FORBES] is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FORBES. Mr. Speaker, I rise today because earlier this week the world got just a little bit dimmer with the passing of a wonderful woman from Riverhead, Long Island, by the name of Doris Pike.

Mr. Speaker, many people remember Doris Pike as the very pleasant, engaging wife of former Congressman Otis G. Pike, who so ably served Long Island in this body from 1961 to 1979.

But Doris Pike in her own right was a woman of note. She was an educator, somebody who devoted over 25 years as a volunteer, teaching immigrant students English. For 25 years she took those immigrant students, those with various different languages, 14 different languages, I believe, and she taught them English at Patchogue-Medford High School and later Riverhead High School.

She was married to a distinguished Member of this body who in his own right was extremely popular and had a dynamic and strong personality. But Doris Pike herself developed her own persona among the people of Long Island. They came to know and love her because of her many acts of charity, her volunteer work, her great sense of humor.

As her husband Otis Pike said, she was a most unpretentious woman. He recalled an evening when they were invited to the White House, for example, when she wore a beautiful long evening gown and decided that with that gown she was going to wear her bedroom slippers. When questioned by her husband, she said nobody looks at your feet anyway. As the Congressman remembered, in fact, they went to that White House affair, and indeed nobody looked at her feet anyway.

Otis Pike, I join with him and his daughter Lois and his sons Doug and Rob, in mourning the passing of this most generous and wonderful woman, Doris Pike. She was a long-time trustee of Dowling College, and she so believed in the value of education that she set up on her own Doris Pike College Fund, in which she attempted each year to fund the tuition expense of one student.

In her office at home, she had a sign that said "A teacher affects eternity. She can never tell where her influence stops."

My colleagues, ladies and gentlemen, Doris Pike was a woman of great stature, and she in her own way has affected eternity, and we will mourn her and we will miss her.

TIME TO VOTE ON A MINIMUM WAGE INCREASE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas, Mr. GENE GREEN, is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GENE GREEN of Texas. Mr. Speaker, in just a few minutes we will be going to the budget agreement that I want to congratulate not just the majority Members, but also the whole Congress, because we finally have a budget agreement that, and I know I have heard this morning a lot of my colleagues on the Republican side talking about how it saves the tax dollars, and it does, and that is great. But it also restores a great many of the devastating education cuts that we have been talking about on this floor for months and months.

What it does is it shows us we can have a balanced budget in 7 years, just like the President talked about, and still have investment in education and job training and those issues that we know are not just for today, that they are for next year and 5 years from now.

But the reason I asked for 5 minutes this afternoon, Mr. Speaker, is to talk about it is time to have a clean vote on the minimum wage increase.

Working Americans support an increase in the minimum wage. In fact, the latest poll I saw showed that 83 percent of Americans support an increase in the minimum wage. In fact, just today I see reported that we are not going to have a vote on this floor on a minimum wage increase. I think that hurts not only the Congress, but the majority, but I also think it hurts a lot of good, hard-working people in our country who are trying to struggle on $4.25 an hour.

Americans know the real value of the minimum wage has declined in the past 15 years and the minimum wage earners have not seen an increase since April 1, 1991, 5 years ago, Mr. Speaker. During that time, with inflation 3 percent a year on the average, we see that percentage increasing.

We have a bipartisan bill that has been introduced by some of my majority Republican colleagues, 20 Members I understand, and I am a cosponsor of that bill, to increase the minimum wage. Yet we see that we are not going to have a vote on it. I know some Members on the majority Republican side are disappointed just like those of us on the Democratic side.

There is a proposal though, not the bipartisan bill, but there is a proposal we heard about, and again in speeches today from the majority, that the minimum wage would remain at $4.25, but we would continue to talk about a Federal Government subsidy for employees with families. So what we are seeing is an increase in this big Government in Washington. We have heard now for over a year, a year and 4 months, how we need to not have big Government in Washington. Yet we are going to, instead of businesses who can earn, who are depending on those people making $4.25 an hour to produce a product, we are going to subsidize them from this big Government in Washington.

It is like the world turned upside down, Mr. Speaker. I just do not understand it, just being a Member from Houston and understanding that the minimum wage, typically you earn that. We do not need any more subsidies for people who have families. We want a decent wage for a decent job being done, and to get these people off welfare.

The biggest problem I think we have, and the majority has to explain, is how a person making $4.25 an hour working 40 hours a week is still eligible in my district for welfare benefits. What we need to do is, if we increase the minimum wage to $5.15 an hour, a person working 40 hours a week would then no longer be eligible for welfare. They would actually be able to work their way off of this subsidy that they may be receiving and the expanded subsidy I hear the majority party may be talking about.

That is what is wrong. We need to make sure that they can earn that money to keep themselves, get themselves off welfare. And that is why it is amazing to me that instead of just increasing the minimum wage to where businesses will pay their employees a minimum wage reasonable enough to get them off of welfare, that we are coming up with ways that the government can subsidize it and say, well, we really need to do even more on an earned income tax credit, or do even more for providing for these families.

These families want to work and earn a living. They do not want the government to provide it, and that is why it is so important that we provide for a livable wage for the minimum wage. America's families are working harder than ever and we know that. We see the polls. We see what is happening.

The disparity between the highest paid people in our country and the lowest paid is getting higher and higher.

We need to respond to that as members of Congress, not just as Democrats but as a Congress, because we need to make sure that disparity is not there. The beauty of America has always been that we have a middle class and the hope for people to go into that middle class. And yet what we see is the disparity is getting bigger. The people who make the most are making more money and the people who make less are making even less.

Mr. Speaker, I understand we are getting ready to go to the budget, but I would hope we would also see sometime in the near future a clean vote on the minimum wage issue.

CONFERENCE REPORT ON H.R. 3019, BALANCED BUDGET DOWN PAYMENT ACT, II

Mr. SOLOMON, from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 104-538) on the resolution (H. Res. 415) waiving points of order against the conference report to accompany the bill (H.R. 3019) making appropriations for fiscal year 1996 to make further downpayment toward a balanced budget, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, by direction of the Committee on Rules, I call up House Resolution 415 and ask for its immediate consideration.

H. RES. 415

Resolved, That upon adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to consider the conference report to accompany the bill (H.R. 3019) making appropriations for fiscal year 1996 to make a further downpayment toward a balanced budget, and for other purposes. All points of order against the conference report and against its consideration are waived. The conference report shall be considered as read.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). The gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, for purposes of debate only, I yield 30 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY], pending which I yield myself such time as I may consume. During consideration of this resolution, all time yielded is for the purpose of debate only.

(Mr. SOLOMON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks and include extraneous material.)

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, the rule before us will allow us to immediately consider the conference report on H.R. 3019. It is the Balanced Budget Downpayment Act II. The rule waives all points of order against the conference report and its consideration, and it provides that the conference report be considered as read.

Mr. Speaker, this is a day that has been a long time coming as we wrap up the remaining five regular appropriations bills for fiscal year 1996 whereby we will have a full budget in place for this year. Notwithstanding all the short-term continuing resolutions and all of the long, hard, and tough negotiations on this bill, the wait has been well worthwhile, in my opinion.

This truly is a historic day when one considers that we are making this substantial downpayment toward a balanced budget that we promised at the beginning of this Congress.

Mr. Speaker, on any bill of this magnitude, with all of the complex and all of the difficult issues to be resolved, I think it is fair to say that no one is happy with every aspect of the final conference agreement, certainly not this Member. But I would strongly urge every single Member to come over here and keep their eyes on the big picture of what this is all about, and what this is all about is, make no mistake about it, reducing the size and the role of this Federal Government and putting this country once again on a second fiscal footing by taking the first big steps toward a balanced budget by the year 2002, and this bill today does just that.

The Congressional Budget Office recently projected that the fiscal year 1996 deficit would fall to $144 billion. That is not million, that is billion dollars, and that is $28 billion below last December's projection. And make no mistake about it, the Congressional Budget Office confirms that our actions on appropriation bills for this fiscal year have played a major role in bringing about this downturn in spending.

Mr. Speaker, our final action today on these remaining five appropriation bills will contribute even further to that deficit reduction effort. When this bill is signed into law, and the President is going to sign it, we will have saved $23 billion from last year's spending levels alone. That is $23 billion below last year's spending. Who would have ever imagined we could have made such substantial strides? Just our first full year? And that is added to another, and this is important to remember, we have already cut $23 billion, but if we add that to the $20 billion in savings that we made in fiscal year 1995, in savings and rescissions, when we add all that up, it means that we have saved some $43 billion since we took control of this Congress in January of 1995, $43 billion.

Mr. Speaker, one can say we even outdid ourselves when we consider that we have saved $2 billion more than our budget resolution projected in discretionary spending, $2 billion more than we even said we were going to. That, my friends, is a record of accomplishment which we can all be very, very proud. I know I am. And it is one which will benefit the American people, and it will benefit the economy of this Nation, which means jobs, jobs, jobs, jobs, jobs.

Interest rates will be lower than the CBO projected; the economy is growing faster than the CBO projected; and inflation has been lower than CBO projected, all because we have had the courage to stick by our convictions and our commitments and to make those hard votes on the floor of this Congress, and, ladies and gentlemen, they were hard, but that is the only way we get this kind of savings to put the fiscal house in order of this Government.

Mr. Speaker, what does all this mean? It means the $43 billion in savings we have made in fiscal years 1995 and 1996 translates into money we will not have to borrow. It means we do not have to borrow another $43 billion, it means less debt and it means less interest for our children and our grandchildren to have to pay, already $5 trillion in debt requiring $250 billion in interest payments alone annually. We are not going to add to that. It means an ever expanding economy with more opportunities for more jobs, better jobs, and better pay because we are reducing the cost of Government by bringing our own fiscal house in order.

Mr. Speaker, that is really what this whole debate today is all about. Yes, there has been a great deal of give and take between the President and the Congress in these difficult negotiations. That is all a part of the political process. It is the toughest part to learn sometimes when one is principled and believes very strongly in the things they believe in. But the art of compromise is something that Ronald Reagan taught all of us that we had to live by in order to accomplish anything.

But let me emphasize the fact that for all the areas in which some concessions have been made to the administration there have been offsets to pay for them, and we are going to hear during the next hour of debate all the restorations that were made, whether it was in education or the environment or in other areas. But every single dollar that was restored over what we wanted to cut has been offset with cuts elsewhere, so we have not given in one thin dime, and that is how we realize the savings we have today.

In the process of arriving at this mutually agreed upon budget we have managed to eliminate, and this is so terribly important because it also is what this debate is all about, we have eliminated, that means we have zeroed out, 200 programs, while still paying for emergency supplemental funding for such things as disaster assistance, and goodness knows we have had enough of that with all the disasters throughout the country lately, and also our troop deployment in Bosnia. That is all paid for and yet we still have realized these very significant savings.

Mr. Speaker, I especially want to commend the gentleman from Louisiana, Chairman LIVINGSTON, and his Committee on Appropriations for making the very hard choices and for sticking with our core values of providing a better future for this country by reducing the deficit and reducing that public debt.

When we consider where we were at the beginning of this Congress, I do not think anyone would have predicted we would have been capable of this degree of success in just this short space of time. I think we owe a great deal of gratitude to the gentleman from Louisiana, Chairman LIVINGSTON, who has worked hand in glove with our leadership and the Senate leadership in negotiating this final agreement.

But, Mr. Speaker, let us be under no illusion that this is the end of these efforts. I do not want it to sound like this is all over and we have won, we have accomplished what we set out to do. We have a long way to go in the coming fiscal years to establish and to achieve that balanced budget and seemed so illusory just 2 years ago.

Mr. Speaker, with the passage of this final part of this year's budget we have lived up to our commitment to stick to, and this is important for everybody back in your offices listening, we are sticking to that glidepath of a balanced budget. We are even below the glidepath that we set back in January of 1995.

That is why I am going to vote for this piece of legislation, because we have not used smoke and mirrors. We have not lied to the public. We are actually cutting the deficit down and we are staying on that glidepath. In coming years there will still be many pieces that are required to balance this puzzle, but if we stick to what we are doing, if we accomplish next year what we did this year, and we do it for 5 more consecutive years after that, we will have brought this fiscal house in order and it will have saved this country from drowning in a sea of red ink.

Mr. Speaker, I strongly urge support of this rule. I strongly urge support of the bill to finally put an end to this year's budget. By passing this, we will have finally adopted the 1996 budget.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from New York, Mr. SOLOMON for yielding me the customary half hour and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, all over the country today we should be hearing a sigh of relief. The 6-month anxiety we've been feeling about possible Government shutdowns has come to an end. The bill we will vote on today will make it impossible for my Republican colleagues to shut down the Government for political reasons again, at least until October 1st.

Mr. Speaker, today the Democratic position prevailed. Today we showed that it is possible to cut spending while still supporting education, the environment, and community police.

Throughout this budget battle Democrats held tough.

Throughout this budget battle Democrats stood up for education and the environment and now that the budget battle is over the American people are having a sigh of relief.

Because thanks to the Democrats in Congress 1 million children will still be able to get extra help in math and reading.

Thanks to the Democrats in Congress our clean air and clean water acts will not be gutted.

And thanks to the Democrats in Congress we can still put 100,000 police on the street while not busting the budget.

But even though this Republican budget game has finally come to an end it's 6 months overdue.

If Republicans had worked with Democrats we could have kept the Government open. If Republicans had worked with Democrats we could have settled this 6 months ago and come a lot closer to giving the American people the kind of Government they deserve.

Mr. Speaker, there's one question the American people want to ask of Republicans in Congress, what took you so long?

Why did you wait to open up the Government and why did you hold on so long to your education and environment cuts?

I congratulate my Republican colleagues for seeing the merits of the Democratic defense of education, the environment, and community policing.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California, Mr. DAVID DREIER. My vice chairman of the Committee on Rules and my right arm. He is a Member of this body that came here with Ronald Reagan a couple years after I did, who helped me in introducing the first balanced budget ever to come on this floor. We did not get many votes for it back in those days, but by persevering, this gentleman, along with myself and others, have brought these balanced budgets to the floor.

□ 1430

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, I am very flattered by that. Let me say, Mr. Speaker, that I want to join in extending congratulations to the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the chairman, to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], and to others who have worked to bring about this agreement. Clearly, we have gotten to the point where we are taking a step, a step in the direction towards ending the concept of big government. This does not do it, but it is a step in that direction, and I am pleased that we are going to be doing that.

During the arduous national debate on the President's massive tax increase back in 1993, the American people said, "Cut spending first." There was a clear national consensus to balance the budget by reducing the waste in government and slowing the growth of Federal spending, not by increasing taxes.

Our Contract With America was historic not for the specific policies proposed but for the unprecedented effort of political candidates to make substantive legislative proposals during a campaign and then to win the election and actually proceed with implementation of those promises. This was above all an effort to address the well-founded mistrust that has existed with the American people who had grown sick and tired of Presidents and congressional majorities, both political parties saying one thing in a campaign and doing another while in office.

One of the fundamental tenets of our contract was to balance the budget by reducing Federal spending, not by raising taxes. The principle of the Republican Party resulted in a historic budget confrontation. The majority in Congress promised to balance the budget by slowing the growth of Federal spending and provide tax cuts to families so that people could spend their own money on their own priorities in the budget.

The President opposed that effort and had more than enough support from the minority in Congress to enforce his vetoes. The unstoppable force met the immovable object.

Mr. Speaker, the conference report brings the appropriations portion of the fiscal year 1996 process to a close. That in itself is a very good and positive thing. It involves compromise, but it does not change the basic fact regarding this historic effort of the Committee on Appropriations over the past 16 months.

With enactment of this legislation, the 104th Congress will have reduced Federal discretionary spending by $23 billion in fiscal year 1996 spending. The Congress has saved the Federal taxpayers and, more importantly, their children who will pay for the Federal debt an additional $20 billion in rescissions from the previous fiscal year. The result has been the lowest projected deficit in 14 years and the single largest reduction in Federal spending since the 1940's.

With the passage of this legislation, Congress will have terminated over 200 Federal programs. Congress has done what it promised to do and what the American people asked for. We cut spending first. Critical rhetoric will always be part of politics, but one thing that cannot be said truthfully about the 104th Congress is that we have not done what we said we would do. We cannot fully reform 40 years of big government congressional policies in just 2 years, but today we are making a very good and important start.

This is a bill that deserves bipartisan support, and I am convinced it is going to get it. It may be the product of a process that was not enjoyable to watch, but it is a product that is well worth supporting from both sides of the aisle. It is time to move ahead with fiscal year 1997 spending issues. However, be assured this majority will remain fully committed to balancing the budget by cutting spending first, not raising taxes on hard-working families to feed the bloated Federal behemoth. It is gratifying that we have finally gotten to this point. I hope very much that we will be able to move as expeditiously as possible to pass this legislation.

I thank my friend for yielding time to me.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. ROEMER].

(Mr. ROEMER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Speaker, there is an old saying that goes, if you first do not succeed, try, try again. Well, 2 Government shutdowns later, 13 continuing resolutions later, 6 months after the deadline of October later, we have finally come up, finally come up with a bipartisan solution for this year's budget. What is it? It is trying to work together in a bipartisan way but not cutting and devastating education, like the Republicans did initially. Let me talk about a couple programs that are now fully restored that never should have been cut in the first place.

Safe and drug free schools were cut by $265 million. When we ask children in our schools what is the biggest risk they face today, they do not say an algebra test; they say drugs. Yet, they wanted to cut that program. Now it is restored. This is a good bill.

They also wanted to cut Head Start programs to keep our children learning that are at risk from dropping out, because if we do not keep them in school, they are going to get in trouble and go to jail, and we are going to have to build a prison. What would you rather do as a taxpayer? Educate our children or build jails and prisons later on?

Third, title I programs that were cut back by 16 percent, now they are fully restored. Title I educates 7 million at-risk school children, teaching them the basics so that they can learn and become productive citizens and work in good jobs later on.

Title I has been restored. Head Start has been restored. Drug free schools have been restored.

I would hope that this would be a lesson that we here in Congress will begin to work together, Republicans and Democrats, because, Mr. Speaker, this is not a victory for the Democrats because we got this education money back in. This is a victory for the American people. This is what the American people want. They want to make sure that their children can get to school and a good school and that we try new ideas in making our schools work better. They want to make sure, when Newsweek has a cover story this week that colleges can cost $1,000 a week, that we help our students get a student loan or a student grant so that they could pursue higher education.

This is the best investment we can make in this country, investing in education for our children. It never should have been cut the first time.

As the gentleman from California [Mr. DREIER] said, we can cut spending first in Washington, DC, and cut back on committees and cut back on the overhead here and return money out of our budgets. But we should not cut education dollars for at-risk children. We should not use the budget axe on the most vulnerable people in our society, especially when we want these children getting good jobs and not ending up in trouble where they are even more of a tax burden later on.

This is a lesson, Mr. Speaker. I hope for 1997 and 1998 and so on into the future that Republicans and Democrats will work together to protect education, to cut wasteful spending here in Washington first, and to get to a balanced budget by the year 2002.

Again, I would like to thank the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MOAKLEY] for his very generous extension of time to me.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume. Just briefly, the previous speaker has called, recalled an old axiom that says, if at first you do not succeed, try and try and try again. I just recall back on February 1995, when the President of the United States presented this Congress of the United States his 5-year projected budget, which called for increases of more than $250 billion in the deficit each year for 5 consecutive years, that would have added another $1 trillion 250 billion to the deficit.

In that same budget, he called for increases across the board. So we Republicans persevered. We were not about to increase the deficit by $250 billion annually for 5 consecutive years. We were not about to increase spending. By persevering and trying and trying and trying again, what we have before us today is the 1996 budget that does not call for increases of huge magnitudes, it calls for a $23 billion cut in actual spending.

That is what we have accomplished by trying and trying and trying again, and we had a lot of good support from both sides of the aisle individually coming to that.

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. SOLOMON. I yield to the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. ROEMER. Mr. Speaker, I would just say, the gentleman knows I respect him; he and I worked together on the Russian and Chechnyan issue. I would just say that I think, if the gentleman will continue to yield to me for a little bit of time here, I think that the budget that we came up with, the blue dog coalition budget, balances the budget by the year 2002. It cuts wasteful spending out of Washington. But we did not cut a dime out of education. We did not cut a nickel out of student loans. We did not cut a penny out of Head Start programs for children at risk.

I think if the gentleman from New York [Mr. SOLOMON] and I can work together on some foreign policy issues, certainly we Republicans and Democrats can work together.

Mr. SOLOMON. I think the gentleman may be right.

Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Sanibel, FL [Mr. GOSS], another member of the Committee on Rules who has had a great deal to do with putting this budget together over the last seven months.

(Mr. GOSS asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GOSS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished gentleman from Glens Falls, NY [Mr. SOLOMON]. Indeed, he has shown extraordinary leadership and persistence in getting us to this point. I congratulate him and, of course, all the others who have participated in what has been a very lengthy exercise.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of this fair rule which allows us to consider H.R. 3019, the omnibus appropriations conference report.

Mr. Speaker, this Congress was elected to change the way Washington does business: Returning fiscal responsibility to the budget process and improving accountability to the American taxpayer. This omnibus appropriations conference report reflects those principles by finalizing an appropriations cycle that cut $23 billion from last year's levels. With its passage this Congress' total savings reach $32 billion, the single largest real spending cut in Government spending since World War II.

This Congress has changed the way Washington works in another very important respect—setting priorities. The Clinton administration asked for $30 billion more in indiscriminate spending but we insisted on applying the brakes. Instead of haphazardly funding every project and program, we have prioritized our limited resources and eliminated billions of dollars of low-priority spending, canceling 200 programs completely. We have recognized our responsibility to the victims of natural disasters and to our soldiers in Bosnia without breaking our contract with the American taxpayer. The concept of fiscal responsibility, which seems simple to most families in my district struggling to prioritize spending within their own budgets, marks a revolutionary change in the way this town does business. Despite some pot-holes that have slowed us down, we are on the road to a balanced budget.

I would like to highlight one example from my district of how the Federal Government can do more for less. H.R. 3019 contains language authorizing a lease for expansion of a veterans outpatient clinic in Fort Myers. Built to accommodate 40,000 visits a year, the clinic served more than 51,000 last year, with many more on the waiting list. We have come up with a way to meet the need with just over a million dollars—far less than it would have cost to build an entire new facility.

The issue comes down to fairness and providing the services where the veterans are. While many hospitals in the North remain half empty most of the year, the 150,000 veterans in southwest Florida currently must contend with one limited facility and denial of services altogether for non-service-connected injuries and illnesses. This lease, building on the innovations of the private sector, will allow more veterans to be served in a cost-effective manner.

In past years, we have received authorization but have been denied the appropriation. Today's bill ties everything together. There will be no more excuses or loopholes—we will move forward and provide for the veterans. This should be the final chapter in a long and frustrating saga, as today we finally achieve our goal and keep our contract with southwest Florida veterans. I applaud the efforts of Chairmen LIVINGSTON, LEWIS, and STUMP for their hard work to get this done.

The issue comes down to fairness in providing the services where the veterans are. While many hospitals in the North remain half empty most of the year, the 150,000 veterans in southwest Florida who have moved from the North to southwest Florida currently must content with one limited facility and denial of services altogether for non-service-connected injuries and illnesses, and that is just plain not fair, and it is not smart, and it is not good management. So this lease building on the innovations of the private sector will allow more veterans to be served in a cost-effective manner.

That is the kind of change that we have brought about and, I think, the kind of change America is looking for, and I applaud the efforts of the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the gentleman from California [Mr. LEWIS], and the gentleman from Arizona [Mr. STUMP] for their hard work in that area.

Change for the better is not easy. It cannot be done in a moment. Those who unfairly or unnecessarily gain from the status quo resist change; we know that. But today the time has come to move forward. This is fiscal responsibility. There will never be a better opportunity to do what we should than right now.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DINGELL], the former chairman of the Committee on Commerce.

(Mr. DINGELL asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to tell my colleagues that this is a good clean bill and that there is no pork and no outrage here. But nothing is further from the truth. Some of my colleagues on the other side are going to be looking rather sheepish and hangdog, and they properly should. The Republicans here are creating an indefensible giveaway of $645 million to Louisiana and New Hampshire in the forthcoming conference report on the CR. The $45 million will go to New Hampshire, $600 million will go to Louisiana.

The pork is to reward two safe Republican States for abusing Federal taxpayers by using loopholes and accounting gimmicks to increase Federal matching payments they receive under Medicaid while depressing their own State spending. In other words, Federal spending goes up here, State spending goes down. These are scams which were popular in the 1980's during the Bush administration. They increased the Federal Government spending on Medicaid alone to a tune of $10 billion.

Guess who the biggest abusers were? Louisiana and New Hampshire. They still are the two biggest abusers.

In 1993 we cleaned the situation up after extensive hearings in the Committee on Energy and Commerce. We passed a bipartisan measure to eliminate these abuses and to protect the Federal Treasury and at the same time to take and give consideration to the problems that the States had. We gave them 2 years to wean themselves from their addiction to these Federal payments and to get away from the Federal trough.

Unfortunately, my Republican colleagues seem to be operating under the philosophy that no bad deed should ever go unrewarded. The CR is going to reward these States with more time at the Federal trough to the tune of about $645 million.

Louisiana, by the way, will spend these moneys not for health, but they will continue to spend them for things like roads, highways, bridges, and the prison system.

Incidentally, there are other States now who are living under the constraints of the 1993 law; that is, all 48 of the other States. It is interesting to note, however, that since this process commenced of Louisiana and New Hampshire seeking additional moneys to continue an abuse which was roundly decried as long ago as 1993, six other States are now asking that they be permitted to belly up to the trough so that they can get their share of the slop.

For 48 other States whose Members of Congress are represented here, I ask if they can explain how it is and why it is that the Congress voted for a special Federal bailout for two States who simply failed to manage their budgets properly at the expense of their own State and at the expense of the rest of the Nation.

I also ask my colleagues to be prepared to explain to the people of their States why it is after 2 years was given to these two States to clean up their act, they are given an additional time.

I know that one Presidential candidate came back not long back from New Hampshire and that very shortly thereafter disappeared in the language of the Senate bill. I wonder if this ought to appear on the FEC report of that particular candidate.

This happens to be a genuine outrage. It is a continued raid upon funds which are needed for important public purposes or for the purpose of reduction of the budget deficit and for the purpose of balancing the budget. These are funds which are being taken away from other essential and important uses, such as student loans, such as school lunches, such as education, such as research into health problems, such as improving the quality of life, to law enforcement, to protection of the environment, and they are going to two States which have roundly abused the system for years and which, under this legislation, are going to get the permission of the Congress to continue to abuse the public interests and public monies for special purposes, in a fashion that no other State is being permitted to do.

But note, my dear friends and colleagues, this is but the first crack in the dike because now already six other States are saying, "Well, if you are going to let Louisiana, if you are going to let New Hampshire, have access to these funds without responsibility, how about letting us do that?"

So, I would tell my colleagues, prepare for a phone call from their constituents, prepare for a phone call from their Governor, prepare for the call from their State to let them share in this pork also.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. BROWN].

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, these same folks who shut down the Government now claim to be working in a fiscally responsible manner to balance the Federal budget. They are asking us to support a continuing resolution laden with $342 million in special-interest pork to help the Republican Governors of New Hampshire and Louisiana balance their budgets without violating their no new taxes pledge. It is easy. Here is how to do it:

"You run for Governor. You say you are not going to increase taxes. You overspend and run up a deficit. Then you call your political friends in Washington to bail you out with a little bit of money. You than can go back and run for reelection, say, 'Look, I did not raise taxes, and I balanced my budget.'"

The fact is the taxpayers in 48 other States are going to have to have their taxes raised or their spending cut so that we can have this little payoff to help these two Governors in New Hampshire and Louisiana.

Every State in this Nation grapples with balancing their books. My State, the State of Ohio, is plagued by the rules, has made the tough choices to keep spending in line. We will never be able to balance the Federal budget if a couple of States that have particularly good political connections in Washington, or might have had an early Presidential primary, if those States are overspending and get bailed out by the Federal Government.

We have had too many bailouts in this Congress, we have had too many times in this new Congress, where pork has been the order of the day, "We have to have more pork in these bills in order to satisfy special interests."

Think, Mr. Speaker, how much pork we would have had to put in this bill if a certain other Presidential candidate had won New Hampshire. Think of what the price might have been, how much money would have had to be in this bill, in order to satisfy those demands in one of those States then.

Mr. Speaker, if this is how the Republicans handle block grants, I want to know where my State can apply.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON]. One of the reasons we are here today is because of the outstanding work of the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations. We all owe him a great deal, and so do the American people.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from New York for yielding me a little bit of time to respond, and, playing on that last statement, does the gentleman want to know why his State will not apply for this deal? I am sure that his State would probably argue that they do not want this kind of deal because the fact is that the State of Louisiana unfortunately has placed itself in the predicament from which it is extracting itself, and I stress that.

I am not going to deny that abuses by various States around the country took place in the Medicaid Program years ago. They did. Two previous administrations of the Louisiana State government frankly abused the Medicaid Program; there is no doubt about it.

But this administration that just took over a few short months ago is taking great steps to remedy the situation. In fact, some steps began at the end of the previous administration, because unfortunately there were abuses, they had to acknowledge there had been abuses, and they ultimately had no choice because of measures taken by the distinguished former members and the chairman of the Committee on Commerce to remedy those abuses. They were left with absolutely no choice at all. They recognized that they spent too much in Medicaid. The previous administration of Governor Edwards's found out that the abuse of the program must end. It was cut off by the Federal Government at the response of the investigations by Chairman DINGELL, when he was chairman on the Energy and Commerce Committee.

Now this new administration in Louisiana, that took office at the beginning of this year, has already made a billion dollars in cuts in their Medicaid Program. Only the State of Delaware and the State of Louisiana have made as many cuts in their optional Medicaid Programs. The provision in this bill would cap the Federal Medicaid payment to Louisiana at $2.6 billion, which is more severe and more austere than any other State in the Nation. This provision allows no growth beyond $2.6 billion, not even for inflation, this year, next year, and the following year. No other State in the Union is willing to take this kind of deal.

I have heard the two previous speakers say, oh, well, every State is going to jump up and get this kind of deal. The fact is they are not asking and they do not want this deal, they do not want this formula. Louisiana is acknowledging mistakes and saying that they are going to live up to their responsibilities with new Federal guidelines and meet the responsibilities that they have taken on. The Committee on Commerce Republican leadership has said that because Louisiana is willing to forgo the growth in their program in the funding for Medicaid in the out-years, they have been able to provide all the States with additional growth in Medicaid dollars.

So what we are doing in Louisiana is resulting in a template, a format for action that can be used with respect to other States. The Louisiana Medicaid provision we have included is similar to the provision that was included in the Balanced Budget Act and the Governors' Medicaid proposal.

So this is not new stuff, this was not late at night, this was not snuck in in some smoke-filled room. This actually was on the books in the past. The Louisiana situation is an emergency. If this funding does not go forward one-third, maybe as much as one-third of the medical personnel in Louisiana who provide services to the elderly and to the indigent simply will have to be laid off immediately, not next year or the year after that, immediately.

Now, this is an urgent situation, it is an emergency that is recognized by other Members, by both sides of the aisle and by both sides of this building in the Capitol of the United States as well as by the President of the United States, and that is why he is willing to sign the bill with this in it. He may not like every provision, but the fact is he has recognized that the State of Louisiana has acknowledged their problem, is willing to deal with it, and if other States were quite so forthright, they would adopt measures that parallel this.

To meet the Congressional Budget Office's concerns and the White House's initial objections to the provision, the final Louisiana Medicaid provision in this conference agreement would only last through the State's fiscal year 1997, and then we have to go back and make appropriations if there is a cost to the United States of America.

In fact, in fiscal year 1996, the Congressional Budget Office says that what we have done costs the government absolutely nothing, absolutely zero, so all this talk about porkbusters is just fabrication. It does not cost the Government anything. Before we can go forward after fiscal year 1996, we have to begin to set out how we are going to pay for it.

I do not believe this provision is going to cost the Government anything in the out-years, because Louisiana is working with the people in the Congressional Budget Office to show how this arrangement will actually save the American taxpayer money, and that they are willing to cap their Medicaid payment at a very much lower level than they have previously received, in order to get themselves over the hump.

Had they cut themselves off cold turkey there would be a devastating shortfall that would have resulted in a reduction in services, medical services to the indigent in Louisiana, that simply would be unsustainable.

What we are doing is smoothing the playing field and giving them the opportunity to get out from under what I acknowledge was a bad situation in the years past, but we are correcting it. And I commend the leadership of the State of Louisiana for stepping up to the plate, and I commend, frankly, the good people on both sides of the aisle, both Chambers of Congress, and the administration, for acknowledging that what we have here is the best solution to an abuse that took place long ago.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. HEFNER].

(Mr. HEFNER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HEFNER. Mr. Speaker, it is always good for us to talk about the cuts. Everybody likes to have cuts and to get spending under control. But I am happy to see that we reinstated some of the real vital programs in education that were so sorely needed.

However, there is one area of this budget that very much disturbs me. That is our veterans' facilities, our health care facilities. To me, I think what we are doing in this bill is absolutely, totally disgraceful. We are $400 million under the President's request on medical facilities for our veterans. We are $400 million short on construction.

Let me just point out a couple things. My dear friend, the gentleman from Georgia, talked about the emergency in Medicare, that we had to do something. I visited these hospitals when the Government shut down. These people were literally working for nothing.

To this day, some of them have not been reimbursed for the money that they had coming from the Government shutdown. Some of the nurses there are working two nurses a shift for 37 people in our VA hospital. It is an absolute disgrace what we are doing in this budget for the care of our American veterans.

Mr. Speaker, I think that the American people ought to know from where some of these cuts are coming. Sometimes we need to put a human face on cuts. It is good to stand here and talk about how much we have cut and how much we are cutting back and all these things that we are doing, but we have to put a human face to it. It comes from somewhere, and it is coming from the veterans' $400 million in the medical facilities for our veterans who laid it on the line for this country. I think it is absolutely disgraceful the way we are doing the cuts on the veterans of this country.

Mr. Speaker, I would hope that sometime in the near future we can rectify this, because we are paying an inordinately bad price for the veterans who served this country so well and for the folks who labor in these hospitals. They were diligent, they were there when the doors opened, they were there when the patients needed them. Now, when it comes to ante up and get the money, we are going to cut. I think it is an absolute disgrace what we are doing to the veterans of this country.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN].

(Mr. WAXMAN asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I listened to the statements from the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, about the plight of the State of Louisiana. Louisiana is trying to handle its own State budget, but so is every other State in this country. What Louisiana is getting is a very sweet deal. It is a special treatment. It is pork barrel money. They are getting Federal dollars without doing what they are required under Federal law to put up for their own citizens who receive Medicaid benefits.

The reason they are in this fix has nothing to do with the Federal Government. It has to do with the abuse by the State of Louisiana in the 1980's when they leveraged Federal dollars into the Medicaid Program and then did not even use it for health care. They used it for roads and they used it for prisons. They used it to balance their budget and they became addicted to that money. Now, because they have one of their own in a very powerful position, they are being singled out; they and New Hampshire, to get Federal dollars to help them meet their fiscal requirements.

The State of California has a problem. Every State has a problem to make their budgets match income and outgo. Medicaid is a big cost. But the Federal Government should not be standing in the place of those State governments to take on their responsibilities.

Put this in the context of what Republicans wanted earlier this year.

What they wanted was a block grant with cuts in Federal and State dollars under the Medicaid Program, and the public that is to be served by those programs be damned. They could go without care under the provisions of what is substituted for the existing Medicaid Program under the Republican proposal. This is an outrage. It is unfair. It should not have happened.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. TAUZIN].

Mr. TAUZIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to correct the record. First of all, Mr. Speaker, Louisiana has a law on its books, has had a law on its books since well into the 1970's, that Medicaid receipts and Medicare moneys cannot be spent on anything but health care in that State. It was not spent on roads and bridges, as the gentleman in the well previously alluded to. I am sure that gentleman in the well previously alluded to. I am sure that gentleman voted against the earthquake relief to California when that State needed help from this Federal Government.

However, the provisions in this bill do not add a dime to the Federal deficit, do not increase spending in Louisiana one dime. It simply allows Louisiana to do something it has to do, and that is to correct the formula by which the State applied for and received its Federal funding all these years.

The State used a system whereby Federal and State dollars were accumulated in its Medicaid accounts and then matched to make its Medicaid formula. That is no longer allowed. That was a system the Federal Government allowed to happen over these years, and now we are going to face a $1.5 billion shortfall for the most needy people in our State if this provision is not adopted.

If any other State wants to freeze its accounts the way Louisiana is freezing them, come forward. That is what the bill provides.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to another gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. HAYES].

Mr. HAYES. Mr. Speaker, there were more displaced workers in the State of Louisiana when the oil industry collapsed than there are in the automobile industry, but when a vote was held on this Chamber and across the hall, unemployment compensation was extended to those who had been, unfortunately, adversely affected in the downturn in the automobile industry. It is something I would vote for again, but when the request was made for the oil and gas industry, it was turned down in both Chambers.

The point I am making is simple. The State of Louisiana has held its head up proud and, by the way, done something some of these folks should have thought about: Delivered good quality medical care at under the Federal reimbursement rate, not taking a dime from anyone that any other State was not getting per capita. And instead of sending a committee down to learn how they did it better, we said, "Let us punish them for not spending every dime in the Federal Treasury."

Now we have CBO saying, "You are not costing the taxpayer and another State a nickel." Maybe that is what has offended the other side in this debate, that another taxpayer is not having to pay another dime to bail out an automobile company or a big city.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. WAXMAN].

Mr. WAXMAN. Mr. Speaker, I want the record to be very clear about the Louisiana situation. They did take Federal dollars on the claim that this was supposed to go to hospitals that served a disproportionate share of low-income patients. They put up some phony State dollars which were in fact Federal dollars, leveraged the Federal dollars to match it, and then used the additional Federal dollars for their own budget balancing, paying for roads and prisons.

Second, Mr. Speaker, I want the record to be clear that the State of Louisiana has not underspent because they were more efficient and gave better care than other States in the rest of the Nation.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. WAXMAN. I yield to the gentleman from Michigan.

Mr. DINGELL. Mr. Speaker, the State of Louisiana is going to increase the budget deficit in the following fiscal year, the next fiscal year, and the year after that by $300 million each year, and God knows how much more after that.

Mr. WAXMAN. They are not being rewarded for their good deeds, Mr. Speaker, they are being rewarded for their bad deeds, by the power of those in their delegation that have been able to exact this special pork barrel treatment for the State of Louisiana.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 30 seconds to the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. BARRETT].

Mr. BARRETT of Wisconsin. Mr. Speaker, I think I have a better understanding now why the Republicans did not want to have the line-item veto apply this year. It was this type of provision, this type of provision that allows the State of Louisiana and the State of New Hampshire to benefit at the expenses of taxpayers throughout this country. It should not be in this bill, it should never have been put in this bill, and it is a disgrace that we have this in a bill at a time when we are trying to work together to bridge the gap between the two sides of this House. I am ashamed that we have this in this bill, and I am sorry it is here. This was a good faith attempt by Members on our side of the aisle to reach a compromise.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I have no further requests for time, and I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the remainder of my time.

Mr. Speaker, I would point out first that a previous speaker had talked about cuts in this budget on the floor here right now to the veterans hospital medical care delivery system. Let me assure the gentleman that this advocate for veterans will guarantee the gentleman that there is $400 million more in this budget than there was last year. It is the only increase in the entire part of this budget.

Mr. Speaker, second, let me just say this. I introduced a balanced budget on this floor a number of years ago which called for a balanced budget in 5 years. I had one on the floor last year that did the same thing. One Member said to me, "JERRY, how can you vote for this, when it does not really cut as much as you wanted it to?"

I am voting for it because it truly does put us on the road to a balanced budget. We are within this glide path. That is why JERRY SOLOMON is going to vote for this bill today. It shrinks the size and the power and the role of this Federal Government. It returns it to the States. It puts us on an irreversible path towards that philosophy.

I urge all of the Members to come over here, vote for this bill right now; vote for the rule, and then vote for the bill. The American people want you to do it.

Mr. MOAKLEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that another Member may be permitted to speak.

Mr. SOLOMON. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Objection is heard.

Without objection, the previous question is ordered on the resolution.

There was no objection.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the resolution.

The resolution was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, pursuant to House Resolution 415, I call up the conference report on the bill (H.R. 3019) making appropriations for fiscal year 1996 to make a further downpayment toward a balanced budget, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to House Resolution 415, the conference report is considered as having been read.

(For conference report and statement, see prior proceedings of the House of today, Thursday, April 25, 1996.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] and the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] will each control 30 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON].

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks on the conference report to accompany H.R. 3019, and that I may include tabular and extraneous material.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Louisiana?

There was no objection.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, this conference report on H.R. 3019 wraps up all the appropriations matters for fiscal year 1996. I hope that this is lucky No. 14, because that is the number of temporary funding bills that we have had to get to this final measure. It is well past time to closeout all matters and move on to fiscal year 1997. Its budget debate will begin next week. In fact, it is 6 months past time.

This conference agreement honors the commitment of the Committee on Appropriations to reduce discretionary spending and put this country on a path to a balanced budget. It contains $163.7 billion in gross spending, lest anybody says there is not enough money in this bill, with $4.34 billion in offsets, for a net spending total of $159.37 billion in total spending.

This amount will cause overall appropriations to be $30 billion below the President's request and $23 billion below last year. When we add the $11 billion net savings from our rescission bill last year, actually $20 billion aggregate savings, we have cut discretionary spending by a net total of roughly $34 billion in 16 months. In the aggregate, it is about $43 billion.

These numbers represent the termination of more than 200, two-zero-zero, 200 wasteful programs and bureaucracies. They represent a slowing down of increases in other programs. They represent a realignment of priorities, and they respect the funding priorities of the White House, the Senate, and the minority party as well.

For our part, we went into conference with the Senate determined to pay for all increases in spending, and I am pleased to tell the members that all increases proposed by the Senate are paid for. I am pleased to tell the members that $1.3 billion in disaster assistance supplementals are fully paid for; funding for Bosnia, for the floods in the Northwest, for anti-terrorism, and for additional assistance toward peace in the Middle East, are all paid for, not borrowed against the future, not added to last year's bill, but paid for.

By law we did not have to do this, but that has been our policy, and we have continuously for the last 16 months abided by that policy.

I am pleased to tell the Members that we provided $1 billion to national security priorities for our 40,000 troops in the Bosnia theater and $120 million to support the Mideast peace activities, again all paid for.

In summary, by paying for all increases in spending, we have produced a bill that is still below our budget caps and, for a $163 billion bill, that is a significant achievement.

Much of the controversy in this bill surrounds the environmental issues. It was the area of intense compromise, with roughly 7 issues on the table. Each represented a unique problem.

First, we retained the House language regarding the Mt. Graham red squirrel. We gave the President waiver authority we do not believe he will need in the contentious Tongass and Mojave and endangered species issues. We modified the Columbia River Basin language. We dropped the timber provision that the Clinton administration originally indicated they wanted, and we dropped wetlands language which we thought addressed a redundancy in the EPA/Corps wetland permitting process.

These were compromises, I stress, compromises. They were done in conjunction with the demands by the White House, but they were not everything that the White House wanted. They were compromises. They make everyone and no one happy, and in truth, most of these issues will be revisited again in a few short weeks as we commence the fiscal year 1997 bills.

I might add this bill reflects a number of priorities critical to Members on my side of the aisle. The Senate population language is dropped, underscore, dropped, and the medical school accreditation provision which has been so objectionable to those in the right-to-life community, again, was made permanent law for the first time, satisfying in both instances the people who are totally opposed to the concept of abortion.

I also regret that the cap on the student loan volume was dropped. Again, that was in a matter of compromise, and I would hope that the Committee on Economic and Educational Opportunities would be able to address that condition and correct that anomaly as soon as possible.

I would call our Members' attention to the reaffirmation of our commitment to our active veterans by increasing—I heard the word cut, that is absurd—increasing the medical care programs for veterans by $400 million above what was provided last year. The President in his budget, which was not altogether realistic, might have said that he wanted more money than that. This is a $400 million increase above last year.

And we funded NASA and the Space Shuttle Program, and we made a tremendous investment in our Nation's fight against crime.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say that this was a compromise. We could not have this finished product without the dedicated work and steadfast assistance—although he adhered to his own philosophical and deep-seated feelings that our side of the aisle is wrong and his side of the aisle is right—we could not have succeeded in reaching a conclusion without my colleague and friend, the ranking minority member of the Committee on Appropriations and the former chairman, the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY]. By all measurements, we are indeed an interesting team, but we have respected each other's priorities. We have communicated. We have worked well, separately and together.

I also want to say that it has been a joy to work not only with Mr. OBEY at the table but with Senator HATFIELD, whom I will miss greatly when he retires, and to acknowledge the support and leadership and steadfast dedication to conclusion of this effort by Senator Robert Byrd.

As well, I would say that frankly Mr. Panetta was a tough opponent in these negotiations, but it was a pleasure to work with him. I am glad for that because he came to the table with the intent to conclude this affair. We did reach a conclusion and I think one that all Americans can be satisfied with.

Mr. Speaker, 20 years from now when the American people look back on this, when our children and our grandchildren look back at this point in history, they will not remember what happened to these issues that I have touched on, not one of them. They will not remember what they were. They will not give a darn.

But they are going to look to those charts that show Government growing incessantly year after year after year up until 1995, and all of a sudden see it start to decline. That is what we have contributed to, $43 billion in savings in aggregating fiscal year 1995 and fiscal year 1996. We have started the trend to follow up on the words of the President of the United States when he stood right where you sit, Mr. Speaker, and he said, "The era of big government is now over."

We are taking him at his word. The world has changed. We are headed in the right direction with this bill, which is a compromise. It is the best compromise we can get. It is supported by our leadership in the House and Senate as well as the White House, and I urge its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, at this point in the RECORD I would like to insert several tables showing the details of the amounts in this conference agreement.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 8 minutes.

Mr. Speaker, this really is a very good day for this institution, and in my view it marks the end of a very dark period.

The House does not run the Government. We do not execute the laws or administer the programs of this Government, but we do play a central role in funding the activities and responsibilities of the Federal Government. That in fact is the core of the responsibility given to this institution by the Constitution.

I would say over the past year this House has failed to meet that responsibility to a degree that has no precedence in the history of the Republic. For more than 7 months, this House held most of the departments and agencies of this Government in a state of suspended animation. On two separate occasions it sent Federal workers—who by and large wanted to show up and do their jobs—it sent them home for what amounted to 27 days of forced vacations paid for at taxpayers expense.

This Congress drove numerous hard-working small businessmen to near the brink of bankruptcy because they had the misfortune of having significant contracts with the Federal Government that were screwed up by the mismanagement of this place. As a result, there have been significantly increased costs to the taxpayer for purchasing services from those vendors in the future.

This House, during that process, also denied services to millions of Americans who wanted passports or who wanted to visit national parks or who had become eligible for veterans' benefits that they were not permitted to receive.

Today, finally, we can say that that nonsense for the remainder of this year is over, and for that I am very grateful. There will be a lot of people who want to claim credit for that, but in my view the people who really deserve the credit are the American people, because they turned in to what were some very complex measures.

They began to realize that the budget that this Congress was insisting on was going to eliminate 40,000 title I teachers in school districts all across the country, teachers who would provide services to nearly a million kids, to help those kids learn to read and help those kids learn to deal with mathematics. The American people also came to realize that this Congress was trying to turn its back on the commitment that had been made to increase the number of cops on the beat by 100,000. They also found out that this Congress was trying to gut many enforcement rules to clean up the environment, and that these bills were being loaded up with special riders to help commercial interests to denigrate our environmental heritage for personal gain.

And they sent a loud and clear message to this body that that is not what we were sent here to do. So today finally we have before us a funding proposal for the Federal Government that is not a great proposal. There are many flaws in it, many defects, but I would point out nonetheless it is a reasonable proposal, in contrast to the appropriation bills which worked their way through here previously. It is one that in major respects is consistent with the direction in which the American people want to go.

It does save money. It saves the same $23 billion that were saved originally when the bills went through this House, but it saves that money in a far more fair way, in a far more balanced way. It protects the basic important activities that the public wants, the activities for which we in the minority have fought.

It is time to pass this plan and move on. Surely everyone by now should recognize this fact. What this bill does today, in contrast to the prior appropriation bills, is to demonstrate that we not only know the value of a tax dollar but we also understand the value of human beings.

This chart demonstrates that since January 1993 we have steadily been reducing the deficit. When President Bush left office, the deficit for that year was projected to be $327 billion. That dropped to $255 billion; to $202 billion for the following fiscal year; to $162 billion last year, and the process continues under the passage of this bill.

Two years ago, the last year that I chaired this committee, we cut 408 programs. We eliminated 40 programs. That was the first year in post-war history when discretionary outlays of the Federal Government actually went down.

That process is continuing, and we applaud that. But in the process, we have also been able to restore 92 percent of the money that was cut by this House originally for education. We have fully restored title I. We have fully restored Head Start. We have fully restored Safe and Drug-Free Schools. We have made healthy again the School-to-Work Program. We have increased the maximum Pell grant.

On the job training front, we have restored 90 percent of the cuts originally made by this House. In the area of worker protection, the 30-percent cut below 1995 which was originally provided for worker protections at the National Labor Relations Board has been reduced to a 3-percent cut. The cut of 15 percent for the enforcement of worker safety in OSHA has been cut to 2 percent. We have restored half of the reductions for the senior citizen job programs, like Green Thumb and Senior Aides. The Low Income Heating Assistance Program, which was eliminated by this House, has been restored to $900 million, plus $420 million in carry-over funds. Six of the seven environmental riders added by this Congress are gone. Fourteen of the seventeen riders that were attached to Education and Labor provisions in the bill are now gone, and the other three have been modified to suit the objections of the President and the minority. So this is a decent product.

I want to express my appreciation to the chairman of the committee, the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], for having helped to finally achieve a bipartisan solution to this problem. He worked very hard and worked in a very bipartisan way, and I very much appreciate that.

I want to express my deep thanks to Senator BYRD and Senator HATFIELD. When you deal with those two gentlemen, as one member of my staff said, you know you are truly in the presence of people who are U.S. Senators and deserve to be thought of that way.

I would simply say in closing also that I hope that we will pass this legislation and move on with the passage of our appropriation bills for the next year in a way which will never again shut down the U.S. Government. That does not have to happen.

This legislation shows you can save money without ignoring the value of human beings, without ignoring the necessity to invest in human beings. It is a far less savage and far more civilized approach. I would urge support for the package.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. NEUMANN], a member of the Committee on Appropriations and the Committee on the Budget.

Mr. NEUMANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to start by congratulating the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations and the Committee on the Budget for their great effort here. We have hit every target. A year ago the freshmen had some doubts as to whether we would get to all of these numbers. We have tracked them for over a year, and you have literally hit every target or are ahead of schedule. You deserve congratulations for that.

When we arrived here a year ago, 73 freshmen came in here, and what we found is this. We found a deficit line, this red line on the chart, that was at $200 billion and growing every year indefinitely into the future.

We took action. We passed a rescission bill, took $11 billion out. The appropriators went to work. The gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH] gave them a number, and said $23 billion has to go. You have to come in $23 billion under the previous year, the first time in a generation this has been done. The appropriations did their job.

This is where we were by December, but we dared to dream. We dared to dream that we could restore the future of this Nation and get us on track. This green line is the track, the glidepath to a balanced budget. We dared to dream about balancing the budget to preserve our Nation for our children.

So we set a target for fiscal year 1996. That target was $157 billion. What happened? The markets looked at this and saw the struggles we went through, and the markets reacted. Exactly as Alan Greenspan predicted they would, the interest rates stayed down. When the interest rates stayed down, it left this picture. It left the graph and went into real life. Because when the interest rates stayed down, our young people could afford to buy houses and cars, and when our young people can afford to buy houses and cars, the logical next thing that happens is somebody has to build those houses and build those cars, and that is jobs and job opportunities for our young people. Folks, this is exactly how America is supposed to work.

But that was not the end of the story. When the markets reacted in that way and the appropriators fulfilled their commitment to our Nation, not only did we hit this target, you see, they were afraid, it was an election year, and other Congresses have been here, and Gramm-Rudman-Hollings and Gramm-Rudman-Hollings II. But in this election year, this Congress not only did not fail, they hit their work, and they are actually $13 billion under what the projected deficit had to be in order for us to be on that glidepath.

Mr. Speaker, this is a great day for the future of this great Nation of ours.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. YATES], the ranking member of the Subcommittee on Interior.

(Mr. YATES asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. YATES. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Wisconsin for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, I was a conferee on this conference. I did not sign the conference agreement because I am very strongly opposed to the bill. It is true that in many respects after the negotiations that have taken place over these last few days the bill is better than it was before the negotiations. But in my opinion, the bill is so bad it is not susceptible to correction.

For example, it badly hurts the Indian people, their health, their education. It hurts the national parks by taking money from essential construction and moving it over to operations. It hurts the national forests by increasing the timber cut, by building timber roads in ancient forests and jeopardizing habitat, wetlands, and environment. It sounds the death knell for the Endowments for the Arts and the Humanities. And by its use of sufficiency language in various paragraphs of the bill, it deprives the public from participating in the decisions that it would want to make in connection with the environment.

There are many other deficiencies in the bill. Time does not permit going into them.

A new tool has been added for legislation. There is a compromise that is based upon a phrase called the waiver. It is asserted that by exercising the waiver, the President can kill provisions that he finds unacceptable; for example, the provisions relating to the Tongass National Forest to which he had objected. This is a very strange provision. In effect, is it supposed to be a repealer of other provisions? Are the provisions supposed to stay in effect, even though they have been waived? To what extent is the waiver applicable? In whole or in part? Is it to be temporary or permanent? That is not clear.

I would hope, Mr. Speaker, that the President makes it clear, makes it very clear, that he will use the waiver immediately to clear up all questions, and that when he signs the bill, he will also have documents present which waive the provisions to which he objects and lets it be known that this is his purpose.

At any rate, the President will have at hand the documents. I hope he uses them.

There is much more one may say against the bill. I oppose it, Mr. Speaker, and I will not vote for it.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the very distinguished gentleman from Illinois [Mr. PORTER], a gentleman who has worked very long and very hard on one of the toughest subcommittee bills in the appropriations, perhaps the toughest, chairman of the Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education.

Mr. PORTER. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me time.

Mr. Speaker, let me say that the chairman has done yeoman work on this bill. If a person could live one day in his shoes, they would understand how hard Members of this body work to carry out the responsibilities of their office. The chairman has done an absolutely marvelous job.

Under the Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education and Related Agencies portion of the bill, we began with spending for fiscal year 1995 of $70 billion in discretionary funds. We cut $28 billion in the rescission package last year and we cut an additional $2.6 billion in this package, for a total overall reduction of about $5.4 billion. This reduction represents an 8-percent reduction from the previous year.

That amount is less, Mr. Speaker, than the reduction in the original House passed version of H.R. 2127 which cut spending by 13 percent. This conference report, however, still represents one-quarter of all the savings in the nondefense discretionary accounts.

My section of the bill terminates 110 programs from the fiscal 1995 appropriation, not the 170 programs that the House passed version of H.R. 2127 terminated. Yet this conference report represents a substantial down payment on the elimination of wasteful, unnecessary, and high overhead programs. These services can be provided much more effectively and efficiently in broader State grant programs.

The bill also provides increases in some programs because our job, Mr. Speaker, is to set priorities. The conference agreement provides increases for biomedical research, for public health, for the Job Corps, for school-to-work, for AIDS health services, for childhood immunizations, for Head Start, for breast and cervical cancer screening, for infectious and sexually transmitted diseases and for Social Security Administration costs.

Although the conference report cuts 8 percent overall, level funding was provided for family planning and AIDS prevention. All of the block grant programs including substance abuse, mental health, child care and community services, were level funded. For title I—education for the disadvantaged, impact aid programs, Safe and Drug-Free Schools, and special aid State grants the conference agreement provides level funding. With respect to student financial assistance, Mr. Speaker, we also level funded the TRIO and SEOG programs, as well as college work study. For Pell grants we provided the highest maximum grant award in the history of the program: to $2,470.

Our job is not just making cuts though, Mr. Speaker. That is the message of this omnibus bill. Of course, our job is to control spending, but our job also is to examine every single program in government to see whether it can be done in the private sector or by State and local government and to set priorities.

What this process means, Mr. Speaker, is better services for people, while bringing Federal spending under control. I commend the chairman for doing such a marvelous job. We have made great progress.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. STOKES], the distinguished ranking member of the Subcommittee on VA, HUD and Independent Agencies.

Mr. STOKES. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished ranking member of the full Committee on Appropriations for yielding time to me.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the conference report. Make no mistake about it; this legislation is far from perfect. For the VA/HUD title alone, this report represents a reduction of nearly $8 billion from the amounts provided in 1995 by the 103d Congress. Most of that reduction, or $5.5 billion is in programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development that help the poorest and neediest of our citizens.

A comparison of the VA/HUD amounts and provisions in this conference report with those in the original House-passed bill, however, does reveal vast improvements. For example:

This conference report contains $1.6 billion more for the Environmental Protection Agency than the House bill, including $300 million more for the Superfund to clean up hazardous and toxic wastes in our communities, and $1.2 billion more for wastewater and drinking water grants, money that will be used by local communities to build and improve their water purification; H.R. 3019 contains $200 million more for HUD's program to replace severely distressed public housing with smaller, more viable developments; it adds an additional $75 million to section 202 elderly and section 811 disabled housing programs; the report contains $400 million for the President's successful, Americorps Program, rather than termination as recommended by the House; it contains funding at or near the levels wanted by the administration for community development financial institutions [CDFI], the council on environmental quality [CEQ], and the Office of Consumer Affairs.

Virtually all of the environmentally damaging limitations on EPA's funding have been deleted, including a provision which would have removed EPA's ability to review and veto development permits which would be injurious to our fragile wetlands; the provision transferring enforcement of our Nation's fair housing laws from HUD to the Department of Justice has also been deleted.

Further, because of the Democrats' steadfast commitment to protecting children, hard working families and seniors, the bill contains a number of restorations in critical Labor-HHS-ED appropriations subcommittee budget accounts. The bill restores $625 million in funding for the summer jobs program. This means that over 500,000 low-income youth who want and need to work will have a job this summer. The summer jobs program had been proposed for elimination.

The restoration of $1.2 billion in title I means that teaching assistance in basic reading and math will be restored to over 1 million disadvantaged children, who would have been denied the opportunity to learn under the earlier version of the Republican budget.

The restoration of $900 million for low-income home energy assistance means that heating and cooling assistance will be restored to 6 million households. Without this restoration, these low-income families would have been forced to go without heat in the cold of winter, or cooling in summer's extreme heat.

The restoration of $250 million to the Dislocated Workers Program means that assistance can be provided to workers who have been laid off through no fault of their own.

These changes and many others make this legislation palatable, and I urge my colleagues to support it. The beneficiaries of this act will be the American people. Their voices have been heard. Their concerns about unreasonable reductions in education, worker protection, and environmental protection programs have been addressed. This bill does not do everything we would have liked, but it is a vast improvement over the original bill. Some critically important steps have been made in order for us to meet our obligations to improve the quality of life for the American people.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. BURTON], a distinguished member of the Committee on International Relations.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time.

The President said that the era of big government is over when he addressed the House not long ago, and yet in many cases the President has not been true to his word. One example is the student loan program. Right now 40 percent of the student loan program is administered by the Federal Government, the other 60 by private lending institutions. Now the President has said he is going to veto this bill if 100 percent is not taken over by the Federal Government.

Mr. Speaker, what does that mean? It means the cost to the taxpayers by the year 2002 will be 1½ billion dollars' more, $1 thousand 500 million more for student loans than it would be if we let the private sector handle it. And yet the President said he is against big government. He cannot be against big government and be for this program.

In addition, thousands of jobs in the private sector are going to be lost and put into the Department of Education to administer these student loan programs. If the President really believes in less government, he should believe in turning these loans, these student loans over to the private sector. The President's words ring hollow when he says the era of big government is over and then go for a program like this.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5½ minutes to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. REGULA], the very distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on Interior of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. REGULA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me this time. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from California [Mr. RIGGS] for purposes of a colloquy.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman and I appreciate his yielding. I want to thank and salute the gentleman and the chairman of the full committee for their tremendous work on this bill, especially in his efforts in this bill and the conference report to prevent unnecessary regulation and unintended consequences under the Endangered Species Act. Of specific concern right now is the proposed designation by the U.S. Fish Wildlife Service of critical habitat for the marbled murrelet.

I understand that it is the intent of the conferees, in the event that the Fish and Wildlife Service is required by court order to finalize the regulation, the service is to consider fully all the comments submitted during the review period, including the comments by private individuals and State agencies. Further, if the service cannot consider fully these comments, the service should notify the appropriate court and petition for an extension. Am I correct?

Mr. REGULA. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. RIGGS. Am I also correct, Mr. Chairman, that Congress intends, under this legislation, that the Fish and Wildlife Service protect the private property rights of parties affected by critical habitat designations by using Federal lands to the maximum extent possible, or by taking other actions to ameliorate the impacts on private property, such as memoranda of understanding with State agencies? Specifically, the California Resources Agency has filed comments on the proposed critical habitat designation asking for revisions to reflect a 1991 memorandum of understanding it has signed with the Fish and Wildlife Service.

Mr. REGULA. The gentleman is correct. If the critical habitat designation goes forward, the Congress expects the Fish and Wildlife Service to protect the rights of private property owners. The service should seek to ameliorate adverse impacts on private property by actions such as using Federal lands and by complying with agreements negotiated with the States, including provisions for the use of other public lands in the State to the maximum extent possible before private lands are used. That includes the 1991 memorandum of understanding with California.

Mr. RIGGS. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for participating in this colloquy.

Mr. REGULA. Mr. Speaker, just to correct some impressions, the moratorium on OCS drilling and the moratorium on the issuance of mining patents is still part of this omnibus bill. There has been some thought that these were removed, but they are very much a part of the bill. So I want anyone that is concerned to be aware of that.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from New York [Mrs. LOWEY].

(Mrs. LOWEY asked and was given permission to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. LOWEY. Mr. Speaker, I want to congratulate the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] and the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] for their hard work, perseverance, and endurance.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in grudging support of this budget deal.

This is not a great bill. It is certainly not the bill I would have written. But it is the best bill that Congress can pass this year.

We are at the end of a very long process that began over a year ago. From the very beginning it was clear that the Republican majority was determined to cut funding for vital education and environmental programs.

The bills that passed this house last year cut funds to our local schools by 16 percent, eliminated the Summer Jobs Program, and slashed the EPA by a third. Those bills would have reduced funding to New York City by Almost $600 million—or 18 percent. And when Bill Clinton refused to accept these draconian cuts NEWT GINGRICH deliberately shut the Government down—not once, but twice—in order to get his way.

Thankfully, the President stood his ground and forced the Republicans to compromise. Cuts, confrontation and shut down have failed. The President remained firm and won.

Let us pass this bill.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from Arizona [Mr. KOLBE] and, of course, Mr. GINGRICH did not shut down the Government, that was the President.

(Mr. KOLBE asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KOLBE. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the conference report to H.R. 3019. This bill brings to an end the fiscal year 1996 budget and appropriations cycle and in doing so cuts $23 billion over last year's levels and stays within our budget caps. Although I supported greater cuts in some areas, I am pleased that Republicans stuck to their guns and insisted that the downpayment on the 7-year balanced budget be made.

I am especially pleased that the Mount Graham provision remained in the bill. The Kolbe amendment is quite simple and will not have any adverse impact on the environment. The provision reaffirms Ninth Circuit Court Judge Hall's and U.S. Attorney Janet Napolitano's contention that the alternative site chosen by the Forest Service for the Large Binocular Telescope is in compliance with the authorizing legislation passed by Congress in 1988. Now that this issue is behind us, I anxiously await the beginning of construction of the world's largest ground based telescope.

Nonetheless, I am frustrated by the inclusion of moneys for the Community Oriented Policing Services [COPS] Program—the administration's bald attempt to tell State and local governments what they need to fight violent crime. Additionally, I oppose the continued funding for Goals 2000 even though Opportunity to Learn Standards and the National Education Standards and Improvement Council were eliminated.

Even more frustrating is the continuation of the direct lending program that will transfer lending authority for college loans from the private sector to the bureaucratic Education Department.

We have learned important lessons about this administration throughout the course of negotiating this bill. First, it is the administration—not Congress—that doesn't understand the art of compromise. I liken their negotiating skills to those of the losing team in backyard football—when up against a crushing offensive, they simply move the goalpost back a few yards. Congressional negotiators were often told an agreement had been reached and by the next morning, the resolved issues were back on the table—always with new items of disagreement. I know my friend Chairman REGULA had this happen to him numerous times.

The second lesson we have learned is that the administration talks about a balanced budget, but in reality they are unwilling to take the necessary steps to actually achieve one. As difficult as they were to negotiate with on discretionary programs, I am very concerned that as long as Congress has to deal with this administration, there is no hope of ever tackling the big budgetary issues that must be resolved in our mandatory programs.

But this conference report does take an important step toward balancing the budget by cutting discretionary spending.

I urge my colleagues to support the conference report.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

With respect to the comments just made about the President's program of cops on the beat, the President was very clear about this, and Mr. Panetta was very clear about this since the beginning of the negotiations. They wanted to make certain that when all of the dust settled we had sufficient funding to guarantee to local communities that we would be able to put 100,000 new cops on the street. That is exactly what he asked for from the beginning. He moved no goal posts, and that is exactly what he got in the end.

The President was steadfast on that issue, Mr. Panetta was insistent on it, just as they were on the other issues in the conference. We would not have a bill of this quality today without the insistence of the President and Mr. Panetta.

I certainly want to suggest that anybody who suggests that the White House changed what it wanted is dead wrong. They made clear they wanted 100,000 cops and that is what they got.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York [Mr. WALSH], the distinguished chairman of the Subcommittee on the District of Columbia. He has done a great job with a very difficult subcommittee.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I thank my chairman for his kind words. The Balanced Budget downpayment Act II includes the modified text of the District of Columbia Appropriations Act for 1996.

Members will recall that the conference agreement was adopted by the House on January 31 but not voted on by the other body primarily because of their opposition to a low income scholarship program. I deeply regret because of the other body's objections we had to delete that program. We were able to retain most of the other school reforms.

Mr. Speaker, with respect to the District's financial management, we have included, under section 152, language that clarifies the duties of the District's chief financial officer. That position was established under the legislation that created the financial board. The clarifying language places the directors of the financial management offices as well as all other District Government executive branch accounting, budget and financial management personnel under the CFO's authority. All these individuals will be appointed by, serve at the pleasure of, and at the direction and control of the CFO.

Lastly, Mr. Speaker, all the Federal funds have gone to the District, they have had those in the past, and I would urge strong support for this bill.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentlewoman from North Carolina [Mrs. CLAYTON].

Mrs. CLAYTON. Mr. Speaker, there are several problems that remain with this conference agreement, some provisions that I do not support.

I rise, however, to speak about the good and positive parts—those parts that would not be in this agreement if Democrats had not fought for them.

Under the conference report, education funding will be $2.8 billion more than in the House-passed bill.

Title I funding, Safe and Drug-Free Schools and the Summer Jobs Program will be restored to 1995 levels. We have those programs, because Democrats fought for them.

The COPS Program will get $1.4 billion in funding, and we will have 100,000 new police officers on the street by the year 2000, because Democrats made the difference.

And, the Environmental Protection Agency is funded at $1.6 billion above the House-passed amount, because Democrats did not back down.

This conference agreement is 6 months late, and that is unfortunate, but the restoration of funding is right on time.

This conference agreement does not provide for the modest increase in the minimum wage that we have called for, but we will not quit until we reach that goal.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to be a Democrat who stands up for the average American.

I am especially proud of the role that Democrats played, as the loyal opposition—keeping the faith, remaining true and constant, ever steady in insisting that we preserve and protect those programs and policies designed to keep America's priorities in balance as we balance our budget.

This conference report, which provides funding for the remainder of this fiscal year for the nine cabinet level departments, agencies and programs whose fiscal year 1996 appropriations bill have not yet been enacted into law, recognizes and respect our seniors, our young and working families in America.

The conference report provides a total of $382.6 billion—some $4.6 billion more than the House-passed bill.

Under the conference report, education funding will be $2.8 billion more than in the House-passed bill.

That additional funding will allow this Nation to concentrate more directly on preparing our children to compete in an increasingly competitive global market.

Title I funding, Safe and Drug-Free Schools and the Summer Jobs Program will be restored to 1995 levels.

That is good and positive.

LIHEAP, the Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program, is funded by $900 million in 1996 and $420 million in 1997. Senior citizens will have comfortable homes because we did not waiver.

The COPS Program will get $1.4 billion in funding, and we will have 100,000 new police officers on the street by the year 2000, because Democrats made the difference.

And, the Environmental Protection Agency is funded at $1.6 billion above the House-passed amount.

In addition, all of the environmental riders, except one, have been dropped from the conference report or, at the very least, the President has been given waiver authority.

Thus, the air we breathe, the water we drink and the land upon which we live—God's most precious creations—have a better chance of being protected because we did not shrink from the budget battle.

Because many of the deepest cuts have been restored, it is my understanding that the President will sign this conference agreement.

Mr. Speaker, it is not easy to make noise while those who have the votes make policy. But, the genius of the first amendment allows those of us in the Minority to challenge, to question and to offer alternative thought.

We did that, and because we did that, America will be a better place.

This conference agreement is 6 months late, and that is unfortunate, but the restoration of funding is right on time.

I intend to vote for this conference agreement.

I am proud to be a Democrat, and I am proud to be an American.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Florida [Mr. YOUNG] the chairman of the Subcommittee on National Security.

Mr. YOUNG of Florida. Mr. Speaker, as a Member of the conference committee that presents this conference report today, and one who participated in a lot of the activities, but who observed, even more than that, the activities of the leadership of the full committee, I want to first compliment the gentleman from Louisiana, Chairman BOB LIVINGSTON, for the tremendous effort and the great amounts of time and the give and take that he had to work with, and the staff that worked with him during this whole process.

Mr. Speaker, I would also like to compliment the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY], the ranking Minority Member on the full committee. This is an honest compromise. It is a true compromise. Everybody is claiming victory. That is good. When everybody claims victory, it must be something pretty decent here.

I want to speak specifically to a very significant part of this conference report, and that is the provision of funding for the deployment of the American forces serving with such distinction in Bosnia.

In the beginning, we can all recall, there was a lot of difference of opinion as to whether or not we should send Americans to Bosnia, but that decision was made by the President and American troops went to Bosnia, and they have and they are continuing to conduct themselves in an extremely efficient and effective manner. In this bill is part of the funding to pay for that deployment, to pay for those troops being there.

So for those of us who really believe that we ought to support our troops no matter where they are, no matter what their mission is, this is the time to do it. Voting for this conference report is a vote to provide for the support and the funding for the American troops who have been sent to Bosnia on this mission.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California [Mr. HORN].

□ 1600

Mr. HORN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in very strong support of the Omnibus Appropriations Act. Included in this measure is a bill I have worked on for more than a year now, the Debt Collection Improvement Act, which was introduced on August 4, 1995. This measure was drafted with the assistance and support of the administration, particularly the chief financial officers and the inspectors general.

As the bill proceeded through committee, it commanded widespread bipartisan support. The gentlewoman from New York [Mrs. MALONEY] and professional staff member Mark Guiton were also helpful. Among the majority staff of the Subcommittee on Government Management, Information, and Technology, professional staff member Mark Brasher and staff director Russell George were the key staff on this legislation. My thanks go to all of the leadership staff and those on the Committee on Ways and Means and the Committee on Government Reform and Oversight who have been helpful.

This measure marks a long overdue beginning of our efforts to collect delinquent debts which now are in the tens of billions—over $100 billion to be precise. This is a victory for the taxpayers of America. When this bill is implemented by the agencies, the Federal Government will find that its rising tide of delinquent debts can be stemmed.

Mr. Speaker, I include for the RECORD the following statement in report format which clarifies the legislative intent:

DEBT COLLECTION IMPROVEMENT ACT OF 1995

This bill enhances Government-wide debt collection activities by adding a new offset authority to 31 U.S.C. 3716; by creating a new exception to the Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a); by revising the salary offset authority at 5 U.S.C. 5514; by requiring agencies to obtain taxpayer identifying numbers; by permitting the reporting of non-delinquent consumer debt to credit bureaus; by adding a new subsection to 31 U.S.C. 3711 that allows the Department of the Treasury and other agencies to cross-service the debts of other agencies; by extending the authority of agencies to compromise claims; by permitting agencies to garnish the wages of delinquent debtors; by permitting agencies additional authority to sell delinquent debts; by revising the Federal Civil Monetary Penalties Act of 1990 to require adjustments for inflation every four years; by adding a new section to title 31, United States Code, that allows agencies to retain a portion of annual collections of delinquent debts; by expanding tax refund offset authority; by requiring that disbursements are conducted electronically; by requiring that disbursements are associated with a taxpayer identification number; by revising definitions at 31 U.S.C. 3701 to broaden the scope of the general debt collection procedures; by providing for monitoring and reporting on debt collection centers; and by giving the Attorney General permanent authority to contract with private counsel to collect delinquent non-tax civil debt.

The debt collection authorities created under this bill will enhance the cooperation of Federal agencies in collecting Federal debt, by providing centralized administrative offset and cross-servicing authority. It is intended that the Department of the Treasury will act as the coordinator of Government-wide debt collection activities, providing a mechanism for effective administrative offset and acting as a clearinghouse to assure that Federal debts are collected in a timely and efficient manner.

PART I—GENERAL DEBT COLLECTION INITIATIVES

General offset authority

Short Title:

Effective Date:

Purposes:

Expansion of Administrative Offset Authority:

This section amends various sections in chapter 37 of title 31, United States Code, to cover judicial agencies and instrumentalities. Currently, these sections only apply to executive and legislative departments, agencies, and instrumentalities.

Enhancement of Administrative Offset Authority

This section would create additional authority for conducting Government-wide Administrative Offset at the Financial Management Service of the Department of the Treasury. Under this authority, Federal payment files would be matched against Federal debtor files to determine whether any debtors were receiving payments. Those payments would be subject to offset to satisfy any Federal non-tax debt or claim owed by the debtor.

Subsection (a) amends the application of administrative offset authority under 31 U.S.C. 3716 and the requirements for charging interest and penalties on claims pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 3717 to include debts owed to the United States by States and units of general local government.

Subsection (b)(1) amends 31 U.S.C. 3716 to allow Federal agencies to choose between adopting, without change, regulations promulgated by the Department of Justice, the General Accounting Office or the Department of The Treasury or promulgating their own administrative offset regulations consistent with those regulations.

Subsection (b)(2) expands the application of administrative offset to every instance except where a statute explicitly prohibits the use of administrative "offset" or "setoff" for collection purposes. This should increase the funds available for offset from which delinquent claims may be offset.

Subsection (b)(3), renumbers certain sections.

Subsection (b)(4), amends 31 U.S.C. 3716 by adding a new subsection (c). This paragraph statutorily requires disbursing officials of the Department of the Treasury, the Department of Defense, the United States Postal Service or disbursing officials designated by the Secretary of the Treasury to offset payments made by the United States to pay delinquent claims certified to the Secretary of the Treasury by creditor agencies in accordance with requirements issued by the Secretary. This paragraph enhances administrative offset authority contained in 31 U.S.C. 3716 by providing for centralized administrative offset at the disbursing official level. Currently, administrative offset is not conducted centrally within the Federal Government and is not effectively used. Disbursing officials of the Department of Defense and the United States Postal Service and other disbursing officials at any other Federal agencies will match their certification records with the debtor records reported to the Secretary of the Treasury by creditor agencies, in order to avoid duplicative reporting by creditor agencies to disbursing agencies, and assure that payments are intercepted.

Congress intends to include all eligible government payments in this centralized offset program, including the payments of all government corporations. Congress is concerned at the growing trend of fragmentation of disbursing authority, and support centralized coordination for the purpose of collecting debts and conducting offsets. Congress notes that because debt has been referred to the Department of the Treasury for offset does not necessarily mean that other debt collection tools (such as the use of private collection agencies or wage garnishment) should not be employed. The use of private collection agencies is long overdue. Agencies should use all cost-effective tools available to them to maximize the collection of delinquent debts.

Under subsection 3716(c)(4), the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to charge a fee to cover the cost of conducting administrative offsets under this subsection, and to deposit fees collected to a fund to be determined by the Secretary. It is the intent of Congress that the fee will be collected from the proceeds recovered through offset and the amount charged to each agency be apportioned according to actual offsets. See fees should be considered costs of collections and should be borne by the debtor.

Section 3716(a)(5), authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury, in consultation with affected agencies, to issue regulations and procedures to implement the administrative offset authority. These regulations will include a provision for dealing with the potential of simultaneous offsets involving tax refunds under 31 U.S.C. 3720A and salary offsets under 5 U.S.C. 5514.

Section 3716(c)(6) provides that any Federal agency which is owed a legally enforceable past due debt more than 180 days shall notify the Secretary of the Treasury of the debt for the purpose of conducting administrative offset.

Section 3716(c)(7) requires that the payee receive the applicable offset notification.

Section 3716(c)(8) makes it clear that tax levies shall have a priority in collection from disbursements to be made over requests for offset received from other agencies.

Section 3716(d) clarifies that the Debt Collection Improvement Act is not intended to prohibit the use of any existing authority to perform administrative offset under statute or common law.

Subsection (c) revises section 3701(a) of title 31, United States Code, to define "non-tax debt or claim" for the purposes of claims collection. The definition clarifies that claims arising under the tariff laws of the United States are considered non-tax claims.

Subsection (d) authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to offset amounts payable by the Federal Reserve to banks which have wrongfully negotiated forged or fraudulent Treasury checks.

Exemption From Computer Matching Requirements Under the Privacy Act of 1974

This section exempts matches conducted for the purposes of administrative offset under 31 U.S.C. 3716 from certain provisions of the Computer Matching and Privacy Protection Act of 1988, as amended. This section would permit offsets, and eliminate duplicative due process notifications, as well as duplicative actions by agency Data Integrity Boards.

Use of Administrative Offset Authority for Debts to States

This section authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to enter into agreements for conducting reciprocal offset agreements with a State. The Secretary has broad discretion with regards to the terms of any reciprocal offset agreement. Congress believes that intergovernmental cooperation is in the best interest of the United States, and that Treasury participation in a program of intergovernmental offset is very important. Congress intends that such agreements will allow States to report the debts of any State agency or instrumentality, and any legally constituted local subdivision or local government within the State.

Congress does not intend to apply Federal resources to the collection of debts with very small denominations, or to those where the debtor has not been given any applicable due process rights. In addition, the Secretary of the Treasury should ensure that the reciprocal offset agreements authorized by this section protect the financial interests of the United States. Congress anticipates that Federal agencies will offset State debts in which there is no Federal interest or Federal/State cost-sharing (such as State tax debts). Similarly, Congress anticipates that States will offset Federal debts in which there is no State financial interest or Federal/State cost-sharing (such as debts owed to the Customs Service). It is the intent of Congress that the agreement be broadly in the mutual interests of Federal, State and local government.

Technical and Conforming Amendments

Subsection (a) makes several technical changes to title 31, United States Code.

Subsection (b) amends 26 U.S.C. 6103 to allow disclosure of taxpayer information to the Financial Management Service for the purpose of conducting offsets of tax refunds. This change allows the tax refund offset program to be implemented at the time of disbursement, and permits the Secretary of the Treasury to consolidate its non-tax debt offset programs.

Enhancement of salary offset authority

Enhancement of Salary Offset Authority

This section enhances current Federal salary offset authority by expanding agency coverage and by establishing annual matching requirements. Congress believes that employees of the Federal Government should be held to an exemplary standard and pay debts owed to the Federal Government. This section makes Federal salary offset mandatory.

Section 5514(l)(A) amends 5 U.S.C. 5514(a)(1) by adding new language requiring all Federal agencies to participate in computer matches of delinquent debtor files against Federal employee records at least annually. This provision requires the Secretary of the Treasury to establish and maintain a consortium to implement centralized salary offset computer matching, and to promulgate regulations for that purpose.

Section 5514(l)(B) and (C) facilitate the collection of debts by salary offset by exempting routine adjustments from the extensive and costly due process protections of section 5514.

Taxpayer identifying numbers

Access to Debtor Information

This section amends section 4 of the Debt Collection Act of 1982 by requiring agencies to obtain taxpayer identifying numbers from all individuals and entities doing business with the Federal Government to facilitate the collection of any receivables which arise as the result of that business relationship. This section defines what relationships are considered "doing business with" the Federal Government and requires agencies to disclose the purpose of their request for taxpayer identifying numbers. The taxpayer identifying numbers are needed to facilitate the collection of delinquent debts. Creditor agencies are authorized to verify the accuracy of their debtor records with records from the Department of Health and Human Services and the Department of Labor. It is the intent of Congress that creditor agencies have access to all relevant records at those agencies, including any delinquent parent locator service and unemployment insurance records.

Barring Delinquent Debtors From Obtaining Federal Loans or Loan Guarantees

This section would bar debtors who are delinquent on Federal non-tax claims from receiving financial assistance in the form of a Federal direct loan or a loan guarantee. The intent of this section is to provide authority to Federal agencies which administer credit programs to refuse to approve credit to parties who are delinquent on Federal claims to resolve their debts with the appropriate agency.

Congress also considered extending this debarment provision to other forms of assistance given to debtors. Agencies, in coordination with the Office of Management and Budget, should examine additional benefits, such as discretionary grants or non-mandatory benefits, which could feasibly be denied to debtors. Congress is pleased with the level of success attained by the Immigration and Naturalization Service's [INS] collection of inspection fees and the aggressiveness with which INS has pursued debtors by denying inspection services to airlines which are delinquent in the payment of certain fees owed to the INS. Congress is concerned with the growing delinquencies at the Customs Service, and note disapprovingly that the Customs Service has not responded to this situation by exercising authority to deny entry and inspection to vessels whose owners are also delinquent debtors. The Office of Management and Budget should direct the Customs Service to use these additional tools to collect debts owed to the Federal Government.

Expansion and enhancement of collection authorities

Disclosure to Consumer Reporting Agencies and Commercial Reporting Agencies

Congress notes the success that the Department of Education has achieved with the reporting of delinquent loans to consumer reporting agencies. This section would allow agencies to conform to private sector practice by also reporting current loans to consumer reporting agencies. This will promote better credit information and good credit risks, and especially help recently-graduated students entering the workplace for the first time.

Subsection (1) amends the credit bureau reporting authority contained in 31 U.S.C. 3711(f) by requiring agencies to report delinquent debts.

Subsections (2) and (3) make conforming amendments to allow commercial debts to be reported to commercial reporting agencies.

Subsection (4) requires agencies to require that any participating lender in a guaranteed loan program provides information relating to the extension of credit to credit reporting bureaus. Congress is concerned that some agencies do not comply with the existing guidance in OMB Circular A-129. In particular, the Department of Housing and Urban Development does not refer claims for assigned multifamily mortgages to credit reporting bureaus; the Departments of Agriculture and Veterans Affairs does not report nor require lending institutions to report guaranteed loans to credit reporting bureaus. Congress intends this section to fix this deficiency, and that agencies will comply.

Subsection (4) also allows the head of an agency to report claims to a credit reporting agency which are current in payment. This change allows Federal credit reporting to be more consistent with private sector practice, and debtors whose accounts are current with the Federal Government shall receive the benefit of having favorable information provided to credit bureaus.

Contracts for Collection Services

This section permits agencies to contract with persons to locate and recover assets and pay for such services out of the proceeds that are recovered. The intent is to permit agencies to pay "finders fees" to persons who locate and recover assets of the United States the existence of or location of which is unknown to the applicable Federal Government agency.

Congress notes that the U.S. Marshals Service provides asset locator services for U.S. Attorneys in connection with debt litigation, and is very successful at this task. Congress further notes that this essential service is hampered by limits on Full-Time Equivalents imposed by the Federal Workforce Restructuring Act (FWRA) and a reliable funding source. In view of this essential service, Congress believes that the Director of the Office of Management and Budget should grant a waiver to the FWRA and associated Executive orders and that the Secretary of the Treasury should consider using the existing expertise in the U.S. Marshals Service in providing skip-tracing services to supplement any private persons obtaining contracts under this section.

Cross-Servicing Partnerships and Centralization of Debt Collection Activities in the Department of the Treasury

Subsection (a) amends 31 U.S.C. 3711 by creating new subsections (g) and (h).

Section 3711(g)(1) requires the heads of executive, legislative or judicial agencies to refer non-tax claims owed to the Department of the Treasury for servicing, collection, compromise or write off. The intent of this section is to improve the debt management performance of the United States by establishing a centralized cross-servicing mechanism wherein Federal agencies that do not have the expertise, personnel, or funding to implement effective claims collection policies on their own can use the services of Federal agencies that have effective claims collection processes. This section provides the referred to transferred non-tax claims will be administered by the debt collection centers consistent with existing statutory requirements and authorities.

The Debt Collection Improvement Act, through its cross-servicing provision, provides independent authority for all Federal non-tax debt to be collected by those Federal agencies that are proficient in debt collection and have been designated as debt collection centers. Agencies which currently run large debt collection operations and should be considered for designation as debt collection centers by the Secretary of the Treasury include the Department of Veterans' Affairs, the Small Business Administration, the Department of Education and the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Each agency remains responsible for managing an effective debt collection program and to use effective debt collection tools, such as private collection contractors, debt collection centers, and litigation through the Department of Justice. Consistent with other initiatives in the Debt Collection Improvement Act, general oversight and operational responsibility for cross-servicing and effective debt collection has been delegated to the Department of the Treasury.

Section 3711(g)(2) describes exemptions to the requirement that agencies transfer debts to the Department of the Treasury under Section 3711(g)(1). Congress carefully structured these exemptions so that exemptions will only apply to those debts associated with a demonstrated repayment source. Congress believes the Secretary of the Treasury should exempt from transfer under this section collateralized obligations of the Government National Mortgage Association. Congress cautions the Secretary of the Treasury with liberal use of the Secretary's discretion in exemption claims from the transfer requirement, and note that the Secretary is responsible for government-wide debt collection. The exemption from this requirement should only be provided when it is demonstrated that an exemption is the best means to protect the Federal Government's financial interest in collecting the delinquent debt or claim.

Section 3711(g)(3) authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to designate debt collection centers. It is anticipated that the Secretary of the Treasury shall monitor the performance of these centers, since ultimately, the Secretary is responsible for the work they perform. A debt collection center's degree of success, which is the basis of their designation as a debt collection center, may be dependent upon the type of claim referred to the center. In order to fairly establish a performance baseline, the Secretary should examine collection success of similar types and maturities of debts at private collection agencies and at other Federal agencies.

Section 3711(g)(4) authorizes the referral of debts by the Secretary of the Treasury to a debt collection center, a private collection agency, or to the Department of Justice. In referring debts to private collection agencies, the Congress has purposely given latitude to the Secretary of the Treasury to determine the most appropriate private collection agent. Debts may be referred to a private debt collector, collection agency or commercial attorney. This subsection does not authorize a commercial attorney to represent the Federal Government in a litigation action in the absence of supervision of the Department of Justice.

Section 3711(g)(5) describes the authorities and responsibilities of the Secretary of the Treasury with regards to debt collection. It is the intent of Congress to give contracting authority for the purposes of debt collection to the Secretary of the Treasury broadly similar to that given to the Department of Education. Congress commends the Department of Education for the steps it has taken to rely successfully on the expertise of private collection contractors, and would like to see similar success at the Department of the Treasury and at the Internal Revenue Service in particular.

Section 3711(g)(6) and (7) authorize the executive department or agency operating a debt collection center to charge a fee to cover costs of program implementation, and provide that fees may be collected from recoveries. Congress intends to give agencies authority to pay debt collection centers and contractors from collection proceeds, and that costs of recovery shall be borne by the debtor.

Section 3711(g)(8) requires that amounts collected as fees which are not needed for debt collection purposes in the fiscal year shall be deposited into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Section 3711(g)(9) requires that agencies take appropriate steps in the collection process to collect delinquent debts prior to write-off or discharge, including administrative offset, tax refund offset, Federal salary offset, referral to private collection contractors or agency debt collection centers, credit bureau reporting, wage garnishment and litigation or foreclosure.

Under Section 3711(g)(10) the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to issue regulations and procedures to implement this subsection.

Section 3711(h) authorizes agencies to employ a consumer report to evaluate collection efforts with respect to an individual. Such data can be particularly helpful in evaluating whether to terminate collection action and determine repayment schedules. Agencies should develop policies on when the use of a credit report is appropriate based on its cost and potential benefit.

Subsection (b) creates a new procedure whereby agencies may, in lieu of filing a return required under Section 6050P of the Internal Revenue Code, provide to the Secretary of the Treasury, or his designee, the data necessary to accomplish this task. It is anticipated that the Financial Management Service will perform this task for the Secretary of the Treasury. Congress is concerned about the problem of inadequate reporting to the Internal Revenue Service related to discharges of indebtedness. The Office of Management and Budget, with the assistance of the Department of the Treasury, should monitor agencies to ensure compliance with the requirements of Section 6050P.

Compromise of Claims

This section clarifies that the increased authority of a head of an agency to compromise a claim under 31 U.S.C. 3711(a)(2) contained in the Administrative Dispute Resolution Act is a permanent authority and is not subject to the sunset provision contained in that Act.

Wage Garnishment Requirement

This section authorizes agencies to garnish administratively the wages of delinquent debtors. It is the intent of Congress that every debtor that has a job or income should be in a repayment schedule. The Congress considered making this a mandatory tool, and agencies should consider aggressive use of wage garnishment to compel repayment of delinquent debts. The section also describes the procedures that an agency must follow to administratively garnish a debtor's wages, including a description of the debtor's due process rights and limitations on agency authority.

Debt Sales by Agencies

sales of debts delinquent for more than 90 days. It is the intent of Congress to increase debt sales where appropriate. Debt sales are an appropriate collection tool which results in the privatization of the liability for a debt and the costs of collection. Congress is impressed with the results of loan sales at the Department of Housing and Urban Development. This example should be followed by other Federal agencies which lack the administrative capacity to manage their large portfolio of distressed properties.

Section 3711(h)(2) requires that delinquent debts be sold if the Secretary of the Treasury determines that such sales would be in the best interest of the United States. It is the intent of Congress that, to the greatest extent possible, prior to terminating collection action, agencies should sell delinquent debts in order to realize at least some amount of the delinquent receivable.

Section 3711(h)(3) describes the conditions of sale for debts. It is the intent of Congress that agencies should be able to sell debts while retaining some portion of equity participation in the collection of the delinquent debt. This form of structured security (sometimes referred to as a joint venture between an agency and another person) allows agencies to obtain income as well as the possibility of future payments. Congress encourages agencies to employ the collection tool that maximizes repayments.

Section 3711(h)(4) requires agencies to develop an inventory of loan assets. Congress intends to use this information to evaluate the results of collections and loan sales. The successful loan sales at HUD resulted in receipts far in excess of the proceeds anticipated under the Federal Credit Reform Act. Agencies should consider the results of these valuations and compare them against collections.

To assure that agencies use the most economically effective means in collecting delinquent debt, agencies contemplating the sale of unsecured debt should prepare a cost-benefit analysis comparing the benefits of immediate sale to collection using other debt collection tools, including administrative offset, transfer to the Department of the Treasury and use of private collection agencies.

Adjustments of Administrative Debt

This section allows agencies to simplify the complicated series of fines, interest and penalties required under 31 U.S.C. 3717. Congress views the requirement to charge interest and penalties with great seriousness. The disappointing performance of nearly every agency, with the exception of the Department of Education, in assessing and collecting these amounts should be improved. Congress directs agencies to comply with the law, and for OMB to ensure that this requirement is met.

The intent of this section is to allow agencies option to combine these fines and penalties into a single, easy assess charge. Congress is aware of the inadequate systems agencies face in assessing these amounts. Agencies that lack the technical accounting expertise to comply with 31 U.S.C. 3717 should privatize the management of their credit portfolio. The Department of Agriculture should rely on the expertise of private contractors to improve the dismal collection performance of its portfolio of farmers' home loans.

Dissemination of Information Regarding Identity of Delinquent Debtors

This section authorizes agencies to publicize the identity of delinquent debtors to help collect debts. Congress notes the success of the Public Health Service's program regarding dissemination of the identity of doctors delinquent in the repayment of medical school loans. The head of other agencies should seek to replicate this success, and make this tool more widely known among the debtor population. Congress recognizes that this is a powerful enforcement tool and urges judicious use.

Federal civil monetary penalties

Adjusting Federal Civil Monetary Penalties for Inflation

Subsection (a) amends section 4 of the Federal Civil Penalties Inflation Adjustment Act of 1990 to require agencies to make an initial adjustment of such penalties within 180 days of the enactment of this bill, and also requires agencies to make additional adjustments at least once every four years.

Subsection (b) limits the amount of the initial adjustment to ten percent of the amount of the penalty prior to such adjustment.

Gain sharing

Debt Collecting Improvement Account

Subsection (a) of this section creates a new section 3720C in Title 31, United States Code.

Section 3720C(a) establishes an account in the Treasury entitled the "Debt Collection Improvement Account" ("Account"). The Department of the Treasury shall maintain and manage the Account.

Section 3720C(b) provides that agencies collecting delinquent claims may transfer into the Account five percent of the delinquent debt collected during any fiscal year beyond a baseline established for the prior fiscal year. The Office of Management and Budget shall determine the baseline from which increased collections are measured over the prior year, taking into account the recommendations made by the Secretary of the Treasury in consultation with credit agencies.

Section 3720C(c) provides that the amount available for expenditure in any fiscal year will be available for certain purposes designed to improve debt collection, financial management or asset disposition. Section 3720C(c) also provides that the amount available to the agency will be in proportion to amounts transferred to the account.

Section 3720C(d) modifies the treatment of amounts credited to the Account that are subject to the requirements of the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990. That Act requires that collections for direct loans and loan guarantees made since 1991 be credited to a financing account and included in the cash flows used to calculate the subsidy cost of the credit program. This section provides that collections that are credited to the Account will not be included in the subsidy cost calculation in order to avoid counting them both in the cost calculation and on a cash basis.

Expanding Tax Refund Offset Authority

Subsections (a) and (b) change the exclusion of the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) by authorizing the TVA to use tax refund offset.

Expanding Authority To Collect Past-Due Support

This section allows the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of Health and Human Services to choose between using the tax refund offset authorities of either 31 U.S.C. 3720A or 42 U.S.C. 664 to collect past-due child support. This change in Section 3720A of title 31 is not intended in any way to hinder, restrict, or add any additional requirements to the collection of past-due support under 42 U.S.C. 664.

Offset of Tax Refund Payments by Disbursing Officials

This section allows the Secretary of the Treasury to implement the tax refund offset program through the disbursing official of the Department of the Treasury (i.e., the Financial Management Service). This will allow for more efficient operations, as the Financial Management Service also operates the administrative offset program. By merging these two offset programs, the Department of the Treasury will streamline and improve its operations.

It is the intent of Congress that the Financial Management Service should perform both the tax refund offset and the administrative offset programs. This legislation makes changes in those two programs so that their administrative requirements are broadly similar, and can be performed by the same entity, the Financial Management Service. This change will allow the Internal Revenue Service to focus its efforts on other management problems identified by it and Congress. Congress intends that the Internal Revenue Service will transfer the operation of the tax refund offset program to the Financial Management Service.

Disbursements

Payments

Subsection (a) mandates that all Federal payments to individuals who become eligible for that type of payment after 90 days after the date of enactment of this Act shall be made by electronic funds transfer. Further, individuals already receiving payments will begin to receive those payments electronically after 1999. This section will facilitate offset and improve audits associated with counterfeit, stolen, forged and fraudulent checks.

Since this section will require participating beneficiaries to obtain a bank account, Congress expects the Secretary of the Treasury to work vigorously to accommodate the needs of the unbanked recipients through such means as: (1) the planned implementation of a national electronic benefits transfer system for Federal payments through the designation of depositaries and financial agents under the Secretary's existing authority. Under this program, recipients will receive all benefit payments under a single access card; (2) implement through the private sector consumer owned bank accounts where recipients access their funds by debit card or other means, rather than through traditional account features, such as checking. This product is known as Direct Deposit Too and is an extension of the Treasury's Direct Deposit Program; (3) intensive marketing of the Treasury's existing Direct Deposit Program for both individuals and businesses; and (4) other forms of electronic benefits transfer. The Financial Management Service should evaluate several recent pilots, including its Direct Deposit Too and various state pilots, to determine the best mechanism for benefit delivery.

The Secretary of the Treasury is given broad discretion to waive the requirements of this section to avoid imposing a hardship on a beneficiary. Congress expects the Department of the Treasury to promulgate regulations addressing such hardship waivers and to consider various factors in defining hardship. Congress recognizes that adherence to these provisions may be difficult for a variety of beneficiaries. We are concerned that individuals who have geographical, physical, mental, educational, or language barriers or as a result of natural or environmental disasters will not be able to receive benefits. Recipients in this category includes small businesses as well as individuals. Waivers should be provided in order to minimize disruptions to any beneficiary. Additionally, the Secretary of the Treasury may waive this section for recipients who reside in a country where delivery of an electronic payment is impractical.

The Congress further directs the disbursing official to study the socioeconomic and demographic characteristics of those who currently do not have direct deposit and determine how best to increase usage among all groups. The Congress further directs the disbursing official to study the adequacy of consumer protections available to individuals who are required to obtain a bank account under this section.

The exclusion of the application of this section to tax refunds is to allow time for development of the necessary infrastructure for making these electronic payments. However, the Secretary of the Treasury should, to the maximum extent possible, implement a system to disburse tax refunds electronically and conduct demonstrations of other electronic technologies to maximum outreach to recipients.

Subsections (b) and (c) allow the Secretary of the Treasury to issue substitute checks to repay Federal recipients whose checks have been stolen, forged or fraudulently cashed. The Check Forgery Insurance Fund provision would authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to establish a flexible procedure for facilitating the timely payment of forged Government checks by providing a permanent and indefinite appropriation which would ensure readily available funds to provide innocent payees with replacement checks in a timely manner. It enables the Department of the Treasury to comply with two decisions of the Comptroller General Decision B-242666, dated August 31, 1993 and B-243536, dated September 7, 1993. These decisions concluded that the Check Forgery Insurance Fund Act (31 U.S.C. 3343) requires that the Department of the Treasury certify all checks issued to replace those checks paid over forged endorsements and charged to the Fund.

The Congress recognizes that many payees rely on these payments for their basic subsistence and seeks assurance that claimants receive checks in a timely manner; the prospect of payees not receiving timely replacement payments is unacceptable to Congress. Congress notes the importance of the timely issuance of replacement checks, and that such replacement checks should not be contingent upon the Government's ability to recover the original forged check. Congress also notes that in the case of an innocent payee whose check has been forged, the Government's obligation to pay remains outstanding. This provision would provide an equitable solution for payees and disbursing and program agencies, by resolving current inequities inherent in the current process of payment of checks bearing forged or unauthorized endorsements.

Requirement To Include Taxpayer Identifying Number With Payment Voucher

This section requires that Federal agencies include a taxpayer identifying number when a payment is made. This requirement will facilitate offset and increase collections. Congress directs the disbursing official of the Secretary of the Treasury and the Department of Defense to survey agency compliance with this section and include the results of this survey in the consolidated debt collection report to Congress required under Section 1692 of this Act.

Miscellaneous

Miscellaneous Amendments to Definitions

Subsection (l) revises the definitions for "administrative offset" and "claim" under 31 U.S.C. 3701 (a)(1) and (b). These changes permit offsets of payments for the collection of debts administered by States such as debts which contain a Federal monetary component (e.g., AFDC overpayments due to fraud) and delinquent child support obligations. The definition of "claim" also includes amounts which the United States collects for the benefit of any person under statutory authority.

In addition, the definition of debt has been amended to include deficiency payments. Federal authority to collect deficiencies has been upheld based on provisions of Federal law preempting State laws governing mortgage debt (in all but a few narrow circumstances). This authority has been upheld by numerous court decisions (including Connelly v. Derwinski, 961 F.2d 129, 131; United States v. Shimer, 367 U.S. 374, 387; and Burris v. First Financial Corp., 928 F.2d 797, 800-801).

The Congress is concerned that agencies have not established deficiencies as debt consistently. The Federal Housing Administration uniformly establishes as debt and collects deficiencies only in its Title I program. Congress is concerned that debtors under FHA's other loan programs are receiving different treatment. Deficiencies should be established in all cases.

Congress is also concerned that agencies do not monitor the unpaid share of any non-Federal partner in a program involving a matching, or cost-sharing, payment by the non-Federal partner. According to the General Accounting Office, the non-payment of these types of matching payments has become more common. Congress is concerned about this trend, and wants to see those amounts collected.

This section also adds specific definitions applicable to administrative offsets under 31 U.S.C. 3716 for creditor agencies and payment certifying agencies.

Monitoring and Reporting

Subsection (a) authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to provide guidelines to monitor the performance of debt collection activities, in consultation with debt collecting agencies.

Subsection (b) requires the Secretary to report to Congress on the progress of debt collection centers, defined under subsection (c) as those centers providing debt collection services for other agencies.

Subsection (c) provides that the Secretary of the Treasury will submit reports concerning the status of loans and accounts receivable to Congress in accordance with the Debt Collection Act of 1982. Formerly, reporting was performed by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Subsection (d) authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to consolidate all debt collection reports.

Review of Standards and Policies for Compromise of Write-Down of Delinquent Debts

This section requires the Office of Management and Budget to review agencies' standards and policies for compromising, writing-down, forgiving or discharging indebtedness and various reporting requirements. OMB should rely on the expertise and personnel of the Department of the Treasury in preparing this report, which should be consolidated with the annual consolidated debt collection report. However, OMB needs to be very involved in ensuring that each Federal agency complies with changes needed in their policies.

Congress is seriously concerned about dissimilar standards for discharging indebtedness at different agencies. This needs careful monitoring. Congress is concerned that the credibility of the Federal Government is undermined when similarly-situated beneficiaries under one program receive more generous treatment than those under another program.

In addition, Congress is very seriously concerned about the poor reporting of the discharge of indebtedness to the Internal Revenue Service on Form 1099. The Office of Management and Budget should ensure that agencies consistently report these amounts or allow the Secretary of the Treasury to report the data to the Internal Revenue Service.

Justice debt management

Expand Use of Private Attorneys

This section gives the Attorney General permanent authority to contract with private counsel to collect delinquent non-tax civil debt when deemed appropriate.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the very distinguished gentlewoman from New York and soon-to-be-mother [Ms. MOLINARI].

Ms. MOLINARI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of the Balanced Budget Downpayment Act and would like to thank the distinguished chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON], the entire Committee on Appropriations, and especially the gentleman from Kentucky [HAROLD ROGERS], for their cooperation in securing $175 million for the Violence Against Women block grant, an increase of 573 percent over last year's Commerce, State, Justice appropriations bill.

In addition, thanks to support from the gentleman from Illinois [JOHN PORTER], this bill increases the Violence Against Women provisions from last year's Labor-HHS appropriations bill from $1 million to $53 million. The Balanced Budget Downpayment Act also provides for $32.6 million for family violence programs used to support battered women's shelters. When all is said and done, Violence Against Women programs will be increased by over 700 percent over last year's budget.

This funding is necessary, Mr. Speaker, and demonstrates that today we can show that we can achieve a balanced budget while also recognizing important priorities for our Nation's future.

Again, I thank the distinguished chairman.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas [Mr. DELAY], majority whip.

Mr. DELAY. Mr. Speaker, the American people have won a great victory today. This bill represents the end of business as usual. We fought. We begged. We cajoled. And now we finally have convinced the President that fiscal responsibility is good politics. The gentleman from Louisiana, Chairman LIVINGSTON, has done that, along with his staff, and for that reason I salute him.

This legislation is the right thing for this country at this moment with this President. It is not the perfect bill. I am disappointed that we did not get rid of more wasteful Washington programs. Goals 2000 funds bureaucrats instead of teachers. AmeriCorps pays people a healthy wage to be volunteers, and the NEA pays for controversial and sometimes obscene art. But Rome was not built in a day and getting the perfect budget will take more than one term in the majority.

To my colleagues who would sacrifice the good in favor of the perfect, let me say, I admire your fidelity to principle, but let me also say that voting to cut $23 billion in spending, eliminating over 200 wasteful Washington programs and doing all of this without raising one dime in higher taxes does not represent a sacrifice of conservative principles. No one could call me a moderate, but I am voting for this bill. I am voting for this bill secure in the knowledge that it is the right thing to do now at this moment in history.

I give Chairman LIVINGSTON a great deal of credit for his determination and for his patience in negotiating this agreement. I urge my colleagues on both sides of the aisle to vote for this legislation. Send it up to the President and have him sign the bill that delivers the greatest savings to the taxpayer since the Second World War.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 1 minute.

I should simply take this time, Mr. Speaker, to note, and I want to thank the conference for this, the conference agreed to add an additional 15 million for the Department of Energy's lab to lab program. Those funds can be used immediately to fund recently concluded cooperative agreements with six nuclear facilities in the former Soviet Union. The idea behind this is to prevent the surreptitious obtaining of nuclear material by potentially terrorist groups who might use it for nefarious purposes against any country, including our own. This program was set up to improve the security of nuclear materials, prevent leakage. The program is carried out through multiple channels, through governments, nuclear laboratories and institutes and Russian nuclear regulatory authorities. Anyone who has heard the recent reports about the danger of leakage of nuclear fissionable material from the NIS knows of the grave potential of the danger of such leakage. This will enable us to strengthen that program. I appreciate the cooperation of the conference.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. PALLONE].

Mr. PALLONE. Mr. Speaker, I just wanted to point out that from the very beginning when we were dealing with the appropriations spending bills this year, Democrats were making the point very vividly that it was possible to keep spending down, balance the budget and at the same time protect the priorities that we cared about, education, the environment, Medicare, Medicaid and some of the other concerns like the 100,000 cops program that President Clinton had supported and put together for the last couple years.

I think that today shows the vindication, if you will, of the Democratic point of view. We are moving an appropriation bill that will save significant amounts of money, billions of dollars, but at the same time it protects those priorities.

With respect to the environment, which is one of my major concerns, although the amount of money is less than what the President asked for and what the President thought was necessary, we are almost back to what we wanted. And most importantly, we have eliminated those terrible anti-environmental riders that the Republican leadership had been touting for so many months. So I think this is a good compromise, but it is a vindication of our Democratic principles.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to yield 2 of my minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON].

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. LAHOOD). Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Wisconsin?

There was no objection.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I thank my friend for yielding time to me. We have a number of speakers here.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the very distinguished gentleman from Florida [Mr. MCCOLLUM].

(Mr. MCCOLLUM asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MCCOLLUM. Mr. Speaker, I simply rise to point out, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Crime, that there are three contract with America crime bills that are incorporated in this today. The three that are in this bill that were contract with America bills are, one, a provision that would end the so-called prevention programs of Washington knows best that were in the 1994 crime act that many of us complained about. Instead in its place in this bill and in this legislation are a block grant to the cities and the counties of this country to spend as they see fit to fight crime to the tune of about $500 million for this coming year.

In addition we have the version in the contract with America of the prison grant program that will ensure an incentive for truth in sentencing for States to have laws passed that require the serving of 85 percent of their sentence of all felons.

And last but by no means least, we have a provision in this bill which will mean that the States get back control of their prisons, that Federal judges no longer will be able to have the rulings they have been having on overcrowding. We lift the caps. We change the consent decrees. We say in the future that you will not have in addition frivolous lawsuits from prisoners.

This is a monumental change in criminal law with regard to prisoners and frivolous lawsuits.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. BONIOR], distinguished Democratic whip.

Mr. BONIOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague, Mr. OBEY, who I think has done a magnificent job. I also want to take this opportunity to commend the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] for his hard work over these 6 months on this particular bill.

I think the product that the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] and our colleague from Louisiana, the chairman of the committee, have given us reflects well on the best of what this Congress can be about, had we put our minds to preserving the priorities of the country, the education priorities, the environmental priorities and the public safety priorities. I am particularly pleased that they took the time and devoted the attention and preserved the funding for the School-to-Work Program, the Safe and Drug-Free School Program, which, as we all know, encompasses the DARE program, teaches our kids to stay off drugs, be against gangs and gang violence.

With the Title I Program, 1.5 million kids in our country now will have the ability to have additional math and reading programs that will enhance their education and of course the direct loan program for those who are attending higher education at the collegiate level.

We are pleased at the amount of funding that we were able to save over what the House did. In the area of the environment, we are very pleased that there were rollbacks in some of the raids on environmental safety. We have had 25 years of bipartisan support for the environment in this country, and I am hopeful that this report will move us back in that direction because initially, as Members know, as this bill or pieces of this bill left the House of Representatives, there was a serious attack on the environment of this country. So I am happy to see that they have made correction in this area.

Also, in public safety, let me say, Mr. Speaker, that the 100,000 police officers on the beat are important additions. We thank both gentlemen for their inclusion in that.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California [Mr. PACKARD], the distinguished chairman of the Legislative Subcommittee.

(Mr. PACKARD asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. PACKARD. Mr. Speaker, I want to first congratulate the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] and the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] and the conferees, people down at the White House and over on the Senate side for their work on this bill. It is a good bill. It is a bipartisan bill and, frankly, it is a compromise bill.

Mr. Speaker, it is really not a question of whether the President won in this compromise, whether the Republicans won, whether Democrats won. The question really is, do the American people win. I think that is an overwhelming and resounding yes. Forty-three billion dollars have been cut back in this bill and in the rescission bill earlier last year. Two hundred programs have been eliminated. Significant cuts have been extracted from many of the other programs and agencies, $144 billion deficit, when it was projected by the President that it would be over $200 billion.

That is a huge turnaround for the American people. They are the ones that ought to rejoice in this. We ought to pass it overwhelmingly today. I am proud to vote for it. I am very grateful for the work that has been put into it by our leaders.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from Connecticut [Ms. DELAURO].

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, this bill is a victory for American values. It is a triumph of American's priorities in areas like education, the environment and Medicare, over the politics and the policies of government gridlock and shutdown. It shows the power of mainstream values in this Nation and the utter bankruptcy of the policy of extremism.

It proves and demonstrates that in fact we can cut spending in these difficult economic times with a lack of resources and at the same time hold on to and preserve those values of education and the environment that this Nation holds dear.

Mr. Speaker, we can remember the commentary in the past several months about a willingness to shut the Government down, not once but twice. We can remember the commentary about making the biggest cuts in education in this Nation's history. That failed. The proposal of disastrous environmental policies, they failed.

Mr. Speaker, because of the steadfastness, today we vote on appropriation bills that protect America's priorities.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the distinguished gentleman from California [Mr. CUNNINGHAM].

Mr. CUNNINGHAM. Mr. Speaker, I truly believe that liberals want to help in Medicare, Medicaid, education, the environment, just like conservatives do. Let us take the case where you tell one of your liberal constituents that you are going to have him give his money to a broker. That broker is going to take care of Medicare, Medicaid, education, and the environment. But then tell him he is only going to get 50 cents of every dollar he gets back and the other 50 cents is going to go pay for his staff and his overhead. That guy will tell you that he does not support that kind of an issue.

That is what happens in this place. First place, it is not your dollar. You have to take it away from the constituent. Then you turn it around and give it back at a very low rate, for example, welfare. You only get about 30 cents on a dollar. Education, you get a very low percentage back on the dollar with 760 education programs.

Mr. Speaker, what we are doing is we are giving the money back, but we are doing it without raising a single tax, and we are cutting 200 programs and streamlining government.

Mr. Speaker, this is a monumental bill. It is $43 billion less than we would have had under Democratic control.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentlewoman from California [Ms. PELOSI].

Ms. PELOSI. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] for yielding this time to me, and I also thank him for his leadership, for holding firm for the priorities for the American people. I also want to commend the gentleman from Louisiana [Mr. LIVINGSTON] for his leadership in bringing this bill to the floor.

If it had been left to our Chair and our ranking member, a long time ago this issue would have been resolved. We would not have had to have a Government shutdown.

But I commend the President of the United States for holding firm to his commitment to education, to protecting the environment, and for LIHEAP, and the list goes on of priorities which have been respected in this spending bill. It also has a large number of cuts, and I am dismayed to see that it still has $7 billion more in there for defense, as we subject all of our spending to such scrutiny.

But it is a good bill, it is a compromise, and best of all it eliminates the very mean-spirited, I say that advisedly, mean-spirited language in there for HIV-infected people in the military.

Today is a victory for democracy and for compromise, and I thank our chairman and ranking member for their leadership.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3½ minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH], chairman of the Committee on the Budget, the gentleman that set forth the guidelines which we are now currently following in the appropriations process.

Mr. KASICH. Mr. Speaker, I want to commend the chairman of the Committee on Appropriations and declare today a victory for the American people and a victory for the children whose future has been increasingly at risk, and I would like to say today that yesterday evening I was over in the committee that the gentleman chairs, and I got one of the older guys, one of the guys that has been around here for a long time, and I said, "I understand that this is the most significant reduction in Washington spending since World War II."

And he said, "You know, I am not so sure about that." And he went into one of these big thick books, and he blew the dust off and he got the paper out, and we started looking in 1945, and from 1945 to 1996 they cannot touch us in any other year. This is unprecedented today since World War II. We have pried some of the money out of the hands of Washington bureaucrats, we have eliminated some absolutely absurd programs, including the program where we spent millions of dollars to eradicate ticks in Puerto Rico, where we spent millions of dollars to locate offices in Paris and all over Canada telling people, "By the way, did you know there was a place called the United States? You ought to visit it sometime."

There is a program that says to children, "We will give you millions of dollars to measure rainfall by collecting it."

Now, my colleagues, these programs have been going on forever, and we got in charge 17 months ago, and we told the American people we were here to change things, and we were here to strip power, money, and influence out of this city.

This does not do it all, this is discretionary spending, this is Washington spending. It is only a third of the budget, but it is the only thing in which the President was forced to sit down and achieve a result, and to our credit we did not buckle, we did not cave, we did not collapse. And we have been able to achieve the single largest reduction in Washington spending since World War II.

Mr. Speaker, that is a tremendous accomplishment by this Congress, and I want to commend the chairman of the committee for his tenacity, and I want to commend all of my colleagues for their commitment to getting this job done. This is not the end all; this is just one very strong, first step in that long marathon of rescuing this country from economic anxiety, the fear that families have they will lose jobs, the problems of wage stagflation, wage stagnation, and at the same time it is a down payment that puts a little light at the end of that tunnel that our children will inherit a bountiful America.

Mr. Speaker, I want to suggest today that eliminating 200 programs, I would maintain that being able to pry some of the money out of the hands of Washington bureaucrats and eliminating 200 wasteful Washington programs that have gone on too long sucking dollars out of the pocketbooks of hard-working Americans, this is a great achievement, not just for this Congress but for the American people, and when we all leave here today to go home, we should be proud to stand up and tell our constituents that we finally have their message and that this Congress is going to continue to stand firm until we deliver the whole deal.

Congratulations. Vote for the bill.

Mr. OBEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 30 seconds.

The statement that the previous gentleman just made that this represented the largest deficit reduction since World War II is simply not true. The President's budget has brought down the deficit more than $100 billion. That is far larger than the reductions we see in this bill today. We welcome the add-on, but I think we need to keep the facts straight.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Maryland [Mr. HOYER].

Mr. HOYER. Mr. Speaker, we have to love the chairman of the Committee on the Budget. He is trying to snatch victory from the drum beat of retreat to cutting education, cutting the environment, cutting programs that the American public have communicated to my colleagues, "Do not touch them. Do not take our cops off the beat, do not take our teachers out of school, do not take our chapter 1 students and put them without any kind of help, because that is not good for the country."

And I congratulate the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. KASICH]. He spins it as well as anybody in this House. But, my colleagues, I am pleased to see us abandon the CRs that I used to refer to as completely ridiculous to CRs that say completely, and perhaps that overstates it, but resolved the 1996 budget. Yes, it is 7 months late. Yes, it is after an unprecedented 25 days of shutdown. But, I say to my friend, the chairman of the Committee on the Budget, he pointed out incorrectly, as the gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. OBEY] has noted, that it was not since 1945, and I hear the complaints that Bill Clinton has stood in the door of progress and vetoed legislation.

Where was Ronald Reagan to accomplish this great objective of which the chairman speaks in 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987 and 1988, and our friend, Mr. Bush in 1989, 1990, 1991 and 1992? Where was he when it was profligate spending? Where were they to say "no." We never overrode one of their vetoes on spending. Not once.

So, yes, now we have a bill that we are going to vote for; I hope everybody votes for this because it does, in fact, try to meet the needs of the American public, whether it is for education, public safety, health, or senior citizens health care. It tries to say we understand that we need to invest in the welfare of our people. This bill does it.

Mr. LIVINGSTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. UPTON].

(Mr. UPTON asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. UPTON. Mr. Speaker, this has been a long and arduous process. Putting together the revised export provisions for drug and device exports would not have been possible without the help of my good friends and colleagues, the chairman of the Commerce Committee TOM BLILEY, and the ranking member on the committee, JOHN DINGELL. Their efforts have made our goal of allowing easier exporting of these important medical products a reality, and I thank them and their staffs for all of their hard work.

As many of you know, I introduced H.R. 1300 in May of last year. Mr. Rich Rakow, a constituent of mine in southwest Michigan, who works for one of the drug manufacturers in my district came to me during a town meeting about a problem his company was having exporting its products. It seems that under our current export restrictions, it is virtually impossible to ship drugs or medical devices out of this country for use in other countries, even if they meet the needs and requirements of the importing country. I found this, well, unbelievable, and directed Jeff Myers on my staff to look into the matter.

What they reported to me was troublesome, to say the least. Manufacturers of pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and other blood products were moving overseas, taking with them high paying, highly skilled manufacturing jobs. Part of the reason for this is the current inability of the FDA to quickly turn around products submitted to them for approval. The other part of the equation, however, is the export provisions that were put into the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act in 1986.
